GERMANY BEGS U. S. HELP

SHANGHAI U. S. CREW FOR WAR ON NICARAGUA

Yank Cruiser Saves Men from Wreck.

BALBOA, C. Z., Oct. 2.—Rescued by the United States cruiser Galveston after Nicaraguan rebels, aided by Mexicans, had commandeered and wrecked the American merchant tug Foam, Capt. George Tsimpkin and fourteen American members of the Foam's crew were brought to Christobal aboard the United States destroyer Sim Thompson today. They are now housed at the Salvation Army's seamen's home. The American shipping commissioner, C. H. Calhoun, will send the shanghaied seamen to New York tomorrow.

Interviewed by THE TRIBUNE, the seamen told a story which apparently corroborates the assertions of the Chamorro government in Nicaragua that Mexico is assisting the Nicaragua revolutionists.

The Foam left New York on July 16, supposedly bound for San Diego, Cal., via the Panama canal.

Seized in Mexican Port.

"The wireless and chronometer were damaged, and I touched at Morehead City, N. C., and advised the owners, the American Steamship corporation of New York," Capt. Tsimpkin said. "They wired a reply ordering me to proceed to Puerto Mexico, Mex., and take on supplies and fuel.

"Arriving at Puerto Mexico on Aug. 12, I spent the night ashore. Next morning the crew was dissatisfied and complained that Mexicans had commenced loading munitions at midnight. A pompous uniformed Mexican official told me he was representing the tug owners and thereafter the Foam's crew would take orders from him. The crew protested, demanding return transportation, which was impossible due to the lack of a United States consulate at Puerto Mexico.

"A heavy cargo of ammunition was loaded, after which the pompous individual and twenty other uniformed men, of whom three were generals, boarded the tug, heavily armed, and ordered us at pistols' muzzles, to put out to sea. Forced to obey, we left Puerto Mexico on Aug. 13, stopping at Progreso, Mex., where more troops and arms were taken on, and then continued to Nicaragua.

Lowers U. S. Flag.

"During the voyage I learned that the pompous official aboard was Gen. Moncada, head of the Nicaraguan revolutionists. The other generals were Gen. San Duval and Gen. Messer, the latter a German employed by the rebels of Nicaragua. When nearing Nicaragua, Gen. Moncada lined up the forces on the deck, dramatically lowered the United States flag, and hoisted the Nicaraguan and rebel red flags, to which the Americans, as well as our soldier captors, were forced to swear allegiance. This was followed by enthusiastic cheering, Spanish vivas, and gun salutes.

"Three cannons, one three pounder and two one pounders, were unpacked from the hold and mounted on deck. After a day's run we arrived at Prinza Polca, where we anchored, and landed forces in lifeboats. Fifteen men under Gen. San Duval carried many rifles from the hold. Friendly revolutionists at Prinza Polca assisted in landing the arms. The forces captured the town, jailing the officials.

Aid in Attack on Town.

"We continued to Rio Grande, thirty-five miles south, where we landed more men and munitions, and took command of the wireless station owned by the Camuel Fruit company. Charles Perez, an American, the Foam's first mate and radio operator, was forced to handle the wireless for the rebels.

"Gen. Moncada put 200 more troops aboard the Foam and we were compelled to proceed to Bragman's Bluff, also know as Puerto Cabeza, where we arrived at 4 o'clock in the morning, and landed 100 men. They marched on the bluff, while the Foam continued down the coast and bombarded the town from the sea.

"We continued the bombardment all day, the federal troops answering, but we were using guns mounted on the deck beyond the range of the federals. At nightfall the Foam ceased firing and proceeded a half mile from shore, where we received signals that the forces which landed had captured the town.

Yank "General" Takes Charge.

"We docked at Puerto Cabeza, taking on provisions and returning to headquarters at Rio Grande, seventy miles from Bluefields and El Bluff,

FLAMING PLANE CRASHES NEAR LONDON; 7 KILLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Five passengers, including three women, as well as the pilot and mechanician were killed when a French air liner bound for London from Paris took fire and crashed to earth near Tunbridge Wells, in Kent, today.

When flying over a race course, crowded by many Saturday afternoon fans, the ship was seen to be in difficulties. It finally turned towards Penshurst aerodrome, a mile distant. Suddenly a tongue of flames spurted from the tail end of the machine close to the auxiliary oil tank, enveloping the rudder. In a few moments it turned turtle and crashed to the ground in a sheet of flame.

A butler who saw the crash from a nearby residence was the first to reach the scene. He managed to pull a woman from the burning wreck, but she was dead before he extricated her. All the others were burned beyond recognition.

The plane belonged to the French air union, which issued a report tonight saying the passengers were all English. Their names were given as follows: Leonard Hamilton, Joseph Nobel, Mrs. Gertrude Hall, Flora Parker, and Margaret Stainton. These names, however, are not confirmed.

Judge Hurley, Law Reformer, Long Ill, Dies

Chief Justice Timothy D. Hurley of the Superior court died yesterday at his home, 2759 Ridge avenue, Evanston, a short time after he had suffered an attack of heart disease.

Judge Hurley was 63 years old. He had been under treatment during the summer at the Mayo brothers' hospital in Rochester, Minn., and had returned to his home only three weeks ago, apparently in better health. He became ill on Friday night, but rallied and appeared to be on the way to recovery when a second attack came

In Chicago Since 1882.

A native of Kentucky, Judge Hurley came to Chicago in 1882. In 1887 he was graduated from the law school of Northwestern university. He was intensely interested in the welfare of young people and was the author, in 1891, of the first bill permitting the establishment of the Juvenile court. He became the first probation officer of the court, and later was a justice of the peace for seven years.

He was active in obtaining amendments to the industrial school law in 1901 and special legislation for the St. Charles school for boys and the Chicago home for girls.

Fights Easy Divorces.

After his election to the Superior court bench in 1921 Judge Hurley started a campaign against easy divorces. He declined to grant divorces to wives who waived alimony when their husbands failed to contest suits. Another of his innovations was the issuance of writs against "domestic parasites," or home wreckers.

In 1923 he appeared before the legislature to recommend that the law preventing the remarriage of divorced persons in Illinois within a year after the decree was granted be repealed. He also sought to have a bill passed to legitimatize children born of bigamous marriages.

Judge Hurley is survived by a widow, Mrs. Mary Martha Hurley; a son, Donald, who is a student at the Northwestern university law school, and two daughters, Miss Ethel Hurley and Mrs. Dorothy Gallagher. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

FLORENCE GREGG OF LAKE FOREST SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Florence Folds Gregg, daughter of Charles W. Folds of Lake Forest, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan against James H. Gregg. Allegations of cruel treatment were made.

The wedding of the couple was one of the outstanding social events of January, 1924. They were married at St. Chrysostom's church by Bishop Anderson.

In her bill Mrs. Gregg stated that her husband was a salesman with an income of $500 a month. She asked the custody of the 1 year old child born to them and an allowance for support.

Fire in Loop Millinery Shop; Damage Is $3,000

Damage estimated at $3,000 was caused last night by fire in the Carson millinery shop at 226 South Wabash avenue. The flames were confined to the rear part of the second floor by firemen. An investigation failed to disclose the origin of the fire.

G. O. P. FACES A COUNTY TICKET CRISIS; MAY SUE

Law Perils Places on Ballot.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Mandamus proceedings to compel County Clerk Sweitzer to certify the nomination of a complete Republican county ticket immediately are in prospect today as a result of County Judge E. K. Jarecki's delay in ruling on disputed ballots of the April 13 primary.

Midnight brought a new phase into the Cook county election embroglio that may complicate conditions to the extent of forcing the county G. O. P. to go into the Nov. 2 election with only part of its ticket on the ballot, according to attorneys who have been studying election laws.

The Illinois ballot law says certificates of nomination for county offices must be filed with the county clerk at least 30 days before an election. The 30 day limit expired at midnight. A few hours earlier Judge Jarecki again postponed, this time until next Tuesday, his ruling on motions to throw out the entire Republican primary vote of the 20th, 27th and 42nd wards.

Judge's Control Absolute.

In his control over the ballots the county judge, under the primary law, has absolute autocratic powers and may disregard the vote of an entire ward or other political unit. His actions are not subject to review by a higher court.

But in the matter of finally certifying the names of nominees, Republican lawyers hold that he is bound by the ballot law to do so at least 30 days before the election. They believe that his failure to do so will make it possible to obtain a mandamus from the circuit court requiring the county clerk to certify nominees although that official may not be responsible for the situation.

Where objections to nomination certificates are made after they are issued the objections must be heard by the county canvassing board, consisting of the county clerk, county judge and state's attorney. The law says a decision of a majority shall be final.

Jarecki Ignores Provision.

Judge Jarecki holds that he is not bound by the 30 day provision. He says he is advised that he may prolong his ruling until the last day for candidates to withdraw Oct. 20.

Judge Jarecki's ruling on disputed country town ballots has changed one of the Republican nomination for county commissioner, according to a preliminary checkup. Commissioner George A. Miller, who ran for renomination on the Deneen ticket, apparently replaces John W. Jaranowski of the Crowe-Barrett slate.

It is still a disputed question whether Commissioner William Busse would replace Ald. Frances L. Boutell for county president if the 20th, 27th and 42nd wards are thrown out, but such action would give the nomination for sheriff to Charles J. Peters instead of George B. Arnold, while Thomas A. Boyer would replace Titus Haffa for the short term assessorship.

Republican county headquarters yesterday decided to wait no longer for the county judge's ruling and ordered campaign literature printed bearing the names of Boutell, Arnold and Haffa. All the municipal court nominations also are involved.

Col. Roosevelt Misses a Speaking Date; Comes Here

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who failed to appear at Evansville, Ind., yesterday to make a political speech, arrived in Chicago last night and registered at the Blackstone hotel.

The Evansville audience was told that Col. Roosevelt was ill in a Cincinnati hospital. A search for him in the latter city disclosed that he had not been in a hospital, that he had called up the home of his brother-in-law, Nicholas Longworth, and had taken a train to Chicago at noon. At the Sinton hotel there it was said he was suffering only from worry over missing his train connection to Evansville.

Efforts to reach Col. Roosevelt in his room early today were unsuccessful.

Kills Himself with Gas; Find $12,000 Bank Credit

Although bank books showed that he had more than $12,000 on deposit, James Mora, 41 years old, killed himself yesterday by inhaling gas in the kitchen of his home at 1329 West 19th street. The body, clad only in underclothing, was found on the floor by Joseph Krume, a roomer in the house. The kitchen range burner was open.

Policeman Is Bullet Victim Near His Home

Policeman William Kitzke of the Rogers Park station was shot and seriously wounded last night in a battle with three or more men who fired on him as he drove up to his home at 3601 North Hoyne avenue.

One of the bullets struck him in the chest, another in the groin, and a third in the back. At the Ravenswood hospital, where he was taken, it was said his condition was critical.

Two other shootings, both growing out of holdups, were reported to the police before midnight. Everett Heston, 20 years old, of 6606 Normal avenue, was struck by four bullets fired by Michael Constance, a baker at 7132 South Ashland.

Husband's Bullet Fells Bandit.

Heston was attempting to rob Mrs. Genevieve Constance, the baker's wife, in the front of the shop when Constance, with his pistol in his hand, emerged from the rear and began shooting. As the bandit fell, his unidentified companion, who was waiting outside, fled in an automobile.

The third person shot was Arnold Beer, 5138 University avenue. Three holdup men halted him at 52d street and Drexel avenue, and one of them fired at him when he resisted. He was struck in the body, but it was said his condition was not serious. He was taken to the Chicago hospital.

Shot Without Warning.

Police of the North Robey street station, investigating the shooting of Kitzke, were uncertain as to the underlying motive of his assailants. It was at first reported that he had tried to frighten the men away as they were stealing an automobile parked in front of his home. At the hospital, however, he said that the attack came without warning as he was leaving his automobile. As he fell, he fired at the men, who were in a small coupe.

Capt. William Kennedy is trying to learn if Kitzke had personal enemies who might have tried to kill him.

The bandit Heston was struck three times in the back and once in the neck, but it was said at the Bridewell hospital that he probably would recover.

Seek Saloon Man for Shooting.

A search was started for Robert Churcka, saloonkeeper at 2101 West 18th place, after two men were shot in front of his place. John Wass, 2730 South Kedzie avenue, was struck in the hip and John Lewandowsky, 2059 West 18th street, in the right leg. They asserted Churcka did the shooting.

Henry Rensman of 2149 Flournoy street was shot in the arm during a party at his home. A fusillade of bullets was fired into the saloon of Walter Harris, 1461 West Lake street, by unidentified gunmen, but no one was injured.

CHICAGO COUPLE FLEEING BANDITS HURT IN CRASH

Lebanon, Ind., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Bloor Schleppy of 832 Argyle street, Chicago, were injured near here today when their automobile turned over in a ditch while they were escaping from two hold up men who had attempted to stop them. The highwaymen fired several shots at the couple, but did not stop when Schleppy's car left the road.

The couple was driving toward Indianapolis. They were brought to a hospital here. Both were severely cut and bruised. Mr. Schleppy is manager and secretary of the Chicago office of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

YANK BACKING NEEDED TO SAVE FRENCH ACCORD

Stresemann Voices Plea of Europe.

[Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.]

COLOGNE, Oct. 2.—Before the national convention of the German People's party, of which he is the leader, Foreign Minister Stresemann today called upon the United States to lend support, morally and otherwise, to the project conceived at Thoiry by French Foreign Minister Briand and himself.

Failing American backing, Dr. Stresemann intimated that the momentous bargain by which France is to withdraw her troops from the Rhine and restore the Saar valley to Germany, in exchange for immediate mobilization of Germany's reparational resources, will come to naught.

Cites Coolidge's Speeches.

The foreign minister cited several public utterances of President Coolidge, notably his Cambridge speech in June, 1925, to prove America cannot hold aloof from an undertaking designed to free European peace from the menace of the military occupation.

In rebuttal of M. Poincare's recent speeches reemphasizing the French ex-premier's conviction of Germany's sole guilt as instigator of the world war, Dr. Stresemann quoted President Coolidge's dictum to the effect that it was Europe's economic troubles which plunged the world into war. He voiced Germany's readiness to "face any non-partisan tribunal inquiring into the war's origin."

Kernel of Peace.

About the Thoiry compact, Dr. Stresemann said, in part:

"I am fully aware of all the obstacles and all the psychological inhibitions on that side and this, but I believe the fact cannot be disputed that a Franco-German understanding remains the kernel of any European understanding and pacification. I believe, too, in the French foreign minister's sincere will to understanding.

"For my part, I am convinced that a new Germany and her rehabilitation can be based on peace alone. Only peace can be the basis for the recovery of our strength. Trade is the peacemaker on the road which makes great new connections across frontiers and removes the economic anomalies of the peace treaties.

Help of America Needed.

"The Thoiry policy, in my opinion and in that of the French foreign minister, can only be part of a general policy of European restoration and peace. It remains, for its realization, the participation of other powers and the collaboration of the competent reparational authorities.

"I count on the understanding and encouragement of other nations, and especially of the United States, which, since the days of Versailles, has recorded real pacification as one of its aims, and which initiated the movement resulting in the Dawes plan.

"I would like to take it for granted that it will lie within the lines of American policy also to support sympathetically the project of Thoiry, whose goal is to promote in Europe real peace, no longer threatened by the danger of military occupation."

CHECK UP ON PACTS

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—En route from Leghorn, Italy, to London, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, this afternoon held a two hour conversation with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand. They discussed the developments of the European political situation resulting from the conversations between the British foreign secretary and Premier Mussolini and between M. Briand and the German foreign minister, Gustav Stresemann.

A communique issued after the conference said the two foreign ministers are in complete accord over their respective pourparlers at Thoiry and Leghorn and the Franco-British entente is "closer, more cordial, and more confident than ever."

THE TRIBUNE is informed, however, that each was deeply anxious over the other's activities. The English secretary was worried over France's rapprochement with Germany, and the French statesman wanted to know all about England's flirtation with Italy for a Mediterranean league.

Favors Freeing of Rhine.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that Sir Austen expressed the greatest sympathy with M. Briand's revelations that France may shorten its occupation of the Rhineland if Germany (I> arms completely. He was not so enthusiastic over the proposed financial help from Berlin, especially through the flotation of German railway debentures under the Dawes plan, which would make Paris more independent of London's financial powers.

M. Briand was chiefly interested in ascertaining the possibility of an Anglo-Italian Mediterranean alliance.

Sir Austen assured him that Great Britain is seeking only to preserve the British empire's routes through the Mediterranean.

Hope to Entangle U. S.

M. Briand and Sir Austen still dream of roping the United States into Europe's difficulties. This was plainly revealed in M. Briand's statement following their talk.

"Our policies are identical and we both are working for peace," he said; "but it is only when we arrive at an entente with England, Italy, and the United States, as well as between France, Germany, and England, that we can reach durable results.

"It has been charged that the Chamberlain-Mussolini talk was Great Britain's answer to the Thoiry agreement," he continued. "There is nothing more false. These agreements are not hostile, but complementary. I knew that Sir Austen was going to see Premier Mussolini, just as he himself knew of my meeting with Dr. Stresemann at Thoiry.

"These conversations follow out my policies, to which I always have been partisan, that only through the personal contact of statesmen at frequent intervals can peace possibly be established.

Claims U. S. Opposes Bond Sale.

(Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.)

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The afternoon newspapers publish a dispatch from Washington transmitted by the semi-official Havas agency. It reads:

"With regard to the eventuality of sale in the United States of German railway bonds, it was said at the White House that American bankers should consult their government. However, the latter has already made it known that it is opposed to the purchase of German obligations. It is recalled that competent authorities recently declared the moment was not opportune."

U. S. Withholds Comment.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—A plea voiced in Cologne today by German Foreign Minister Stresemann for American participation in the rehabilitation of Europe attracted considerable attention here, but failed to evoke any authorized comment in administration circles.

HARVEY FESTIVAL DRAWS CROWDS DESPITE RAIN

Harvey's annual "Broadway celebration" and community festival was held last night, with thousands of spectators and participants braving the rain to attend.

The feature was a parade with decorated floats passing in review before the judges, appropriately chosen from the justices of the peace in the southern end of the county. County highway police on motorcycles led the parade, and were followed by the Harvey police, mounted, and the fire department. Three bands, those of the local American Legion post, the Thornton Township High school, and the Calumet Baking Powder company, followed with the floats. Following the parade, dancing contests were held on the streets.

PASSENGERS ROB CAB DRIVER.

When William H. Robinson, a Yellow cab chauffeur, turned to collect the fare from one of two passengers he had driven from Michigan boulevard and 47th street to 7931 Aberdeen street, last night they threatened him with revolvers and robbed him of $8.

REVELATIONS OF GRAFT, KLAN RULE SHAKE INDIANA

Senators Expect to Ask Legislative Probe.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Probability of a special session of the Indiana legislature to probe the great political conspiracy in the state during the several years' iron handed rule of the Ku Klux Klan under D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon, loomed tonight as a meeting of state senators and members of the Indiana Republican Editorial association came to an end.

Six state senators, three Republicans and three Democrats, informally attended the meeting. After the special investigating committee of the editorial association, headed by Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes publisher, had laid its mass of evidence before them, the legislators declared themselves astounded.

Advise Legislative Probe.

At the end of the session with the publishers it was the opinion of all six senators that the evidence in the latters' hands should receive legislative investigation.

They announced this in a statement they issued after the meeting in which they said:

"The meeting of the senators invited to hear the evidence submitted by the probe committee of the Indiana Republican Editorial association was astounded at the revelations of Chairman Adams. The action of D. C. Stephenson and his intimate associates, including alleged fraud, corruption, and bribery, were laid before the senatorial committee in affidavits and documentary evidence. It involves many officials.

"Inasmuch as it affects so many officials directly and indirectly, it was the opinion of the senators, who were invited only informally, that the evidence should receive legislative investigation."

Members of the editorial association were relentless in laying, piece by piece, an incredible mosaic of evidence before the state senators assembled. There were picture and photostatic copies of the documents, receipts for fortunes in money which changed hands, copies of deeds and other papers.

The senatorial committee called by Mr. Adams contains prominent political leaders from both parties. They are Senator Joseph Cravens of Madison, senate minority leader, and Senators Walter Chambers of Newcastle and George Saunders, Bluffton, Democrats; Senators Thomas Daily, Indianapolis; L. Leonard Barker of Thorntown, and Finch of Muncie, Republicans.

Says He Will "Tell All."

Chief among the papers was a letter written by Stephenson to Court Asher, a former grand kleagle in the klan and Stephenson's chief lieutenant during the period that the former dragon ruled.

In this letter Stephenson makes known to Asher his determination to "expose all," as Mr. Adams put it, and the parts of it that were given out indicated plainly to what extent the state is likely to be upheaved when the man now occupying a prison cell starts to tell what he knows.

Text of Stephenson Letter.

The letter which Stephenson wrote to Asher follows:

"My Dear Friend and Partner: I have thought over your plans and I really believe you know what you are about. You are one I am confident will not double-cross me. Remember one thing, I am putting my life and liberty in your hands. I am watched most carefully all the time. Not allowed to see any one or sign papers.

"Send me a lawyer that I can depend on. Arrange for me to be interviewed by the newspapers. I will give a complete story of my control of Indiana. This may mean my return to Indiana in a box, as I have been warned that would happen. I will give you a complete statement of the framed indictment against the highway commission.

"I will tell all of the corrupt methods used in the legislature and who received the money.

"I could tell who furnished $120,000 in the campaign of 1924 and what interest was to be protected in holding up the public by high rates for certain public utilities.

"I could explain why the Indiana state Republican committee never received a fat purse, which was sent from Chicago to the state committee, but landed in the pockets of an individual. I could name the individual who kept the money, and name the amount.

"I could explain how favorable political decisions were induced from certain courts.

"I could explain where and how $200,000 were used in the campaign of 1924 to buy votes and to stuff ballot boxes with spurious votes.

$40,000 from State Fund.

"I could tell how the arrangement is worked out by which certain individuals acquired $40,000 a short time ago from a fund which belongs to the taxpayers.

"I could tell how a certain man retired after operating a small garage for two or three years, and now occupies a prominent unsalaried place in a certain political organization, and shows unmistakable signs of the greatest prosperity.

"I could tell why bank deposits of taxpayers' money were shifted from one depository to another so that individuals could get huge sums of accumulated interest, and who got the money.

"I could tell how certain liquor dealers are able to operate under the protection of law enforcement officers, and name their protectors, and the amount paid to public officials for protection.

"I could explain why certain men were placed in public positions from which there in an enormous profit, and who gets a fifty-fifty cut in the money."

Adams has evidence, it is believed, which involves persons high in Indiana politics, some of whom are now in office. Ramifications of his exposé, it is understood, might even extend to congress, as well as the Indiana state house.

Ed Jackson, governor of Indiana, was a political ally and personal friend of Stephenson and an alleged klansman, as was Arthur Robinson, appointed United States senator by Jackson to fill the place left vacant by the death of Samuel M. Ralston, Democrat.

Both Robinson and James E. Watson, senior senator and Republican wheel horse, are candidates for reelection along with the thirteen Indiana congressmen in the November election.

Super-government Goes On.

There are charges that Indiana's super-government by no means passed with the passing of Stephenson himself. It is alleged that the former grand dragon had no sooner started on his way to life imprisonment when others saw an opportunity to step into his place as the invisible force and that these lost no time in stepping.

Stephenson's determination to lay bare the facts is said to have grown upon him for several reasons.

One of these was said to have been the slow but certain conviction that he undoubtedly was not sacrificed by his enemies but by those he thought his friends. As he put it himself, it is said, the "political gang"—the gang he thought he could depend upon—and not the others "double-crossed" him.

The former grand dragon is convinced that a plot to discredit and disgrace him was already under way when, most opportunely for the plotters, he became involved in the suicide of the Indianapolis girl that later sent him to prison for murder.

Restrictions placed about Stephenson, once they got him into the penitentiary, also are said to have constituted a strong influence in his determination to tell what he knows.

He has not been allowed to send a word of any kind to the outside world, no one has been allowed to communicate with him, he has been kept as in a dungeon.

Counts on Public Opinion.

"There are still powerful influences to keep him silent," says Mr. Adams. "One is a threat never to let him see light of day again. Another is that code which binds politicians together. He will not be allowed to talk unless outraged public opinion becomes so pronounced that it will force an opportunity for Stephenson to be heard."

Despite the vigilance kept over Stephenson, he was after months, able to get out of the penitentiary in installments the letter to Court Asher. This letter is said to have come in ten parts, and just how Stephenson managed to get it into the hands of the one friend he still trusts has not been disclosed.

An effort to interview Stephenson was made yesterday by THE TRIBUNE. Warden Daly at the Michigan City institution, was asked whether a reporter might not see Stephenson if the latter decided to see the reporter.

"No!" was the flat answer of the warden to all inquiries. He said there were no circumstances under which any reporter would be allowed to see Stephenson, that there was no way to do it, and that he, Warden Daly, was the court of last resort.

Adams belongs to the more conservative wing of the Indiana Republican party seeking to remove from it the stigma of McCrayism and Stephensonism. He and other Republican editors sought to have Gov. Jackson instigate an investigation of the present charges before they took it up, they assert. However, the governor sidestepped the issue.

Stephenson rose to power in Indiana as an organizer for the Ku Klux Klan. He was subsequently suspended by the klan chapter at Evansville which initiated him, for alleged immoral relations with a young woman in a Columbus, O., hotel. However, as grand dragon of the Indiana klan, he had built up such a following that he was able to retain much of his power, so much, Adams alleges, that he was able to extract a superoath, sometimes signed in writing as a formal contract, from many public officials, in both state and county offices, pledging that they would not make appointments or instigate important official acts without consulting his wishes.

Boasted to Girl.

When Stephenson was tried last November for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, young Indianapolis political worker, her dying statement was introduced, saying that Stephenson had boasted to her: "You know my word is law in Indiana."

Not only was Stephenson able to direct the political activities of men high in office in Indiana because of his superoath system, Adams alleges, but he was also able to control the judgment of juries and to say what legislation would pass and what would not pass in the last session of the Indiana legislature.

CATHOLICS WARN MEXICO OF PERIL OF BLOODSHED

Episcopate Urges Church People to Keep Fighting

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mexico City, Oct. 2.—"We have solicited recognition of our natural rights, which are sustained by eternal justice, recognized by the constitution and granted by all civilized nations—rights the indestructible heritage of all free people in all countries of the world," the Catholic episcopate says in an open statement to the Catholics today after a silence of more than six weeks.

"Congress has denied us these rights. In face of this denial the Catholic people must keep up their hearts and fight steadily within the law and constitution for the triumph of their ideas and ideals, for only in this way can bloodshed be avoided."

Behind what appears to be the sober temperate statement of the Catholic case appears the nearest the Catholic episcopate has come to threatening the Mexican government. It intimates that if the Catholic leaders and people do not keep up the struggle and obtain what the Catholic people want and demand, bloodshed is likely to sweep the country. The statement evidences the bitter disappointment that congress snowed under the bill presented by the bishops for reforming the anti-Catholic laws, without even considering it.

A prominent Catholic today said the letter heralds another nation-wide campaign of Catholics against the government. The letter accuses President Calles and congress with holding out hopes to the Catholics when they had no intention of fulfilling them.

SPEEDING AUTO KILLS MAN OF 74—WOMAN DIES OF HER INJURIES

Swinging his automobile at high speed around a corner at 13th street and Oakley avenue last night, an unidentified driver struck and killed Martin Sheehan, 74 years old, 5258 West Harrison street, and possibly fatally injured his companion, Lawrence McCaul, 35 years old, 1300 South Oakley avenue.

MRS. ANGIE BARNEY.

The driver did not stop after the accident, McCaul was removed to the county hospital.

Mrs. Angie Barney, 53 years old, 215 North Lockwood avenue, died at the Austin hospital of injuries received Friday when she was struck by a car driven by G. M. Friesinger, 3424 South Western avenue. The accident occurred at Madison street and Lockwood avenue.

The two deaths raised the fatality toll of automobile accidents in Cook county to 628 since Jan. 1.

Seize Head of Novelty Firm in Raid by Dry Agents

Federal prohibition agents yesterday raided the office of the Midland Novelty company, in room 603 of the Quincy building, and arrested the president, William Fitch, and Earl Soister, superintendent of the building. A gallon of whisky and the same amount of gin were seized.

3 CICERO CHIEFS SURRENDER; GET BONDS REDUCED

Indicted Ring Given 3 Days of Grace.

Open house for Cicero booze defendants, which will be maintained for three days before United States deputy marshals go out with the handcuffs, yesterday brought in three guests, all eager to post bonds and get back to Cicero.

Joseph Z. Klenha, president of the town, was the first of 79 Ciceronians indicted by the federal grand jury Friday to appear at the district court clerk's office with a property schedule. In his wake were Edward Konvalinka, his secretary, and Ted L. Svoboda, chief of police of Cicero. All made bond.

Another Judge Reduces Bonds.

Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe, before whom the conspiracy indictments were returned, fixed the bonds of each of the men at $10,000, but Edwin L. Weisl, representing the trio, went before Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and succeeded in having the bonds reduced to $2,500 for each of his clients. Property schedules then were approved by Bond Expert C. H. Parr and the men were given their freedom.

Ed Vogel, another of the defendants, who had been arrested by Special Intelligence Agent Patrick Roche and locked up, also succeeded in obtaining a reduction in the amount of the bond fixed by Judge Cliffe and was released after passing the morning in the marshal's lockup.

Capone Aids' Bonds Halved.

Attorney Ben Epstein, representing Con Sullivan, Louis LaCava and Fred Ries, all lieutenants of Al Capone, also attacked the size of the bonds set by Judge Cliffe and obtained an order from Judge Evans reducing the amounts from $10,000 to $5,000. Mr. Epstein announced that the trio would surrender within the next few days—probably tomorrow.

Al Capone, his brother, Ralph; the O'Donnell brothers, Myles and Bernard, and other hoodlum personages among the list of indicted were said to have sent word to United States Marshal Palmer E. Anderson that it will not be necessary to dispatch deputies to bring them in.

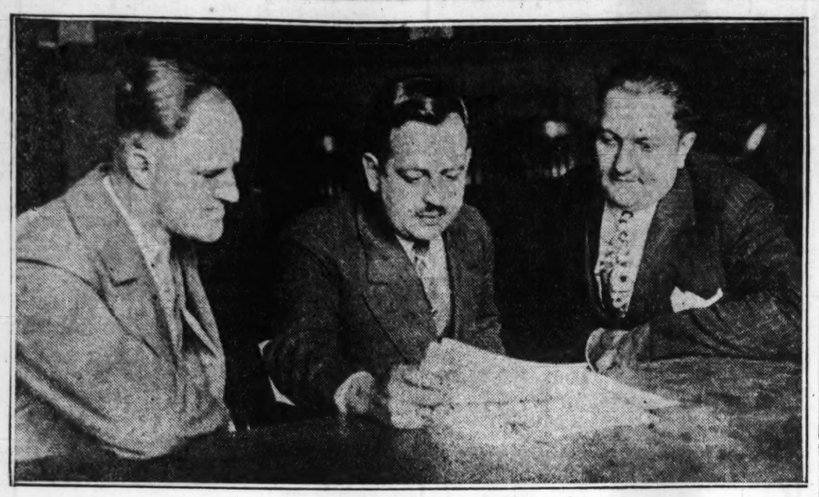
Small Fry Cast Adrift.

Reports were that a policy of "devil take the hindmost" will prevail in the trouble that confronts the Capone dynasty, the word having gone out that small fry saloonkeepers will have to paddle their own canoes.

Heroic defense funds of the kind on which gangland is reputed to pride itself will not be proposed, was the tip passed out by those who hold the purse strings. It was indicated, however, that the boss hoodlums might recede from this position to some extent, after opportunity has been found to learn who has been doing the talking at the federal building.

Announcement of whether President Klenha and his aids would be suspended pending their trial was not forthcoming from the Cicero town board.

INDICTED CICERO OFFICIALS SURRENDER



Three of the 79 Ciceronians who have been indicted on liquor charges surrendered yesterday and were released on bonds of $10,000, which were later reduced to $2,500 by an Appellate court judge. Left to right, at the office of the clerk of the District court, are: Ted L. Svoboda, Cicero chief of police; Attorney Edwin L. Weisl, representing the defendants, and Edward Konvalinka, secretary to Mayor Joseph Z. Klenha of Cicero.

LAYS ROBBERY OF GERMAN EMBASSY TO MUSSOLINI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The sensational robbery at the German embassy in Rome several months ago is cleared up, according to today's Vorwærts, which prints the official report of Ambassador von Neurath to the German foreign office, in which it is alleged that Premier Mussolini ordered the robbery to obtain incriminating documents.

According to Vorwærts, Ambassador von Neurath obtained the confession from the thieves, whom he himself, with aides in the embassy, held up with pistols.

A German embassy servant confessed that he had been ordered by five men, including a police commissar and captain of carbineers, to make keys to the embassy and safe, where there was a white envelope containing documents wanted by the Italian dictator. The ambassador's two attachés, after substituting the envelope for another, hid in the garden, watched the Italian officials enter the house, open the safe, and flee with the envelope. They held them up and obtained a confession that they were ordered to commit the robbery by officials of the foreign office, at the premier's request.

CARPENDER PAID HIM HALL BRIBE, TROOPER CLAIMS

Affidavit Hits Cousin of Rector's Widow.

New York, Oct. 2. — [Special.]—Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, one of the four persons indicted for the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, paid $2,500 in cash to former New Jersey State Trooper Henry L. Dickman as a bribe to drop his investigation of the case, according to a digest of Dickman's allegations in an affidavit which was obtained tonight from an authoritative source.

Carpender, who is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and who is listed in the Social Register, made the payment in the presence of the late Azariah Beekman, who handled the investigation of the murder case four years ago as prosecutor of the pleas for Somerset county, according to Dickman's charges.

Says He Got $2,500 in Cash.

A person familiar with the contents of the affidavit which Dickman, an army prisoner, made in a cell at Governor's island last Wednesday, said that the ex-trooper alleged the payment was made in Beekman's office in Somerville. The money, according to this version of Dickman's story, was paid in cash—twenty-five $100 bills, which were obtained when Carpender cashed a check.

Dickman alleges that he had worked from November, 1922, to April, 1923, on a lone investigation of the case. He further told the present investigators that he believed he had "solved" the matter.

Other Charges in Affidavit.

Owing to the sensational nature of Dickman's allegations and because of other charges which he is reported to have included in his sworn statement it was understood tonight that the attention of Gov. A. Harry Moore, who directed that the case be reopened, would be called to the affidavit.

It was said that the investigators, figuring on the allegations of money made by Dickman, were estimating that $200,000 would have to be checked up in the case. They frankly admitted that this figure was merely an estimate and that Dickman had merely given a solitary figure, namely $2,500, as something he personally knew about.

Trial Set for Nov. 3.

After the alleged payment by Carpender, which Dickman asserts ended his connection with the case and with the troopers, Dickman dropped out of sight. Later he joined the army and was sent to the disciplinary barracks in San Francisco for desertion.

The trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Willie Stevens and Henry Stevens, charged with the murders, was set for Nov. 3 at a hearing today. Carpender will be tried separately and later. A warrant for Felix de Martini, chief of the defense, private detectives charging him with being an accessory after the fact, also was issued.

De Martini surrendered to police in Brooklyn tonight and stated he would fight extradition.

EUGENE DU BOIS, CHORUSDIRECTOR, IS SUED BY WIFE

Charging that her husband's fondness for chorus girls who came under his direction had wrecked their marriage, Mrs. Eugenie Du Bois yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance against Eugene Du Bois, acting director at the Chicago theater and formerly connected with the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Five years ago the Du Boises separated, according to the bill, when he became infatuated with a member of the opera company of which he was then concert master. She went to Pau, France, with the three children. There, last May, Du Bois appeared and there was a reconciliation, the bill declares.

But after two days an automobile in which rode a beautiful girl appeared in front of the Du Bois home, the bill states. Du Bois immediately seized his suit case and departed in the automobile, the wife charged.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 2—(AP)—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, left an estate valued at $304,325, it was indicated in papers filed in Middlesex Probate court today.

TINNEY IN HOSPITAL, ILL FROM PLEURISY AND FRACTURED RIBS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—[United Press.—Frank Tinney, comedian, starring here in Earl Carroll's Vanities, is in St. Mary's hospital suffering from pleurisy aggravated by the fracture of two ribs, Dr. Leo Dretzka said tonight.

"Mr. Tinney's condition is serious although not critical. His pulse tonight is fluctuating between 120 and 130," the physician added. "The rib fractures were suffered by Tinney in another city."

FRANK TINNEY.

The comedian was forced to leave the cast of the Vanities last night. He was taken to a hospital late today.

Dr. Dretzka admitted Tinney was delirious and unable to recognize friends.

Tinney was said by members of the cast to have fallen while entering a taxi at Syracuse, N. Y.

Management of the Vanities intimated that Tinney is also suffering from an attack of nerves induced by worry over his recent divorce.

Dr. Dretzka said he expected the comedian would have to remain in the hospital for at least two weeks. The Vanities closes its Detroit engagement next Saturday.

LEGION PRESENTS REALISTIC MOVIE OF WORLD WAR

Argonne forest, Ypres, Verdun and Cantigny flashed across the screen at the Randolph theater yesterday where Forges Post of the American Legion is presenting its film of authentic pictures of the world war.

There was Château Thierry with the leathernecks showing they could fight; Maffrecourt and mustard gas; Mount Sec and Eddie Rickenbacker taking to the air; Vimy Ridge with the Yanks going over the top at 4 a. m., the British battling the Turks at Jerusalem—and there were tense ex-service men in the audience living it all over again.

The picture with its dead lying crooked and unburied in the mud does not appear to be one which would encourage more wars. It is hideous and real. More than one photographer was killed in action making the scenes.

STABS ESTRANGED WIFE.

Mrs. Lydia Hodge, colored, 42 years old, 3222 Calumet avenue, was stabbed, probably fatally, by her estranged husband, Frank, in a quarrel yesterday. Hodge escaped.

PREDICT QUEEN'S TRIP TO U. S. MAY ENTHRONE CAROL

Marie to Travel in State at Tourist Rates.

BY ENID WILKIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 2.—Queen Marie of Roumania and her party left Sinai, the summer home of the Roumanian royal family, for Paris, tonight. They will sail from Chebourg on Oct. 12 for the United States. Included in the queen's party are her daughter, Princess Ileana, Prince Nicholas, and the Infanta Beatrice of Spain.

When the queen arrives in Paris she will meet Crown Prince Carol, who, after having made peace with King Ferdinand during the summer, hopes now to make peace with his mother, after which there will be no obstacles to his return to Roumania.

An emphatic official denial was issued today from Bucharest and also from the Roumanian legation here regarding yesterday's report that King Ferdinand will abdicate in favor of Prince Carol, and possibly postpone the queen's journey. Nevertheless, the story still is believed in well informed circles here.

Prince's Case Still Mystery.

The Wiener Allegemine Zeitung says mystery surrounds the goings on in the Roumanian court and Carol's abdication, the true reasons for which are still in doubt. The paper says Carol shook the dust of Roumania from his feet after a terrible quarrel with Prince Barbu Stirbey, all powerful, intriguing master of the household, who was even nicknamed the "Rasputin of Roumania" and is still powerful behind the throne.

There are some who connect the queen's trip to the United States to these family events. Some even say she expects to make a long stay and may even make it her home and never return to Roumania.

CUT RATES TO QUEEN

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Queen Marie is showing herself to be a remarkably good business woman in arranging her American trip. The Americans have won out in the preliminary struggle among the steamship companies to book Queen Marie's passage, and she has the imperial suite on the Leviathan at a cheaper price than a college student pays for hammock space in the tourist class. The reduction is written off as "advertising."

The principal syndicates of American hotels are now dickering to get the queen when she reaches America and entire floors of expensive hostelries are being offered to the royal guest for about $1 a day.

American railroads are competing for Queen Marie's tour of the United States. The presidents of the principal lines have offered their personal private cars for the queen, and some roads have offered private special cars. The interstate commerce commission's prohibition of free railway trips is overcome through charging off the expense as advertising.

Even cigarets in America will be free, as the leading manufacturers offered her all she can consume.

RESTORES HEARING TO THE DEAF.

Sufferers May Now Hear Anything—Anywhere.

Deaf people and their friends will be overjoyed to hear of an amazing device which has been introduced by the Dictograph Products Corporation, Suite 3423 Lytton Building, 14 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Illinois. This device enables those who are deaf to hear all that is going on clearly, distinctly, instantly. It is considered by scientists as one of the most remarkable achievements of the day. For the purpose of convincing every sufferer, the makers are offering to send their device on 10 days' free trial without cost or obligation. They don't ask for any money nor is it sent C. O. D. If you wish to experience the thrill of restored hearing again, just send them your name and address today.—Adv.

MILLS MAKES TAMMANY ISSUE IN HIS CAMPAIGN

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, in his acceptance address tonight declared the outstanding issue in the coming campaign is "whether Tammany hall, under the cloak of Gov. Smith's personal popularity, is to achieve an unshakeable mastery of the state of New York."

This issue, he said, has reduced to secondary importance "the question of whether Smith is to be governor or Mills."

Touching upon prohibition, Mr. Mills said: "As the chief executive officer of the state I shall do all in my power to see that the laws of the land are enforced," but asserted "on the question of policy I propose to be guided by the instructions of the people given in the referendum vote" on the question to be submitted at the fall election.

"To do otherwise," he said, "would be to challenge the right of the people to govern themselves."

KILLED BY CUTTING MACHINE.

Bishop Happy on Wet Seat, Sees Iowa Football Game

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The lord bishop of London and all his luggage arrived in Iowa City this afternoon, home of the University of Iowa, whose students the evangelist bishop seeks to win to the Christian faith. He started out in the rain soon after he had found his rooms at the hotel Jefferson, escorted by a group of yellow slickered young men whose minds were on the football game in progress at Iowa field rather than on the intricacies of Anglican creed.

Faculty members and distinguished clergy were deserted while the wiry, black gaitered legs of the athletic bishop soon were keeping pace with anxious youth in cutting a quick trail across town and green campus to the heart of the yelling bowl where student life was concentrated on the fortunes of old Iowa against the teachers of Greeley, Colo.

Tasseled Scotch Hat.

Lost in the wild young crowd, sitting on a damp bench while the rain spattered his tasseled Scotch hat, the Rt. Rev. and Rt. Hon. A. F. Winnington Ingram, who might have been in the dignified peace of his storied home in London, was quite happy.

The students said he was a fine old chap and they would come out to hear him preach tomorrow at vespers and also see him tomorrow evening at the Morrison club, where they might hear something for their soul's sake.

Dinner with President Walter A. Jessup and faculty members formed the only engagement the bishop had today.

He is staying in hotel instead of accepting private invitations, and seems to enjoy wandering around the lobbies, stopping stray young men for a jolly word with them, sitting in most democratic fashion at meals with ordinary travelers.

Women Make Great Flutter.

The women make a great flutter about the "Dear Bishop," and he has a delightful way with them, but is in for the young man, wherever encountered, that the light of real interest and love comes into his eyes.

While preaching the ancient creed of his church, insisting on the validity of it on historical and rational ground, he does not emphasize this in talking of Christianity to young men. Rather, he teaches the human value of the faith that Christ was sent to earth to show mankind the right way of life.

Atheism, he told one young inquirer, is ignorance. Agnosticism may be merely an excuse for not following that conscience which each one must make terms with.

Browning is his favorite poet, and he often quotes the philosophers in support of the Christian attitude toward life—even the old Kantian doctrine that one must order his life as though God were here. He gives the students statistics to show the historical record of Christ's actual life and crucifixion.

He was asked by one student about the mystery of the trinity. This, he said, simply, was explained best in three bible stories. He cited one, the baptism of Jesus and the record there of the Father above, the Son on earth, and the Holy Ghost descending as alive. It is easier to think of God as love in terms of the trinity, he explained, for before this world was God or love, must have had something to love.

It is seldom in his contact with young men that he lapses into great seriousness. There is always a ready laugh and a joke. He said that after he had been telling some one about all his arduous duties as head of hundreds of city clergy, that his listener had remarked sympathetically, "What a dog's life to be a bishop!"

"Yes," replied the bishop, "but a happy dog."

Points Out Pitfall for Youth.

He told of Bishop Potter in London being addressed as "My Lord" until he came to enjoy it, and added, "but the bubble was pricked, for the first day he came home to New York a man clapped him on the back and said, 'Well, Bish, glad to see you back.'" Dr. Ingram seems to think there is a pitfall for young men in regarding Jesus as merely a good man.

"Now," he said, "suppose you say I am a good man; I will not dispute it, though I am not as good as many people suppose. But say I am a good man, for the argument. Suppose I say to you now, sitting here, 'I am the light of the world,' or 'No man knoweth the Father save through me.' You would say I was mad. No, you must know that Jesus was the eternal Son of God."

The bishop's party reached here from Des Moines in the private car of President Fred W. Sargent of the Chicago and North Western railroad and will go to Chicago in this car, leaving here tomorrow afternoon by way of Cedar Rapids.

To this Film on Teeth

Today's leading dental opinion ascribes many tooth and gum disorders. Glistening teeth and healthy gums, according to many authorities, follow as a natural result when film is removed daily this way

MOST persons' teeth and gums are imperiled, according to many authorities, by a film that forms on teeth.

Ordinary brushing having failed to combat it effectively, a new way in tooth cleansing is being advised. A way that differs in formula and effect from previously accepted methods. These are embodied in the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

Now an effective film combatant

For years dental science sought ways to fight film. Clear teeth and healthy gums come only when film is constantly combated—removed every day from the teeth.

Film was found to cling to teeth; to get into crevices and stay; to hold in contact with teeth food substances which fermented and fostered the acids of decay. Film was found to be the basis of tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and most gum disorders.

Thus there was a universal call for an effective film-removing method. Ordinary brushing was found ineffective. Now two effective combatants have been found, approved by high dental authority and embodied in a tooth paste called Pepsodent.

Curdles and removes film
Firms the Gums

Pepsodent acts first to curdle the film. Then it thoroughly removes the film in gentle safety to enamel.

At the same time, it acts to firm the gums—Pepsodent provides, for this purpose, the most recent dental findings in gum protection science knows today. Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And thus aids in neutralizing mouth acids as they form.

It multiplies the starch digestant of the saliva. Thus combats starch deposits which might otherwise ferment and form acids.

No other method known to present-day science embodies protective agents like those in Pepsodent.

Please accept Pepsodent test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights massage the gums with Pepsodent, using your finger tips; the gums then should start to firm and harden.

At the end of that time, we believe you will agree, that next to regular dental care, Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, provides the utmost science has discovered for better tooth and gum protection.

CHURCH REVOLT PERILS DRYS IN BACKING SMITH

Religious Paper Criticizes Anti-Saloon League.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Anti-Saloon league is facing a revolt among the church vote against its support of Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee for senator. The Christian Century, an undenominational publication, in its leading editorial yesterday came out strongly for Hugh S. Magill, independent Republican candidate, and declared: "The hour has come for the Christian vote to disentangle itself from the meshes of hypocritical political leadership."

It says Mr. Smith's dry platform is neutralized by the wet plank of his party in Cook county, and that "his offense in accepting funds from Mr. Insull completely overshadows the virtue of his technical dryness."

Of the league the editorial says: "We believe the Anti-Saloon league's policy in this Illinois campaign is dead wrong."

Magill Managers Heartened.

The Magill managers, who spent the day mapping out the campaign at the University club, interpreted the utterance as of deep significance. They held it to portend that a natural swing of the dry church vote will move to Magill, who, although a bone dry, is not planning to use prohibition as his main issue. Another theory of his managers is that the Smith candidacy will become entangled when it comes up from a dry campaign downstate and gets into Cook county to travel in company with a dripping wet local ticket.

The Christian Century says the Anti-Saloon league has ignored the moral issue raised by Mr. Smith's acceptance of public utility campaign contributions while head of the state commerce commission, and that it has chosen to disregard every issue except prohibition. The magazine also lands a punch on the league for advising voters to run away from the referendum. It says the referendum is providential in the present muddle and that dry voters should vote "no."

Smith's Record Assailed.

"The Anti-Saloon league preference for Smith on the prohibition issue," says the religious publication, "is based on considerations which, as compared with the moral issue involved, are not convincing. The wet platform of his party neutralizes his own political dryness. Beyond all such considerations is the elementary one of common honesty in so high an office as that which Mr. Smith seeks.

"To single out the one favorable feature of Mr. Smith's candidacy and to disregard the scandalous affront to decency which his candidacy represents will only tend further to establish the noisome conditions which have become intolerable.

"If Smith is elected there are tremendous doubts that the senate will ever allow him to take his seat. In which event, the Anti-Saloon league will have to accept a senator appointed by that paragon of righteousness, Gov. Small.

Urges Drys Say "No" to Brennan.

"But if the effort to elect Magill results in the election of Brennan, the dry forces can nullify his wetness by overwhelmingly voting "no" on Brennan's referendum."

Magill's nominating petition was filed at Springfield yesterday by the Rev. Robert E. O'Brien of Chicago. It had 8,740 signatures.

The Republican caravan starts down state tomorrow. Frank L. Smith, Senator Charles S. Deneen, Gov. Len Small and the entire Republican state ticket are scheduled to appear at noon at Paxton, the first stop on the swing through Illinois.

The Socialist party filed its tocket at Springfield, naming John T. Whitlock of Chicago for United States senator. The Workers Community party filed the petition of J. Louis Engdahl, Chicago, for senator, and the Light Wines and Beer party filed the petition of Raymond T. O'Keefe, also for senator, he being the twelfth entry.

POLITICAL NOTES

Many letters from small tax payers have been received by George F. Harding, Republican nominee for county treasurer, commending his stand for the prompt payment of tax moneys immediately after collection. Harding headquarters stated yesterday. "The small property owners really bear the brunt of the tax burdens," Mr. Harding said, "and they know my proposal will help keep the tax rate down.

A dance and reception in honor of Mitchell C. Robin, Democratic nominee for Probate clerk will be held at the Douglas park auditorium Oct. 31. It is being given by the 24th ward organization which also will hold a 10 mile marathon over west side boulevards Oct. 24.

Backers of County Treasurer P. J. Carr, Democratic nominee for sheriff, point to his saving of $6,500,000 in interest earnings as county treasurer as one of his qualifications for being continued in public office.

Official opening of the Iroquois club, which now occupies rooms on the sixth and seventh floors of the Sherman hotel, will occur Oct. 11 at the Bal Tabarin in that hotel, with former Senator James Hamilton Lewis and candidates on the Democratic ticket as speakers, according to an announcement by President Ross C. Hall.

Dutch Envoy to Italy Made Minister to U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Oct. 2.—Dr. J. H. Van Royen, Dutch minister to Italy, today was appointed minister to Washington.

BORAH IN CITY; SEES G. O. P. A WINNER IN WEST

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], pasing through Chicago yesterday, dropped in at the national Republican speakers' bureau and offered his services on the platform during the campaign. He is to make a speaking tour in behalf of Republican anti-world court candidates in Indiana, Oklahoma and Missouri. As to political conditions in the west, Senator Borah said:

"I have just returned from the western states and I found the Republican prospects there encouraging. In Idaho, the ticket is safe. In Washington the prospects are good for the election of a Republican congressman from the Spokane district, which heretofore has been Democratic. Senator Jones and the four sitting Republican congressmen there are certain of reëlection."

where Gen. Joe Hudson, German-American, boarded the Foam with troops and ordered us to steam to Greytown, below Bluefields.

"We were four miles off shore when we passed the U. S. S. Galveston anchored one mile off El Bluff. Passing, we bombarded Greytown, and returned to Rio Grande, where we stayed several days. We then returned to Greytown, and thence to the Great Pearl Lagoon, where all the Nicaraguans disembarked and were replaced with two Mexican officers, Col. Coronado and Capt. El Toro, and twenty Mexican soldiers, who ordered us to return to El Bluff for a new bombardment.

"When abreast the false Bluefields, fifteen miles north of the real Bluefields, we ran ashore a reef on Sept. 7. A coast pilot was aboard who was supposed to know the shoals. Salvage efforts were fruitless and the Mexicans took off the guns and munitions to the shore in launches, leaving the Americans aboard.

"The radio man, Perez, heavily armed, refused to signal the U. S. S. Galveston, saying the wireless was damaged. For sixteen days we remained stranded on the rocks. Supplies were low at the beginning and later we faced starvation, with no food for many days, only coffee. Perez still refused to signal.

"On the night of Sept. 11, I sneaked six men off on a life boat. They rowed fifteen miles to the U. S. S. Rochester. The admiral replied he would investigate and in the meantime said we should wireless an S. O. S. if we really were endangered.

"Our supplies had given out and we were hungry, and pleaded with Perez that we would starve unless he went ashore for provisions, since he was the only one friendly with the rebels. While Perez was ashore I wrote a message in English, which Perez' Mexican assistant could not understand, and which he sent by radio to the Rochester.

"Perez was bitten by a snake while ashore and was greatly alarmed for his life. He sent a second message, after which the Galveston arrived and Capt. Townsend rescued us with lifeboats, exactly eleven days after our first request to the Rochester for assistance."

JARECKI'S REPLY SAYS SCHOOLMAN LIKED HIS WORK

County Judge E. K. Jarecki made it known yesterday that he refused last year to renew the commission of Dr. Edward N. Schoolman, former alienist for the county court, who made a speech last Friday criticizing the county judge's methods of handling mental cases that come before him.

Schoolman declared cases were disposed of by the judge without giving a psychiatrist an opportunity to examine patients properly. Dr. Schoolman made his speech at the Cort theater at a campaign meeting for Capt. Joseph P. Savage, Republican nominee for county judge.

Jarecki yesterday made public a letter from Dr. Schoolman dated Dec. 1, 1925, asking for a statement of his status in regard to his commission, declaring that he was interested in the work and hoped to continue in it.

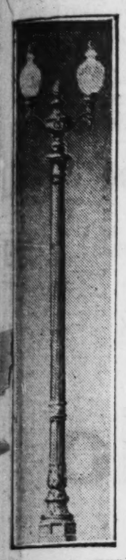
BIG PAGEANT TO USHER IN STATE ST. WHITE WAY

History of Lighting Will Be Depicted Oct. 14.

Old fashioned pageantry depicting artificial lighting from the earliest times to the present will be presented in State street on the evening of Oct. 14, when the new street lights between Lake and Van Buren streets for the first time flood the thoroughfare with "white way" brilliance.



ONE OF NEW LIGHT STANDARDS.

State street on that evening and from then on will be by far the most brightly illuminated thoroughfare in the world, and the merchants have planned an elaborate celebration of the event for the evenings of Oct. 14, 15, and 16.

A "History of Illumination" will be portrayed on flat cars of the Chicago Surface lines transformed into floats and moving along the street like a motion picture of the progress of lighting.

Illuminating engineers of the General Electric company have drawn the plans for the floats, and have arranged the general decorative scheme for the whole seven blocks of the retail shopping district. Great towers and arches of jewels are to be constructed on the elevated stations at Lake and Van Burden streets, and these will glitter in a thousand colors as powerful searchlights play on them during the three evenings of the celebration.

Under the improved lighting scheme all the street poles will be removed and the trolley wires will be suspended from new standards, designed by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White.

Some idea of the brilliance of the lighting of State street under the new system may be obtained, it is pointed out, from the authoritative information that the street will be about two and one-half times as bright as the present brightest street in the world, one in the business section of Salt Lake City, Utah.

THE RAKING SEASON

HUSBAND BROKE HER DECALOGUE, WIFE SAYS; SUES

Inability of Theodore W. Wysacker, real estate dealer at 625 Howard street, Evanston, to obey ten rules for a happy marriage drawn up by his wife caused Mrs. Rose Wysacker, 6225 North Claremont avenue, to file suit for separate maintenance yesterday in the Superior court.

In the bill filed by Attorney Charles E. Erbstein, Mrs. Wysacker charged that last July she discovered her husband was frequenting the company of other women. When she accused him of infidelity, he begged forgiveness, she said, and she consented not to sue him if he would agree to obey ten commandments which she drew up. Wysacker promised to obey the rules but he has broken nearly every one of them since, she declared.

The ten rules she says were signed by Wysacker were:

1. I will go to church every Sunday.
2. I will file a schedule of my assets with my wife.
3. I will give her a weekly statement of my bank deposits.
4. I will attend a religious class selected by my wife.
5. I will attend strictly to my business.
6. I will ask my wife's advice on all business matters.
7. I will be with my wife every night except when business takes me away.
8. I am on probation until Dec. 17, 1926, when I will render a full account of all my actions between now (Aug. 12) and then.
9. I will not disturb nor annoy my wife.
10. We will not live together as man and wife until I prove myself worthy.

The rules were followed religiously by Wysacker for a week or so, according to his wife. Then, he tired of good behavior, she said, and began going out with women. When she reproached him, he told her that the rules were only a scrap of paper to him, she said.

The Wysackers were married in 1917. Wysacker has a large income, his wife declared, and she asked the court to give her alimony.

HIS STEPFATHER AND WIFE LEAVE AT SAME TIME

Bishop Burch's Grandson Calls It "Amazing."

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The young and attractive wife of Lyndon Walkup Burch, grandson of the late Bishop Charles Sumner Burch of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, has disappeared from her home in Yonkers.

Capt. Arlando Marson, formerly of the Italian army, Burch's stepfather, and husband of Mrs. Grace Burch Walkup Marson, Bishop Burch's only daughter, has vanished from his home in Yonkers.

Members of the man's family admitted today that the whereabouts of the couple are unknown, that their disappearance had been simultaneous, and that there was every probability that they had gone together.

Calls Situation Amazing.

Mrs. Marson and her son both declined to discuss the situation, which the latter characterized as "amazing" and which, he said, suddenly confronted the family without the slightest warning. Mother and son have engaged the same attorney but were unwilling tonight to disclose his identity. Their silence, they said, was due to the strict injunction of their counsel not to talk of the matter or to give out any information concerning it.

"I will make no comment on what steps are being taken by us," Burch said. "Conditions are such that anything may happen. The circumstances are extremely dramatic. The family connections are such that I have other persons to think of besides myself. I do not know yet whether I shall give up my home in Yonkers. I haven't had time to think what I shall do."

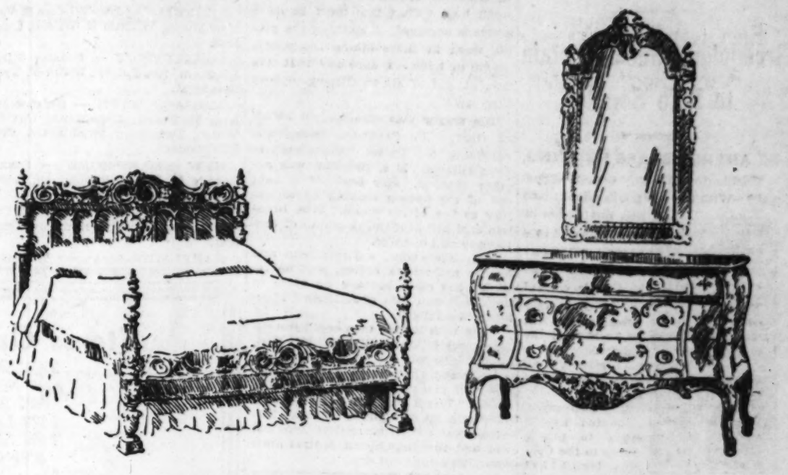
To all questions put to her today, Mrs. Marson's only response was: "I am sorry; I have nothing to say."

Burch is 27 years old and is employed as an automobile salesman in Yonkers. He and his young wife, who was formerly Miss Isabel Keyes, a noted beauty and daughter of Walter Keyes, a family socially prominent in Hastings for forty years, have two children, a boy of 5, who is an invalid, and a girl of 9 months.

Mrs. Burch, who has a flair for business, according to her husband, has been coming daily to Manhattan, where she has been employed and the children have been cared for by a nurse and housekeeper.

Capt. Marson has lived with his wife at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Margaret H. Burch, Bishop Burch's widow, in Bronxville.

Scholle's Good Furniture



Part of a beautiful bedroom group of Spanish Renaissance adapted to modern decoration.

IF you are ready now to consider the new furniture you need, this is to let you know that we are ready to show it to you.

You will find many very beautiful things; and our prices are always moderate considering "Scholle quality"; we have no other quality to show; there is none better. Our business is based on the theory that there are enough people who appreciate the best in furniture to give us business enough.

The pieces shown above are part of a complete bedroom group in Spanish Renaissance, adapted to modern American homes.

Spanish furniture and architecture was strongly influenced by the barbaric splendor of the Moors; and later it was much softened and toned down by the influence of the great Italian artists—Cellini, Michael Angelo and others.

We shall show this entire group in our windows during this week; it is worth coming out of your way a little to look at it. There's no charge for looking at it; you'll get a pleasing idea of the art of modern furniture making.

Out of town customers, if not too far away—say within 100 miles—can have any considerable purchase delivered direct to their doors by our own trucks; it's a great advantage; saves packing and delays.

We add here a list of special bargains. It is a regular thing with us; such a list. It keeps our stock constantly fresh and new by disposing promptly, at attractive price reductions, of odd pieces or slow selling things. By this method, when we do have a "sale," the goods are all new.

You will find something here that seems to be just what you are looking for. Do not delay your visit—we can offer only one of each.

G. O. P. FIGHTING DESPERATELY TO HOLD CONGRESS

Irregulars Seem Certain to Rule Senate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—With the last nominations made and final plans of the respective party managers completed, the battle for control of the next congress, which will be decided at the polls Nov. 2, is raging tonight all along the political front.

The Democrats, animated by designs to put a crimp in the Coolidge legislative program in the Seventieth congress and by hopes of laying a foundatoin for the capture of the presidency in 1928, are making an aggressive fight, with conditions favoring an increase of their strength, if not the achievement of actual control of either chamber.

Try to Retain Control.

The regular Republicans, with an eye likewise on the 1928 presidential election, are struggling desperately to retain their control of the house and what little hold they have on the senate.

From now until election day the interest of the country at large will be centered chiefly on the contest for control of the senate, because of its more spectacular aspect compared with the struggle for mastery of the house.

There are 35 senators to be elected to 34 seats in November, Iowa electing two different senators to succeed the late Senator Cummins, one for the long and one for the short term.

34 Held by Republicans.

Of these 34 seats, 27 now are held by Republicans and 7 by Democrats. The candidates nominated for these 34 seats follow:

ILLINOIS—Frank L. Smith, Republican; George E. Brennan, Democrat; Hugh S. Magill, Independent.

INDIANA—Senator James E. Watson [long term], and Senator Arthur R. Robinson [short term], Republicans; Albert Stump [long term] and Evans Wollen [short term], Democrats.

IOWA—Smith W. Brookhart [long term] and David W. Stewart [short term], Republicans; Claude G. Porter [long term], Democrat. No Democratic candidate for short term.

WISCONSIN—John J. Blaine, Republican; Thomas M. Kearney, Democrat; J. N. Tittemore, Independent.

OHIO—Senator Frank B. Willis, Republican; Atlee Pomerene, Democrat.

MISSOURI—Senator George H. Williams, Republican; Harry B. Hawes, Democrat.

KANSAS—Senator Charles Curtis, Republican; Charles Stephens, Democrat.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Senator Peter Norbeck, Republican; Charles J. Gunderson, Democrat.

NORTH DAKOTA—Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican; F. F. Burchard, Democrat.

OKLAHOMA — Senator John W. Harreld, Republican; Elmer Thomas, Democrat.

IDAHO—Senator Frank R. Gooding, Republican; John F. Nugent, Democrat.

UTAH—Senator Reed Smoot, Republican; Ashby Snow, Democrat.

WASHINGTON—Senator Wesley L. Jones, Republican; A. Scott Bullitt, Democrat.

OREGON—Frederick Steiwer, Republican; Bert E. Haney, Democrat; Senator Robert N. Stanfield, Independent.

CALIFORNIA—Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican; John B. Elliott, Democrat.

ARIZONA — Senator Ralph H. Cameron, Republican; Carl Hayden, Democrat.

NEVADA—Senator Tasker L. Oddie, Republican; Raymond T. Baker, Democrat.

COLORADO—C. W. Waterman, Republican; William E. Sweet, Democrat.

NEW YORK—Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Republican; Robert Wagner, Democrat; Franklin W. Cristman, Independent.

PENNSYLVANIA—William S. Vare, Republican; William B. Wilson, Democrat.

CONNECTICUT — Senator Hiram Bingham, Republican; Rollin V. Tyler, Democrat.

MASSACHUSETTS — Senator William M. Butler, Republican; David I. Walsh, Democrat; Washington Cook, Independent.

NEW HAMPSHIRE — Senator George H. Moses, Republican; Robert C. Murchie, Democrat.

VERMONT—Senator Porter H. Dale Republican; James E. Kennedy, Democrat.

MARYLAND—Senator O. E. Weller, Republican; Millard E. Tydings, Democrat.

KENTUCKY—Senator Richard P. Ernst, Republican; Alben W. Barkley, Democrat.

NORTH CAROLINA—Johnson J. Hayes, Republican; Senator Lee S. Overman, Democrat.

FLORIDA—John M. Lindsay, Republican [lily white faction], W. R. O'Neal, Republican [black and tan faction]; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, Democrat.

ALABAMA — Erskine Ramsay, Republican; Hugo L. Black, Democrat.

ARKANSAS—No Republican candidate; Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, Democrat.

SOUTH CAROLINA—No Republican candidate; Senator Ellison D. Smith, Democrat.

GEORGIA — No Republican candidate; Senator Walter F. George, Democrat.

LOUISIANA—No Republican candidate; Senator Edwin S. Broussard, Democrat.

All in Solid South.

The seven Democratic seats are all in the solid south and their incumbents will be reelected. The 27 Republican seats include four in normally Democratic states — Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, and Oklahoma.

Then there are Arizona and Nevada with strong Democratic leanings which it will be no easy job for the Republicans to retain.

In addition the outcome is doubtful in a number of normally Republican states, notably Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, and Oregon. Illinois may go into the doubtful class by virtue of the prohibition issue and the besmirching of Smith, the Republican candidate, by the slush fund scandal.

Irregular Republicans.

The regular Republicans already, as a result of the primaries, have lost control of the senate so far as the passage of legislation is concerned. Cummins [Iowa] and Lenroot [Wisconsin], regular Republicans, will be replaced in the next senate respectively by Brookhart and Blaine, irregular Republicans.

This increases the insurgent Republican bloc to 7, the others being La Follette [Wis.], Nye [N. D.], Frazier, [N. D.], Norris [Neb.], and Howell [Neb.], not to mention Borah [Idaho], Johnson [Cal.], and McMaster, [S. D.], and Norbeck [S. D.].

There are 55 Republicans in the senate, 40 Democrats, and 1 Farmer-Laborite. It takes only seven of the irregular Republicans voting with the Democrats to deprive the G. O. P. of a majority.

It is apparent already, therefore, that the irregular Republicans are going to hold the balance of power in the passage of legislation in the next senate, and it is possible they will do so in the organization of the senate and will force the regulars to make terms with them.

If the Democrats should capture no more than one of the 27 Republican seats at issue the regular Republicans would need the support of all their regulars, including La Follette, Nye, Blaine, Brookhart, and Frazier, to organize the senate and constitute the committees with Republican majorities.

If the Democrats should win four or five Republican seats two or three radical Republicans would have it in their power to throw the organization into the hands of the Democrats.

KJELLANDER, EX-DRY ENFORCER, TAKES THE STUMP FOR BRENNAN

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Speaking here tonight, Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago said of the Volstead law: "That law itself in some states is accepted. The thing the people want in those states the people ought to have. I dare say that five persons out of six in Chicago oppose that law."

The mayor was speaking on behalf of George E. Brennan, Democratic candidate for United States senator from Illinois. Mrs. Brennan was another speaker. Her husband is kept out of the speech making by an injury to one of his knees. Mrs. Brennan said her husband is a man of convictions and courage.

John Kjellander, a Republican and former prohibition officer, said he resigned the office because he came to the conclusion that prohibition "absolutely is a fallacy."

"Not with 100,000 men could you enforce prohibition in Illinois," Mr. Kjellander declared.

Declaring that he is a Republican and will remain one, Mr. Kjellander added, "The Republican party today is playing a lot of bunk in Illinois. The Republican county committee came out wet and the Republican central state committee came out dry.

TRIP IN BORNEO WITH SCIENTIST STIRS TRAVELERS

Journey Made in Comfort at Field Museum.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK

A thousand or so travelers journeyed yesterday afternoon into the interior of Borneo, where the equator runs down the main street, then went over to Nias, to be carried through the jungle in rocking chairs to visit a chieftain with a solid gold mustache, but they never once left their seats in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum.

For they were listening to Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, leader of the Arthur B. Jones Malayan expedition in 1923, tell about Borneo, second largest island of the world, and about Nias, one of the smallest. And they were looking at his pictures.

Might Start New Fashions.

Ladies who tied up their ears to the tops of their heads; hospitable householders who show guests neat little packages of defunct heads as after dinner recreation; classy brides who dress to resemble a cocoanut tree the day of their wedding—these were a few of the pictures that moved slowly across the screen at yesterday's lecture, the second in a series of Saturday afternoon talks open to the public.

Borneo, that principal island of the Malay archipelago, rests so squarely on the equator, Dr. Cole pointed out, that it is very hot there all the time, also very rainy much of the time.

As large as the combined states of Texas and Tennessee, its fringe of civilization soon ravels off once the interior is penetrated, and away from the rivers the native don't know who is president.

Head Hunting Out of Style.

One indigenous custom is, however, nothing more than a tradition now, even in the interior, thanks to the intervention of the Dutch. There is almost no head hunting. And so the Borneo patriot, when entertaining the members of the expedition, did the next best thing to staging a real head hunt. He brought out, with no little pride, orderly little packets of the heads that his family had captured in the days before the Dutch and the English put a stop to it.

"The primary reason for a native to want the head of another native was propitiation to the gods and to offer an escort to some dead member of the tribe," the lecturer said.

When a man died, his friends, hard put to get a volunteer to escort the departed spirit into the other world, ventured into a neighboring village, killed a native, and returned with the head, to be used henceforth as veranda decoration.

Leading Simple Lives.

Step number two followed immediately. Friends of the slain native needed an escort for his soul. They journeyed back to village number one, and frequently returned with three heads, just for luck.

And so, in geometric progression, until every veranda had its racks of heads.

But now one Dutch captain and one hundred Dutch soldiers, patrolling a territory five times as large as Holland, are fast making head hunting legendary.

Another bit of legend which delighted the audience was the story of the man who cut down his mother-in-law."

First Mother-in-Law Joke.

Once upon a time, the explorer told the group, there was a man who tried to borrow some salt from his mother-in-law. She refused, and he got so mad he cut down the tall poles which supported her house. She tumbled down to her death, the while her son-in-law stood nearby and laughed mightily. The gods heard and transformed him into a bird, the hornbill.

"And the cry of the hornbill," Dr. Cole declared, "is a cross between a man laughing and somebody sawing wood."

In Borneo the really well dressed man sharpens his teeth to points and paints them black, so they won't look like a dog's, all white."

U. S. OFFICIALS SEE 300 MILLION SURPLUS AS TAX RECEIPTS CLIMB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Complete totals on income tax receipts during September, as made public today, bear out indications of a surplus for the current fiscal year of at least $300,000,000.

Income tax payments last month amounted to $441,964,968 or $80,778,357 more than in September, 1925. These payments represent chiefly the third quarterly income tax payments.

For the present fiscal year from July 1 to Sept. 30, income tax receipts have amounted to $536,212,191, an increase of $101,150,758 over the same period of last year.

Miscellaneous tax receipts have fallen off as a result of cuts in the new law. Revenue from miscellaneous taxes amounted to $53,953,577 in September, as against $81,376,654 in September, 1925.

Customs receipts are running ahead of last year, when all records were broken. Receipts in September amounted to $55,596,075, compared with $51,017,333 in September, 1925.

Total ordinary receipts in September were about $65,000,000 greater than in September, 1925. The total this year was $576,528,052, while last year it was $512,071,915.

In the fiscal year up to Sept. 30 the excess of receipts over expenditures was $238,139,557, while last year in the same period it was only $129,280,881.

HUNDREDS FLEE NEW FLOODS ON ILLINOIS RIVER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hundreds of families fled from their homes in the Illinois river valley yesterday as the Mississippi and Illinois rivers approached or exceeded flood stage and levees were at the breaking point.

Nearly twenty-five families of Liverpool, Chautauqua and East Liverpool were driven to the hills as the Illinois river rose.

South Beardstown was vacated. The southern quarter of Naples was flooded.

Hundreds of homes in Jacksonville, scene of a flood on Sept. 8 with damage estimated at $1,000,000, were flooded in a heavy rainstorm.

Flood Warnings on Mississippi.

Flood warnings on the Mississippi, above the mouth of the Missouri river, and for the Illinois river, were issued by the weather bureau at St. Louis. At Crafton, Ill., the junction of the Mississippi and the Illinois, the river stood more than two feet above flood stage, with the waters still rising.

The Illinois also rose fifteen inches at Naples, where train service was interrupted.

Volunteers spent the day building temporary levees around Liverpool on both sides of the river. Appeals were sent to the government shipyard at Peoria for aid. At Peoria the river passed flood stage.

Southern Kansas Inundated.

Rivers and creeks in southern Kansas inundated farm lards for the second time this fall. The Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific railroads were halted near Sedan and Niotaze. Little Caney and Middle Caney creeks near Sedan reached their highest stage since 1884. The Verdigris and Elk rivers were still rising.

Jacksonville Again Periled.

Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Jacksonville late today was threatened with its second big flood in two days. Rain began falling in torrents at 3 o'clock and water was rapidly rising in the lower sections of the city. Jacksonville is without commercial lights and its gas supply is almost exhausted. The chamber of commerce ordered all business houses closed at six p. m.

Serious in Central Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Following a day of heavy local storms, the flood situation in central Illinois again became menacing tonight. Springfield traffic to Chicago was still open, but roads in every direction are flooded and, in many places, impassable.

TAXICAB DRIVER ROBBED.

Joseph Chubin, 4900 Lexington street, a taxicab chauffeur, was held up and robbed of $2 yesterday at Cicero avenue and Washington boulevard.

SON BEGINS HUNT FOR LARSON IN SOUTHERN CITIES

Friends of Lewis E. Larson, well known church leader and former business manager of the Chicago school board, were hopeful last night that he would soon be found as the result of the wide search for him being instituted in Texas and Louisiana by his son, Leonard, former Dartmouth student.

Young Larson entered upon his quest at Dallas, Tex., yesterday after hurrying there upon receiving reports that his father had been seen recently in that city. He will bring to his aid not only Dallas police but also private detectives, it was understood.

Meanwhile Attorney Harper E. Osborn, 10 South La Salle street, kinsman of the Larsons, who has taken a leading part in the extensive search since Larson mysteriously disappeared in the loop district more than three years ago, was confident that the Dallas reports are authentic and that Larson will soon be found.

Larson's wife and his daughter, Lucille, continued their vigil at the family home in Wilmette yesterday.

PRINCESS SAILS BACK TO EUROPE WITH U. S. GOWNS

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Princess Marie de Bourbon, cousin of King Alfonso of Spain, sailed today, carrying with her clothes bought in America. She expressed admiration for the American women and praised their selection of styles.

"American women wear beautiful clothes and do not copy French styles too much," said the princess. "Your women have their own styles, and they are beautiful."

Accompanying the princess to Europe were Mrs. Bror Dahlberg, Chicago hostess of the royal visitor, and other members of the Dahlberg family.

SALTIS, KONCIL ON TRIAL TOMORROW AS FOLEY KILLERS

The first of the indictments brought by the special Cook county grand juries, which ceased to exist yesterday with the dismissal by Chief Justice William J. Lindsay of the September panel, will be started to trial tomorrow. Joseph Saltis, south side beer leader and gangster, and Frank [Lefty] Koncil, will go to trial before Judge Harry B. Miller to answer to the charge of murdering John Foley, rival gangster.

Special State's Attorney Charles A. McDonald and his assistants, James C. O'Brien and Lloyd Heth, will prosecute the gangsters, it was announced. Attorneys W. W. O'Brien and Frank McDonnell will represent the defendants.

Foley was murdered on Aug. 6 after he had been lured from his home by a telephone call.

Achievement

In 1901, Lane Bryant, whose picture appears above, opened a small room, high up in one of New York's thousands of buildings, making clothes for women of larger than average size.

From this modest start has grown a Nation-wide business with large stores in Chicago, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Louis and Detroit. It is not surprising that Lane Bryant resolved to celebrate this 25th Anniversary with a birthday feast of values—values planned expressly for the women and misses of Chicago—for patrons and friends who have made this tremendous success possible.

C. & N. W. SEEN SIDESTEPPING A SUBURBAN JOB

Deficit Is Laid in Part to Service Failure.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Which is the best suburban service of the steam railroads?

The Northwestern spends the largest amount of money. It reckons the cost of its suburban service in excess of $5,000,000 annually, without mentioning a return on the investment. The Illinois Central figured its suburban cost, under steam operation, around $3,700,000, also minus a return. The corresponding figure for the Burlington is $1,650,000; for the Rock Island, $1,500,000; for the St. Paul, $1,050,000, and for the Western Indiana, $250,000.

Other steam roads do not spend sums comparable with the five leaders. It therefore would seem that by the gauge of total cost, the Northwestern gives better service, more service, or a service which is more expensive to supply. Back of any or all of these possible reasons for the Northwestern's suburban costs is itself lies the policy of the directorate and the attitude of the management.

From one viewpoint, the Northwestern's suburban costs are due in part to its failure to give a suburban service which satisfied a large portion of its potential patrons. It has failed to give the service to residents of suburbs close to the city which they desired. These dissatisfied nearby suburbs, on one suburban line of the Northwestern, have an aggregate population nearly equal to the combined population of other suburbs on this line within 35 miles of Chicago. Many of these close-in riders, who rightfully belong to the Northwestern under a satisfying transportation service, have been weaned away to other transit lines.

Consequently, the road's average haul has been lengthened, as railroad men express it; and the cost of its suburban service has been boosted to that extent. This factor contributes to the deficit in operating the suburban service, or prevents the profit which the stockholders believe they should have. The Northwestern asserted that it cost $1,297,919 more to carry its commuters in 1924 than the commuters paid the company for the service. In this deficit there was no return on the investment for suburban service.

An Example in West Suburbs.

The situation is easily demonstrated by a glance at the Galena division of the railroad, which operates through Austin, Maywood, Elmhurst, Wheaton, and St. Charles.

In 1900 the Northwestern received a large part of the commuter business of Austin, Oak Park, River Forest, and Forest Park. The four communities had a combined population in 1920 well in excess of 90,000. In the same year the combined population of Maywood, Melrose Park, Elmhurst, Villa Park, Lombard, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, West Chicago, St. Charles, and Geneva, farther west on the same line of the Northwestern, was only 39,482.

Prior to 1893 the North Western supplied all the fast service of the suburbs close in and those farther out. Then came the Lake street elevated. The Northwestern accepted the competition and apparently more than met it. In 1900 newspapers were instructing their reporters of the close-in suburbs to use the Northwestern.

Elevated Business Picks Up.

The old, slow, and frequently dirty Lake street elevated went into the hands of a receiver, and there it stayed for more than eighteen years. Perhaps the Northwestern directorate thought that a receiver managed Lake street elevated would not collect any business that would be missed. But the old "L" kept picking up a few more patrons all the time.

Today the Rapid Transit schedule calls for 227 trains each week day in and out of Austin, Oak Park, Forest Park, and River Forest. The Northwestern schedule shows less than 60 trains for Oak Park daily, counting both each and west bound. It is apparent which line obtains the major portion of the traffic.

The Northwestern carries less than one and one-fifth times the population of Oak Park in and out of that suburb monthly. The surface and elevated lines of Chicago carry monthly twenty-five times the population of Chicago.

Some Comparative Figures.

The Northwestern is not expected to transact such a heavy commuter business. But there is a suburb on its line to which thirteen times its population is sold in rides monthly by the road. To another station the Northwestern sells monthly eighteen times as many rides as the population of the suburb. There is still another suburb where the Northwestern sells more than twenty rides monthly for each man, woman, and child resident. It is, therefore, evident that the Northwestern is not doing much commuter business relatively in Oak Park.

Austin is not doing any better for the railroad. The traffic there is so small that the Northwestern does not run a train out of Austin to Chicago between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning. Ald. Wiley W. Mills [37th] said yesterday that he has appealed to the road's officials more than once to put on a train between 8 and 9, but has not succeeded in getting it. The alderman pointed out that any Austinite who desires to start for the loop between those hours is forced by the Northwestern to take the elevated.

Heavy Loss in Traffic.

The traffic loss of the Northwestern on this line alone in the suburbs east of the Des Plaines river—Austin, Oak Park, Forest Park, and River Forest—is large. One authority has estimated that the road should carry twelve times as many riders from these suburbs as it now transports, even under present competition. But if it could obtain five times as much business in the four communities, the traffic from them alone would nearly equal the present number of riders on this entire suburban line.

From the four villages east of the Des Plaines river the Northwestern now gets about one-fourth as many riders as from the suburbs west of the River Des Plaines, with a probably smaller combined population.

From Another Viewpoint.

Another view of the situation is that one-fifth of the Northwestern's traffic on this suburban line is obtained east of the Des Plaines river, while the other four-fifths comes from the territory west of the river. One-fifth is a short haul business and four-fifths is a long haul, yet there are as many or more people in the short haul area as in the long haul territory.

This situation runs up the aggregate cost of the road's suburban service and contributes to the deficit in its operation. The policy by which this situation was not met had its inception years ago. The situation, from the viewpoint of the Northwestern, has grown worse as time has gone on. The present president, Fred Sargent, has been on the job for little more than a year, which probably has been insufficient in which to make radical changes.

Mr. Sargent is scheduled to appear before a joint council committee on electrification of railway terminals next Wednesday. A few days ago he announced that within the next year his railroad will purchase 100 new steel passenger cars, 23 smoking and baggage cars, rebuild 35 steel passenger coaches, and also buy 1,000 automobile cars, 500 steel hopper cars, 500 stock cars, 250 steel box cars, 100 gondolas, 100 flat cars, 25 caboose cars, and two special gun cars. He may have something equally as interesting on electrification to announce to the aldermen.

With an electrified service it is possible that much of the lost traffic from Austin, Oak Park, River Forest, and Forest Park could be regained, Ald. E. J. Kaindl [34th], chairman of the railway terminal committee, said yesterday.

One Killed, Another May Die of Elevator Accidents

Edward Blue, 15 years old, 346 West Chestnut street, was crushed to death yesterday in an elevator shaft at 165 West Madison street. He was on his way from the offices of the Adler Jewelry company, by whom he was employed, to the second floor. He was caught between the car and the wall. In a similar accident in the Monroe-La Salle garage at 175 West Monroe street Harry Seay, 23½ years old, 2240 West Jackson boulevard, suffered a fractured skull.

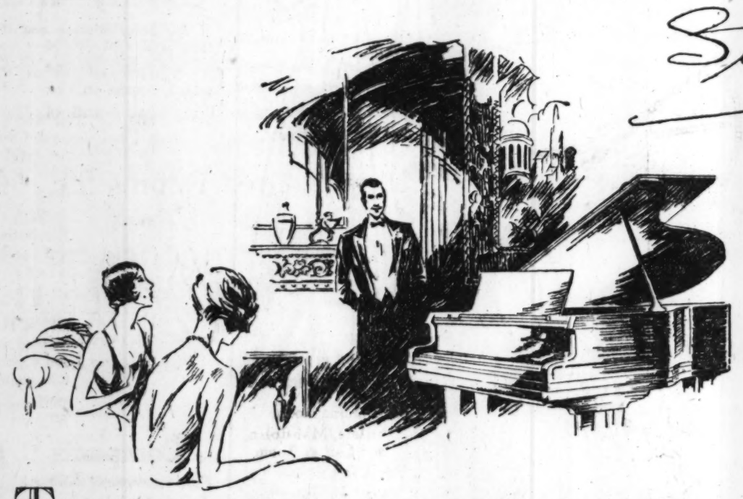
At CABLE'S

The AMPICO in the Mason & Hamlin

"—attains the ultimate"

"Reproduction and re-creation of piano playing are two vastly different things. I know of no other so-called 'reproducing device' which reproduces and at the same time re-creates piano playing so well as does the Ampico. In other words, in my judgment, the Ampico attains the ultimate."

Sydney Silber



THE AMPICO, as Mr. Silber says, "attains the ultimate" in the reproduction and re-enacting of piano playing. Its power and beauty is best realized when heard through the medium of the Mason & Hamlin, official concert piano of the Sherwood School and Mr. Silber's chosen instrument, of which he writes: "To my mind the superb Mason & Hamlin represents the very acme of piano perfection. I cannot conceive of a piano more responsive to every demand of the artist, nor one whose beauty and brilliancy of tone could possibly be more alluring and captivating."

SIDNEY SILBER
Eminent Pianist, Lecturer and Writer, Dean of the Sherwood Music School and Head of the Piano Department.

The AMPICO More Moderately Priced

The Ampico with its superior re-enactment, its comprehensive library, and distinctive list of artists may be obtained at a more moderate price at Cable's in the Haines Bros. Piano. It is a dainty instrument that has won many honors during an eventful musical career of more than seventy years.

Our Budget Plan

It's easy to own an Ampico with our Budget Plan of payment. Your silent piano will be accepted as part payment, the balance can be arranged on a convenient budget plan extending over a period of years. Our liberal exchange privilege with full credit affords you the greatest freedom of choice with absolute protection.

Lyon & Healy

EVERYTHING KNOWN IN MUSIC

Opening the Enlarged and Remodeled Department for

Band and Stringed Instruments

TOMORROW, the completely remodeled Fourth Floor of this great store will be opened to the public. The whole selling floor is devoted to Band and Orchestra Instruments—a truly wonderful department.

From saxophones to bass horns—from ukuleles to violins—from drums to marimbas—cymbals, celestes—even oboes and octavins—yes, they're all here—for professionals, for amateurs, for beginners! Instruments—all of them—of guaranteed Lyon & Healy quality, and all of them, of course, at prices that mean real Lyon & Healy value!

More surely, now, than ever—Lyon & Healy is Headquarters for Band and Orchestra Instruments

3 Outstanding Features of This New DEPARTMENT

I. The Famous Artist Series of Lyon & Healy Band Instruments and Saxophones

Made in the Lyon & Healy factory

LYON & HEALY brass instruments are distinguished for their scientific design. They possess the exclusive and patented feature of genuine Continuous Conical Bore. These instruments are therefore in perfect tune at all times, throughout the entire register, without any forcing or favoring from the player. You should see in particular the new Lyon & Healy Trumpet—absolutely the most advanced instrument of its kind today.

The Lyon & Healy Saxophone is balanced. It's a new saxophone with a "feel" built right into the instrument. Every key is balanced and they all feel alike under the finger. Professional players call the Lyon & Healy the most highly perfected saxophone in the world. To beginners the feature of "balance" makes saxophone playing much easier.

Tomorrow you will see a complete display of Lyon & Healy Band Instruments and saxophones in this great new 4th floor department.

II. Washburn Stringed Instruments

Made in the Lyon & Healy factory

THE splendid reputation of Washburn Banjos, Guitars, Ukuleles and Mandolins goes back to the days of our grandparents. Today Washburn is the leader in model, workmanship, tonal qualities and beauty of finish—endorsed by leading artists in this field in both Europe and America. The Washburn Banjo with its patented tone amplifier is the feature of this great line.

Tomorrow, you will find here a complete display of these incomparable Washburn instruments—made by Lyon & Healy.

III. The addition of "Revelation" Holton Band Instruments

BY an arrangement just completed, Lyon & Healy are now sole agents for the famous Holton "Revelation" Band Instruments—for Chicago and all Cook County.

Conductors of many great musical organizations endorse the Holton brass instruments for their brilliancy of tone. The addition of these Holton "brasses" makes even more secure our already dominant leadership in this field in Chicago and vicinity.

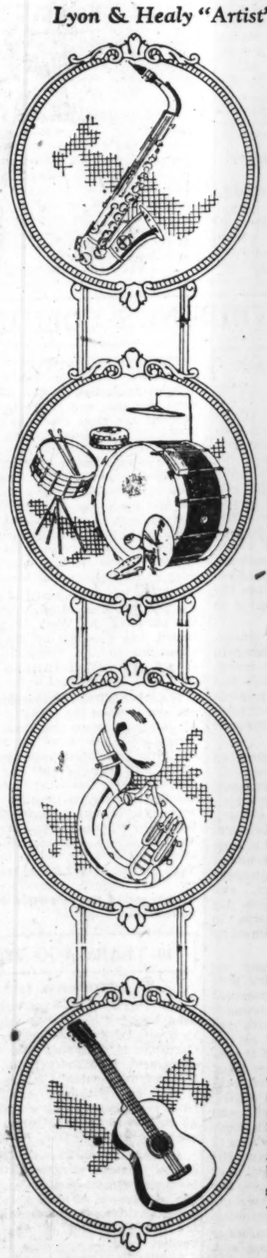
This Is No. 4 of a Series —of advertisements telling about great Lyon & Healy events of the fall, 1926.

No. 1 told about the opening of the new Piano Basement Store—new and used pianos—lowest prices, greatest values.

No. 2 told about the opening of the new complete Lyon & Healy Camera Department.

No. 3 told about the addition of the Vivatonal Columbia Phonographs and records. Now you can hear and compare all three of the leading makes here.

No. 5—next week, will tell about a new and very different event. Watch for it!



Lyon & Healy "Artist" Alto Saxophone

[without case]

A beautiful instrument, made by Lyon & Healy possessing the new, exclusive feature of "balance." Triple silver-plated, satin-finish; points and keys hand burnished; inside of bell heavily gold-plated and hand burnished. Convenient terms. Other saxophones $40 to $650.

Lyon & Healy Drum Outfits

$60

This outfit contains mahogany shell bass drum and snare drum, foot-pedal, snare-drum stand, crash cymbal and holder, 10-inch brass cymbal, wood block and holder, and a pair of fine hickory drum sticks. Other drum outfits, $30 to $350.

The Holtonphone

(Silver Plated)

The Holtonphone is an adjustable bell front Sousaphone. The tremendous depth and breadth of tone, of a most beautiful musical character, and the wonderful tune of this instrument has made it a great favorite. Other Holtonphones, $265 to $1000.

Washburn Guitar, Concert Size

"The Aristocrat"—built primarily for tone, yet a beautiful instrument. Made by Lyon & Healy. Rosewood sides and back; top of selected spruce. Other Guitars—$10.50 to $195.

Lyon & Healy Maestro Violins

$72.50

Faithful copies of a famous Stradivarius and a Guarnerius—graceful, faultlessly made, of excellent tone. [While here, see the rare old masterpieces by Stradivarius, Guarnerius, Amati and other celebrated makers.] Modern violins—$12.00 to $250.

$110

The Washburn "Dansant" tenor-banjo—made by Lyon & Healy—has the Washburn Tone Amplifier, the greatest forward step in banjo construction. Wonderful volume—no "wolf-tones." Typical of the fine Washburn instruments. Other Banjos—$15 to $350.

Maraviglia Piano Accordion

$350

Three and one-half octaves or 41 piano keys in the treble clef; 4 sets of Swedish steel reeds; 120 bass keys with white ivorine tips operating 5 sets of steel reeds. Complete with case. Convenient terms. Other accordions, $50 to $600.

Special Clarinets—Boehm System

Complete with everything needed for its proper use and care. Grenadilla wood with German silver keys and trimmings. A wonderful—and typical—value at $68 with case. Other Clarinets—$28 to $175.

TERMS—Every musical instrument over $25 in price may be purchased on the Lyon & Healy Plan of Ownership.

A small initial payment and convenient monthly payments.

The New Lyon & Healy

MUSICIANS' CLUB Opens Tomorrow

ALL MUSICIANS ARE INVITED TO JOIN

A MOST IMPORTANT—certainly the most unique—feature of the new Fourth Floor Band Instrument Department is the Musicians' Club, for all musicians.

A comfortably furnished club room, equipped with writing desks, club stationery, magazines and conveniences for the comfort and pleasure of club members, is now ready and will open for your inspection tomorrow.

Membership cards may be procured on the Fourth Floor. There is no fee—but for the protection of members the club rooms will be available only to those having cards—and, of course, their guests.

11 Specialized Rooms for 11 groups of band and orchestra instruments

TO enable you to purchase your new instrument with the utmost convenience and advantage the pieces have been arranged in specialized groups, each with its own enclosed sales room, as follows:

1. Saxophone Room
2. Ukulele, Mandolin, and Guitar Room
3. Banjo Room
4. "Brass" Room
5. Woodwind Room
6. Drum Room
7. Modern Violin Room
8. Rare Violin Room
9. Accordion Room
10. Main Room for Xylophones, etc.
11. Harp Salon—Second Floor

5 Rooms for Practice and Teaching

THESE commodious practice rooms—an important feature of this new Lyon & Healy Fourth Floor—will be available for trying new instruments; and arrangements may be made with the Fourth Floor Office to use them for rehearsals and music lessons. Members of the Musicians' Club will be given preference in the use of these rooms.

Each is equipped with a piano and the necessary music stands—as well as comfortable arm chairs. You are cordially invited to inspect them tomorrow.

Band and Orchestra Accessories

are to be found in a complete and newly remodeled department on the First Floor.

Every conceivable "finding" or accessory to the band or orchestra instrument will be found here, as well as musical toys, games and smaller instruments.

Harmonicas, in an unusually comprehensive assortment, are a feature of this department.

Repair Service

LYON & HEALY maintain two well equipped repair shops where repairs on violin and stringed, brass, woodwind, and other band and orchestra instruments are made by real craftsmen—yet at surprisingly moderate fees.

THE NINE THAT PAY.

A preliminary report of internal revenue collections for the year ending June 30, 1926, is now available. It shows that the states which contributed most in taxation to the government were New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, North Carolina, Ohio, California, Massachusetts and New Jersey. Together these nine states paid about three-fourths of all the internal revenue collected that year.

The taxes are levied by congress. The most elementary regard for the principle of "no taxation without representation" would require that the nine states which contributed most to the treasury should have a fair representation in congress. Instead, five of them are under-represented. The house of representatives has not been reapportioned since 1911. Its membership is still based upon the populations of the states as determined by the 1910 census. Congress has ignored the plain words of the constitution and continues to carry on its work, including the levying of taxes, as if there had been no shift in population.

There are eight states which are under-represented, of which five are among the largest taxpayers. These five are Michigan, California, North Carolina, New Jersey, and Ohio. They are at the same time the states which are most flagrantly under-represented. It is significant that Michigan, with its automobile industry, and California, with its moving pictures, have been heavily burdened by special excises, which have been of small consequence to other states.

The states which pay the most in taxes do so because they are most prosperous. The states which are under-represented are those which are advancing most rapidly in population and the material resources which attract population. Congress is therefore depriving the most active elements of our citizenship of a fair voice in the government.

REGULATING THE OTHER FELLOW.

Hotel proprietors from all over the United States have been holding a convention in Chicago. They have passed resolutions urging a reduction in Pullman rates in order to make travel cheaper and thereby increase the demand for hotel accommodations. At the same time the attorney for the organization of hotel men has warned his clients to forestall any effort to classify hotels as public utilities, because then their rates and services would be liable to regulation by federal and state commissions.

The hotel owners do not want to be regulated, but they preserve a Jovelike equanimity when it comes to regulating some one else. They are willing to have the Pullman company's rates fixed by the government, and if the government doesn't fix them low enough to suit the hotel proprietors they propose to bring pressure upon the government to change its mind.

The hotel men may protest that the Pullman company is making handsome profits, but, for that matter, so are many hotel companies. If the aim is to stimulate hotel business, it can be achieved quite as successfully by lowering hotel rates as by lowering Pullman rates.

We suspect there is something typically American in the attitude of mind which says: "Give me liberty of action because I can be trusted with it, but regulate the other fellow or he will injure himself and everybody else. The government must leave me alone, but it has a duty to control the conduct of everybody else." It explains the failure of much regulatory legislation in a land where no one believes in regulation for himself.

MOTION PICTURES AND WORLD PEACE.

In Paris the International Motion Picture congress has adopted a resolution urging producers to abstain from making films "susceptible of engendering hatred between nations." If they choose to act within the spirit of the resolution, producers can exercise a real force for peace.

It is said that lack of intercommunication, in former days, led to misunderstandings and wars. It is now being found that there are also drawbacks to facility of communication. Mr. Kipling, for example, publishes a poem in which he makes a few unkind remarks about the United States. The poem is cabled, broadcast throughout the United States, and an immediate resentment appears.

What is true of the written word is even more true of pictured action. The feeling a poem caused in America is matched by the feeling "The Big Parade" caused in England. And presumably the film evoked a not wholly pleased reaction in Germany.

The motion picture is one of the most potent artificial means of exciting human emotions. Added to this power is the fact that it is capable of multiple production; it reaches every corner of the world; its appeal is as universal as its price of admission is comparatively cheap. Few books except the very best sellers can hope to provoke any emotional response from more than a few thousand; the emotional response to one motion picture is measured by the millions.

Thus it is that films of international warfare or depicting the people of other nations as inferior, brutal, or undesirable may work real discord. Producers need not be called on to limit their plays to safe, sugary themes, but they should keep in mind the ideal of the resolution passed by the international congress, realize their responsibility as possible fomenters of international ill feeling, and eliminate unnecessarily provocative material from their pictures.

TOWARD A NEW BALANCE OF POWER.

Dispatches from Europe leave small doubt that a new balance of power is in the making if it has not already been achieved. Some thirteen months ago, according to reliable information obtained in Paris, the Italians were seeking to cement an alliance between Germany, Russia, and Italy. Premier Mussolini, the most active figure in the European scene, attempted to bring that about but failed.

Meanwhile a Franco-German alliance has been foreshadowed in the Locarno agreements; the outline has been filled in, in part, by the agreement reached between the steel producers of France and Germany and their satellites in Belgium and Luxembourg to divide the world market and conquest. This threat has been answered, in turn, by negotiations looking toward an alliance between Britain and Italy and perhaps Russia as well. The negotiations are still as secret as negotiations conducted by Mussolini can be. The relationships between the great powers are probably still in process of crystallization.

The league of nations was supposed to supplant the pre-war system of alliances for the control of Europe, but we see small reason to suppose that the league has succeeded in its purpose. Considerations of security, economic growth, and colonial expansion are leading the powers of Europe to divide into two rival camps just as they did before the war. As soon as the alliances are definitely formed we may expect a repetition of the old story of lesser encroachments, followed by greater encroachments, of rivalry in armaments, of crises which just fail to lead to war, leading eventually to the crisis which does lead to war. We hope for the best, but we cannot blind ourselves to the clear implication of today's events.

The last war came as a surprise to most Americans because as a nation we had refused to admit that the European system of balances must result in war. We have had our education at a cost to this country of more than 100,000 lives and some twenty-five billions of dollars. Some of our people who understood Washington's argument against entanglements in Europe did not need the lesson and they have now been reinforced by thousands of others who have learned by experience. There remain many otherwise intelligent persons who for one reason or another cannot or will not learn. They are constantly urging us into fresh entanglements. We tried to avoid participating in the last war and succeeded for more than two years. If the leaguists, world courters and hands-across-the-sea advocates have their way we shall be bound to get into the next one the day the first shot is fired.

TRADING WITH JUSTICE.

A youth charged with the murder of a policeman has offered to plead guilty on condition that he be sentenced to the penitentiary for life. We have called attention to this preference before and we think it is worthy of note. Humanitarian argument against the death penalty sometimes includes the assertion that imprisonment is as effective a deterrent of crime as death, the theory being that "give me liberty or give me death" is a preference of universal validity.

The facts available do not sustain the theory even where sentences to life imprisonment mean imprisonment for life. There are impatient and passionate spirits, undoubtedly, who would rather cease living than be confined in a prison for life or any very long term of years. But these are the exceptions. The instinct of life is for most of us the deepest and most powerful of all instincts, and the mystery or terror of death at least among the most feared. On this common fact the value of the death penalty as a deterrent of crime is founded, and we know of nothing in human nature that weakens our belief in its value.

We do not assert that any penalty is a complete deterrent. The history of crime would easily disprove that crimes of violence are often committed by beings unable to foresee consequences, either because of defective mentality or because of overmastering impulse. But a great deal of violence in this country is committed by undisciplined but fairly normal youths who recklessly resort to it because of the lack of wholesome moral or mental inhibitions. For the general restraint of these youths, a fear of the gallows is most certainly useful. If it existed there would be less carrying of guns and therefore fewer situations in which excitement, panic, or sudden anger precipitates killing.

But there is another aspect of the question in this country. The death penalty, when paid, is final. Life imprisonment offers many opportunities of escape. Good behavior cuts the term, and there are the notorious possibilities of the pardon and parole system. Under our state law a prisoner serving a life term may be paroled after twenty years, and good behavior may reduce this to less than twelve. No wonder a culprit facing probable conviction is willing to accept a milder certainty on such terms. The state's attorney's department is doing its plain duty when it refuses such a bargain.

What this community sorely needs is to put a wholesome fear of the gallows into the consciousness of the wild youths who take other people's lives so lightly. This is a rough town and needs drastic discipline. The misapplied humanitarianism which protests the lawful taking of life would better think more of the lives that are unlawfully taken by men who fear death for themselves but are ready to impose it on others.

DIDN'T NEED TO BE THERE.

THE 700TH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI

BY THE REV. JAMES MEYER, O. F. M.
[Editor of Franciscan Herald, Chicago.]

It is a far cry from medieval Assisi to twentieth century Chicago. Yet our age is harking back insistently, expectantly, to the spirit of St. Francis. Historian, sociologist, playwright, poet, painter, and sculptor are busy, as they have been for centuries, revealing to a charmed public his fascinating personality, while in the churches he is cited by Protestant as much as by Catholic, and Mohammedan and Hindu love him. And his cult has been anything but barren. Art and letters are the richer and purer for the inspiration he has given them, and what his disciples have been doing for humanity in church, school, hospital, asylum, in the advancement of the sciences, and in daily contacts staggers reckoning. The spontaneity and universality of the celebrations occasioned by the seven hundredth anniversary of his death which take place tomorrow merely accentuate the fact of his perennial and universal appeal.

The object of all this veneration was born of a fine Umbrian family, about the year 1182, the favorite son of indulgent and wealthy parents. As a youth he had all the openness of heart and hand and all the love of the nice things of life that make for popularity, and popular he was in his social set, which was the very best that a feudal town could offer. A tilt at arms, a lark, a love song, a rollicking feast at his expense, it was all in a day's fun with the "king of youth," and his delighted parents looked forward to the day when their princely son might open to them the ranks of the nobility, an ambition which the social connections of Francis brought within easy compass.

But a most amazing change came over Francis at the age of twenty-four. He recovered from a protracted illness to find that life had lost its relish. The olden dreams of prestige, the olden love of life and nature were still there, but somehow the old way no longer satisfied. There was much misery everywhere about him—destitution, contagion, and crime among those of low degree, accentuated by luxury, oppression, and aggression on the part of those of high degree. The same generous impulses that had made Francis a king among his kind now drove him to be the poorest among the poor, not in spiteful antagonism to titled wealth, but from the romantic determination not to be outdone by anybody in rising above the greed of possession, the acknowledged source of so much mischief. "Wooing Lady Poverty" he called the new life, in which, for love of the Christ who lived poor and died stark stripped of His very clothes, he would not have a thing of his own, devoting his time to healing the harm wrought by strife and rapine, and living by alms and personal labor.

The wealthy lad in beggar's rags seemed to his world to have taken leave of his senses. But time proved that he had surrendered none of his happy good fellowship and romantic love of the beautiful; he was just giving it a new and blessed turn. Before twenty years had elapsed—he died at forty-four—he found himself the center of a mighty movement, which covered medieval Europe and reached out to the ends of the earth and the ends of time. An order of men, the Friars Minor, and of women, the Poor Clares, had sprung up around him, who renounced all possessions, even corporate holdings, and consecrated their efforts to a gospel of peace. A third order, the Tertiaries, embracing men and women of the world, pledged itself to moderation in amusement and general appointments and to mutual good will and charity. The third order especially—at this late day it numbers some three million adherents throughout the world—supported by the preaching and example of Francis and his "Lesser Brethren," became the shock troops of one of the most thoroughgoing yet peaceful revolutions that society has experienced. Students not a few and anything but mean credit Franciscanism with breaking down the feudal system, which with its abuse of power and the right of war kept the medieval commune in a constant state of turmoil and the medieval burger in everlasting dread for life and property. The Franciscan tertiary refused to bear arms and take the oath of fealty to the petty lords, the church supporting his attitude, and as all the world turned tertiary the mischief died for lack of fodder.

At the same time the word and example of Francis and his brethren slowly but indomitably brought about a change of heart in great and small. Greed, selfishness, and haughty oppression gave way to a spirit of altruism. Prince, prelate, landed proprietor, and merchant mingled in brotherhood with the humble peasant and tradesman at the frequent assemblies of the third order. Often they left all they had to join the voluntary expropriates in the two cloistered orders. Pope Gregory IX., a lifelong friend of Francis, was a tertiary; Elizabeth of Thuringia received the tertiary garb from Francis himself, Louis IX. of France wore the habit, while Louis of Anjou renounced a kingdom to be a Friar Minor and put off a bishopric until he could take the garb of the Poverello. The gains of the movement were consolidated when the sons of Francis found their speedy way into Oxford, Paris, Bologna, the first schools of the day, as well as into the council chambers of kings. Fifty years had not elapsed from the death of Francis when his great son, Bonaventure, sat, as its guiding spirit, in the general council of the church at Lyons in 1274.

How explain the tremendous strides of the movement inaugurated by the Poor Little Fellow of Assisi? Much is explained by his sweet personality. He was as human and light hearted in his service of God and man as he had been in his revels, and so he preserved, as a leader of religious forces, the balance and poise that had made him master of the revel. He was pure, and mortified—most shockingly mortified—but he was never a joy killer. A hater of long faces, his own countenance inspired the beholder with the desire to get back of the secret of so much serenity, and all the world was ready to follow him to the source of it. His reform, moreover, was not a reform "by law enforced and by every crook evaded." It was based on the incentive of his own efforts to take the gospel literally. He did not think of what others were doing, except in so far as it pained him to see misdeeds resulting in injury to God and man, and then he had one sovereign remedy, his better example and his preaching, and the remedy seldom failed. If his example and preaching failed he knew there was no virtue in force. Bernard and the host of Friars Minor, the noble Clare and her band of Poor Ladies, Luchesio and his myriad of tertiaries, followed Francis for the same reason that the world today admires Francis, of their own choice, for the beauty of the path he showed them. His was above all a religious movement. The dreamer of dreams of military prowess, with himself as the conquering hero, he had his dreams realized when he found himself the leader of a great army rallying around the cross, determined to live as Christ had lived. The realization of that dream was the absorbing passion of his life.

We have been told that we need a new religion, a modernized Christianity. Do we not need rather another Francis to live the old fashioned Christianity? However, it seems cowardly to be ready to do only what we see others do, or, worse still, only what we can make others do. Why not rather be another Francis, each one of us for himself?

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

MORE SUPPORT FOR MEAT EATERS.

RECENTLY we quoted Dr. Clarence Lieb, in his story of the heavy meat diet on which Stefansson lived for about nine years and on which the Eskimos live all the time. When the vegetarians and some other food faddists get after Stefansson and the Eskimos, he and they are going to need all the help they can get.

Here is some support for them, taken from "Brawnyman." This book is supposed to be an autobiography of James Stevens, a writer who spent several years doing construction work on railroads and working in logging camps in Washington, Oregon, and thereabouts. He was a teamster, a truck driver, and a log handler.

"I simply can't tell about those logging camp suppers; the big graniteware platters and bowls steaming with steaks, potatoes, and vegetables; the fruits, the cakes, the pies, the tubby pots of coffee; the loggers bent over their plates, never saying a word, but simply shoveling in the rich, tasty grub. I simply can't tell about what noble eating we had there. I guess I tell too much about eating, anyway, but it's one of the biggest things in the life of a workingman.

"I ate steak, fried potatoes, corn and cabbage until I could hardly swallow, but still I managed to cram down three sizable wedges of chocolate cake."

Whoever reads "Brawnyman" gets the impression that the eater was a speed artist, that he went as fast as the Empire State express, and yet, in one place, he tells us of eating clams, pickled herring, rye bread, pumpernickel, cold ham, and cream cheese, and eating for one hour. Long enough for the Panama limited to run fifty miles.

He wrote as follows of the camp where "T-bone Slim" was the chef: "Of course, supper was always the finest time of the day for me. 'T-bone' peppered the steaks good, and I did like to sit with my eyes shut, chewing slowly the hot juice of the meat just oozing down my throat and the pepper making it tingle along just right. Then to put in [meaning into the cavern, which anatomists call the oral cavity] a big forkful of mashed potatoes rich with butter; to alternate between a piece of pickle and a slice of cheese; and to follow every three mouthfuls with a draft of creamy coffee—this was living, I tell you.

"Then, after a couple of T-bones and the trimmings, to tackle a quarter of an apple pie, and to finish it, and then to tackle a chocolate layer cake one foot high, and to finish three whacking slices of it, and to wash all this down with another fine cup of coffee—this was living some more."

Maybe the writer waded through all this eating; maybe he is still alive and in good health. But if he is, it proves that he was a hardworking logger and, as such, he earned his pay.

MILKY URINE.

L. S. writes: 1. What causes urine to turn milky white on urinating?

2. Is this a symptom of kidney disease?

REPLY.

1. An analysis would settle the question. My guess is that one or both of two causes are responsible:

(a) Urine too concentrated. Remedy: Drink more water.

(b) Vegetable and fruit diet. Remedy: Eat more meat, bread, and cereal.

2. No.

DEFORMED PARENTS.

K. K. writes: If either parent has a misformed limb since birth, is it likely that a child born to them will inherit the same defect?

REPLY.

No.

BABY PIGEON-TOED.

S. T. writes: A child of 18 months is pigeon-toed. Can anything be done to correct this condition?

REPLY.

I wonder if you are not borrowing trouble. Newborn babies are curled up and the soles of their feet turn inward. If they could walk, they would not only be pigeon-toed, but the weight would be carried on the outer edge of the foot. Babies 18 months old are very likely to toe in. As they grow older the front of the foot tends to turn outward. The wearing of shoes, the example of parents and associates—all work together for the end.

They would be better off were they to remain a little pigeon-toed.

RIPARIAN RIGHTS.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I recently acquired a lot near a lake in Indiana and my deed states that I have full riparian rights. Does this mean that I can build a fence to the water's edge around my lot? E. R. S.

Your rights depend not merely upon the wording of your deed, but upon whether your grantor had the right to convey to you what he purported to convey. This should appear from an abstract of title.

PROTECTION FROM PLAGIARISTS.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it necessary to have a copyright of a photoplay manuscript before offering it to motion picture producers for sale? If this is impossible then I would like to know how to go about getting such protection. J. G.

It is not necessary in the sense that there is no law requiring it, but if your manuscript is valuable and you do not trust the prospective publisher, then some protection might be advisable. You can secure printed information as to copyrights by writing to the librarian of congress, Washington, D. C.

If his condition was reasonable justification for the discharge, then he is not entitled to subsequent salary.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 3, 1861.

WASHINGTON.—Count de Paris ascended in a balloon with Gen. McDowell to the height of 1,000 feet. Minute particulars concerning the enemy were made known to Gen. McClellan by telegraph from the balloon. Solferino was won by Napoleon by balloon reconnoissance. Gen. McClellan may by its use also profit largely. Quiet reigns along the whole Union line. Advices from Gen. Banks' column state that everything is quiet there. No incidents have occurred within the last 24 hours to give any indication as to the intention of the enemy.

CAIRO.—An expedition, 500 strong, under Col. Logan, is now out foraging in Missouri. It will return tomorrow, well loaded with grain. It was last heard from at Charleston. Reports are that Gen. Pillow with a heavy rebel force is again moving across Missouri towards Cape Girardeau.

ST. LOUIS.—Lieut. A. Morton, of one of the Illinois regiments, was arrested for uttering seditious language. Three citizens were arrested with him. Tuesday night he spent the evening at the Harlem house in a drunken jollification, and in the presence of a large crowd he said Lincoln's government was "played out," that he was in favor of the southern confederacy, and would join it at the first chance. He also took off his coat, wanting to fight any one who did not think as he did. His coat was kept.

ST. LOUIS. — Col. Thomas A. Marshall of the Illinois cavalry publishes a card in tomorrow's Democrat refuting charges of cowardice brought against him in connection with the battle of Lexington. He says he has demanded an investigation and is confident he can prove the charges false. Accompanying the card is a certificate signed by Maj. Jenkins, Capts. Walter, McNulte, Smith and Mitchell, and Lieuts. Murray, Parks, Skillman, Dent and Blair, stating they saw nothing in Col. Marshall's conduct justifying the charge of cowardice. They claim that all hands sought cover at times, but Col. Marshall was frequently seen encouraging his men and doing his duty.

CHICAGO.—During the disturbance at the Mosely school some time ago, several pupils, among them John W. Parmelee, son of Frank Parmelee, Esq., were expelled. A special committee of the board of education, after an investigation, honorably restored Master Parmelee to the school.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 3, 1901.

WASHINGTON, D. C.— Persons close to President Roosevelt say he already is being made the victim of unscrupulous politicians and the President is said to have discovered the imposition and to have determined to put a stop to it. During the solemn hours following upon the death of President McKinley, Col. Roosevelt voluntarily announced that he would appoint without hesitation to any office whatever any man who actually had been selected for that place by President McKinley. It soon became apparent that designing politicians were using this announcement to further their own ends. Almost every man who has seen the President about an office in the last week has declared with manifest emotion that President McKinley had already agreed to appoint his man. This system of graveyard insurance as applied to practical politics has been tried extensively in the south.

CHICAGO.—As a mark of respect to the late President of the United States, the name of the West Division high school was changed by the board of education to the William McKinley school. The West Division school is the oldest high school in the city.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sampson did not arrive upon the scene of the battle off Santiago when the American fleet vanquished the Spanish fleet until one hour and fifteen minutes after the Colon had surrendered and the conflict was over, according to evidence at the Schley court of inquiry. Sampson was exactly twenty-one miles away when the Spanish colors were hauled down in defeat, according to the speed alleged to have been made by the New York at that time. This was sworn to by Lieut. Sharp, commander of the Vixen, one of the strongest of Schley's opponents.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 3, 1916.

EL PASO, Tex.—Information has been brought here from Mexico City by a well informed American that Gen. Carranza is declaring that unless an agreement to withdraw the American troops from Mexico is reached promptly he will withdraw his delegation from the Atlantic City conference and go to war with the United States if necessary to force Gen. Pershing out.

ATLANTIC CITY.—On resumption of the Mexican conference today the Mexican commissioners again urged the withdrawal of all American troops from Mexican soil and presented a plan for the protection of the American border.

CHICAGO.—The grand jury will be asked to help State's Attorney Hoyne to answer the question "Who got the money?" as it pertains to the assets of the Sportsman's Club of America, known throughout Chicago as "Mayor Thompson's club." According to Mr. Hoyne, between $100,000 and $140,000 has been collected by the club in membership fees alone. During the day Mr. Hoyne raided the club and seized its books and papers. It was his first big drive in his recently inaugurated campaign to "tear the lid off the city hall." He said he will present evidence that the club was organized as "a blind for getting gambling graft and for shaking down saloonkeepers and prominent citizens."

THE LEAGUE IN CONFERENCE

[Guerin Meschino, Milan.]

"Don't be afraid. It's only this eternal question of seats."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THAT WOULD PLEASE US, TOO.

Bay View, Mich., Sept. 28.—As an Englishman I was particularly interested in your leading article, "The World Court Is a Court." You say that "the members of the court are seeking to sidestep the clear meaning of the words 'or claims'" in the fifth reservation. But however strong the desire may be to prevent "the creation of unsavory precedents," it seems to me incredible that the United States should seriously claim a legal position superior to that of any of the ordinary adherents of the court. For that is what might result from unconditional acceptance of the fifth reservation.

If it should be established in the future that a unanimous vote of the league council is necessary before the court can give an advisory opinion, then no one could object to the United States possessing a veto similar to that of every member of the council. But if it should ever be ruled that a majority decision in the council was sufficient for a case to be referred to the court, then the United States' position under this fifth reservation would be legally superior to that of any adherent of the court. The nations have therefore apparently suggested in the proposed protocol that, in this eventuality, they should be allowed to withdraw their acceptance of the American reservations.

This provision seems perfectly reasonable. Why should the United States claim rights which no member of the league itself possesses and which might, as one English writer has said, "gravely imperil the whole development of international law and jurisprudence and of the judicial settlement of international disputes"? Every other nation may have to run the risk of seeing "unsavory precedents" established. If the United States should persist in the claim to be specially exempt from that risk, it seems to me far better that she should stay right out of the court than possibly vitiate its development.
BROUGHTON TWAMLEY.

AGAINST RADIO REGULATION.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—I read with interest your editorial hoping that the next congress would pass a law to protect stations established on certain wave lengths, and "bring order out of radio's chaos."

With all due sympathy for the end you wish to achieve may I express the hope that congress will not do anything of the kind? Any congressional law will mean a government bureau and a government bureau will mean political hangers-on to be taken care of; political hangers-on will mean a study of the radio situation to extort graft and sell bureaucratic power.

Many years ago I had a little lesson in a library which I believe applies to "radio chaos." They had at a certain college a librarian who was forever calling people down—forever calling for silence in the library. And forever posting notices about the rules of the place. Finally he sent his assistant to warn a talker to stop, without finding out himself who the talker was. The assistant delivered the message, but the librarian was at once fired. The talker happened to be the university president showing the place off to the president of Yale.

The new librarian hauled down every sign, stopped all effort to boss the talkers, or keep order. "If one student is noisy tonight," he said, "he will want to study tomorrow night and then when others are noisy he will be annoyed, and will realize his noise annoyed others the night before.

"Thus the deductions of his own mind will shut him up as a noise source from then on."

And it worked out just that way. The man with a million rules, more or less, had rebellion and disorder on his hands all the time. The man who trusted folks to work out things had complete silence from the end of the first week on. Let the pirate stations horn in—but cuss 'em out! Let THE TRIBUNE pillory those that cut in here. Let the fans handle 'em. But keep congress and bureaucracy off.
J. K. RUSSELL.

A REPLY FOR THE KLAN.

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 20.—Indebted as we are to the W. G. N. for the editorial castigation of the K. K. K. convention under the title "Denizens of the Rural Slums," in Sunday's TRIBUNE, I cannot refrain from the apt rejoinder, "So's your old man!"

Since Nov. 11, 1918, what great public sentiment molding daily and Sunday publication has done more than your powerful, newspaper to instill the spirit of extreme nationalism, of parochialism, and provincialism in international affairs? Now comes the klan and openly adopts THE TRIBUNE platform in that respect, and, lo, you become sarcastic and reproachful.
LIBERAL.

SING HO FOR THE CHAPERON!

Wilmette, Ill., Sept. 20.—The writer could cite more than one example in support of Mr. Cross' statements but will content himself by reviewing an occurrence of last fall when he returned to his alma mater with some of his friends to witness one of the football games.

We visited at our own house after the game for a while and then journeyed around to some of the other fraternity houses to see some of our old acquaintances. One of the houses was having a dance. There was plenty to drink—and it wasn't soda pop, either.

The well meaning chaperons were all parked in the corner of a large, dimly lighted room, blissfully unconscious, however, that twosomes, threesomes, foursomes, etc., in various rooms on the second deck were smoking, petting, and drinking. For the edification of the interested faculty, a preponderance of these female participants were co-eds. Maybe the faculty can laugh that off, too.

I declined with thanks when I was recently asked if I and my wife would chaperon a similar party. The comparatively recent acquisition of a daughter has changed my views on what now constitutes a proper party as distinguished from what I thought was a good party when I was a mere sophisticated student. I declined because I knew I would be too good a chaperon and that my new ideas of chaperonage wouldn't make me particularly popular at such a function.

Pillow Top Foot Stool

59 Years of Good Furniture

Breakfast Room Group
$34.75

Genuine Oak construction, finished Antique, shaded and decorated. The table has shaped edges and measures 36x45 inches when the drop leaves are extended. The chairs have bow backs, Windsor in type with double bracing. Table and four chairs $34.75

Made to match this group is the Welsh Cabinet, typically Colonial in style and made to display treasured bits of colorful china so advantageously. This cabinet stands 61 inches high and is 36 inches wide—well made and attractively finished, as is the rest of the group $29.75

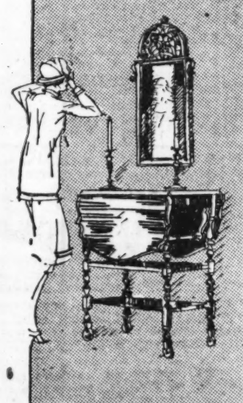
In Booth No. 6, Fifth Floor, Main Room Breakfast Room Display.

Gate Leg (at top) $16.75
Green or Red Lacquer finish hand decorated. 26x35½ top —27½ inches high. 8 trim legs.

Hand Decorated Lacquer Table, $11.90
Measures 25½ x 14½ inches when open—24 inches high. Choice of colors—Amber, Ebony, Green and Red.

Square Drop Leaf Table, $19.00
Comes in Ivory, Green or Red, hand decorated. 19¼x29¼ inches with leaves, up — 25 inches high — raised Japanese decoration.

Butterfly Table $10.00
Walnut Veneered Top with Gumwood base. Antique finish. Leaves up, 27½x19½; 24¼ high.



Solid Walnut Service Cart, $19.75

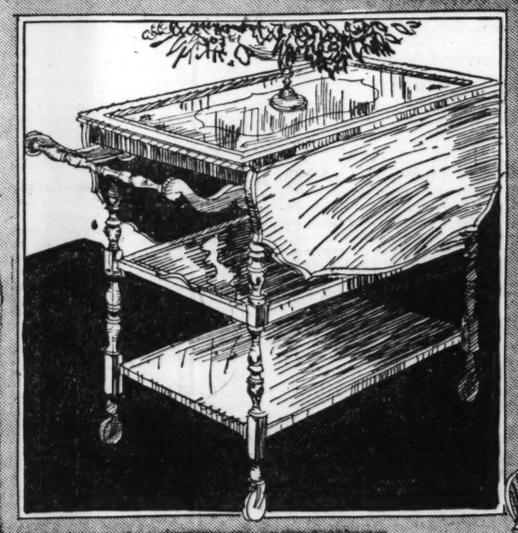
A housewife would feel much warm pride in the ownership of such a Service Cart as illustrated below. It is handsomely made of Solid Walnut, finished in a richly shaded antique. The leaves are gracefully shaped and the four legs have trim, neat turnings. And then it has so many worthwhile uses:

As a Console Table—It is very effective because the four rubber-tired wheels are inconspicuously small and there is a groove beneath the top in which to conceal the glass tray; the handle drops out of sight, making this particular piece of furniture unidentifiable as a Tea Wagon and a very attractive Console Table.

As a Card Table—With the utility features still concealed and the leaves extended it is also a handy card table.

As a Tea Table—The Table Top formed by the extension of the drop leaves measures 28x38½ inches and is very comfortable for the service of four, while the additional shelf beneath, together with the removable etched glass tray, provide ample space for unserved courses. With this arrangement it is possible to serve well a dainty luncheon or tea, independent of assistance.

As a Tea Wagon—When used for its original purpose, this cart has the added convenience of wheels that move in all directions easily. The leaves, too, operate simply on a patent apparatus, with a single motion to raise or lower them to either side. This is a special feature. In all a very practical and at the same time attractive piece of furniture, at the very low cost of $19.75.



Radio Table
$10.00

This Radio Table has a roomy compartment beneath the 30-inch top that is hidden from view by a panel in front. The construction is sturdy Gumwood, finished in a Wax Walnut finish.

CHINESE FIRE ON SHIPS TRYING TO SAVE FOREIGNERS

Force Red Cross Craft to Give Up Attempt.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HANKOW, China, Oct. 2.—Troops allied to Marshal Wu Pei-fu, central China leader, today fired on vessels which sailed to Wuchang to rescue foreign women and children in the city, which has been besieged for several weeks by the bolshevik Cantonese forces. The attack was made despite Red Cross and white flags flown by the ships.

The fusilade by rifles and machine guns forced the rescue launch with two lighters to give up the attempt and return to Hankow. The Chinese shots did not hit any of the rescue party.

Previously the troops defending the city had promised to permit the removal of foreigners.

Food Enough for Present.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent learns that the foreigners have sufficient food for their immediate necessities.

The Chinese, reduced to desperate straits, are imploring the garrison to surrender. Desultory attacks by the Cantonese upon Wuchang continue, with occasional air raids.

Owing to the rapidly falling water, both British and American naval operations have been curtailed above Ichang, although Gen. Yang-sen, an ally of Wu, has released American, British, and French ships commandeered for the transportation of 20,000 troops to the new base at Ichang, where he seeks to control the entrance to the gorges.

Americans "Desperate."

PEKING, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Telegrams from Sianfu, capital of Shensi province, describe the situation of the American missionaries there as "critical."

Stating their desire to evacuate the city, which is the center of warfare between the remnants of the Kuominchun [national army] on one hand and Shensi forces on the other, a later message says "the situation is desperate."

The messages from Sianfu were signed by the Rev. W. Englund, of the Scandinavian Alliance mission, the headquarters of which are in Chicago. It is understood approximately fifteen Americans of this mission are now in Sianfu, with a similar number of British.

The American legation at Peking has telegraphed to the commanders of the rival armies in Shensi asking them to aid the American missionaries to withdraw.

CATHOLICS LAY CORNER STONE AT LA GRANGE TODAY

Solemn ceremonies in which Cardinal Mundelein will participate will mark the laying of the cornerstone of the new mother house of the Sisters of St. Joseph at La Grange, Ill., this morning. A solemn high mass will be sung by the very Rev. Msgr. Rempe at an altar erected for the purpose on the campus. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. W. J. Agnew, S. J., president of Loyola university, and there will be an address by Robert M. Sweitzer, K. S. G.

Wilmette's Sunday Evening Club Opens Season Tonight

The Wilmette Sunday Evening club will open its twelfth season tonight with Bishop Edwin H. Hughes as the speaker. Eight churches in Wilmette and Kenilworth have united in the club. The program this year calls for addresses by a number of well known leaders, including Rabbi Stephen S Wise, New York; Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Brooklyn; Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer; Norman Hapgood, Miss Jane Addams, and Dr. Charles Cherrie.

C. HILLESHEIM, EARLY CHICAGO RESIDENT, DIES

Conrad Hillesheim, 76 years old, a lifelong resident of Chicago, died yesterday at his home, 833 Gilpin place, where he had resided for forty-one years. His home always had been within a mile of the loop.

Coming to Chicago in 1842, Mr. Hillesheim's parents settled in a house in Buffalo street which is now the site of Roosevelt road viaduct. Before the fire of 1871 they moved to Sherman street, and their home there was destroyed by the flames.

Mr. Hillesheim had been connected with the Chicago and Alton railroad for forty-six years. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Nicholas H. and John, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Lintner and Mrs. Ida Castleberry.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning from the home to St. Francis church. Burial will be in St. Boniface cemetery.

Miss Margaret Gibbons, 30 Years a Teacher, Dies

Funeral services for Miss Margaret Gibbons, 64 years old, a teacher in the Chicago public schools for more than 30 years, will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. from St. Patrick's Catholic church of Joliet. Miss Gibbons, who for the last ten years had been a teacher at the Drummond school, died Friday night at the home of Mrs. John Fitzgerald, 3531 Jackson boulevard, following a week's illness of pneumonia. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John F. Kelly and Mrs. James W. Faulkner, both of Joliet. Burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery there.

Hold Funeral Tomorrow for Charles M. Bradley

Funeral services for Charles M. Bradley, former manager of the Standard Varnish company here, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Oakwoods cemetery chapel. Mr. Bradley died Friday night at the Windermere Hotel East, following an illness of five years. He was 57 years old. For the last two years he had been president of the Wequetonsing Golf club at Harbor Springs, Mich., having made his home there and in Chicago. He is survived by his widow and two children, Mrs. Florence Fetterolf and Harold Bradley of San Francisco.

Wm. J. Watson Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow

Funeral services for William J. Watson, Chicago ironmaster and banker, who died Friday, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the home at 2640 Prairie avenue. The Rev. David Babbin of the Trinity Episcopal church will officiate. Burial will be private in Rosehill cemetery.

AIMEE WILL GIVE COMMUNION TO 5,000 TODAY

Trial Doesn't Halt Her Temple Activities.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Undismayed by the attacks made upon her during the court hearing this week, Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, charged with perpetrating a hoax in connection with her disappearance at Ocean Park last May, today went about preparing for the Sunday services in her usual energetic manner.

She was preparing for what she declared would be the largest communion service in the world, to be held at Angelus temple tomorrow, "when more than 5,000 communicants" will be served with the sacrament.

Mother Denounces Witness.

Meanwhile Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist and a codefendant in the alleged hoax plot, took occasion to issue a statement denouncing Thomas Scott Melville, member of Angelus temple. Melville yesterday testified he saw Mrs. McPherson enter the hotel where he is doorman the morning of the day she disappeared.

Melville is a "tool in a gigantic plot to wreck Angelus temple," Mrs. Kennedy said, adding that she believed he was sent into the religious ranks of Angelus temple in preparation for the testimony he gave yesterday.

When the McPherson case is resumed Monday, District Attorney Asa Keyes expects to place on the stand his deputy attorney, Joe Ryan, who met Mrs. McPherson at Agua Prieta when she returned from her long absence.

Ignores Radio Attack.

Keyes declared he would not enter a "radio controversy" with the evangelist. Mrs. McPherson, speaking over the Angelus temple radio station last night, bitterly attacked Keyes.

"The courtroom is the place to try this case," he said.

WEST SUBURBAN LAWYERS FORM A NEW ASSOCIATION

The West Town Lawyers' Association of Cook County, composed of lawyers in West Chicago and suburbs, has been organized with a membership of over 250. The purpose of the organization is to create a feeling of respect and reverence for the laws of the city, state, and government and to assist the just and needy in the application and understanding of such laws. Election of officers will be held Oct. 3, and the installation will take place at a banquet to be held Oct. 31 at Hotel Sherman.

Suburbs' Police to Attend Rites for Lieut. Lawrence

Deputations of policemen from several western suburbs will attend the funeral of Lieut. John J. Lawrence of the Oak Park police force, to be held today at St. Edmund's Catholic church in Oak Park. Lieut. Lawrence died suddenly Friday in his home at 953 Lake street, Oak Park. He was 55 years old and had been a member of the suburb's force for twenty-six years.

Von Hindenburg 79 Today; Celebrates in Seclusion

SCHWUELPE, Hanover, Germany, Oct. 2.—[U. N.]—President Paul Von Hindenburg, leaving behind in Berlin a palace filled with sausages, kegs of beer, and other gifts from all parts of Germany, sought the seclusion of his son-in-law's estate for celebration of his seventy-ninth birthday today.

DENY SINCLAIR, FALL AND DOHENY SPECIAL APPEALS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnates, will be forced to stand trial on the criminal charges against them in connection with the leasing of naval oil reserves as a result of the dismissal of their special appeals by the District Court of Appeals today.

The dismissal was in accord with the special act of congress, rushed through in the closing days of the session by Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], which deprives the Court of Appeals of jurisdiction to allow and hear special appeals in criminal cases.

Fall, Doheny, and Sinclair were granted the special appeals last spring from the decision of Justice Stafford of the district Supreme court, in which the validity of the conspiracy indictments against the trio was sustained.

SEEK $150,000 FOR CHILDREN ON TAG DAY OCTOBER 11

Resolved, That the nineteenth annual tag day of the Children's Benefit league shall net $150,000 through the sale of tags a week from tomorrow, Oct. 11, officers of the federation are working as they have never worked before. Proceeds will go to fifty charitable institutions of the city caring for children, each of which will furnish 100 of the 5,000 workers who are to tag.

Cooperation is being extended from commercial and industrial institutions, according to Mrs. Charles E. Frankenthal, chairman of publicity, who reported yesterday that every large department store in the loop was inclosing dodgers advertising the day in their packages. A total of 60,000 dodgers have been distributed for the purpose.

In addition, letters have been addressed to 1,500 ministers of Chicago, of all denominations, requesting them to announce the tag day from the pulpit this morning and next Sunday.

Northwest Air Mail Service Started Again

Air mail service between Chicago and Minneapolis was resumed yesterday after a day's suspension, when the Northwest Airways, successful bidder for the contract, hired a checkerboard field plane that left here at 9:20 a. m., carrying a load of mail.

Service had been conducted by rail Friday when the Airways plane failed to appear. Later it was found the plane had been forced down at Wabasha, Minn., while on its first trip.

Arrested with Gun as He Seeks to Avenge Beating

He doesn't need police help in avenging his beating at the hands of nine men, Joseph Calabrese, 5540 South California avenue, declared yesterday when he was arrested with a loaded revolver in his possession. When he refused to give further information he was held in jail. Calabrese said he was a business agent of the meat cutters' union.

Lane High Teacher Beat Her, Wife Charges; Sues

Suit for separate maintenance was filed yesterday against Carl V. Olson, Lane Technical High school manual training instructor, by his wife, Mary. Mrs. Olson charges cruelty, claiming that her husband twice beat her, and carried a gun with him, threatening "to end it all." They were married June 8, 1913, and have four children.

3,000,000 People Prefer "Hursen" Funerals

The people themselves, of which you are a part, make any business big. They also keep a business small. They do it by means of their support, or lack of support. They are a vast Jury. Their decision is based on simple facts. From this decision there is no appeal.

The Jury of 3,000,000 people in Chicago, and in its many suburbs for miles around, many years ago made their decision of preference for funerals conducted by "Hursen." No day has passed since then that this decision has not been repeated and confirmed!

The people themselves, of which you are a part, have made "Hursen's" the greatest funeral establishment in America today! The reasons are simple. "Hursen" elegance, superiority in service, method, environment, automobile equipment, all these are somewhat amazing to a few who have never attended a "Hursen" funeral.

Still more surprising is the fact that the cost of a "Hursen" funeral is but a fraction of the charges usually made elsewhere. A funeral, too, is largely judged by the automobiles used. The great fleet of "Hursen-Lincoln" automobiles, especially built for Hursen, represent the finest equipment of its kind in America. Yet, there is no added charge for their use. Simple facts, aren't they? So, call Hursen of course!

SOCIETY FLOCKS TO HUNT RACE IN FASHION PARADE

Lake Forest Event Is a Brilliant Spectacle.

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

Society folk discarded their polite reserve to whoop and yell like adolescent football fans at the Onwentsia hunt race meeting at Lake Forest yesterday afternoon during the grand steeplechase for the Onwentsia Hunt gold challenge cup which turned out to be the most hotly contested and exciting race in the history of the running of the event.

Lieut. Seas, belonging to John S. Sweeney, and with A. Wilson up, got off to a slow start, nicked his fore feet on the first jump, but spurted in the third lap and won the race. Pickert, owned and ridden by E. S. Nichols, which had led the race, placed second, and Joseph T. Bowen Jr., wearing the orange and black of the B. L. Behr stables, brought Burgoright in third.

The Helen Niblack trophy event, won by Libby Chase, and the ladies' steeplechase, in which the dashing Miss Viola Hammond of Detroit charged in first, were the other most exciting events of the afternoon. Despite the hazards of the mushy underfooting, there were no accidents, and only a few falls.

Review of Fall Fashions.

Fall fashions, as interpreted by Chicago's élite, tend toward the mellow tones of autumn foliage. Chanel red, that deep purplish red shade that is now so popular, had a number of devotees. Mrs. J. Russell Forgan's outfit of crêpe dress and velour hat ornamented with a rhinestone monogram plate was one of the most attractive.

The dull greens and the russets and all the soft shades of brown were in evidence, making an effective scene spotted with the hunter's pink coats of the riders. Many smart fur pieces and much of the latest reptile footwear were worn. A number of the women were carrying or using the English combination stick and seat arrangement which are practical for the occasion as well as very smart. Mrs. James Ward Thorne, who was costumed stunningly in black with touches of white, was carrying hers on her arm when she stopped to speak to Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson and Mrs. Francis J. Johnson. Mrs. Russell P. Kelley, who was in black with a silver fox, also used one.

Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Attends.

Mrs. Cyrus McCormick was an attractive figure in a chartreuse coat edged in narrow bands of fur, a high crowned matching hat and with two great reddish flowers on her lapel. Mrs. Chauncey McCormick sauntered across the course during one of the intermissions to the Junior league's blue and yellow pennanted refreshment camp where she joined friends at the little round tables for tea.

The crowd which mulled cheerily around the center of the field, in company with many children and a number of impressive canines, included Mrs. Arthur Meeker, gowned in deep brown; Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs Jr., in a delectable shade of pale russet hat and coat; her sister, Mrs. William Odell Jr.; the Lester Armours, Mrs. Armour in a smart cape coat of brown wool mixture and a small brown hat; Mr. and Mrs. Laurance Armour, Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, with her two sunny headed little daughters, Rose and Adelaide; Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, Miss Louise Mitchell, Mrs. Robert G. McGann, the Noble Brandon Judahs, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Roland Boswell, Miss Eleanor Holden, Mrs. John Paul Welling, in gray with a fluttery scarf of the same color and a scarlet felt hat; Miss Catherine Norcross, in green and beige, accompanied by her fiancé, Stephen Y. Hord; Princess Michel Cantacuzene, Miss Harriet McLaughlin, Mrs. Shreve C. Badger, in an unusual wrap of black and white plaid silk; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Holland Jr., Mrs. Clarence Mitchell, Miss Jane Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. Charles Edward Brown Jr., Miss Laura Thompson, Gilbert E. Porter III., and Mrs. Hale Holden Jr.

DO NOT OVEREAT OR SHIRK, ADVICE GIVEN MINISTERS

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Ministers were warned against overeating and shirking their work in an address today by Bishop W. O. Shepard of Portland, Ore., who is presiding here at the Rock River conference.

Bishop Shepard spoke to the class of young men entering the conference. Ten were received on trial. They must serve for two years before becoming full members.

Must Watch Himself.

"If a man is without conscience the ministry is the easiest place to shirk work," Bishop Shepard said. "The minister is not watched like a laboring man, nor as men in other professions. Therefore, he must watch himself. The ministry is not a white collar job. It means hard work.

"I know ministers who eat too much and some who have been rendered inefficient, or have died prematurely because of this self indulgence. A man must keep his body fit."

Some Things Unchangeable.

"You don't have to read everything and you don't have to know everything," he said. "But there are some things that are unchangeable, like love for one's mother, wife and children. We have settled some things. The most important is that Jesus Christ is the redeemer of the world.

Those received on trial were Earl M. Edwards, Paul Walter Grimes, Reynold Nelson Hoover, John C. Irwin, Ralph Kenneth Kofoed, L. R. Minion, Norman Sobieska Nye, Frank Theodore Palm, Ward W. Watson, Edward C. Lau.

Those received into full membership were Ray Honeywell, William B. O'Neill, Albion J. Tavenner, Merrill S. Tope, Joseph Thomas, Glenn Tynen Beatty.

A motion was carried instructing the committee on entrance to the conference to consider carefully the health of all candidates and if necessary to require a physician's recommendation.

Complete Laying of Cable Linking N. Y. and Germany

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The cableship Neptune today reached Fayal island, in the Azores, completing the Emden-Fayal stretch of the new high speed cable from Germany to New York. The two ends will be connected about Oct. 16. The cable will be operated by the German Atlantic Telegraph company in conjunction with the Western Union and Commercial Cable interests.

CHICAGO WILL BE MOST BEAUTIFUL CITY—SWEITZER

That Chicago will be the most beautiful city in the world before 1933, when the world's fair will be held here, was the prophecy made by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer in an address yesterday at Westchester, during the celebration of the opening of the Westchester terminal of the rapid transit lines.

The celebration was under the direction of George F. Nixon, president of George F. Nixon & Co., who are one of the developers of the new territory.

Mr. Sweitzer called attention to the development of the lakes to the gulf waterway and said that within a few years Chicago will be the greatest city in the world, not only commercially and industrially, as it is now, but also numerically.

This afternoon County Treasurer P. J. Carr, Judge Thomas J. Lynch of the Superior court, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the council transportation committee; City Controller Martin J. O'Brien, and Congressman Thomas A. Doyle will speak on Chicago's development and the extension of rapid transit facilities to the western suburbs.

ADDS TO CHARGES COUNTY FORESTS COST TOO MUCH

The Citizens' Association of Chicago yesterday made public the remainder of a report charging forest preserve lands have been purchased by the county at much higher prices than might have been paid.

When the charges first were made public, Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, denied them, threw open the records of the county to the association, and followed this up by going before the special grand jury whose members decided there was no basis to the charges.

The new charges say 14½ acres, owned by Oswald Schindler, were purchased privately in March, 1926, for $15,000, and bought by the forest preserve the same day for $26,287. A 50 acre tract west of the River road near Des Plaines was bought by a private dealer for $32,000 in January, 1926, and purchased by the forest preserve two months later for $82,049.

WHAT ails your car?

Who actually knows?

TO find out the facts is often a costly procedure, entailing much useless tinkering and uncertain experimenting. This costly guesswork is eliminated by car owners who want to actually know "what's wrong," or if anything is wrong.

They depend upon the Automobile Owners' Testing and Inspection Laboratories report for a complete scientific diagnosis of the mechanical condition of their car. The report rendered by us is guaranteed to be 100% correct or money refunded. It is your guide for necessary repairs and your safeguard against overcharges and blunders.

The Automobile Owners' Testing and Inspection Laboratories, Inc., is entirely independent of any repair shop or service station, instituted for the protection of motorists and for the purpose of scientifically diagnosing any and all mechanical automobile troubles. With a complete set of costly scientific testing equipment our engineers locate hidden noises, unexpected troubles, and approaching difficulties before they become serious and without dismantling your car or motor in any way.

Shop orders issued by us are taken by the alert car owner to his favorite garage as a signed and authentic schedule of necessary attention. No more experimenting is required and no sliding over the minor items is possible, for, when the job is completed, the car is again checked by the Laboratory without additional charge.

Our charge for this double service in the end costs you nothing and saves you money, for it eliminates costly experimenting, reduces repair bills as much as 50% and assures you of more economical, prolonged motor car service.

Complete test with chart showing actual condition of every working part, also shop order covering needed and optional repairs:

YOUR HOME SHOULD COME FIRST

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH.

Your home should come first, in your mind, in your heart.
The world has its pleasures, but pleasures depart.
The joys that are deeper, the joys that are true,
Are here in your home always waiting for you.
Oh, some want to wander, and some want to spend,
But here you will find it, find peace in the end.
Whatever your fortune, the best or the worst,
In planning, in spending, your home should come first.

So fill it with comfort, and fill it with cheer,
Harmonious beauty, and make it so dear
That children remember, wherever they roam,
The gentle old adage, "there's no place like home."
A chair by the fireside, a table, a light,
God grant there is somewhere they wait you tonight.
For fame you may hunger, for fortune may thirst,
But working or playing, Your Home Should Come First.

HARD TIMES DUE OVER COAL ROW, BRITISH WARNED

Industrial Leader Paints Peril to Trade.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—It is now fairly certain that the British coal strike is petering out and that a complete resumption of work in the mines is only a matter of a few more weeks. Today's figures show that about 175,000 men are working, while the normal number is about 1,100,000.

The leaders of the miners are admitting defeat by starvation, but still hope vaguely that something will develop to improve the situation or that the government may interfere and obtain for them better terms from the owners, who are determined to break the unions. The miners are likely to be disappointed in this hope, as the conservative party machine is in the hands of the coal mine owners, who are large contributions to its funds.

For a time Prime Minister Baldwin tried to gain terms for the miners, but was forced by the party managers to take the side of the owners and, while he has lost popularity, the managers think it is important to keep the party chest full.

Hard Times Ahead, He Fears.

Leading industrialists, however, are not so pleased with the situation and one of the principal leaders told THE TRIBUNE today he feared Great Britain is in for a period of bad times as a result of the coal mine owners' folly. The owners, he said, are looking to six months of intensive coal selling, at the highest prices, to the industries which have been starved of coal and which will have to pay through the nose to get it.

This will react unfavorably on foreign trade, as costly coal means costly goods.

Lloyd George Sees More Woe.

LEWES, England, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Former Premier Lloyd George, addressing an open air meeting on the coal strike situation today, said the country was just coming to the end of the most devastating industrial struggle in its experience.

"I am afraid the symptoms are that the end will be a ragged and unsatisfactory one—so unsatisfactory that, so far from being an end, it will be the beginning of perhaps worse things," he added.

London Turns Big Ben's Hands Back One Hour

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—John Bull this morning said goodbye to daylight saving time when Big Ben's hands and the hands of all the little Ben's throughout England, Scotland, and Ireland were turned back an hour. Daylight saving time also came to an end in France this morning.

GOAT "ARRESTED"

POLICEMAN JOE MITCHELL.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Police at the Warren avenue station are undecided what to do with a goat that was taken into custody yesterday. An unfurnished, solitary cell is being considered to curb the animal's appetite for station decorations and equipment. The goat was found wandering down North Western avenue, nibbling at the clothes of passersby and was captured by Motorcycle Policeman Joe Mitchell.

ARMY-NAVY BOX SEAT SALE TOTAL IS NOW $107,000

Revised, but still incomplete figures compiled yesterday by the South Park commissioners office indicate that more than $107,000 was brought in by the auction, held Friday at the Congress hotel, of 430 boxes for the Army-Navy football game to be played at Soldiers' field, Nov. 27.

Bids for the remaining 40 boxes may be sent in by mail to the south park board, Fifty-seventh street and Cottage Grove avenue, until Oct. 15, when the board meets to make final disposition of the boxes. Most of the boxes still available are between the goal line and five yard line. Tentative plans for a parade and reception in honor of the West Point and Annapolis students the day before the game were made yesterday afternoon at a meeting in the La Salle hotel of the department commanders of the various veterans' organizations. Final plans will be made tomorrow at a meeting of the mayor's committee to be held in the city council chambers.

WHY Y. M. C. A. IF NOT CHRISTIAN? TURKS DEMAND

Moslems Hunt Joker in U. S. Philanthropy.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—The startling paradox of America's largest Christian organization trying to prove it is not teaching Christianity while the police and newspapers of Moslem Turkey insist it is came to light in a storm of Turkish publicity this week.

The American Young Men's Christian association of Constantinople is under suspicion for trying to convert the followers of Mohammed to the faith of Christ.

The Constantinople police are investigating the activities of the association, which finds itself in the curious position of having to declare it is not seeking converts to Christianity; that its work is not devotional or religious or connected with any creed, and that it does not hold Sunday services, Bible classes or prayer meetings.

Why Spend Christians' Gold?

This defense causes the Turkish newspapers and police to ask them why the Y. M. C. A. in Turkey is spending thousands of dollars annually subscribed in America, presumably from devoted Christians, for the purpose of "converting the heathen." To this question the American officials in Turkey declare the aim of the association here is for the "moral, social, mental and physical development of young men."

The Turkish publications question this purpose. A twenty year old student of Roberts American college is the cause of the controversy. Full investigation is impeded by the absence of regular diplomatic relations between Turkey and the United States on account of the nonratification of the Lausanne treaty. The student's name is Hashim Hussien. Two months ago H. T. Baker, general secretary of the Constantinople Y. M. C. A., and another secretary took Hussien to Helsingfors, the three comprising the delegation from the Constantinople Y. M. C. A. to the world conference of this organization.

The Turk's Message.

The last night of the conference, when the delegations from all parts of the world sat around the bonfire at the Helsingfors public park and delivered their "messages," the young Turk spoke as follows:

"Youth of the world, the youth of Turkey extends hearty greeting to you all and hopefully awaits your prayers. Turkey is passing through an interesting period of great radical changes, the equal of which never before have witnessed in her past history. Turkish youth so swiftly is moving toward the attainment of freedom of thought, speech and action as to throw the passing generation into utter bewilderment. The time is not distant when Turkish youth will join the increasing growing body of Christian youth sitting at the feet of Jesus, seeking the truth and will of God, the Father of all men."

Stirs Bitter Criticism.

Hussien's campfire speech reached Constantinople in the September number of the World's Youth, published by the Y. M. C. A. in Geneva. Its translation in Turkish and widespread publication throughout Turkey aroused a bitter outbreak of criticism and denunciation, raising a public demand to reveal Hussien's authority to represent the youth of Turkey before an international gathering.

Turkish students wrote papers denying the young men of Turkey are deserting Mohammedanism for Christianity and charging Hussien with having made a speech as payment for a free trip abroad.

Matters became worse when the police interrogated Hussien and discovered he was not a Turk at all, but a Persian, and had made the trip to Finland on a Persian passport. This revelation was sufficient to release a new blast against the Y. M. C. A. The association was charged with trying to pass off a "renegade Persian Moslem as a Turk converted to Christianity," in editorials drawing bitter comparisons between Moslem and Christian methods of seeking the truth.

Association Denies Responsibility.

General Secretary Baker of the Y. M. C. A. told the police he was unaware of Hussien's nationality and did not know whether the student was a Christian or not. He told THE TRIBUNE correspondent Hussien was selected as a member of the delegation because he was a clean, upright, intelligent boy. The association paid all the expenses of the trip, but gave him no instructions about the campfire speech, and would accept no responsibility for his utterances.

The investigation is being conducted under the constitution of the new Turkish republic, which permits freedom of religious worship but prohibits proselyting and the use of religious propaganda intended to make converts. Turkish students at the Y. M. C. A. here corroborated Mr. Baker's statement that no religious instruction is given in the institution.

The incident, which is deeply deplored by Americans and Turks alike in official circles here, reveals the present characteristics of Turkish nationalism and serves to recall the current situation in American schools, hospitals, and other charitable works which constitute America's greatest interest in Turkey.

Lots of Money; Few Converts.

Millions of American dollars have been poured into these philanthropic enterprises in Turkey since Yankee missionary activity started as far back as 1840, but Americans of long experience in the country doubt whether as many as 1,000 Moslem Truks have been converted to Christianity during the intervening three quarters of a century.

The Turks declare the original missionary effort made no progress with them and was switched immediately to Armenians, Greeks, Georgians, and other like people who have been Christians for centuries. With the Truks eliminated as possible converts, the missionary effort became a sectarian contest to change orthodox Greeks and Armenians to Protestants and Roman Catholics and vice versa.

BIG BILL EXHORTS TEACHER PARLEY; WON'T BE HUSHED

Says Patriotism Is Theme —Ellicott Sees Politics.

William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago and later promoter of an expedition to find the tree climbing fish, stepped upon the stage of the Studebaker theater yesterday while Chicago's high school teachers were holding a mass meeting to protest against the school board's economy policy of lopping special courses from the curriculum.

Mr. Thompson had been invited to speak on the financial crisis in school affairs. But Miss Edna Ohrenstein, chairman of the meeting, warned him that many of the teachers feared he was going to use his opportunity to spread political propaganda on his own behalf.

Offers a Patriotic Song.

"That is not my intention," said the former mayor. "My song leader, who is with me, will now sing his own composition, 'America First, Last and All the Time.'"

Miss Ohrenstein protested against further additions to the program. Mr. Thompson waved aside her objections.

"If this song is prohibited," he remarked, "I will think the school teachers are unpatriotic."

Some Remarks About '76.

The song leader continued his work. Then the former mayor told his audience that he, like his ancestors, had been patriotic, and that his election brought about the ousting of a pro-British superintendent of schools and his replacement by an American "who put the spirit of '76 back in the schoolhouses."

At the end of fifteen minutes Miss Ohrenstein informed Mr. Thompson that his time was up. He retorted that he was not half through. Miss Ohrenstein reminded him that he had told her he had an appointment with Senator Borah. Nevertheless, he continued, concluding with an announcement that he hoped everybody who was unpatriotic would be kicked out of the schools.

Ellicott Sees Politics on Way.

When Col. Edward B. Ellicott, president of the board of education, read the report of the meeting, he said:

"The first step to bring the schools back into politics has been taken."

These resolutions were adopted by the teachers: one indorsing efforts to increase tax revenue; an appeal for a council investigation of school finances; condemnation of the curtailment of high school courses; rigid observance of the law governing the dismissal of teachers; a return to thirty-three pupils to a teacher instead of the present thirty-five.

Realty Firm Given $33,686 Damages in Property Suit

A jury in Judge John R. Caverly's court yesterday awarded N. Lickerman & Co., real estate brokers at 10 South La Salle street, $33,686 damages as commission owed by Thomas McNally, owner of the land at the southeast corner of 79th and Halsted streets. McNally, it was charged, failed to go through with a 99 year lease he had signed with the Lickerman firm. Lickerman had intended to put up a $100,000 building on the property, he said.

FUMES OF AUTOS NEXT IN FIGHT AGAINST SMOKE

Bundesen Calls Exhaust Gases Poisonous.

Blue fumes of burned oil and gasoline spurting into the street from the exhaust pipes of motor cars and trucks were marked as the objective in a cleanup campaign yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, city health commissioner.

"Car drivers may think we are going to an extreme in this fight, but as a matter of fact the smoke they make is about ten times as dangerous as that from chimneys, not only because it is more poisonous, but because it is diffused where large numbers have to breathe it.

"Every winter we have cases of asphyxiation of persons who leave their motors running in closed garages. That shows how poisonous the gas which is, in a smaller degree, asphyxiating thousands of persons on the street every day.

"As long as we have gasoline motors, of course, there will always be some exhaust gases," the commissioner said. "But there is no excuse for excessive smoking and we think the worst part of it can be abolished by energetic law enforcement."

Here's Basis of Campaign.

The city ordinance under which Dr. Bundesen will act reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to operate or for any owner of any motor vehicle or motorcycle to permit to be operated upon the streets, alleys, and public places of this city, any motor vehicle or motorcycle so as to permit to escape therefrom any noxious smoke, gas, steam or other offensive odor."

The penalty for violations is not less than $5 nor more than $100 for each offense; the offender being liable for arrest on a separate and distinct charge every day.

Complaint by Dr. Bundesen caused the Yellow Cab company to call in many of its 900 new taxis, readjust the motors, and test the oil supplies.

"We found that the valves in about 50 of the motors were leaking oil and had them repaired," said Benjamin Samuels, lawyer for the company.

Question of Upkeep.

Excessive smoking by motors practically can be avoided if the valves and carburetors are in good shape and the right kind of fuel is used, Dr. Bundesen asserted.

The health department has asked the secretary of state for a complete list of motor license plates in Chicago. Owners of cars observed smoking will be traced through their numbers and warned after the first offense. On the second offense they will be arrested.

Doctor, Kidded About His Telephone, Sues Company

Dr. Sol Rosenblatt, 6336 Cottage Grove avenue, well known specialist, was kidded so much by his friends about his telephone service that he filed suit yesterday for $25,000 against the Illinois Bell Telephone company. In the suit, filed by Attorney Elkan Berger, the physician said he always paid his telephone bills promptly but that his service was frequently cut off. As a result, his acquaintances poked fun at him, asking him why he was unable to pay his bills, and he also lost clients, he charged.

AUTOIST PUNCHES AN ALDERMAN IN PARKING DISPUTE

Alderman or not, it makes no difference to Lewis Azarow, 30 years old, of 3257 Lexington street, who thinks an alderman's face is just as good to hit as any one's else.

And when Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th] shouted, "You can't hit me; I'm an alderman," Azarow hit him again, just to prove that he could.

The trouble started when Azarow tried to find parking space behind the alderman's auto in front of the Bismarck hotel yesterday afternoon.

"Pull up," Azarow shouted. But Govier didn't.

Then Azarow got out of his car and went to argue it out with the alderman. Words proved unavailing and Azarow resorted to blows. Then he drove away.

Ald. Govier and Policeman Frank O'Toole found him in Washington street and took him to Central police station, where he was charged with assault and battery in a complaint signed by the alderman. He was released on bonds of $1,000 and a hearing set for tomorrow.

CONGRESS TO GET REPORT ON DRY AGENT KILLERS

Britten Leads Fight for Investigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Dismissal of first degree murder indictments against three federal prohibition agents and a Methodist minister in Tacoma, Thursday, with the hint that political influence shielded the killers from punishment, has crystalized a growing demand for congressional investigation of liquor law enforcement methods.

One hundred or more wet members of the house, under the leadership of Rep. Fred Britten [Rep., Ill.], are planning to force the issue. Mr. Britten is drafting their demand for an inquiry not only into the alacrity with which political influence and government machinery move to the defense of the killers, but also into the practice, apparently sanctioned in Washington, of utilizing unofficial aides, usually ministers, as members of search parties.

Maimed or Wounded.

Treasury department officials freely admit in the last seven years more than 150 citizens have been shot dead by prohibition agents, but they are unwilling to attempt to estimate the number of thousands who have been maimed or wounded in efforts to enforce the liquor laws.

And so far as can be learned, not one of the killers ever has been punished, in spite of the fact that in most of the cases, state court indictments charging murder or manslaughter have been voted by grand juries.

Uniformly in such instances, a federal prosecutor has undertaken the defense of the slayers and by means of a habeas corpus petition, has persuaded a federal district court to assume jurisdiction and thus halt the state court prosecution. Subsequently the killers have been exonerated in the federal courts.

The "shoot to kill" policy of the prohibition department has cost the lives of at least seventeen citizens in the last thirteen months, according to the latest figures available. The circumstances of the killings and later exoneration of the killers in a number of the recent cases at least, amply justify thorough investigation by congress, according to Mr. Britten.

After Swashbuckling Gunmen.

"We propose," said Mr. Britten, "to fight for an inquiry that will disclose to what extent prohibition agents have violated the law in a fanatical desire to make a showing in their respective districts. We propose to show that cowardice and inexcusable gunplay have taken the place of orderly law enforcement and that if it continues no man's life or property is safe. We want to know why none of these murderers have been convicted and made to pay the penalty just as any other swashbuckling gunman should.

"There are far too many cases where fanatical ministers and rabid law enforcement cranks have assisted in the murder of supposed Volstead law violators and they, with the killing agents, seem to have every protection which the federal government, inspired by selfserving politicians, can muster.

"The protection of murderers and assistance given to this crime against personal liberty by certain ministers of the gospel is unworthy of any great religious body and will sooner or later drag that part of the church and its ally, the Anti-Saloon league, down to disgrace."

BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLS.

Effingham, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Warren Gilbert, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Snelton, accidentally killed himself this morning while climbing a fence, shotgun in hand, four miles west of Effingham.

N. U. LECTURER

Dr. Surendranath Dasgupta.

[Johnson & Hoffmann Photo.]

Dr. Surendranath Dasgupta, professor of European philosophy in the Presidency college at Calcutta, India, has been engaged as the Harris Foundation lecturer at Northwestern university for a week, starting Oct. 12.

Dr. Dasgupta attracted attention in India when he was 7 years old by his display of philosophical knowledge. His answers and questions concerning life and religion attracted the attention of the Bengal Theosophical society, which sponsored a number of receptions for the youth.

STERN NEBRASKA METES RECORD JAIL TERM TO WET

Dry Agents Trick Farmer as Stock Buyers.

Holdrege, Neb., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Stern Nebraska law, which has placed many liquor law violators in jail on bread and water diets, has dealt what is believed to be the severest sentence ever ordered for violation of the Volstead act.

Convicted for possession and sale of liquor, Oscar Nelson, wealthy farmer of near Holdrege, was sentenced to four years in the Nebraska state penitentiary by District Judge W. A. Dilworth.

Nelson and his brother, John, bachelors, were visited by liquor agents who represented themselves to be mule buyers. The agents suggested that it would be well to buy some "white mule" also. The brothers said they had no "white mule" but sold the agents five bottles of Canadian whisky at $10 a bottle, the agents testified.

Oscar, who has been twice convicted of liquor law violations, pleaded not guilty, but was convicted, and Judge Dilworth imposed a sentence of two years for illegal possession and two years for illegal sale, the sentences to run consecutively. John also was convicted, but as the court said, it was his first offense, he was given sixty days in jail and $100 fine for each count, sentence to run concurrently.

Sarah Lindlahr, Actress, Divorces Sanitarium Head

Divorce and property worth $75,000 were awarded Mrs. Sarah Coker Lindlahr, an actress, by Judge George F. Rush yesterday. Mrs. Lindlahr, who last appeared professionally in Chicago in "The Love City," charged her husband, Victor H. Lindlahr, president of the Lindlahr sanitarium, with cruelty. Cash settlement of $15,000 was made, in addition to notes, stock, and other valuables. The Lindlahrs were married June 20, 1918.

RUSSIA TO OFFER DEBT PACT TO GET GOLD OF BRITAIN

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The return of Leonid Krassin to London as soviet envoy marks, THE TRIBUNE learns, the beginning of a new phase of Anglo-Russian relations. M. Krassin, as he admitted in an interview, comes seeking money for the rehabilitation of Russian industry, and as he is a keen business man he realizes it cannot be obtained unless serious arrangements for the repayment not only of the new, but the old debts are made.

THE TRIBUNE learns his return is due to the culmination of a long series of secret negotiations with persons who, while not directly representing the conservative British government, are in close touch with it.

These negotiations came to a climax in the visit of an unofficial delegation of conservative members of parliament to Russia, during which the whole question of Anglo-Russian relations was minutely discussed. The conservative government is very anxious to resume friendly relations with Russia for the sake of the Russian market.

LOCAL DEALER TRADE SOLICITED

"Albert, why do you advertise?"

asks one society leader.

"Long before I came to live here, I knew of you and Hotel Sovereign. I had given dinner dances there and had been a guest at social functions. When I gave up housekeeping and its cares and moved to Hotel Sovereign, I came without your solicitation or the urge of an advertisement. The only advertising that ever influenced me or my many friends who make their homes here, was the recognized Sovereign prestige and the recommendation of one person to another.

"Never in my experience has any institution been as well liked and generally approved as Hotel Sovereign. Your cuisine, your service, the accommodations you offer, equal anything I have known in this country or abroad. Everybody knows it. I don't see why you advertise!"

WHY? Sovereign is more than a hotel. It is an institution. With traditions, and policies, and international recognition. And like all progressive institutions we believe in keeping our name before the public.

Further, it is but natural that each season should bring slight changes in our roster of guests. Therefore, from time to time other desirable guests must be informed that there are a few apartments, suites or rooms available.

We advertise, that those who appreciate the art of living . . . and a better hotel-home . . . will visit Hotel Sovereign to see what we offer, before they look elsewhere; or presume that there are no accommodations here.

And yet despite its evident luxury, Sovereign rentals are surprisingly low. Single rooms with bath—spacious—furnished in good taste, with every nicety of appointment—$90 per month. With twin beds, $100. Parlor, bedroom and bath for 1 or 2 persons, or two-room kitchenette suites, $150 per month, up.

Among other unusual features is the 60-foot white-tiled swimming pool—free to resident guests. Turkish Baths for women exclusively. One of America's famous restaurants, with the atmosphere of a smart European cafe, with a fine cuisine—a la carte or table d'hote. The Salle Royale (our magnificent oval Ballroom), the Prince of Wales Room and other private dining rooms for large or small social gatherings, weddings, banquets, luncheons.

With polite, dignified, unobtrusive service—genuine Sovereign service—you will find greater happiness here. Visit us, then decide.

"For a stay of a day . . . or a home for the year Hotel Sovereign offers more than any other hotel"

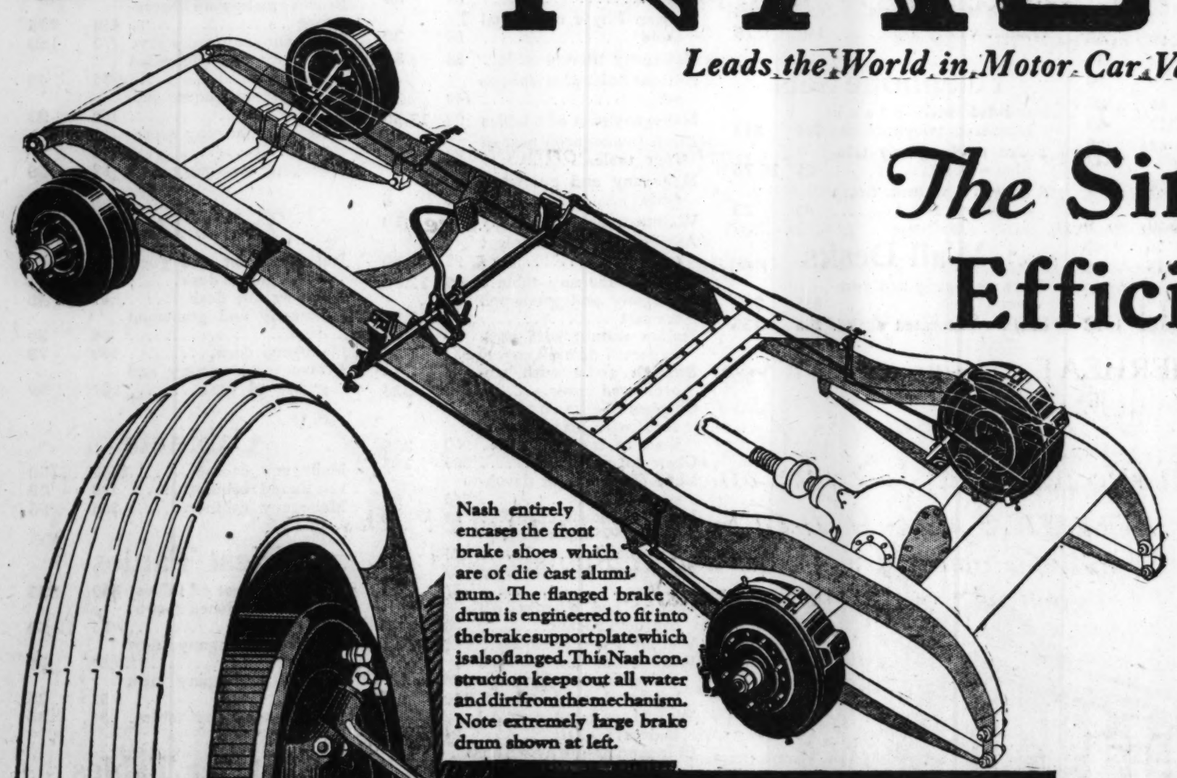
NEW NASH MODELS

Leads the World in Motor Car Value



Nash entirely encases the front brake shoes which are of die cast aluminum. The flanged brake drum is engineered to fit into the brake support plate which is also flanged. This Nash construction keeps out all water and dirt from the mechanism. Note extremely large brake drum shown at left.

The Simplest and Most Efficient 4 wheel Brakes

Standard Equipment—No Extra Cost

Another vital Nash mechanical superiority is the special Nash 4-wheel brake system—the safest, simplest and most efficient type known to the industry.

Fully equalized to right and left, front and rear, these brakes banish entirely the dangerous swerving characteristic of partially equalized brakes.

They are of unique simplicity in design, having fewer points requiring lubrication than any other mechanical brake system.

Extreme heat or severest cold does not hamper operation. And continuous efficiency is maintained by reason of their permanency of adjustment achieved thru the use of exceptionally large braking surfaces.

Their instant, powerful, but velvety ease-ful pressure is scientifically distributed, 60% to the rear and 40% to the front.

The sixteen new Nash models now on display range in price from $865 to $2090 f. o. b. factory.

New Nash Features

7-bearing crankshaft motor—world's smoothest type—powers all new Nash models.

New-type crankcase "breather" which prevents crankcase dilution.

New double beam headlights with convenient steering wheel control.

Rich new body finish colors.

All enclosed bodies are of the expensive wood-frame body construction employed by finest American and European motor cars.

And a long list of added new improvements.

Here's What a GOOD Oil Burner Should Do!

It should give you carefree service—instantly responsive to weather changes.

SUMMERHEAT is entirely automatic in maintaining an unvarying temperature in every room of your home.

It should protect you against oil shortage, power or mechanical failure.

SUMMERHEAT allows your burning coal, wood, coke or any other fuel at any time without affecting the burner. Also allows you to burn garbage, papers or waste—gives you a complete garbage incinerator without extra cost.

It should be economical.

SUMMERHEAT can be throttled down and avoid burning fuel needlessly in mild weather. It is instantly adapted to any size and any type of domestic heating plant and therefore operates on its greatest efficiency on small or large heating systems alike.

SUMMERHEAT is listed as standard by the Underwriters' Laboratories, and its listing was given only after meeting the broadest, most exacting tests that could be given a modern oil burner. Adapted for any type of home heating system.

It should provide a beautiful, compact, inexpensive installation.

SUMMERHEAT is installed without requiring the removal of your furnace grates or altering your present heating plant whatever. Swings on the feed door—never affected by water on the floor or a flooded basement.

"Last November I had a SUMMERHEAT Oil Burner installed in connection with my ROUND OAK Furnace and find that no matter what the weather is outside the house is always kept at an even temperature. Even during coldest weather the house is always comfortable.

*"*SUMMERHEAT needs practically no attention while with coal burning it was necessary to attend to the furnace several times a day. The advantages of the SUMMERHEAT oil burner over coal are so great that I would not part with it for more than it cost me if I had to go back to coal burning or could not get another SUMMERHEAT."

Mrs. Peter Troost,
Niles, Michigan.

It should be easy to "serve."

SUMMERHEAT can be instantly inspected without disconnecting or removing any part of the burner or your heating plant. And every owner is further protected by prompt service through Round Oak men specially trained for this work.

It should be easy to pay for.

SUMMERHEAT allows you "a year to pay" with a small down payment.

It should never become an "orphan."

SUMMERHEAT is backed by the Round Oak Folks with millions invested in plants and equipment, and the priceless good will of millions of satisfied customers.

WAYS CHICAGO CAN PROFIT BY NEIGHBORS' JOB

Riviera Also a Workshop, Run with Vision.

Every day, in every place, you encounter something new, interesting, and stimulating when you make The Tribune's Chicagoland pilgrimage—interesting men, stimulating ideas, pleasing scenes. Story 46 in our pilgrimage assembles some of those impressions as collected along Chicago's Riviera.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

THE TRIBUNE printed yesterday morning an editorial entitled "Build Airports." The first paragraph began "Chicago must build airports"; so did the second.

"Once lost," said THE TRIBUNE in reference to Chicago's opportunity "by geographic right" of becoming the country's aviation center, "the opportunity will not come again," and added—"Industries grow where they get started."

Demands Prompt Action.

Plainly the matter is urgent; and, in urgent matters, seek counsel.

Muskegon, commercial capital of Chicago's Riviera, has counsel to offer. This is a fact not without its ironic aspects when you recall that Muskegon has a population of less than 60,000 and Chicago about 50 times as much. Thought, it seems, counts more than numbers in matters where initiative is a factor.

For Muskegon is already the seat of energetic airport development under private auspices.

Continental Motors, industrial giant which Muskegon lured with candy—community candy—off Chicago's doorstep less than twenty years ago when Continental Motors was a baby with 4,000 square feet of floor space, is the pioneer in an aviation development which Muskegon expects to carry far.

Muskegon, in passing, is the town where the first question put to the visitor is "Have you a new idea?" If he has the chamber of commerce immediately calls a meeting to consider the feasibility of financing the new idea.

Relative Value of Dollar.

Continental Motors, which now requires fifteen acres of floor space for its gigantic operations, does two-thirds of its manufacturing at its Muskegon plant and one-third in Detroit—giving Muskegon the wide edge for two reasons: Labor costs less there, and there is less trouble with labor.

But things balance.

Justus Stearns of Ludington, once Michigan's secretary of state, told me that for a working man $4 in any of the upper Riviera towns is better than $6 in Detroit. He said that some of his employés—and at 80 he is active president of fifteen companies—had found that out by costly experiment.

Already Has An Airport.

But, as it has to deal with Detroit, Continental Motors has put $100,000 into its Muskegon airport, and runs a Muskegon-Detroit service two or three times a week. At present this is an interplant service and private, but if a Muskegon citizen wants to get to Detroit in a hurry, and if he telephones the Continental people in advance, they courteously take him on as a passenger. Their 3 engine, 10 passenger airplane makes the 200 mile trip to Detroit in an hour and a half. By rail that trip takes 7 hours.

When Chicago wakes up and acts upon the admonitions in THE TRIBUNE'S Saturday morning editorial, when, in short, it provides itself with adequate airport, then the Continental company's planes will land Muskegon passengers in the heart of Chicago in an hour and a quarter after they have left Muskegon. The distance is 125 miles.

Maybe such a service would not make business for us. And maybe it would!

Looks Toward Chicago.

Almost surely it would because, as Muskegon men say, "two-thirds of Muskegon's interests are with Chicago and one-third with Detroit." Automotively, of course, Muskegon is linked with Detroit, but in its other affairs, big, constructive, architectural affairs especially, it looks toward Chicago.

So does Ludington, as you have proof when you see the charming Georgian theater of brick and stone which is being built in Ludington. Not a Detroit firm but Foltz & Company of Chicago are the architects.

A score such instances of important new Riviera projects that are directly linked with Chicago came under my eyes during my week on the west Michigan coast.

"Industries grow where they get started," was another arresting line in THE TRIBUNE'S editorial on airports.

As industries make towns, that means that towns also grow where they get started.

The interesting John Beukema of Muskegon, put it another way. "Cities," said he, "are built where men build them," meaning that they don't just inevitably grow by virtue of superior geographic or stronger defensive location. That theory seems to me to contradict history to some extent, but John Beukema drove home his argument by adding:

"Bathhurst in West Africa, capital of the British colony of Gambia, is the logical center for the world's greatest city. It is the logical center partly owing to the caravan routes that meet there and partly owing to the enormous richness of its hinterland. But Bathhurst is not, and will not be, the world's greatest city because the men are not there to make it such. In its population of more than 6,000 there are only 60 or 70 white men. Also, New York, was built not by automatic propulsion of location but by men who chose to live in New York instead of in Norfolk, which has a better location."

How Cities Are Built.

It is the convictions of men like John Beukema of Muskegon and George Nye of Manistee that make those towns believe in themselves and tackle destiny without asking odds.

Always in the tours THE TRIBUNE grants me—and they are a privilege—I scrupulously copy significant inscriptions on buildings and monuments. A writer is known by the writers he quotes. So is a city.

In the stone above the entrance of its Junior high and elementary school, now nearly finished, Muskegon Heights, an independent municipality, has carved these words:

"The Foundation of Every State Is the Education of its Youth. DIOGENES."

This Diogenes is not, I believe, Diogenes the Grouch, who told the great king that all he wanted of him was that he get out of his sunshine, but Diogenes Laertius, who flourished later and who preserved for us more sayings of more great men than any other Boswell that ever lived. Look under his name in Bartlett and you will be amazed.

"Break your match."

Those three words shout at you from sign boards along route "M Eleven" after you get into the region of the now vanished pineries.

It means that you should not throw a still burning match from your car after you have lighted a cigar with it. The appeal intimates that you have the sense to know that the match is extinguished if you have cause to break it before throwing it into the dry growth by the roadside. The intimation is some times too complimentary.

Learns Lesson—Late.

The "break-your-match" signs also mean that Michigan—at last and too late—has learned its lesson in the matter of the pineries. Once the great commonwealth allowed them to be wantonly exploited as a means for getting rich quick; today it is trying to save the pathetic remnants of them as a beauty asset, as a tourist asset. Unnecessary fires did almost as much damage as ruthless cutting in the old days of the unvisioned lumber barons. Fires can still do heavy damage.

Hence the signs — "Break your match." . . . "Help prevent fires." . . . "Prevent forest fires—It pays." . . . "Protect Michigan's beauty by care of your campfire." . . . "Forest fires ruin fishing and hunting. Think it over."

The next sign you see as you tour along is not unlikely to be "Rooms for Tourists."

You get the connection. So does Michigan.

Some Never Learn It.

But one town of our Riviera has not wholly learned its lesson. So recently that the deed still is a scandal in the nostrils of decent Muskegonites, some of their city officials chopped down rows of maples and elms lining Terrace and Clay streets. Each row was four blocks long, and many of the trees had been planted sixty years before by the pioneers.

Can you imagine any crime against beauty more iniquitous? The alibi of the vandals was that downtown Muskegon needed more parking space!

Seems as if there must be a taint of the old lumber barons' devilry still in Muskegon's blood.

In the matter of ordeal by fire, Manistee, Mich., claims sisterhood with Chicago, and will this week celebrate simultaneously with Chicago its recovery from that ordeal. On Oct. 7, 1871, two days before our disaster, Manistee was burned to the ground by a fire that leaped in from a cut pinery on the south which the lumber barons had left piled high with tinder.

And so, this week, our neighbor in the Riviera and we will be observing fire prevention week in mutual piety.

BEG YOUR PARDON—Charles Collins, the dramatic critic, writes concerning a reference in last Thursday's Chicagoland story on Mr. Getz's zoo: "In today's article you speak of Horace's 'O, lacrymae rerum.' You surely meant Virgil's 'Sunt lacrymae rerum, et mentem mortalia tangunt,' which Matthew Arnold paraphrased into 'The sense of tears in mortal things.'"

Charles, I surely should have so meant it. It was a blunder that a fourth year high school boy should be whipped for making. While writing, I called over to Mrs. Forbes Herrick's desk, "Isn't 'lacrymae rerum' Horace's?" "I am not sure," that lady replied, "but mightn't it be Virgil's?" Warning enough! But I was airy, saying, "Virgil never in his life said anything as briefly as that is said," and went ahead. So now I am whipped. O'D. B.

ANOTHER COURT ATTACHE LINKED TO BRIBE CASE

Ritter Goes Before Grand Jury This Week.

The state practically concluded its investigation yesterday into the alleged bribery of Ralph Ritter, juror in the $151,000 suit of the Severinghaus Printing company against Dr. William H. Reid, former Thompson political leader. This week the prosecutors will go before the grand jury and seek indictments against at least three men charging them with conspiracy to bribe a juror, according to First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman.

JOHN R. M'WAIN.

Bailiff Identified in Case.

John R. McWain, 3805 Belle Plaine avenue, a bailiff in the Municipal court and a Fortieth ward political leader, was identified yesterday as the sponsor of the mysterious Mr. Griffin, who is alleged to have promised the juror $2,000 to bring in a large verdict in favor of the Severinghaus concern.

Ritter already has identified Sergt. Edward Corda of the Marquette police station as Mr. Griffin, who he says paid him approximately $200 of the promised bribe. Corda, according to Assistant State's Attorney William H. Rittenhouse, was at one time chauffeur and body guard for Milton G. Severinghaus, head of the printing company. Joseph Cooke, clerk in Judge Joseph B. David's court where the verdict was returned, also has been involved by Ritter.

Story of Juror Ritter.

The story which Ritter is expected to tell the grand jury is that Cooke approached him after he was selected as a juror and asked him if he needed money. When he replied in the affirmative, he said, Cooke took him to the eighth floor of the City hall and introduced him to Bailiff McWain. The latter in turn called in Sergt. Corda, who gave the name of Griffin, and the arrangements for the bribe were then completed.

River Forest to Dedicate $75,000 Episcopal Church

The first unit of River Forest's new $75,000 Christ Episcopal church will be dedicated this morning by Bishop Charles P. Anderson. Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold, the Rev. Francis J. Tromp, pastor, and the Rev. F. R. Godolphin, rector of Grace church, Oak Park, will participate in the services.

HAIL CABINET OF PILSUDSKI AS POLES' GREATEST

Conservatives Rally to Marshal.

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Marshal Pilsudski, leader of the coup d'état in Poland which overthrew the Witos government, today set up a ministry of his own to replace that of former Premier Bartel, who resigned on Thursday.

The new cabinet is considered by some of the Warsaw papers as the strongest that has been created in Poland since the establishment of Polish independence, in November, 1918. It is admitted, however, that the marshal is now faced with the problem of tacking between the right and the left.

The forces of the right are displaying unusual equanimity in viewing Marshal Pilsudski's action in accepting the premiership. This is interpreted in political circles as indicating satisfaction on the part of conservatives that the marshal finally has been compelled to assume personal responsibility for Poland's politics.

The cabinet set up today follows:

Premier and Minister of War.....Marshal Pilsudski
Foreign Affairs .....Unfilled
Interior .....M. Slawoj-Stladkowski
Trade and Industry....M. Kwiatowski
Finance .....M. Czechowicz
Agriculture .....Karel Niezavytowski
Communication .....M. Romocki
Public Works ...Andrew Moraczewski
Social Welfare.....Dr. Jurkiewicz
Agrarian Reform..Prof. W. Staniewicz
Justice ..... Alexander Meysztowicz

The new government is expected to start diplomatic action immediately with reference to the recently signed Lithuanian-Russian treaty, which has been interpreted here as an indication that Lithuania is still interested in recovering Vilna, which is now Polish.

Lithuania Allied With Soviets.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 2.—Lithuania, which has occupied an isolated position in European politics since the Poles seized Vilna in 1920, has definitely allied itself with Russia by the newly signed Russo-Lithuanian neutrality pact, and the possibility of the Poles seizing additional Lithuanian territory is removed, the Lithuanian premier, Slezevikius, who has returned to Kovno from Moscow, told THE TRIBUNE.

Lithuania will not sign a peace treaty with Poland until the Poles honor the Suwalki treaty, which gives Lithuania Vilna, declared M. Slezevikius. He said one of the reasons for the alliance with Moscow is the fact that Poland has been concentrating large numbers of troops on the Lithuania border.

Matzenauer, with $48,410 Debts, Is a Bankrupt

New York, Oct. 2.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy listing liabilities of $48,410 and no assets was filed today in behalf of Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, prima donna contralto.

Mme. Marzenauer lists eight judgments and scores of other debts, the largest of which is $20,000, due to Felix Warburg, banker and music patron.

FORTY CITIES TO SEE PLANE THAT FLEW OVER POLE

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—People in about forty cities between the east and west coasts will have an opportunity to see the Fokker airplane in which Commander Richard E. Byrd made his historic flight over the north pole.

Starting from Washington on Oct. 7, the big plane will traverse the important air routes of the country, making stops at representative cities. While the itinerary has not been completed, the first flight of the tour will be from Washington to New York, and then to Albany, N. Y. Other cities have not yet been named.

Floyd Bennett, who was mechanic on the north pole flight, will pilot the plane. It was previously reported that Commander Byrd would be chief pilot for the tour, but it was learned today that he has loaned the plane as his contribution for promoting aviation in this country.

CHICAGO FILLS $300,000 ASKED TO AID FLORIDA

Probably Will Pass the Required Total.

Despite the fact that actual cash receipts for Chicago's fund for relief in the Florida hurricane district were shy a few thousands of the $300,000 quota at the close of tabulations yesterday, there was enough in sight in independent funds to carry the municipal collections over the goal. Probably the fund will go higher.

Fund to Exceed $300,000.

Today being Sunday, no reports will be received, but with a total of $261,000 on hand in cash and currency, and with a minimum of $35,000 known to be in the possession of radio stations, newspapers and other agencies, officials of the fund confidently predicted that tomorrow's accounting will see the quota reached and passed.

Several organizations who have been collecting funds for the purpose from among their membership have considerable sums on hand which have not yet been reported, but these are not estimated with the $35,000 credited to independent agencies, and are principally responsible for the prediction of a comfortable margin for the fund.

Tribune Fund Figures.

Augmented by $314 in donations, THE TRIBUNE'S fund for relief in Florida was brought yesterday to a total of $5,464.41, while gifts totaling $28 were added to those directed to be forwarded to the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, making that amount $2,301, and bringing the total of contributions sent through this newspaper to $7,765.41.

Yesterday's donations, payable to THE TRIBUNE, were:

$105.00—Employés of American Can company at Maywood.

$100.00—American Restaurant Association of Chicago.

$50.00—Chicago Pie company.

$34.00—Republican organization of the Sixth ward, 1020 East 63d street.

$5.00—W. W. Beymer, C. M. Munger, G. F. Corrigan, Mrs. Gladys Kelham.

$2.00—A Friend.

$1.00—Louise Niewoehner, A. J. N., A. M. G.

Total—$314.00.

Previously acknowledged—$5,150.41.

Grand total—$5,464.41.

Gifts made payable to the Red Cross were:

$20.00—John E. James.

$5.00—S. C. R.

$3.00—Caroline Swanson.

Total—$28.00.

Previously acknowledged—$2,273.00.

Grand total—$2,301.00.

Donations sent to THE TRIBUNE may be made payable either to this newspaper or the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, of which J. M. Dickinson is treasurer.

OPEN NEW PORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARODA, India, Oct. 2.—The first steamer to reach the port of Okha, which just has been opened by the Baroda government on the Arabian sea, is the German ship Reichenfels of the Hamua Steamship company from Bremen, carrying cargoes for the merchants of north Gujarat. A monthly service will be established between Germany and India. It is understood that the Ellerman Steamship company is starting a service from England to the port of Okha. The development of the port of Okha has created an urgent demand for additional heavyweight lifting cranes and wagons for hauling goods.

SALVATION ARMY SEEKS $319,000 FOR WORK HERE

Confident that Chicagoans will not permit recent appeals for funds for relief and rehabilitation work in Florida to interfere with charity which not only begins but remains at home, the Salvation Army's volunteer and vocational workers will launch tomorrow morning the annual home service appeal of that organization, with a minimum of $319,000 as the goal.

Directing the campaign from headquarters at 35 East Wacker drive, room 1510, will be Lewis E. Myers of the L. E. Myers company, who is chairman of the drive committee. As in former years, John F. Gilchrist, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, will serve as general chairman of the drive.

How Gifts Are Apportioned.

As proof of the efficiency and good faith of the Salvation Army, emphasis is being placed on the fact that of each dollar contributed to the home service appeal, 94 cents is expended directly for charity, the remaining six cents defraying overhead expense. This figure, it is explained, would be impossible without the coöperation of the many volunteer workers who give their time and service in helping along the work.

Every penny of the money received will be expended in Chicago under the program mapped out by the leading business men of the city who are serving on the advisory board, it is further emphasized.

Chairmen of Trade Groups.

Chairmen of the trade division groups who will begin work tomorrow morning include E. R. Graham of Graham, Anderson, Probst and White; Alfred Stern of Kuppenheimer & Co.; John S. Coonley Jr. of the Winslow Boiler and Engine company; Irving S. Florsheim of the Florsheim Shoe company; Glenn M. Shaeffer, general manager of the Peabody Coal company; Charles Riddell, manager of the Baldwin Locomotive works; Frank Bering, manager of the Hotel Sherman; A. E. Clift, vice president of the Illinois Central railroad; and A. C. Cronkrite of the Universal Portland Cement company.

Brookhart Declines Challenge to Debate

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Smith W. Brookhart, Republican senatorial nominee, will not accept the challenge of Claude R. Porter, his Democratic opponent, to debate campaign issues in each congressional district of Iowa. This statement was made today by Maj. Frank J. Lund, the colonel's primary campaign manager.

POLICE SLAYER'S MOTHER BLAMES DESERTER-FATHER

Richard Evans, 19 year old slayer of Policeman Edward Finegan, who will die on the gallows Oct. 22 unless the Supreme court intervenes, went to bed with a revolver under his pillow before he had reached the age of 14 years. Such was the testimony yesterday given by his mother, Mrs. Thomas Evans, before Judge Francis Borrelli in the Court of Domestic Relations, where she was appearing against her husband on a charge of desertion.

"When my boy was needing the guidance of a father he deserted us," said the grayhaired mother, who fainted several times during the hearing. "Before my son was 14 years old he started to go to sleep, with the knowledge of his father, with a revolver under his pillow."

Mrs. Evans had her husband arrested on a year old warrant when they appeared at about the same time at the county jail Friday to visit the police slayer.

"This is a terrible example of lack of coöperation on the part of a family in bringing up their child and, as I see it, of a father's refusal to do his duty," said the judge in continuing the case until Nov. 10.

KNOWN FOR GOOD FOOD
Wherever travelers gather who appreciate good food, the Bismarck is mentioned enthusiastically in memory of countless good meals served there. The New Bismarck Hotel maintains the same chef and menu of famous dishes

Chicago's Own Bismarck

The New Bismarck Hotel offers upon a magnificent plan the hospitality and mellow atmosphere of the old-world hostelry.

Of course, it is new, beautiful, up-to-date, convenient and modern in every way.

But it is more than new and more than beautiful. It has the restrained beauty that appeals to a travel-wise cosmopolite. This beauty is largely the well-planned result of long experience in hotel management and long acquaintance with public taste.

The rooms are attractively furnished, faultless in appointment. Each an outside room. Rates are quite reasonable.

FEDERATION WILL RE-ELECT GREEN, UNION CHIEFS SAY

National Meeting Opens in Detroit Tomorrow.

BY THOMAS WREN.

This year's convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will convene tomorrow morning at Detroit, is scheduled to be one of the most constructive in its history.

Chicago leaders say William Green, formerly secretary of the mine workers, will be reëlected president of the federation without opposition. Green was selected shortly after the death of Samuel Gompers in 1924 and reëlected in 1925.

At the annual labor meetings the solid vote of the miners' organization, one of the most powerful in the federation, was cast for Green. Headquarters of the miners are located at Indianapolis. Located there, too, are the international unions of carpenters, barbers, and teamsters, all entitled to a large vote because of their numerical strength. Often the Indianapolis unions have been termed the little American Federation of Labor.

Foreign Delegates to Attend.

England's group of fraternal delegates will attend this year's convention along with fraternal delegations from Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, Mexico, and Ireland.

President Calles of Mexico has extended an invitation to the European delegates to visit Mexico at the government's expense after adjournment of the convention.

Efforts will be made to keep the Mexican dispute between the church and government off the convention floor.

To Tell of Big Strike.

The British delegation is scheduled to make some kind of a report on England's general strike which was called last May.

At the conventions of the American Federation of Labor held in Portland, Ore., in 1923; in El Paso, Tex., in 1924, and in the Atlantic City convention in 1925, the British labor delegation was charged with spreading Russian propaganda. When the general strike was called in England many American labor officials averred it was prompted by Moscow influences. This year the American labor leaders are awaiting the report of the British delegation to ascertain whether it embodies a more conservative note.

Will Discuss Finances.

With employment plentiful at high wage rates the convention will discuss the entry of various labor unions into the field of finance more strenuously than the topic of unionizing unorganized workers. Delegates from the colored class are slated to make an appeal for organization.

Coolidge Kin's Jazz Band to Tour Nation

BUILDING PERMITS NEAR $26,000,000 FOR SEPTEMBER

Building permits issued in Chicago for the month of September totaled $25,943,500 in value, a net gain of $5,393,000 over the corresponding month of 1925, William Maloney, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation corporation, announced last night. This valuation sets a record for September permits.

For the first nine months of this year the valuation of construction of all types erected in Chicago amounted to $264,779,000.

"Employment in the Chicago building industry is becoming more stabilized and the amount of construction let to contract is keeping all trades of building workmen busy," Maloney said.

"From a survey of the situation there is no prospect of a letup in building activities in sight."

Adolph Linick of Theater Concern Is Married Here

Adolph Linick, 56 years old, member of the theatrical firm of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, was married yesterday to Mrs. Dora Fuller, 45 years old, Los Angeles. The two were childhood friends. The ceremony was performed by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath who had long been acquainted with both.

SUICIDE LETTER SHOWS DREAD OF LOSS OF REASON

Suicide while temporarily insane was the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday investigating the death of Mrs. May H. Moore, 35 years old, of Keokuk, Iowa., who plunged to her death from a twenty-second story window of the Hotel Sherman.

"My nerves are all shattered and getting worse each day," Mrs. Moore wrote in a letter to her husband, just before taking her own life. "I know I am not normal and I would rather die than be crazy. I cannot stand to face our many dear friends and the public again.

"Please forgive me, dear one, and remember I love you, but I just can't go on in my condition. Say good-by to my family and our many dear friends. May they all think of me at my best and forgive me this awful deed."

L. V. Moore, who reached Chicago yesterday to take the body of his wife to Keokuk for burial, declared she long had been suffering from a nervous breakdown.

YOUTH IS SHOT ACCIDENTALLY.

Edwin Gould, 24 years old, 2939 East 97th street, was wounded in the hands and left arm yesterday when his shotgun was accidentally discharged as he was rowing toward a spot in Calumet lake where he expected to shoot ducks.

Evanston Presbyterians to Dedicate Church Today

A week of dedication services will open today in the new $300,000 Second Presbyterian church at Hinman avenue and Main street, Evanston, which has just been completed. At the morning services the keys to the structure will be presented to the board of trustees by the building committee, which is headed by James R. Smart. A. B. Clark, president of the board of trustees, will make the speech of acceptance. The sermon will be preached by the pastor, the Rev. Raymond Huston, and the Rev. A. S. C. Clarke will deliver the prayer of consecration. In the evening, the Rev. John Timothy Stone will deliver the sermon.

ORIENTAL RUGS

Oriental Rugs at Semi-Annual Sale Prices!

Plodding caravans bring to the market places the romance of a thousand years of craftsmanship . . Ghiordes from the plains of Turkey . . Chinese Rugs from Tien-tsin . . Beluchistans from west of India . . gathered here for you.

¶ One of the most satisfying facts in buying Rugs from Richardson's is the knowledge that back of every one of these fine Orientals is the prestige of our 51-year leadership in offering the best values in Floor Coverings.

You may purchase Fine Chinese and Oriental Rugs on Our Budget Plan

Anatolian Mats

1½x2½ ft.

The atmosphere of Turkey is caught in these sparkling mats. They may be used under piano pedals, on tables, or in doorways. A special feature of our Semi-Annual Sale.

Hamadan Orientals

$24.50

Average size 2½x4 ft.

Hand-woven in Persia—the land of rich romance, where the ruling monarchs have always encouraged the art of Rug weaving. The deep thick pile is woven into lovely floral patterns in deep blue, rose and tan colorings. Priced unusually close for such heavy Rugs.

Beluchistans

Average size 3x5 ft.

South of Afghanistan lies the land of Beluchistan. For centuries weaving has been the heritage of father and of son. These Rugs come in the deep red and mulberry colorings offset by a rich blue. The weavers utilize the dark, natural hues of the wools and get luster and softness from the goat fleeces of the mountain districts. These beautiful Rugs will give excellent service. Our Sale Price represents exceptional value.

Occasional Table

$21.50

Invaluable for tea time or luncheon. Octagonal Walnut top, 30 in. wide. Turned Gumwood legs and stretchers. Also shown in Mahogany and Gumwood. Hand decorated, $25.50.

Lilehans

$62.50

Average size 3½x5 ft.

From the land of sand and loneliness, where serpentine caravans silhouette against starlit waves of sand, come these perfect Persian Rugs. Fine durable wool is used by the weavers, and the pile is high. One of the feature values offered in our Semi-Annual Sale. See them in our salesroom. We know that when you do, you will wish to own one of these lovely Rugs.

Ghiordes Orientals

9x12 ft. $115

An unusual offering of hand woven Ghiordes Orientals from Turkey. During this sale you can secure these Rugs at a price much below that of many domestic weaves. Rose, Red and Blue colorings lend their bright shades to the many distinctive patterns. A real value in Ghiordes Orientals, specially priced for our Semi-Annual Sale.

6x9 ft., $57.50 8x10 ft., $97.50

Fine Chinese Rugs

9x12 ft.

$298 to $465

Low swinging lanterns . . . tinted scents from brazen burners . . . the land of golden fantasy and lotus-laden streams . . . the mysticism of the Orient . . . are symbolized in these delightful Chinese Rugs, forever reminiscent of the ancient dynasties. Their motifs signify a class distinction in their craftsmanship. Buy now—at Richardson's. Take advantage of Sale prices and give your family and yourself the pleasure of possessing one of these charming Rugs. Extra fine qualities only.

Finest Worsted Wiltons

The highest quality Wiltons woven, with more than 1,800 tufts of yarn to the sq. ft. Delightful patterns in Rose, Blue, Taupe and Mulberry colorings. A beautiful selection of these high grade Wiltons. 9x12 ft. $104

Gorevans

$167.50 and $187.50

About 9¼ ft. x 12¼ ft.

From the district of Herez, Gorevan Oriental Rugs come to us in all the glory of their medallion and allover patterns. For 150 miles along the Caspian Sea it extends—a country rich in history and heritage. These Rugs are thick, with sturdy pile, and are shown in choice colorings. For many years they have had an enviable reputation among Rug enthusiasts. Compare these beautiful Rugs with any you have seen—then compare prices. We believe this low price is not equaled in Chicago.

Varak Orientals

About 9x12 ft.

These long wearing Orientals come from Smyrna, in Asia Minor. Rose and Blue backgrounds predominate, with distinctively beautiful patterns in Rose, Blue and dull Gold thrown over them. The nap is deep and soft. A remarkably fine Rug at this low price. A good variety is here with an appeal to every taste for color harmony.

Northwestern university yesterday opened its new two million dollar stadium in Evanston and celebrated with a victory over the University of South Dakota eleven, 34 to 0, before 18,000 spectators.

RALPH BAKER.

The Purple went from touchdown to touchdown, taking the first toward the end of the opening quarter and adding them as time passed until they had five. No extraordinary effort was called for, no superstrategy needed, and therefore none was forthcoming, for the Evanston team has seven more games during this new season and there were the inquisitive scouts in the stands.

Perhaps the most thrilling thing in the pastime was Gustafson's touchdown that came after the gun had been fired at the end of the first half. It had just scored 6 points upon the receiving end of Schumacher's short pass. On the first play after the kickoff, Bacon, the Coyotes' quarter back, attempted a forward pass as the gun was fired. That ended the half as far as many were concerned, but not for Gustafson, who isn't a union man and doesn't believe in quitting whistle. He grabbed the pass and ran through most of the South Dakota team for the score.

Baker in Old-Time Form.

Capt. Ralph "Moon" Baker played most of the first half and was in for a minute toward the end of the game. He displayed all of his 1924 form, when he played second fiddle only to Grange in the conference limelight.

Baker started the game listed as a quarterback, but in reality was playing his old left half position, with the added duty of calling the signals. The quarterback deficiency was caused by the non-appearance of "Yatz" Levison, a young sophomore who made grid history at Evanston high, who appeared for the rôle of a second fullback.

Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite tried out fifteen backfield men. After his regulars had gathered a safe margin in the first half, he began parading his substitutes. He got thirty-eight names in the box score.

Visitors' Only Chance.

South Dakota got its only chance to score soon after play started. Capt. Malone recovered a Purple backfield fumble on Northwestern's thirty-three yard line and attempted a place kick when his team was unable to gain. The effort missed by inches.

The Purple then marched steadily down the field from the twenty yard mark, a march that ended when Holmer's one yard line buck carried the ball over. The march was featured by Griffith's thirty yard end run, Baker's several five yard gains and two short successful forward passes. Baker also kicked goal.

Over Three Times in Second.

Northwestern got three of its touchdowns in the second quarter. The first of these was made by Bob Colin, sophomore colored full back, who plunged over after Griffith had interrupted a pass on the South Dakota 46 yard line and the Purple had worked the ball to within one yard of the goal. Hoblitt's fumble on his own ten yard line gave Northwestern its third score. The Purple were penalized fifteen yards for holding in the line on the next play after the fumble but came through on gains by Schumacher and Colin.

Gustafson's drop kick attempt for the extra point was blocked, but the touchdown was credited with the point because of offside play by the South Dakota line. After the kickoff the gun was fired on the first play and Gustafson scored his second touchdown on an intercepted forward pass, as related before.

The last score came toward the end of the game when Bert Fox, substitute quarter back, intercepted another South Dakota pass on the twenty yard line.

Chicago's Maroons offered for inspection their 1926 wares to 30,000 cash customers, who considerably more than half filled the enlarged stadium at Stagg field yesterday. Those wares were polished up just enough to overcome a stubborn resistance from Florida's Gators by a count of 12 to 6, representing a touchdown from a forward pass and two dropkicks against a touchdown by Florida.

Touchdown from a forward pass! That in itself would have been enough for the Maroon supporters, long clamoring for an open game, but they saw plenty of forward passes, and they saw end runs instead of the crushing, monotonous attack to which they long had been accustomed.

So, as one old timer remarked at the finish, "Well, we may not win another game this season, probably we won't, but the games will be interesting, anyway."

Maroons on the Air.

That appraisal is a bit drab. The Maroons are not yet a great football team, but they have possibilities. They are fast on their feet and faster above the shoulders than some Chicago elevens have been. Completely baffled by the long and short passes of the Gators in the second and third periods, it was their ability to solve this attack and intercept the aerial heaves which turned the tide in their favor.

The Maroons of 1926 lack the power of some former elevens. There are spots in the line which need bolstering. They lack experience. But these same Maroons showed "something" which, of course, may fade before the stronger Big Ten opposition. In their praise, let us mention both ends, Apitz and Spence, record an absence of poor passes from center, only one fumble, and a propensity for following the ball.

Rouse and McKinney are a fleet pair of backs, successful in several good runs against the Florida ends.

Stagg Laughs.

At the finish Director Stagg laughed and said, "I was so busy trying to satisfy the local board of strategy (meaning critics) with passes and end runs that we did not have time to try much else."

The afternoon entertainment began with an innovation. Stagg led his charges on the field by fours in military formation instead of the captain dogtrotting at the head of his stalwarts. And as they swung around and faced the Maroon rooting section, the players were singing "The Song of C," whose use is restricted to those with letters for athletic prowess.

Shortly after Chicago's kickoff there was indication of an open game. With the first quarter still young and the ball in Chicago's possession on its own 48 yard line, Marks heaved a 28 yard pass to Apitz, who outsprinted the Florida defense man, leaped in the air to spear the oval and sprinted the remaining distance for the first touchdown. McDonough's place kick for the extra point was low. Chicago, 6; Florida, 0.

Gators Tie It Up.

Florida kicked off and soon launched a pass attack of its own interspersed with off tackle smashes by Owens and line punches by Bishop which took the ball to Chicago's 15 yard line. There was where the 1925 Maroon line would have been useful. On the seventh play Owens went over the necessary inches to even the count. Stanley's place kick hit the side bar and bounded back into the field. Chicago, 6; Florida, 6.

Late in the second quarter Chicago counted again. Marks passed to Spence for a 28 yard gain. With the ball on Florida's 11 yard line, three plunges netted only four yards. Stanley Rouse then stepped back and drop kicked three points. Chicago, 9; Florida, 6. There was no more scoring in the half.

Florida pressed the attack in the third quarter and for a time baffled the Maroons by the air route.

Near the end of the quarter a pass, Marks to Apitz, was good for 14 yards, and just as the fourth quarter started Rouse booted another drop kick from Florida's 23 yard line which gave the Maroons' 23 yard line.

Cubs Nose Out White Sox, 1-0, Lead Series

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Percy Lee Jones and Alfonse Tommy Thomas labored industriously in a hectic pitching duel at Comiskey park yesterday afternoon, waiting for the break of the game. It came in the eighth inning and was in favor of Jones, and the Cubs grabbed the third game of the city series from the White Sox by the close count of 1 to 0. The series now stand two games for the Cubs and one for the Sox.

PERCY JONES.

Without a break coming, those two young hurlers might have continued their toil until darkness stopped them, because both were superb and the batters on each side were swinging in agony. In seven innings the Sox had four scattered hits and the Cubs had three. And then in the eighth came the break, and, like hungry tigers, the Cubs jumped at their chance and knocked in the one run which was as big as a mountain.

It was the first half of the eighth with the Cubs at bat. One man was out when Jim Cooney poked a single into left field. That was the fourth hit for the north siders. It would have been as harmless as a summer breeze had not the break followed. Mike Gonzales smashed a rather hot grounder right at young Morehart, who is subbing for Hunnefield, who has been subbing for Boss Collins. Right in front of him was the easiest kind of a double play, made to order.

Break Wins for Cubs.

The young man saw it and maybe had a sudden attack of nerves or maybe the ball hit a pebble or something. Anyway it skipped right through him and went hopping out into the outfield. Instead of there being a double killing retiring the side, Gonzales was safe at first, Cooney was on third and only one was out. It sure was a break—a splendid break for the Cubs and a tough one for the Sox.

The infielders gathered in close hoping to cut the run off at the plate. Jones himself stepped into the batter's box and won his own gamb, thus crowning himself as hero of the day. He smacked one right between Thomas' feet and with the infielders in close, no one had a chance to snare the ball. It went for a single to center and Cooney jogged in from third with the lone and winning run. Thomas got the next two men with no further damage being done, but that didn't help the cause of the Sox.

Twice during the game the Sox had fairly good openings to score but one chance was wiped out by a double play and the other was ruined either by what might be termed a bad boner on the bases or a wrong decision by the ump. If one is a Cub rooter, he would call it a bone play; if a Sox rooter, a bum decision.

Sox Ruin Two Chances.

It happened in the second inning and caused some hot words between Boss Collins and Ump. Wilson. Sheely had led off in that round with a walk but was forced at second by Falk. Kamm then sloughed a single to right center that sent Bib to third. Only one was out and almost anything would have brought Bib home from third. But in this situation, with Percy on the slab, still holding the ball, Kamm made a dash for second. Percy did seem a bit flabergasted at such daring and we can not say exactly what he did, other than to back off the slab and throw the ball to second, nailing Kamm. Both Kamm and Boss Collins claimed a balk and claimed it with strong and impressive words, but Ump. Wilson wouldn't listen. The next man grounded out and Bib was left stranded at third.

In the fifth with one out, Schalk walked and Berg singled, Schalk stopping at second, but this nice opening was spoiled when Thomas slapped into a double play. The Cubs really had only the one chance, that one which the break gave them in the eighth and they made the most of it.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The mighty bat of the magnetic Babe Ruth spoke only gently today. But it spoke effectively and when it did there was started on its way a run that gave New York's Yankees victory over the Cardinals in the inaugural clash of the world's series classic.

BILL SHERDEL.

When nine rounds of tense struggling had been concluded, and when a vast turnout of 63,900 had relaxed, the American leaguers were in possession of a 2 to 1 triumph and the deceptive left arm of the aged Herb Pennock was rivaling the batting cunning of the man who was deemed a maker of home runs, but who brought on the break of the struggle by shoving a single past third, where he seldom hits.

Cards Get Trio of Hits.

It was that extraordinary hit, not a matter of luck but of skill employed when Babe saw an opening that shifted the tide of attack for the victors but it was the painfully accurate hurling of Pennock that reduced the vaunted Cardinal sluggers to a state of helplessness. Three hits, one clean, was all they amassed.

This was a battle so stern and stiff that it seemed methodical. Bill Sherdel was almost as good as Pennock but not quite. No home runs went booming beyond the wall to bring the multitude up aroaring. Of startling stops there was only one. Even long flies dangerously close to the barriers were absent. And over this scene of relentless but calm struggling hung a gray, misty atmosphere that intensified the drabness of the spectacle.

In the language of the players it was a day made for pitchers, not batters.

There was only one point along the nine round rout where there was a sign of the big scoring that had been promised by two free hitting squads. That point was the initial inning. Luck was against the crafty Pennock and a couple of undramatic hits sent home what proved the only Cardinal tally. But luck reversed itself in the Yank half of the inning because Sherdel was nervous and wild. He fell into the traditional left hander's trick of losing control. He walked three, gave the Yanks a run without a hit and from then on the battle progressed evenly and smoothly until Ruth came up in the sixth.

Yanks Show Confidence.

If the inexperience that runs through the respective forces is to play an important part in the eventual outcome of the event, it has yet to make itself evident, at least so far as the Yanks are concerned. Today they were the personification of confidence behind their willowy southpaw pitcher. There wasn't so much as even a momentary fumble and Mark Koenig, the lad whose stamina was questioned, contributed the sole thriller. He made a beautiful stop and throw from deep short on Hafey in the second inning.

The Cards were not the same easy performers. The squeamishness of Sherdel at the outset was the first sign of mental irritation. To carry him safely through that first inning, to prevent his utter ruination right there it was necessary for Manager Hornsby and the smiling Bob O'Farrell to talk to him between every other pitch.

Another indication of weakness was Lester Bell at third. He fumbled a few but escaped with one error and he made a fatal mistake when he thought Ruth going to bunt, rushed in and had the ball shoved past him.

Tunney Talks of Big Surprise for Ring Fans of U. S.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Gene Tunney, recently crowned heavyweight champion of the world through his defeat of Jack Dempsey, today revisited Philadelphia and the sesquicentennial stadium, scene of his triumph. He came to receive from Mayor Kendrick a diamond studded medal, symbolic of the boxing championship, and to greet thousands of children invited to the stadium to meet him.

The champion, who now is a lieutenant in the marine reserve corps, entered the big bowl escorted by detachments of marines and sailors, Mayor Kendrick, and city officials and friends. The children were quick to let the titleholder know he was their idol.

During a talk with newspaper men Tunney said:

"The time has come when I must think of my future livelihood. I am making plans which I cannot divulge, but they will startle the boxing world when they become known. I am planning something that no other champion has ever done. It is going to be a great help to the boxing game."

Meanwell Out as Badger Cage Coach, Report

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—"Doc Meanwell has quit!" All Madison buzzed with this report today, even the opening football game which the Badgers won from Cornell, 38—0, only partly subdued the rumor that Wisconsin's famous cage coach, Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, had resigned his position here after an argument with basket ball veterans who would not give up varsity football to report for early season drill with the basket shooters.

Neither George Little, director of athletics, nor Meanwell would make a statement. Neither denied the rumors, however.

George Hotchkiss, forward on the Badger basketball team, reported for football for the opening of the season. He won a place on the varsity squad and was used for a short time against Cornell today. Barr, another one of Meanwell's pupils, is now on the grid squad.

Meanwell is said to have induced both Hotchkiss and Eddie Powers, another regular forward last year, to give up their gridiron ambitions and report for cage practice in the Badger armory. Hotchkiss, however, is supposed to have changed his mind, and his telling Meanwell so during the practice session Friday night on the basketball floor is said to have led the doctor to toss his whistle to "Doc" Spooner, his assistant, with the announcement, "I'm through."

Accompanying the story of Meanwell's resignation were reports that he had been offered a position with a leading eastern university.

Women's Golf Title Won by Mrs. Stetson

BY HARLAND ROHM.

South Ardmore, Pa., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, mother of two grown daughters, today won the women's golf championship of the United States, defeating Mrs. Wright D. Goss Jr., mother of a 2 year old daughter, 2 and 1, in the thirty-six hole final over the Merion Cricket club's east course.

Neither of the two matrons had ever before gone through to the finals, and it told in their golf, for both were nervous, and shots that would cause an ordinary dub to break a club were frequent. As golf it was a miserable exhibition for a national championship final, and as drama it was dreary until Mrs. Goss' great rush in the last nine holes. Whereupon the match took on the color of a chariot race.

Mrs. Goss Stages Rally.

Five down as they went to the twenty-ninth tee, Mrs. Goss, Vassar's "perfect athlete" of ten years ago, had her back to the wall, and she fought as she would fight for her baby. She won three of the next four holes and was 2 down, with four to go. And from the power and trueness of her shots, it seemed as if the older woman could not stave off her rush.

They halved the thirty-fourth, when the tall Diana from New Jersey was low by inches with a daring brassie shot for the green from more than 200 yards away, and her ball fell into a trap. She was 2 down, with three to play. And then, as through the week, the heartbreaking sixteenth took its toll.

Mrs. Stetson was in a trap with her drive, while Mrs. Goss was straight and far down the fairway. Mrs. Stetson chipped out, short of the yawning quarry, but Mrs. Goss played boldly for the green, a low brassie shot that shot bullet-like over the quarry, and apparently without trajectory skimmed the green, hitting the bank at the back.

Ball Overhangs Cup Lip.

The hole is 435 yards from the tee to the pin; the fairway falling away from the tee and rising from the far quarry ledge in a steep pitch to the green. It was the sort of shot one sees once in a tournament or less. Mrs. Stetson was on the green with her third, a 60 yard pitch over the quarry, and Mrs. Goss flubbed her chip on, being 20 feet short. She was still away and putting for a win; her ball rolled straight for the cup and stopped overhanging the lip.

The gallery groaned as a herd of elephants, and Mrs. Goss twisted her torso as if to push the ball in. So they halved it in 5s. It left Mrs. Stetson dormie 2, and seemed to take the life out of Mrs. Goss' long, thoughtful face. The younger woman put her drive into a trap on the short seventeenth, taking two to get out and losing the hole, even though Mrs. Stetson also was in a trap.

Some Wonderful, Terrible Golf.

True to form the weather stayed disagreeable until the end, but a gallery of 2,500, mostly women in bright

Geneva Downs Harvard, 16-7, in Grid Upset

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—A gold jerseyed team of giants, coached by Bo McMillin, hero of Center college's victory over Harvard in 1921, achieved the distinction of scoring the first football triumph ever gained over the Crimson in an opening game of the season today, when Geneva college defeated Arnold Horween's first eleven on Soldiers' field, 16 to 7.

Eighteen thousand spectators, filled with the hope of seeing a Harvard team rejuvenated by the application of new coaching methods, witnessed the disheartening spectacle of a totally uninspired eleven, of no different pattern than those that have gone immediately before it, being outplayed in every respect by a more aggressive and resourceful team. GENEVA JUST A SMALL SCHOOL.

Geneva college is situated at Beaver Falls, Pa. It is almost microscopic in size, the entire student body probably not equalling in numbers the freshman class at Harvard. It secured the services of Bo McMillin, however, and his personality attracted a number of stars from various colleges in surrounding territory, such as MacFleniken, the man who tore Harvard to pieces today.

Cornell, it is said, at one time discussed dropping the tiny Pennsylvania school from its schedule because it was feared the Big Red team would not be ready for such an assignment early in the season. They finally agreed to play, with the provision, however, that MacFleniken and several others of the Geneva stars remain on the side lines.

Harvard made no such reservation, but told McMillin to bring everything he had with him, an invitation that resulted in a bad blow to her hopes.

Amherst Grid Player Dies of Broken Spine

Amherst, Mass., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Alfred Bladon Pimm Jr., Amherst student, who fractured his spine during football practice Wednesday, died today. Pimm, a junior, was a second string half back.

The pitching of Pennock means that the world's series records must be revised to make room for another masterpiece. Two hits in the first inning and those the kind of fluke hits that are the most disconcerting, gave him a bad start. But there was no hesitancy on his part thereafter except in the eighth inning when he deliberately pitched wide as a matter of strategy. In those few moments the game hung in the balance, but he pulled over the treacherous spot and went his way with only a single in the ninth to delay him arriving at his goal.

That belated single off the frail Yank portsider in the final frame was the first made by the Cardinals since the opening inning. It was a clean drive to right, where Ruth was doing patrol duty and Jim Bottomley was the hitter. And this same single was one-half of the balls actually hit squarely by the National leaguers.

The other half was the hard Hafey bounder on which the inexperienced Koenig made his great stop and throw in the second chapter. At other times the Cards hoisted easy chances into the air or tapped Pennock's slow curves and "downers" to machine-like infielders.

The pitching of Pennock removed all the drama from Rogers Hornsby's hitting. Probably borne down by the heartache over a mother dead at Austin, Tex., the National league's great right handed hitter didn't come close to anything.

Hornsby was up in the first inning with a runner on third base and poked a feeble bounder at Pennock. In his next time up Koenig threw him out on an easy chance. Then in the sixth he was easy for Joe Dugan's throwing arm and he led off in the ninth with a fly that Combs smothered. Ruth also was there to take it but Combs waved him away.

Babe Shows Smartness.

The Babe himself, the man for whom $3,000 were waiting, wasn't much better than Hornsby but the difference was enough. Sherdel walked him in the first inning and it did not appear intentional. But the crowd came to life and booed. In the third he tried to sacrifice but his bunt accomplished only a forceout. Then he showed himself baseball wise when he pushed that hit past third in the winning sixth and in the eighth when Jess Haines was pitching Ruth tried the same trick again but this time Bell pounced on the ball. He had learned his lesson and didn't run in.

Hostilities started after all the usual preliminaries with Pennock tossing over a ball to Douthit. Then he got over a strike and still another strike but on the next the batter slapped a tall fly close to the line in right and Ruth couldn't get it. The ball rolled to the fence for a double. Southworth was easy for Lazzeri and Douthit went to third. Then Hornsby was tossed aside by Pennock and Bottomley came through with a slow, looping shot that Koenig almost caught back of third. It was a hit and Douthit scored.

The Yank attack got under way in the opener with Sherdel tugging at his pants, pulling on his cap, and wiping his brow. He got over one strike on Combs, but the strike was mixed with four wide tosses, so the batter hiked. Koenig bit on the kind of a slow ball that Sherdel threw almost constantly and a fly resulted. Then Ruth walked. So did Meusel, and the sacks were jammed. But there was no undue excitement. The multitude appeared as confident as the Yanks. Next came Gehrig with a bouncer to Thevenow and a force at second. Hornsby tried for a double play, but was late and Combs was home with the tieing run.

With the start of the second, when Koenig made his stop, Pennock started to pitch the ball that American league hitters well know he can pitch. But the Yanks weren't meek. Dugan led off in the second with a hit. It got him nowhere. Koenig led off in the third with a hit, but it got him nowhere because Ruth forced him in an attempt to sacrifice. Another chance loomed when Combs singled with one gone in the fifth, but a double play ended that. Then the sixth that decided everything.

Ruth Tilts His Bat.

Ruth, who didn't take a healthy swing all afternoon, was the first man up and he let a couple low ones pass unnoticed. Then he observed Bell sneaking in. The Babe tilted his bat, gave a push, the ball shot past Bell and Babe camped on first. He didn't stay there long, because Meusel promptly laid down a burnt and sacrificed him to second.

Next was young Gehrig, the former local school boy who doesn't like left handed pitching, according to the experts. He took a robust swing, propelled a grounder between Hornsby and Bottomley, and sent Ruth over the plate with such a margin to spare that Southworth didn't even throw to head him off. Lazzeri also singled, but Gehrig foolishly tried to make third on it and was cut down. Then Bell fumbled on Dugan, but it did no harm because Severeid grounded into a forceout to complete the inning.

Pinch Hitters Fail.

From the start of the second to the end of the seventh the only Cardinal to enjoy life at first base was Bell who walked with two out in the fourth. Then the eighth opened with O'Farrell walking. Thevenow sacrificed and on a pinch hitter's tap O'Farrell was run down between second and third. Pennock purposely pitched wide balls to Douthit because he knew Southworth, a left handed hitter was next. So Douthit walked and Hornsby switched from Southworth to Holm a right handed batter but he flied to center. After this there was only that harmless single off Bottomley's bat in the ninth.

W-G-N WILL GIVE WORLD AND CITY BATTLES TODAY

Both the city series and the world series games will be broadcast today from the playing fields by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. W-G-N is the only station broadcasting both games.

The station will come on the air from the Yankee stadium at 12:45 this afternoon, with the game starting fifteen minutes later. Immediately at the end of the Yankee-Cardinal game the listeners will be switched to Cub park.

Hargrave, Reds' Catcher, Has Appendix Removed

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Eugene F. Hargrave, Cincinnati National league catcher, was operated on at a hospital here today for appendicitis. Surgeons announced he had undergone the ordeal successfully.

DAYTON, 35; KENYON, 0.

Dayton, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—A forward pass, McGarrey to Hipa, opened a combine aerial, end run attack by which Dayton university defeated Kenyon today, 35-0.

MR. RUTH'S TORN PANTS GIVES TILT ITS GREAT THRILL

Otherwise It's as Quiet as Friendly Murder.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Having been postponed for six days on account of good weather, the world series between the Yankees and the Cardinals began today with an unemotional victory for the Yanks, performed in a moist haze that caused umbrellas to sprout among the second largest throng of customers ever welcomed to a ball yard.

The score was 2 to 1 and, except for an embarrassing experience that befell Mr. Babe Ruth who had the misfortune to tear his pants in an exceedingly public location, the entertainment was reeled off with no more embellishment of picturesque incident than you would witness at a quiet killing betwen frinds down by Pier 6.

There were only a couple of pinch hitters and neither one of them hit a home run. Nobody leaned over a wall for a fly ball, raising a question as to whether he caught it in person or owed an assist to one of the patrons.

Pennock Stingy with Hits.

Herb Pennock, the left handed gent who pitched for the Yankees, allowed only three hits including no hits whatever for Rogers Hornsby, but Herb is an able athlete in excellent health and not an elderly brave, stuck together with safety pins, bicycle tape and court plaster as Walter Johnson was when he pitched world series ball and gave the customers drama till it hurt both him and them.

Ruth was swinging late and poking his drives toward third base, whereas he always deposits him home runs in right field, so there was nothing glamorous about his administration which produced a total of one single and a base on balls.

In fact, the Babe appealed solely to the sympathy, rather than the idolatry of the crowd, especially the sympathy of the gentlemen who were in the majority and who could understand precisely how he felt as he slid into second base in the second inning and came up out of the top soil with his bloomers out of repair.

Rules Don't Cover Pants.

The Babe stood there for a moment, blushing and uncomfortable, and trying to perform the impossible feat of turning his face to a crowd that extended around him in a complete circle. He looked appealing to Mr. Hildebrand, the umpire, who stood near by, but Mr. Hildebrand could only state that there was nothing in the rule book concerning emergency repairs to torn pants.

"Ask them if there is a tailor in the house," Mr. Ruth suggested.

"I know a good one down on Delancy street," Mr. Hildebrand said sadly, "but it's Saturday and he is probably closed. There used to be one over in Newark who would make you a two pants suit for the price of a one pants suit but he may not be there any more."

The Babe's attitude was not the attitude of the gauzy young woman in the picture of September Morn. It was quite the reverse, if you get the impression, and his nonchalance was not equal to the occasion.

The great crowd became silent, stunned by the ripping sound and the sun, if any, doubtless stood still for a moment.

Doc Performs Operation.

Then a glad roar went up, and out from the Yankees' dugout trotted Doc Woods, the gifted trainer of the team, with his satchel in one hand, a book of cloth samples in the other, and a tape measure looped over his shoulders.

"Courage!" shouted the gallant doctor. "I come." And Mr. Ruth gave thanks for the merciful science of healing lacerated garments.

The operation was shielded by the massed personnel of the Cardinals' infield, who chivalrously put aside all thought of rivalry in a moment of tragedy and gathered about Babe Ruth. Whether the gifted doctor stitched or pinned or installed hooks and eyes could not be discerned from the stands. The nature of the operation doubtless will be revealed in a learned paper for the medical journals in time. At any rate, it was successful, and there was a quick convalescence, for Ruth made a dash toward third a moment later as Bob Meusel flied to Hafey in left field for the Yankees' third out, and he ran with the confident abandon of one who has full faith in the integrity of his trousers.

No Support for Sherdel.

Bill Sherdel, who is so short that he needs a stepladder to pick dandelions, pitched seven innings for the Cardinals, but he did not lose so much as Hornsby, Bottomly, and their associate hitters failed to win. He was looted of the second and deciding run in the sixth when Ruth, rising above the horror of his partial unveiling, hit a single to Hafey in left, took second on Meusel's sacrifice, and scored on a single by Gehrig, who thus drove in the entire sum of the Yankees' score.

Throughout the game there was an unpleasant possibility that this grand carnival, like the one in Philadelphia a week ago would be held in the rain and most of the people had come with top coats or umbrellas or both. They began to stand up and shove their arms into their coats as early as the second inning and the optimists who ignored that sprinkle surrendered in the sixth when a lively spatter fell on Judge Landis, the mayor of New York and the gents near the flag pole alike. But although the purplish atmosphere gave the party the appearance of a game in the twi-light league, no thorough going rain appeared and the anguished directors of the show were relieved of the heart rendering task of refunding the money.

The whole region of the stadium was alive with policemen and the clatter of taxicabs as the stampeding herd of them locked fenders in the jam, was pierced by the shrill jabber of the scorecard peddler, the souvenir peddlers and the ticket scalpers. All down the line, under the elevated road, impassioned hot dog chefs banged on the counters with their pancake turners and exclaimed about the delights of New York's favorite delicatessen—hot gents, redhots.

Bursts of high-pitched noise began to rise from the stadium, and the ball game had begun, with 61,658 counted customers in the yards.

Disquieting Rumors of Betting.

There was talk of vast betting on the world's series, and the fact that Rogers Hornsby makes no secret of his interest in the horse races must have caused some disquiet to the guardians of the virtuous game of baseball, which detests the odor of saddlery and regards all bookmakers and their clients with apprehension.

For almost a week, while the show was held up to allow time for the sounding of the ballyhoo, the St. Louis Cardinals lived on Broadway, in a region where the barber, the bellhop, even the newsboy on the corner, will state the odds in any difference of opinion and cover your money. Baseball is sensitive about mention of gambling on ball games, particularly on world's series games.

Some serious flaw in the sanity of a New York baseball crowd causes the customers to cheer as genially for the visiting ball club as for the home team, but there was little cheering for either side today after the first yelps had relieved the tension.

FIRST CLASH, PLAY BY PLAY

Following is a play by play report of the first game of the world series at New York:

FIRST INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Ruth was unable to reach Douthit's fly to right and it went for a double. Southworth tapped gently to Lazzeri and was thrown out at first. Douthit making third. A big hand greeted Hornsby as he stepped to the plate. Hornsby grounded easily to Pennock, who threw him out at first, Douthit remaining at third. Bottomley looped a scratch hit to deep short and Douthit scored. L. Bell flied to Ruth. One run, two hits.

NEW YORK—Sherdel was wild and Combs walked. Koenig flied to Southworth. Ruth walked on four pitched balls. The crowd booed what it considered was an intentional pass. With the count two and three on Meusel, Hornsby and O'Farrell went out to talk to Sherdel. Meusel walked, filling the bases. Gehrig forced Meusel at second, Thevenow to Hornsby. Gehrig reached first in time to avoid a double play, and Combs scored. Lazzeri was thrown out by Thevenow. One run, no hits.

SECOND INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Koenig made a beautiful stop in deep short and threw out Hafey. Koenig came in for O'Farrell's slow hopper and threw to Gehrig, retiring him at first. Lazzeri tossed out Thevenow. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Dugan singled to left. Severeid flied to Hafey. Pennock sacrificed, Sherdel unassisted. Combs flied to Douthit. No runs, one hit.

THIRD INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Sherdel struck out. Douthit bunted, but Pennock made a fast play and got him at first. Southworth fouled to Severeid close to the stand. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Koenig drove the first pitch into left for a single. Ruth attempted to sacrifice, but forced Koenig at second, O'Farrell to Thevenow. Meusel out, Sherdel to Bottomley. Ruth slid into second on the play and tore his pants. Time was called while the trainer taped up the gap. Gehrig bit on a slow ball and flied to Hafey. No runs, one hit.

FOURTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Hornsby grounded to short on the first pitch, and was thrown out by Koenig. Bottomley was called out on a perfect third strike. L. Bell walked. Hafey was thrown out by Koenig. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Lazzeri struck out on a slow ball. Thevenow threw out Dugan. Severeid flied to Hafey. No runs, no hits.

FIFTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—O'Farrell flied to Meusel. Thevenow bunted in front of the plate, and was out, Severeid to Gehrig. Sherdel flied to Meusel. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Thevenow momentarily fumbled Pennock's grounder, but recovered and threw him out. Combs lined a single over third. Koenig hit into a double play, Thevenow to Hornsby to Bottomley. No runs, one hit.

SIXTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Douthit was easy for Dugan and Gehrig. Southworth lined to Meusel. Dugan tossed out Hornsby on an easy grounder. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Ruth singled past Bell on the third ball pitched. Meusel sacrificed. Sherdel to Bottomley. Gehrig singled between Bottomley and Hornsby, scoring Ruth. Lazzeri singled to left, and Gehrig foolishly tried to make third. He was out. Hafey to Bell. Lazzeri went to second on the throw. L. Bell fumbled Dugan's grounder, and then made a stab to catch Lazzeri at third, but to tag him failed. It started to drizzle and the box seat holders began crawling into their raincoats. Severeid forced Dugan. Thevenow to Hornsby. One run, three hits, one error.

SEVENTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Bottomley bounced to Gehrig. Bell fouled to Severeid close to the base line. Hafey missed the third swing. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Pennock was thrown out by Thevenow. Hornsby threw out Combs. Koenig hoisted to Hafey. No runs, no hits.

EIGHTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—O'Farrell walked. Thevenow sacrificed, Dugan to Gehrig. Flowers batted for Sherdel. Flowers tapped to Pennock and O'Farrell was run down, Pennock to Lazzeri to Dugan. Flowers went to second on the play. Douthit walked. Holm batted for Southworth. Combs ran in and took Holms' high fly. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Haines now pitching and Holm playing right field for St. Louis. Bell booted Ruth's grounder, but picked it up and threw him out at first. Meusel walked. Gehrig flied to Hafey. Lazzeri grounded to Bottomley, who tagged the runner before he reached first base. No runs, no hits.

NINTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Hornsby flied to Combs in right center. Bottomley singled to right. Bell struck out on a slow curve. Hafey was thrown out by Lazzeri. No runs, one hit.

World Series Notes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Oct., 2.—Lou Gehrig saved the game for the magnates and fans and then went out and won it. Hornsby, Alexander and several other Cardinals could not get within a block of the stadium at noon because they had no tickets and the cordon of policemen would let none pass without pasteboards.

"Why," pleaded the St. Louis manager, "I'm Hornsby."

"And, I" said the officer, roughly, "I'm President Coolidge."

"You flat foot!" cut in Alexander, peevedly, "I'm a St. Louis pitcher."

"St. Louis," asserted another copper, "has no pitchers."

Gehrig appeared on the scene at that juncture. He identified the Cardinal players and they were allowed to pass through the barrier erected by the law.

Today's attendance missed by a little more than a thousand of equaling the record series figure of 62,817 attained at the stadium on Oct. 14, 1923. The paid admissions that day were 62,817. Today they were 61,658.

All the 34,000 general admissions were parked inside the vast inclosure before noon. After that everything was quiet and orderly outside the field. Only ticket holders could approach within gunshot of the place, and they seeped in so gradually that there was no congestion.

Hornsby went back of first for a sharp bounder off Combs' bat in the seventh, and just as he turned to throw he slipped and the ball shot toward Bottomley's feet. The latter, by a quick move, got it and saved the manager an error.

After the first inning Sherdel threw nothing but slow balls. It was not so much a matter of choice as of necessity. The first inning convinced him that he could not get his fast ball over the plate.

Yale Beats Boston Via Air, 51 to 0

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Yale opened its 1926 football season here this afternoon with an easy workout against Boston university. Twenty-five thousand braved the threatening weather to watch Yale roll up a score of 51 to 0.

Yale turned to the air with a vengeance this afternoon and particularly during the first half completed pass after pass, running the first five off without a miss. Lineup:

HOWARD KINSEY JOINS PYLE'S PRO TENNIS TROUPE

Snodgrass Also Signs for Lenglen Tour.

French Spurn Bids

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—"We will remain amateurs; there is no danger that we ever will become professionals," declared Rene Lacoste, speaking for the French tennis team, which returned to Paris today.

It was admitted that C. C. Pyle has been endeavoring to induce both Henri Coehet and Jean Borotra to join his traveling circus.

"Aside from Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen I cannot see anything in it for those who have turned professional," said Lacoste.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Howard O. Kinsey of San Francisco, sixth ranking tennis player in the United States, and Harvey W. Snodgrass, Los Angeles, today were added to C. C. Pyle's list of star professionals who will accompany Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen on her tour through North America, starting at Madison Square Garden next Saturday.

Coupled with the announcement that he had signed Kinsey and Snodgrass, Pyle declared he would have several more famous players in his troupe within a few days, one of them being of exceptional prominence. He would not indicate the players he had in mind, but reports current mentioned the names of "Big Bill" Tilden and William M. Johnston along with Helen Wills. Pyle said he would name his entire list of players by Tuesday.

Following a long distance conversation between Pyle and Kinsey late this afternoon, the Pacific coast player came to terms and announced he will leave for New York Monday. Kinsey, who was a member of the Davis cup team as substitute, and a prominent internationalist, is the second player of national ranking to turn pro.

Snodgrass previously was a professional, taking over the duties as tennis instructor last year. He ranked sixth in America's "first ten" in 1924. Terms signed by Kinsey and Snodgrass were not disclosed.

Y. M. C. A. College Upsets North Central, 23 to 7

Naperville, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Y. M. C. A. College of Chicago defeated North Central college today, 23—7. Play was even in the first half which ended 7 to 7, but a downpour of rain made the ball slippery and the visitors took advantage of the breaks to score two more touchdowns and make good a field goal in the last half.

City Series Notes

The fourth game of the series will take place today at the Cubs park.

Tht Sox are in a rather bad way today for pitching because Ted Blankenship is not supposed to be in good form. The Cubs have Bush, who hasn't yet started, or they have Root, who shut the Sox out Wednesday.

In all probability, Bush will go to the rubber today for the north siders and Blankenship for the Sox. Big Ted was seen warming up a bit in the bullpen yesterday near the end of the game.

Bad weather still prevailed but the crowd was well over the 20,000 mark. With a nice clear day, there would have been 10,000 more. If the sun shines today, Cub park should be packed.

Berg and Sheely did some acrobatic fielding to retire Jones in the sixth. Moe skidded over and back to his right, coming up with Percy's hot smash away out in the grass. He let fly for first. It was a wide peg to Sheely's left. He hopped off the bag, snatched the ball out of space and stuck it into Percy's ribs as he ran past.

The south side fans gave the heroic Hack Wilson the razz every time he came to bat. Hack couldn't get a hit, but that was nothing. Some other good batters were with him.

ARMY MULE KICKS OVER DETROIT ELEVEN, 21 TO 0

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The West Point Cadets, with a full corps of substitutes in action much of the game, won an easy 21 to 0 victory over the University of Detroit today in the season opener here. Dtroit managed to hold the cadets scoreless except when the soldier varsity was on the field and in the final quarter forced the cadet substitutes to the one yard line, only to lose the ball on a fumble.

Harding, Army quarter back, raced sixty yards for a touchdown in the final minute of play. Daly, Cadet center, took out four mid-westerners in the downfield dash. Lineup:

ARMY [21].		DETROIT [0].
Narbeld	L. E.	Phelan
Sprague	L. T.	Learned
Schmidt	L. G.	Gallagher
Daly	C.	Flannery
Hammack	R. G.	Richards

Trapnell	R. H.	Maniere
Hewitt	F. B.	Maloney

Touchdowns—Wilson, 2; Harding. Points after touchdown — Wilson, 3 [placement kicks].

Butler Amasses 70 to 0 Victory Over Hanover

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Almost every man on the Butler squad got a workout today as the local team overwhelmed Hanover, 70 to 0. Red Fromuth, new Butler half, despite a muddy field, romped away to several touchdowns at the opening of the game before Butler substitutes were sent in to finish the contest.

Navy Checks Purdue Passes to Win, 17 to 13

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—In a highly spectacular game in which the lead alternated and the losers, with a fine passing attack, were dangerous to the last moment, the Naval academy opened its football season today by defeating Purdue, 17 to 13.

In the second quarter, Purdue broke the ice, starting with the ball on its own twenty-five yard line. On the second play, Wilcox grabbed a pass from Leichtle and ran for a touchdown. Later, Hannegan carried the ball twenty-five yards for the Navy's first touchdown.

Both teams also scored in the third quarter, which was the most spectacular of the game. Lineup:

NAVY [17].		PURDUE [13].
Bagdanovitch	L. E.	Bozan [C.]
Wickhorst [C.]	L. T.	Winkler
Cross	L. G.	Deephouse
Warren	C.	Kabo
Born	R. G.	Spencer
Eddy	R. T.	Snow
Hardwick	R. E.	Meckle
Hamilton	Q. B.	Speidel
Ransford	L. H.	Wilcox
Hannegan	R. H.	Leichtel
Shapley	F. B.	Gladders

Touchdowns — Hannegan, Lloyd, Wilcox. Hutton. Points after touchdown—Hamilton, 2; Wilcox, 1. Goal from field—Hamilton.

Substitutions—Naval academy: Lloyd for Bagdanovitch, Condra for Ransford, Woerner for Eddy, Williamson for Hardwick, Schuber for Shapley, Shapley for Schuber, Eddy for Woerner, Schuber for Hamilton, Hoerner for Woerner, Osborn for Hoerner, Burke for Cross, Fearce for Born, Caldwell for Condra, Goudge for Shapley, Ransford for Caldwell. Purdue—Mackey for Gladders, Cameron for Winkler, Greicus for Mackel, Hutton for Hogan, Hogan for Hutton, Smile for Spiedel, Gladders for Mackey, Koranski for Gladders, Kamby for Leichtel, Winkler for Cameron, Cameron for Deephouse, Stillwell for Mackel, Eickman for Stillwell.

Referee—W. N. Hollenback [Pennsylvania]. Umpire—John Schommer [Chicago]. Linesman—R. H. Heneage [Dartmouth]. Field judge—J. E. Nichols [Oberlin].

LOYOLA DEFEATS ST. VIATOR, 21-6, IN FIRST GAME

Loyola university scored early in the first quarter and twice in the second period to defeat St. Viator college, 21 to 6, yesterday in the first game of the season at Loyola field.

Marty Griffin and "Babe" Adams starred in the back field for Loyola, Griffin making two touchdowns and Adams one, while St. Viator's lone tally was made by May, following an aerial attack. Lineup:

LOYOLA [21].		ST. VIATOR [6].
Lamont [C.]	L. E.	May
Gilmore	L. T.	Leary
Lederer	L. G.	Walsko
Wirry	C.	O'Malley

LEADERSHIP — such as has been enjoyed by White Owls for years — cannot be bought.

It must be earned by giving greater value and by seeing to it that greater value is maintained.

The year in and year out loyalty of a vast following of discriminating smokers has made the leadership of White Owls a fact — just as their continued patronage has now made possible the use of the mellowest, sweetest tasting tobacco in years.

GRANDDAD WINS FINAL FEATURE AT HAWTHORNE

Races Through Mud to Nose Victory.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The curtain dropped on Hawthorne's fall facing season yesterday as Grand Dad, famous mud running horse from Kentucky, raced to a sensational nose victory in the $2,500 Carr handicap at a mile and a sixteenth.

The race was run in a driving rainstorm with nearly 15,000 spectators huddled beneath the stands cheering for Grand Dad was the favorite and carried the hopes of nearly all those present in the getaway day feature. The crowd, which packed the stands, filled the club house almost to overflowing and sent many to the lawns without shelter of any kind, was the largest of the season.

Early Lead Cut Down.

Grand Dad flattered his thousands of supporters when Jockey R. Finnerty shot him into a five length lead as they were rounding the first turn. He ran far ahead of all the others until the turn into the stretch was reached. Then two purple clad jockeys wearing Jimmy McGill's silks went to bat with Manzana and Blue Fish. Jockey Allen began applying the whip to George De Mar. These three trailers closed up with a rush on the flying Grand Dad.

Heading into the stretch they were running as a team. And on down the stetch they came and Gand Dad came back to his challengers. Then came one of the most grueling battles ever witnessed on any race track. Less than a furlong out Grand Dad and Manzana popped out in front. They were still running on even terms. But Jockey Finnerty showed his class. It was his superior skill, which had Grand Dad's nose inches in front at the finish. Blue Fish, the other McGill color bearer, was third.

Thrill in Secondary Feature.

The secondary feature also provided a thrilling finish when Riot, 2 year old son of Royal II.-Mocking Bird, running in Packey McFarland's silks, got a narrow verdict over The Wire, with Firewater a closeup third.

It was the first time in the Chicago district this season that 2 year olds were asked to go a mile. Riot proved himself a good game colt by coming from behind at the head of the stretch. Then, urged hard by Jockey R. Jones, he held The Wire safe all through the late going. Firewater had been highly fancied but ran a disappointing race and the route seemed to be too far for him.

Jockey Finnerty wound up the season in sparkling fashion, riding two winners, but Jockey R. Jones won the Hawthorne saddle championship, having piled up a big lead during the early days of the season.

INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL.

EIGHT intersectional football games of major importance will be played by Big Ten elevens this fall, including those of Chicago against Florida and Purdue against Navy yesterday. This shows a trend toward providing not only popular attractions, but also attractions which provide a good gate and help defray the expense of large stadiums arising at all colleges with pretensions to athletic class.

At one time, there was objection to such games voiced in the form of resolutions or requests from the faculty gentlemen who represent their respective institutions in the conference. Their thought was that Big Ten elevens should play more games among themselves.

This thought was all right in theory, but when it came to schedule making that was something else again. Coaches, as a rule, are averse to early games with Big Ten rivals before their charges are well prepared. Early defeat frequently puts them out of the running for the conference title under the unsatisfactory percentage system which in lieu of anything better is used to determine first place. Defeat in an intersectional affair, you see, does not count in this so-called championship rating.

The Wake, for other reasons, always has favored contests between young athletes from different sections of the country. They create mutual respect, destroy provincialism, and usually prove that no one district has a monopoly of athletic brawn and brains. Therefore, they are sport builders. The vogue could be carried to excess, with the necessary enforced absence from classrooms, but we see no danger of that at present.

Other Big Ten intersectional contests for this fall are Maryland at Chicago, Chicago at Pennsylvania, Kansas at Wisconsin, Columbia at Ohio, Pennsylvania at Illinois, and Michigan at Navy.

Playing the Races.

Riding out to Hawthorne Friday, we became engaged in conversation with our seatmate whom we never had seen before—which is a common incident in the freemasonry of the turf. He had a system for playing the ponies which never had been presented to us before. It was like this:

"An old trainer once told me to go down to the paddock before the race and watch activity in the different stalls. If the trainer and attendants of any horse seem unusually anxious and nervous, that's a sign their own money is down. I've tried it and it works mighty well." So, Helpers, when you go to the races, look for nervous trainers.

Dear Wake: My baby, six months old, is crazy about newspapers. She ate the greater part of a whole sheet. Frantically I phoned the doctor. Doc asked what paper it was and when I told him The Tribune, he replied, "O, that won't hurt her." What did he mean?

Valorous Wins Two Year Old Downs Stake

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Harry Payne Whitney colorbearers, Valorous and Bostonian, made a grand slam in the fall classic at Churchill Downs today, running one-two in the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes. Candy Queen, hope of the west and owned by H. Teller Archibald, faded into third place in the stretch. The time for the mile was 1:43 3-5.

The victory will likely make Valorous the winter book favorite for the next Kentucky Derby.

The race, with $10,000 added, was worth $26,785 net to the winner. Whitney netted $28,700 on the race, Bostonian capturing $1,500 second money and as nominator of the entry the eastern sportsman received an additional $750, $500 on the winner and $250 on the place horse. Nominating and starting fees totaled $335 on each horse.

The entry paid the surprisingly good odds of $10.40, $8.20 and $4.40 on each mutuel ticket to win, place and show. Candy Queen, heavily backed to win, paid $3 to show.

Quakers Down Bulls, 9 to 3, by Field Scores

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Three field goals from placement by Al. Kruez, Quaker full back and former University of Pennsylvania luminary, sent Joe Sternaman's Chicago Bulls down to a 9 to 3 defeat in the opening of the American professional football league held at the Sesquicentennial stadium today, before a crowd of 5,000 fans.

The Bulls scored in the second quarter. Mohardt intercepted a forward pass on his own 45 yard line. Illegal interference with Romey gave the Bulls 15 yards. Sternaman ripped off end for six and White for two more. Sternaman then lifted a drop kick over the bar from the 40 yard mark.

Lineup:

QUAKERS.		BULLS.
Tulley	L. E.	Romey

BEARS VS. DETROIT

The Chicago Bears meet Detroit today in the last pro grid game before the north siders open the home season at Cubs park. Although Full Back Knop will not play because of injuries received in the Green Bay game last week, the Bears should defeat the Counzelman outfit.

Two weeks ago Green Bay humbled Detroit 21—0 and the Bears tied the Packers, 6—6, last Sunday. Frank Haney has been shifted from end to full back.

Grand Circuit Races Postponed by Wet Track

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Grand Circuit races were postponed again today until next Monday on account of the wet track.

Chesapeake Bay Retriever Winner in Field Trial

BY BOB BECKER.

Edgerton, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.] A Chesapeake Bay retriever and springer spaniels divided honors in special unofficial water stake which was held up here as the closing event of the field trial staged by the Field Trial Club of America. As the Lake Koshkonong country is one of the strongholds of waterfowl hunting the club put on this water stake to interest the duck hunters. Live mallards were turned loose.

Beverly Dan, a powerful Chesapeake Bay dog owned by James Menhall of Edgerton, was awarded the first ribbon. Jack of Koshkonong, a black and white springer owned by C. V. Burns of Edgerton, was placed second. Short Bob, entered by Dr. A. C. Gale of Oshkosh, won third place.

Actual duck hunting conditions as approximated in this water stake, a blind was erected on a point running out into the lake, a large bunch of block decoys with a few live birds had been spread out in front of it, and dogs and their handlers crouched in the blind as if mallards were flying.

When the official guns had sounded the trainer commanded his dog to go fetch, and then into the water the eager retrievers plunged to get the game.

Only the big Chesapeake, swimming like a tug boat, had learned his A B C's on live birds, and, ignoring the decoys, he retrieved his birds in a creditable manner.

In the tests held later to determine which dog had the best field trial manners, Jack of Koshkonong won handily.

You can't answer this question without first driving an ELCAR

THE question: Can I expect of an ELCAR 8-in-Line the performance supposedly possible only in cars I have thought of as out of the ordinary, and which cost more—often much more—than ELCAR? Though we answer "Yes!" we cannot escape the imputation of bias; we prefer that you drive an ELCAR 8-in-Line and find your own answer. We will, of course, supply the ELCAR for the test, either at our showrooms or your home, as you prefer.

TULANE FIGHTS MISSOURI TO 0-0 DRAW IN MUD

Memorial Stadium Dedicated by Tigers.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Missouri and Tulane fought for the most part in the middle of a muddy field here this afternoon to an 0 to 0 tie, adding further fuel to the fire of contention begun a year ago at New Orleans, when the teams ended four quarters of play at 6 and 6.

The game was the chief event of the opening of Missouri's new Memorial stadium, which displayed itself as a spacious modern athletic plant, despite the downpour of rain which for a week had soaked the field, and which added further to the water logged condition of the gridiron during the first two quarters of play. Lineup:

MISSOURI [0].		TULANE [0].

HUSKERS, 21; DRAKE, 0

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The Nebraska Cornhuskers today cleared the first hurdle of the 1926 gridiron race by overpowering Drake, 21 to 0, on a soggy field.

Drake was not easily conquered. The Bull Dogs came on the Nebraska gridiron with an attack which swept the Cornhuskers off their feet in the first period. They advanced the ball to within five yards of a touchdown. A determined Nebraska defensive turned back the Drake march.

Nebraska rallied in the second period with a scoring drive which netted two touchdowns.

Frequent penalties balked Nebraska's advance during the third period, but line smashes by Presnell and Howell sent the latter over the goal for the Cornhuskers' third and last scoring play early in the final quarter. The lineup:

NEBRASKA.		DRAKE.
Lee	L. E.	Delmage
Ashburn	L. T.	Helser
Kalsch	L. G.	Jones

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Paul Frenzen, 3210 Grove-av., Berwyn, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

What will be the effect on tennis of Lenglen and Richards turning professional?

Where Asked.

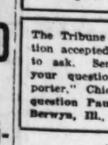
Dearborn at Randolph.

The Answers.

George Navigate, 850 S. Halsted, real estate dealer—I think it will revolutionize the sport. There's no reason why pro tennis wouldn't develop as well as pro golf or pro baseball or any other pro sport. The 130,000 who jammed into the Dempsey-Tunney fight is evidence of the popularity of professionalism.

Joe Weiss, 1437 S. Homan avenue, salesman—It will increase interest in tennis. There now is an incentive for players to become proficient in addition to the fame angle. It may mean a livelihood. I'm glad Suzanne and Vinny had the courage to break away from amateur ranks. Get the money! That's what everybody is after now.

Miss Mary E. Benkovec, 3544 W. 22d street, secretary—I can't see any injurious effect, and it may do much to stimulate interest in the game. It always has been conjectural whether some of the leading tennis players were amateurs in the strict interpretation of the term. There is a new field opened now for persons who want to become expert players for monetary compensation.



S. J. Mahanna, 3910 Ogden avenue, auto salesman—Professional golf hasn't detracted from public interest in a sport which is considered a game for amateurs. Tennis ought to work the same way. I think Richards' abandonment of the simon pures will arouse interest in the sport.

Miss Rose Kalizak, 2855 W. 23d street, stenographer—The idea of pro tennis sounds all right, but I don't see how it is going to work out unless more ranking players desert the amateurs. The public soon will tire of seeing the same players compete against each other. Pyle's tour ought to be a success, for the fans will turn out once or twice just to get a glimpse of his famous stars.

Oklahoma Is Buried, 42-3, by Wolverines

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Michigan defeated Oklahoma Aggies here today, 42 to 3. The Wolverines walked away with the westerners in the first half, the period ending with the score 29 to 0. In the second half Oklahoma scored a field goal and held Michigan scoreless until late in the fourth quarter, when the Wolverines scored two touchdowns on passes.

Passes made possible all of Michigan's points. Lineup:

ILLINOIS CRUSHES COE ELEVEN ON SLOW FIELD, 27-0

Zuppke Men Show Drive in First Tilt.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 2.—That Illinois will be represented by a team which will be a strong contender for the western conference championship was shown here today when Coach Zuppke's eleven defeated Coe college of Iowa on a heavy field, 27 to 0.

Despite the extreme heat, Illinois showed possibilities. While the line was not as strong today as it probably will be later in the season, forwards and backs coöordinated splendidly in the first quarter, when two touchdowns were scored. The forward pass was used a few times, and the general style indicates Illinois will present a strong offense combining the best formations of the close and open attack.

Illinois went into the lead early. The Iowa team tried a short kickoff. The ball struck an Illinois man on his forty yard line and then went out of bounds. The ball went to Illinois under the new rule of the ball belonging to the team which last touched it in the field of play. From this point Illinois, by a splendid straight attack, took the ball down the field, and Stewart went over for the first touchdown of the year. Illinois repeated a short time afterward, with Stewart again going over and Frosty Peters adding the extra points by drop kicks.

A blocked kick gave Illinois its third score in the third period. Coe was forced back into the shadows of its goal posts by a 25 yard penalty for clipping. The Coe punt was blocked by Wilson, the Illinois right end, who fell on it for a touchdown.

In the fourth period another Coe punt was blocked and recovered by Illinois on the Iowa team's twenty yard line. On the first play the oval was given to Peters, who circled Coe's left end for a touchdown. Frosty missed the goal, and that ended the scoring for the day. Lineup:

motor car Performance that startled the motor car industry

The motor car industry was startled when Buick presented the new Buick, with an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

If you have driven this great new car, with this remarkable engine, you know why.

Its fluid smoothness makes other motor cars seem rough, harsh, noisy.

The plain truth about it sounds like exaggeration, it is so effortless at every speed.

People who have driven Buicks for years, and people who have owned much more expensive cars, are captivated by the luxury of this one.

The industry was amazed, and you will be too, when you drive this marvelous motor car. Everybody says, and we repeat it: "You never have driven anything like it."

NEW QUEEN OF WOMEN GOLFERS MOTHER OF TWO

Made First Try for Honor Ten Years Ago.

South Ardmore, Pa., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The new queen of America's woman golfers, Mrs. G. Henry Stetson of the Huntingdon Valley club, Philadelphia, is a motherly little woman who doesn't look nearly old enough to be the mother of two daughters, seventeen and nineteen years old. And she has never before figured prominently in a national championship.

In 1916, at Waverly, Mass., her first national tournament, she qualified and defeated Mrs. J. H. Lapham of San Antonio, Tex., 6 and 5, but lost in the second round to Mrs. Alexa Fraser, then Alexa Stirling, 5 and 4. In 1919, her next tournament, she again qualified, and again passed the first round, defeating Elaine Rosenthal, but again she fell victim to Alexa Stirling in the second round. She has entered none of the other national tournaments until this year.

Holds Eastern Title.

Mrs. Stetson held the Philadelphia city championship in 1924 and is present eastern champion, having won this at Philmont. The event is 54 holes, medal play, and Mrs. Stetson led Glenna Collett, who was second, by three strokes.

She is the second Philadelphia woman to win the national championship in three years, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd having defeated Miss Mary K. Browne in the final at Providence, R. I., in 1924.

Mrs. Stetson's husband is the son of John B. Stetson, the hat maker, but unlike many of the other contestants in this tournament she wears no high hat.

Provides Tournament Upset.

She was one of the big upsets of this tournament. She qualified with a medal score of 85, four behind Glenna Collett, the medalist. In the first round she defeated Ada Mackenzie, Canadian champion, 3 and 1, and in the second beat Miss Ruth Batchelder, one of Boston's best, 6 and 5.

Then came the big upset when she crushed Edith Cummings, favored to come through for a semi-final battle with Glenna Collett, 6 and 5. The next day she downed Miss Virginia Wilson of Onwentsia, Chicago, who the day before had eliminated Glenna Collett, Mrs. Stetson winning 1 up in 19 holes.

100 Riders in 50 Mile Bike Grind Today

A field of more than 100 riders will compete today in the 50 mile amateur bicycle race which will start at Elgin, Ill., and finish in front of the Barrett A. C. clubhouse at 22d and Robey streets. The race, which is the only long distance event to be conducted this year in the local district, is sponsored by the Barrett A. C.

The riders will start at 1 o'clock and the finish is expected about 3:30. The riders face a hard task racing over the traffic filled roads, but arrangements have been made for police escorts and traffic control along the route.

Heading the list of contestants are Edward Merkner of the South Chicago Wheelmen, the national senior amateur road racing champion; Gregory Flatow, Henry Vertenten, and Stanley Wesolowski, other well known club riders.

President Frank M. Kalteux and Vice President Edward A. Mahlke of the Barrett club will be in charge of the officials who have been selected from the membership of the board of control of the Amateur Bicycle League of America.

Mrs. Stetson Wins Women's Golf Crown

dresses, trudged after the contestants. They saw a golf match that was magnificent one moment and ridiculous the next. Mrs. Goss, tall, with a glorious figure, an athlete to her finger tips, was lashing superb tee shots, was outclassing Mrs. Stetson with the brassie seconds and was holding her own in approaching. But her putting was a thing to make St. Andrew weep.

On the first 18 holes she took forty-four putts. She had six three putt greens and one four putt green and didn't get down her first putt on any. She improved in the afternoon, taking three putts only twice, but the messy work with that cleek in the morning round spelled her defeat.

Mrs. Stetson, smaller, older, with a choppy swing of far less grace than her opponent, though outdriven on nearly every hole, was longer off the tee than she had been all week, being only 5 to 10 yards behind Mrs. Goss on most holes. Her seconds were every bit as good as her opponent's, but she won on the greens.

Mrs. Stetson's Game Consistent.

Mrs. Stetson qualified with 85 and has been playing consistently around that figure or lower throughout the week. Today she had 47—43—90 for the morning round, nine over women's par. She had 46 going out in the afternoon and 40 for eight holes coming in, with the long eighteenth ahead.

Mrs. Goss' game today fell off even more. She qualified with 81, and has never taken more than 84 strokes in any round of this tournament.

Today she took 48—44—92 in the morning, thanks in a great measure to those 44 putts, and in the afternoon went out in 47 and had 39 for the eight holes played coming in.

Morning Round Sad Tale.

The morning round was the sad tale of the medal scores and Mrs. Goss' putts that wouldn't drop.

After lunch they walked to the first tee, with Mrs. Goss three down, but she won the nineteenth hole. This time it was Mrs. Stetson, who took three putts. Mrs. Goss also won the twentieth, almost sinking a 70 foot chip shot. It was the first of a series of five that went into the cup and bounced out. That left her only one down.

They halved the twenty-first in 3s and Mrs. Stetson won the next three when Mrs. Goss was trapped on every hole. Her putt of 15 feet for a half hopped out of the cup on the 23d. Mrs. Goss won the 25th when Mrs. Stetson dubbed her second and went into a trap.

The twenty-sixth was halved in 5s, when Mrs. Stetson was in a trap and weak with her out, while Mrs. Goss was over the green with her second. Mrs. Goss cut her opponent's lead by winning the next with a 3, leaving Mrs. Stetson 4 up at the afternoon turn.

Mrs. Goss Begins Her Fight.

Mrs. Stetson won the 28th and the match appeared to be all over, but Mrs. Goss began her fight. She won the 29th with a par 5, the 30th was halved in 5s. Mrs. Goss got another par 3 on the 31st, to win the hole, she won the thirty-second, they halved the 33d as has been told, halved the fatal 34th and then came the anticlimax of the short 35th.

TORONTO TAKES FOURTH IN ROW FROM LOUISVILLE

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 2.—The Leafs made it four straight in the little world series by defeating Louisville, 4 to 3, in another light hitting game here today, and need but one victory to clinch the series with the American association champions. The teams jump to Louisville for the fifth game tomorrow.

Doyle and Tincup, who provided a great pitching duel in the first game started today, but the former was driven from the mound in the fifth when he was hit for four singles, all that the Colonels secured in the game, which were turned into three runs. Fisher replaced him with two on base but stopped the rally. Score:

Englewood Takes 13-9 Game from Pine Bluff

Pine Bluff, Ark., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Englewood High school of Chicago, threatened several times with defeat, but always having enough in reserve to protect its lead, defeated the Pine Bluff High eleven, 13 to 9, this afternoon in one of the most bitterly fought games ever seen here. Although having the better of the game in the early stages, Englewood later on was clearly outplayed, and it was only a stubborn defense that enabled the visitors to capture the victory. Lineup:

PINE BLUFF.		ENGLEWOOD.
Shelton	L.E.	Rego
V. Hankins	L.T.	Dobbert
Marr	L.G.	Cosby
Pritchard	C.	Chancellor

MARQUETTE NIPS LAWRENCE, 10 TO 6

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Two runs, one of 90 yards by O'Keefe and a second of 70 yards by Nason, featured an otherwise drab football game here today in which Marquette university defeated Lawrence college, 10 to 6. O'Keefe raced through the entire Lawrence team for Marquette's only touchdown in the first quarter, while Nason intercepted a pass to make a touchdown for the locals. Leary place kicked from the 20 yard line for Marquette's winning margin.

SPARTA SOCCER TEAM WILL PLAY ALL-STARS TODAY

The famous A. C. Sparta soccer team of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, recognized as one of the greatest soccer elevens in the world, will make its initial appearance in Chicago this afternoon when they play a team of all stars from the Midwest league at Soldiers' field. The European eleven will play three games here, the second with Ulster United, champion of Canada, at Soldiers' field next Sunday, and the third against the local Sparta team at Cermak park Oct. 23.

With an impressive record, which includes a victory over Uruguay, Olympic games champions, the visitors are expected to brush aside the all stars, who have a smooth working combination that has taken the measure of two other foreign invaders. The all stars trimmed the Hakoah team of Austria and a picked team from Ontario, Canada, but the Czecho-Slovakians have a better team than either Hakoah or the Canadians.

Eight of the all stars are members of the Bricklayers team, while the others are Walker of the local Sparta eleven and Cuthbert and Gardiner of the Thistles.

MURCHIE LEADS RIPON ELEVEN TO 28-6 VICTORY

Ripon, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Ripon opened the Wisconsin-Illinois conference season here this afternoon by romping off with Northwestern of Watertown, 28 to 6. Brilliant open field running by Murchie enabled the Crimson to score in every period. He scored three touchdowns and four goals after touchdowns.

Kansas Aggies Overcome Lead to Beat Texas, 13-3

Manhattan, Kas., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Opening up with a baffling forward passing game in the third quarter, the Kansas Aggies wiped out a University of Texas lead and won their intersectional game here today, 13 to 3. The Longhorns had a 3 to 0 advantage at the start of the third period.

WEST VIRGINIA COPS.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—West Virginia university scored an easy victory over Washington and Lee here this afternoon, 18—0. Ryan ran 17 yards for the first touchdown.

Sohn's drop kick in the second quarter was the margin by which Austin defeated Central High of Peoria yesterday at the Oak Park High school field. Lineup:

Millard Avenue Baptists Win Junior Church Title

Millard Avenue Baptist baseball team yesterday won the junior championship of the Church Athletic Association league by virtue of its 9 to 2 triumph over the Englewood Baptist nine in the final of the title series at Jones and Baumrucker park.

Lefty Vejrostek pitched for the new champions and struck out thirteen batsmen, while his teammates registered their eighteenth straight victory.

The senior championship game between Elim Swedish M. E. and the Woodlawn Baptist nines was called at the end of the first inning because of rain. Elim was leading, 3 to 0.

Scott High Trims Tilden Tech Eleven, 21 to 0

Toledo, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Scott High eleven opened its season here this afternoon by defeating the Tilden High of Chicago, 21 to 0.

The Chicago lads, although several pounds heavier all along the line, could do nothing against Scott's splendid defense.

Lindblom defeated Champaign High yesterday, 8 to 0, at Normal park before a crowd of 3,000. Shimkus ran 40 yards to score Lindblom's touch down in the last quarter. Lineup:

LINDBLOM [8].		CHAMPAIGN [0].

Touchdowns—Fitzgerald, Brosseau. Goal from field—Cronin.

De La Salle High of Joliet trounced St. Patrick of the Catholic league, 13 to 0, yesterday at St. Rita field.

Antioch took a double header from McHenry yesterday at Antioch, winning the heavyweight game, 27 to 0, and taking the pony game, 32 to 0.

Crane Tech High of Chicago was beaten by Rockford, 13 to 0, here today. Sam Behr, quarter back, scored both touchdowns.

La Grange upset Hinsdale, 6 to 0 at Hinsdale yesterday. Cave returned a punt sixty yards for La Grange's winning score.

Waukegan had a difficult time beating Bloom at Chicago Heights yesterday, but managed to obtain a 6 to 0 triumph.

Scoring the closing minutes of play, Fenger downed the Englewood reserves, 6 to 0, yesterday at 115th and Halsted streets. Habanian scored for the winners.

Deerfield gave the inexperienced Lake View eleven a 19 to 0 beating at Highland Park yesterday. Swanson, Baker, and Borden scored for the home team.

Moosehearts opened the 1926 football season today with a 14 to 0 victory over the Marshall High eleven of Chicago. The greater part of the game was played in a driving rain, which made open field running and forward passing impossible.

Hyde Park gridders swamped Lane Tech, 27 to 0, at Logan Square park yesterday. The south siders outclassed their opponents from the start, and the victory stamps Hyde Park as one of the strongest contenders for the City league title. Lineup:

HYDE PARK [27].		LANE [0].
Miecke	L.E.	Carpenter
Trulsen	L.T.	Goodyear
Schauss	L.G.	Gage

Culver Defeats Ft. Wayne Catholic Eleven, 32 to 0

Culver, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy experienced little difficulty in winning the season's opener in football today from the Central Catholic High school of Fort Wayne, 32 to 0. The cadets were too heavy, fast, and well conditioned for the cross state aggregation, which last year won the state Catholic high school championship.

Held to six points during the first half, Culver came back during the second half, Dunn, Knourek, and Colligan each scoring touchdowns after runs of 60, 45, and 55 yards, respectively.

Diamond Medal Bowling Meet Goes to St. Louis

For the first time in the history of the event, the eleventh annual diamond medal individual championship, bowling classic of the Louis P. Petersen alleys, will be held outside of Chicago. This became known yesterday when Louis Petersen, originator of the diamond medal competition, announced his plans for this year's tournament, which will be held at St. Louis, Mo., on Oct. 23 and 24.

Jones Misses 2 Foot Putt; Loses Exhibition Play

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Bobby Jones missed a two foot putt on the seventeenth hole in an exhibition match here today, and he and Gale Alexander were defeated by Watts Gunn and Leonard Loos.

Jones shot the course in par, 71. Loos in 73, and Gunn and Alexander in 77 each. The exhibition was for the benefit of the Children's home here.

INDOOR GAME TODAY.

The All-Nations indoor baseball team will open the season in Chicago this afternoon when it takes on the Ginger Snaps at the Dvorak park gym. Turkish, Chinese, Hindoo, Arabian, Mexican and Indian athletes will be seen in action for the All-Nations squad.

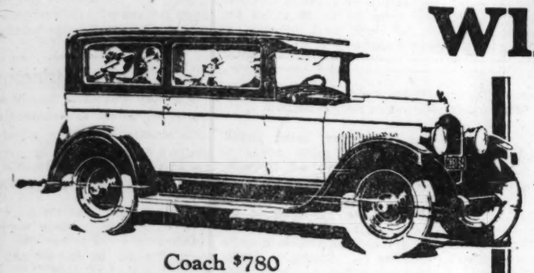
CHRYSLER "50"

Standardized Quality

What your own eyes see will make you choose the Chrysler "50"



Coach $780
f. o. b. Detroit

FINEST of FOURS

F.O.B. DETROIT
FOR COUPE

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, and is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70", and Imperial "80"—so that each individual car shall be the Supreme Value in its own class.

Coupe - - -	$750
Coach - - -	780
Sedan - - -	830

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax

If you are attracted by the Chrysler "50" it is well to bear in mind that your choice, in any event, must be made among five cars.

Only four four-cylinder cars other than the Chrysler "50" are now being built in quantity.

This despite the fact that 60 per cent of all cars built today are fours.

You should fix in your mind, therefore, the prices which Mr. Chrysler has placed upon his Chrysler "50" cars—$750 for the Coupe; $830 for the Sedan; $780 for the Coach. Then study the Chrysler "50" in contrast to everything else offered.

You will be rushed to a decision by the startling character of the contrast. The mere appearance and dimensions of the Chrysler "50" alone will startle you by comparison—its family seating proportions, its size, and its marked beauty of design, finish and fittings.

But the vital thing is the contrast in performance—the power and speed of 50 miles and more per hour; the acceleration of the Chrysler "50"—5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds; and above all, the ease with which it travels.

The Chrysler plan of Standardized Quality has built into the "50" elements of superiority so outstanding that they are revealed at a glance, and overwhelmingly verified in performance.

Never, it seems to us, was it so easy for the buyer to make sure that his money is buying the utmost as in contrast between the "50" and all others.

Franklin Highway to Follow Crack Corn Belt Route

State Opens New Tourist Feature in 'Egypt.'

BY E. E. PIERSON.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — [Special Correspondence.] — An important addition to the transcontinental highways of the United States promises to be the newly formed Benjamin Franklin highway, which is to be routed from Atlantic City in New Jersey, to San Francisco, via Route 8 of the state bond issue hard road system in central Illinois.

At a meeting of 125 delegates from the various cities and towns along the proposed route in this state, the Benjamin Franklin Highway Association of Illinois was organized, and the following officers elected: George Alfs, Peoria, president; C. H. Condit, Gilman, vice president; O. B. Eddy, Peoria, secretary; N. E. Mellak, Eureka, treasurer. It was made plain that all officers would serve without any remuneration and that all money subscribed would be devoted solely to properly marking the route from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts. The new highway will cross Illinois via the counties of Iroquois, Ford, Livingston, McLean, Woodford, Tazewell, Peoria, Knox, Warren, and Henderson, crossing the Mississippi river at Burlington, and then extending west through Iowa.

It is proposed to organize a similar association in each state and, when each is organized, the national will be permanently formed. Route 8 through Illinois is now completed, giving continuous concrete from Indiana to Iowa. In lining up this new highway from coast to coast, the promoters will endeavor to secure concrete or gravel connections in every state, and believe that it will prove to be the shortest and best road connecting the Atlantic and Pacific for motor traffic.

It is promised that Route 1 of the state bond issue hard road system, which connects Chicago with the Ohio river and Kentucky, will be completed this month and be thrown into service by November. This road follows the eastern edge of Illinois for a distance of nearly 400 miles, terminating at Metropolis at the south, the second road to reach the Ohio, Route 2 at Cairo being the first. The last gap of the construction of Route 1 extends from Vienna in Johnson county to Choat in Massac county. The opening of this new road will add a notable scenic route. From Harrisburg to Metropolis it crosses the Ozark uplift known as the mountains of Illinois.

XXVI.—CHICAGO AND VICINITY

UNTIL the state and county highway builders complete the big highway widening and improvement program which took definite shape last week with the state's pledge to spend $3,760,000 immediately in widening work and to support the proposed $15,000,000 county bond issue to be voted in November, Chicago drivers may expect to face dangerous congestion on most of the main pavements entering the city. But there are a few open roads if you know where to find them, and this week's tour suggestion outlines a few of the best.

The belt line trail detouring city congestion is particularly valuable to drivers who desire to make time on trips that do not include city streets and boulevards.

Illinois Roads Open in Face of Autumn Storms

AUTUMN storms have struck the main highways about Chicago harder this year than usual, but Illinois pavements and gravel trunk lines in neighboring states have weathered the period without serious damage. Following is a last minute report made yesterday by the Chicago Motor club:

Ill-1—Pavement south of Carrier Mills and also between Vienna and north of Choat will be open this winter.

Ill-3—Cars must use ferry to cross river at Beardstown. The spur from Lyndon to Prophetstown is completed and open to travel.

Ill-4—Water is again over the detour just south of Lincoln but not enough to hinder travel. The detour has been closed just north of Springfield and passenger cars are using a temporary bridge. Trucks and busses must use Walnut street detour out of Springfield, which is about 2 miles west of Ill-4.

Ill-5—Now open from Chicago to Dubuque except short detour in Rockford, which is marked, and another through Galena, which also is marked but is slightly rough, though hard-surfaced.

Ill-7—Temporary detour east of Ottawa on account of high water. One-way traffic at 1 mile west of Ottawa.

Ill-8—Between Yates City and Maquon under pavement contract but no pavement has been laid.

Ill-9—Between Morton and Pekin is now under contract.

Ill-13—Narrow brick pavement east and west of Harrisburg. This will be contracted this fall. Earth detour being used between Sparta and Vergennes; paved between Vergennes and Carbondale.

Ill-14—Will be open to travel October 15 between east of McLeansboro and intersection of county road south of Enfield. From south of Enfield to Carmi being graded.

Ill-18—Reported in poor condition between Mendota and Somonauk; 23 in poor condition between Ottawa and Leland; 24 south of Springfield through Rochester and Edinburg open for travel, but in poor condition.

Ill-30—At Galva now being paved. From Dunlap to 3 miles north of Princeville no pavement laid. Between Dunlap and Peoria pavement just completed, possible opening October 15.

Ill-31—Four miles uncompleted between Lewistown and Astoria. Pavement from Summer to Astoria may be used by October 15. Astoria to Rushville, 6 miles uncompleted. Three miles adjacent to Rushville will be open about October 10. The detour between Lewistown and Rushville is muddy and in poor condition. Several days of sunshine will be necessary to make this detour in good condition.

Ill-33—Stretch to be completed between Dieterich and Wheeler October 15.

Ill-34—Pavement completed between Caskins City and Shetterville. Between Elizabethtown and Golconda to be open this winter.

Ill-36—Completely paved between Pittsfield and Quincy excepting two stretches, one between Barry and Kinderhook to be open September 27; the other a short stretch between west of Pittsfield and Hadley. Two miles completed near Denver. Seven miles of pavement between Carthage and Bowen now open to travel. The ferry at Florence is still unable to operate on account of high water. Motorists are crossing the river at Montezuma, which necessitates a detour through Alsey, Glasgow and Milton.

Ill-39—Detour from Bloomington to Farmer City in bad condition.

Ill-41—Gap at Avon opened September 25. Gap at Abington under paving contract.

Ind-6—All bridges between New Bethel and Shelbyville completed and open for travel. Culvert construction also completed 9 miles north of Madison.

WORK-BENCH WISDOM

KNOCKS AND NOISES.

BY F. E. EDWARDS.

[Chief Engineer Automobile Testing Laboratory.]

THE most aggravating things that the automobile owner has to contend with are knocks or new noises that develop in his motor. His inexperience doesn't permit him to locate just what the causes are, and even if he is an expert driver, the noise may fool him.

A knock comes from some loose part and continual knocking will develop heat and besides will hammer the parts, pounding them out of shape. Sometimes this knock may be only pre-ignition, which the driver may easily identify and stop by retarding his spark on the quadrant. If that doesn't relieve matters, the knock is from some looseness in the motor, may be loose pistons, wrist pins, connecting rods, valve tappets, or push rods, and should be located and remedied as soon as possible.

These knocks are readily located with the proper instruments and facilities. Some knocks are harder to identify, such a ring knock, which was the case in one of our tests. A car had just been overhauled by the owner who had his own facilities for doing the work, and when the car was ready to run, there was a slight knock in the motor, which annoyed him. By our process we eliminated the pistons, wrist pins, connecting rods, tappets, and timing gears from the picture. We then proceeded to localize the noise with stethoscopes, and reported that it was either a broken ring on number three cylinder or a slight boss knock on that cylinder. Upon investigation, the owner found that a broken ring on number three piston was the mischief maker. It is sometimes the case that knocks are wrongly diagnosed, and the work done does not remedy the noise. Then something else has to be done and the knock is finally located by the cut and try method.

Another noise which was annoying an owner was a severe vibrating noise in the motor. This was traced to the fan and the cause proved by disconnecting that offending member from the operation.

Almost all motors have what are termed periodic vibrations, which will start other loose parts about the car vibrating. This periodic vibration, however, will be always at the same speed, probably over a range of three miles, say from 36 to 39 miles per hour. It is very good practice to either drive under or over these speeds.

Better Business.

The automotive parts and accessory business, which experienced a noticeable slump in July to a point materially below the levels of early spring, showed a rapid gain throughout August and September, according to reports from the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' association. Automotive equipment jobbers report their business showed better than a 10 per cent increase in August and September, over that of July.

An Important

Locomobile

Announcement

On and after October 1st the Locomobile Company of Illinois, formerly located at 2401 South Michigan Avenue, will operate through several community stores.

A central service station has been established at 2912 Vernon Avenue, which will be operated directly by the Company, thus affording better service to all patrons.

The rapid increase in volume of sales during the past twelve months and a policy for broader expansion accounts for this change.

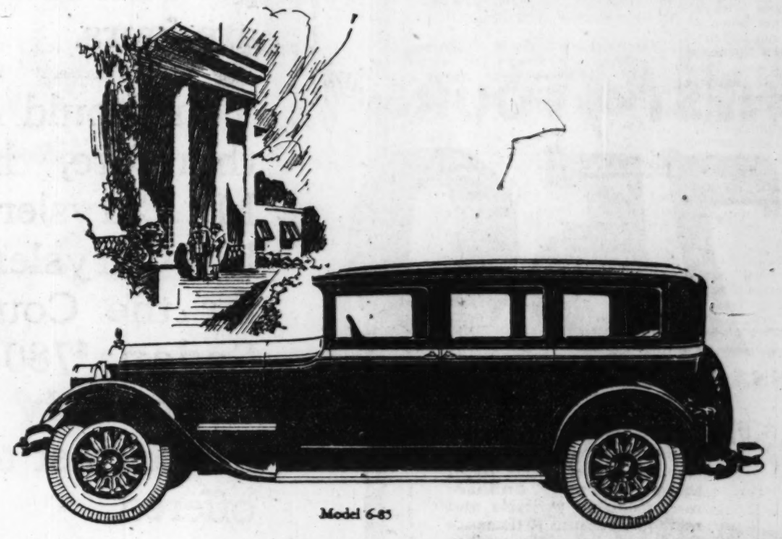
Select America registers emphatic approval of the

NEW STEARNS-KNIGHT



AT leading metropolitan points, the new Stearns-Knight was presented two weeks ago, co-incident with its first showing in this city.

Its acceptance among buyers and owners of fine motor-cars was marked with an unexampled unanimity—its reception everywhere rivaling in numbers and good opinion its enthusiastic welcome here.

A completely new line of Knight-motored cars—modernly planned, modernly designed, modernly engineered . . .

Built after the custom manner—with hand-made care—vernier-like precision insured by a production of but a limited number of cars a day . . .

Complete as to new body styles—nine in all—in design and finish as beautiful as only cars of Stearns-Knight origin can be . . . In riding comfort, luxurious beyond precedent—superbly rich in trimmings and appointments . . .

The only fine car of Stearns-Knight luxury to offer the powerful, efficient Knight sleeve-valve engine . . . no carbon cleaning . . . no valve grinding . . . the only type of motor-car engine that improves with use.

Discriminating America recognizes in this new Stearns-Knight presentation an event of major motoring importance—an impressive climax to a 27-year background in building quality automobiles.

Prices $3250 to $3750 f. o. b. factory, tax extra. Your examination is invited.

National Support Given Plans to Stop Loop Parking

Reform Principles Back of Success in Other Cities.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

In advocating that all parked cars be cleared from the congested loop district during business hours Chicago is trailing rather than leading other American cities in traffic reform and improvements, it was revealed yesterday following a check on congestion relief methods as actually employed in other centers.

A study of the methods used shows that the no parking campaign backed by Chief Morgan Collins, many Chicago aldermen and some of the city's biggest business houses, is neither radical nor experimental, although it is more comprehensive and advanced than the average plan and is coupled with a score of other reforms tending to relieve it of inequalities for any one class in the city.

Following is a statement of traffic reform principles collected by the American City Magazine from the actual and theoretical activities in the leading American cities, which has a direct bearing on the Chicago situation:

"That streets are primarily provided for general public use as lines of communication for pedestrians and for the transportation of persons and merchandise; and that the rights of the digerent classes of traffic to unlimited use of the streets, including the right to park, are subject to the public and civic welfare.

"That unlimited parking be allowed at all times in all business districts where it does not cost the traveling public more than it saves those who park, nor interfere with the expeditious movement and safty of street traffic, and with reasonable access of vehicles to the curb.

"That as vehicular traffic density increases, every reasonable effort be made to expedite movement and make it more safe by the use of pavement markings, traffic signs and signals, the designation of one way and 'through' streets, the employment of adequate trained traffic officers, and other aids to traffic safety and facilitation; and that traffic ordinances and parking regulations give recognition to the manifold interests represented by public transportation vehicles.

"That the right to move a car is superior to the right to store a car on the public ways, and that when or where parking causes a net economic loss to the public through hindrance to safe and convenient travel, there should be limitation—or in extreme cases, at certain hours, total abolition—of parking, both commercial and private; and that in some cities the complete prohibition during certain hours of private motor and horse drawn vehicles from congested downtown districts, and limitation of commercial vehicles to consolidated service, is to be regarded as an ultimate possibility.

"That if the active and impartial enforcement of such regulations—and the alternative of intolerable congestion in the streets—are considered by business men to be to the disadvantage of business in certain districts, an attempt be made to solve the problem by one or more of three methods;

"By the provision or improvement of by-pass routes for through traffic, if congestion on the downtown streets is due in a considerable degree to traffic which has no need to be in the district under consideration; such by-pass routes to be designed, wherever economically justifiable, with separated grades to permit uninterrupted flow of traffic;

"By the provision of storage garages or other off the street parking and loading facilities on private property, by the business interests affected, at their own expense, and with a low rate of charge to their customers;

"By the widening, arcading, or double decking of existing downtown streets—to only such an extent, however, as property owners on these streets are willing to pay, by benefit assessments [payable over a period of years] for so much of the land and construction costs as may be for their benefit; the principle being recognized that if the city as a whole were required to pay the cost of congested district street widening, arcading, or double decking, the building of by-pass routes would ordinarily be a much wiser expenditure of municipal funds.

"All future department stores, theaters, tall office buildings, and other business structures catering to large numbers of customers or tenants should be built, therefore, only with a knowledge by the owner that he must either provide space himself for loading and unloading of merchandise and for storage of his customers', tenants' and employés' cars; or depend on the trade and services of persons who travel by foot or public conveyance; or establish branch shops, banks, neighborhood theaters, etc., outside of the congested centers, in areas properly zoned and so planned that there will be free circulation with ample parking space and a segregation of trucking and delivery by means of alleys or otherwise."

Many of these principles are expected to be adapted to practical Chicago use by the new traffic code and reorganization now in the making by the Association of Commerce traffic committee. Every angle of Chicago's problem is being studied by members of the committee, with the expert traffic survey made by the Erskine Foundation in coöperation with the Chicago association as a basis for official recommendations.

The traffic planners promise to whip their program into shape to submit to the city council for action in November.

The Inquiring Reporter

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. F. Richards, McGregor, Ia., was awarded $5.

THE QUESTION:

In traveling this year, where did you find the best tourists' camp?

WHERE ASKED:

55th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

THE ANSWERS:

John R. Gross, 5517 Maryland avenue, chauffeur — The best camp I struck was close to Oshkosh, Wis. It was capable of handling over 100 tourists and a few of its accommodations were a public cooking stove, plenty of running water, and huts for a nominal rental if the tourist did not care to pitch his own tent. The Oshkosh chamber of commerce did everything in their power to make the stay of the campers comfortable.

Harry Sorenson, 1818 North Francisco avenue, purchasing agent—I have just completed a trip to New York which covered about 2,800 miles and am here to say that nothing equaled the tourist camps I found throughout New York state. One camp situated on the top of a mountain in the Cumberland range, struck my fancy in particular.

Andrew Witt, 3806 Vincennes avenue, student — A tourist camp at which I stopped in Canada proved to be the best in my estimation. It was located in a public park near London, Ontario, and under the maintenance of the city. Its features were electric cooking stoves, a public bath, two swimming pools, one built in and the other a natural stream, a ball park containing three separate diamonds, an amusement stand at which concerts were rendered every night, and other features. What more could you ask for.

George A. Peshek, 538 Wrightwood avenue, mechanic — A camp I stopped at located near St. Regis, Montana, is my choice. Huts, the rental of which were $1 a night, plenty of wood from forests near by, river within 200 feet, cooking stove, running water, and other things made this camp ideal for tourists.

Harry S. Carson, 854 E. 57th street, mechanic—The tourist camp near Amarillo, Texas, rivals anything of its kind in the country in my estimation. It is enclosed with a high fence serving to keep hobos and other undesirables out. Camp had a double club room for men and women, with large reading room in each and shower baths.

One Way Streets.

Every street in Brooklyn eventually will be designated as a one way thoroughfare to help overcome traffic congestion, according to Police Inspector August Kuhne, in charge of the situation.

Brooklyn is growing so rapidly, he declared, that none of the ordinary traffic measures which are so efficacious in other cities is applicable to the problem.

He added that there are a dozen major reasons for the congestion, and that all of them will have to be corrected simultaneously before Brooklyn can enjoy 100 per cent relief.

URUGUAY GOOD CUSTOMER.

The United States supplies more goods to Uruguay than does any other country, and this amount is increasing each year.

The Road Race

The United States agricultural department last week announced that America's expansion of hard surfaced highways is nearly keeping pace with stupendous increase of motor cars.

For the first half of this year 19,697,832 vehicles were registered in the United States, an increase for 12 months of 1,927,141. There are now 270,653 miles in the state highway systems which includes the roads eligible for improvement with federal aid.

STEER IN MOTION.

A car should always be in motion when steered. Turning at the wheel while the car is standing not only strains the steering gear but causes unnecessary wear on the tires.

Fewer Workers.

A decrease in the number of men employed in the various automobile plants and accessories factories in Detroit was announced last week, the total number now employed being 233,673. This is a decrease of 6,055 over the number employed one week ago. For the corresponding week of 1925 the number employed was 255,129, or 21,456 greater than this week's total.

Draw for Space.

Drawing for exhibition space at the New York and Chicago National Automobile shows will be held in New York Oct. 7.

This has become an annual get together of the automobile industry, open to newspapermen, dealers, and factory executives.

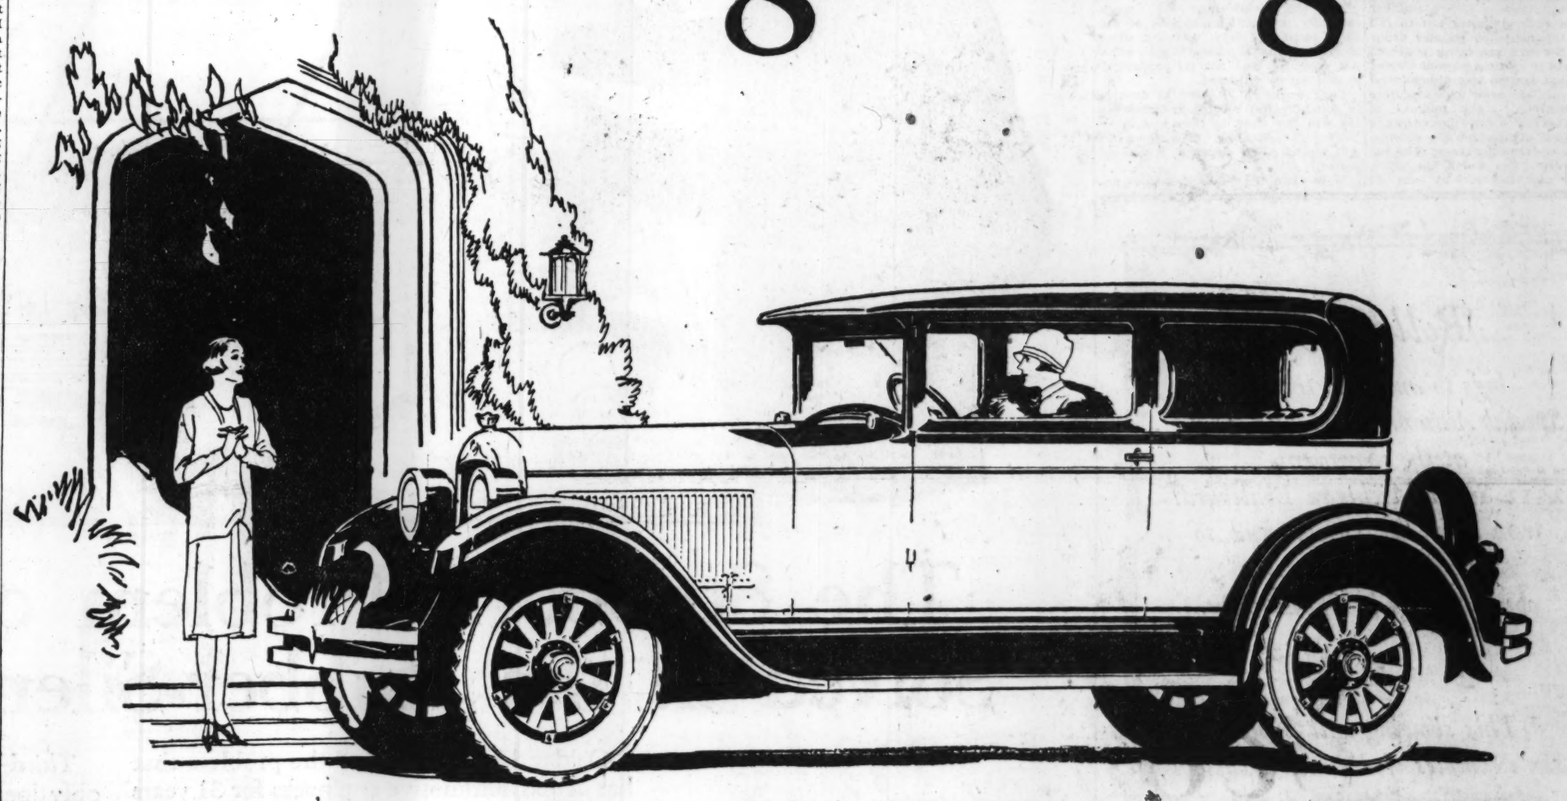
Announcing the NEW Five-Passenger Brougham



Eight Cylinder Closed Car Comfort at a Remarkable Price

The Beautiful Hupmobile Eight Brougham $2245 F.O.B. DETROIT, PLUS TAX

A refreshing departure from ordinary body types, the new Hupmobile Brougham offers eight-cylinder smoothness and performance with compact beauty of line and supreme riding comfort for five adult passengers.

At the lowest price ever placed on a closed car mounted on the Eight chassis, the Brougham stands out as one of the really great values of the year.

Built for those who prefer an intimate car —and whose choice has heretofore been confined to the coach or 4-passenger coupe types—this distinctive car affords immensely greater luxury, comfort and convenience.

Without sacrifice of exterior beauty, the Brougham provides exceptionally generous seating capacity.

Two front passengers are accommodated by extra large individual seats, deeply upholstered and tilting forward to allow access to rear seat.

Three passengers in the rear occupy a generously wide seat, with upholstered arm rests on each side. Two wide doors permit easy entrance and exit from either side.

The mohair upholstery is identical with that furnished in the highest priced Hupmobile Eight closed cars. Exterior finish is Pelham Blue, with black upper structure. Rear deck space is provided for a large trunk.

Combined with the finest of straight-eight performance, and Hupmobile's reputation for reliability, long life and low cost of maintenance, the Brougham meets the needs of a great majority of motorists.

See the new Brougham now on display at our salesrooms. You will be amazed at its custom beauty and luxurious appointments. If you prefer, a car will be sent to your home or office at a time convenient to you.

MOTORDOM

Industry Enters Homestretch of Record Auto Year

Marks Up Increase in Taxes for Uncle Sam.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—With nine months of what seems destined to be their most productive year behind them, automobile manufacturers have entered the final quarter, and the early months of 1927, with optimistic confidence. The call for cars continues in sufficient volume to tax the capacity of several of the large companies, and in some instances the demand is greater than the supply. The used car market is keeping pace with new vehicles, and dealers report satisfactory "waiting lists" for customers who are looking for bargains, especially in the closed models.

Competition is as keen as ever. One of the important things which manufacturers and dealers have learned well is that competition is helpful. In the early days there was great fear of large production in the belief that there was a limited market for cars, but is has been demonstrated that the more cars that are sold the greater is the market. Big productions means lower prices which make it economically possible for every family to have at least one car.

Lake freighters for the exclusive transportation of automobiles and trucks are speeding up a bit in an effort to move sufficient cars to supply the winter demands before weather conditions make it necessary to fall back to the none too popular driveaways. No cars are being produced to be stored to await a possible buyer; in fact, that system was discontinued several years ago after manufacturers lost, collectively, many millions of dollars. This period was followed by one of the worst depressions the automobile industry ever experienced. The lesson, however, was worth the price, for every manufacturer—at least all those who succeeded in continuing business—revised his methods of production.

Following several months during which the innovation was tentatively tried out, the five day week for workmen in the plants throughout the country of the Ford company has been adopted as a permanent policy, it was officially announced Monday.

The short week plan was experimentally projected in several of the Ford plants in July, and the effect since that time has been to give gradual effect so that normal production should not be disturbed.

Such workmen as seem to deserve it will hereafter receive as much for the five day week as they have been getting for six days. This, however, will depend solely on merit, it was asserted.

More than ten years ago Ford announced his belief that a five day week would be practicable, and since then has been experimenting along that line. A new scale of wages is also being considered by the company.

Find 51 Miles an Hour Is Safe Speed When Road Is Clear

JUDGE E. P. MIDDLETON of Urbana, O., is getting not only a liberal amount of publicity for himself, but his desk is stacked high with letters asking for copies of a recent ruling made by him that a speed of 51 miles an hour was not unsafe. In fact, he said that it was just about right for safety, but of course it depended wholly upon other conditions.

The ruling was made in the case of the state of Ohio against the driver of a bus operating between Lima and Urbana. The driver was arrested by two officers who happened to be passengers, and who swore the speed attained "part of the time" was 51 miles an hour.

The driver, E. A. Larrick, was indicted, tried and found not guilty.

Judge Middleton held that "a driver may go 45 miles an hour and still not be guilty of speeding, if the pavement is dry, the road clear and the car in good mechanical condition.

"If a driver were to pass a school house at recess time at a speed greater than 15 miles an hour, he might be found guilty of traveling too fast, but with a clear, wide roadway ahead, without curves, and a car mechanically perfect, 51 miles an hour is not in excess of the so-called lawful limit."

In spite of the 40 per cent reduction in automobile taxes in the last session of congress, receipts from that source increased $18,991,696 for the fiscal year ended June 30 last.

Michigan paid by far the greatest share of the automobile tax, chiefly because all the great producing units of the industry are located in this state. Collections in Michigan amounted to $84,321,992 on passenger cars, $882,692 on trucks, and $3,265,113 on tires and accessories. Ohio was the "runner up," with $7,882,937 on passenger cars.

The general increase in automobile production and sales was responsible for the increase in receipts in that tax, in spite of big reductions. An automobile is now owned for every six persons in the country.

Official figures just made public show that the automobile production in the United States jumped 172,000 passenger cars and trucks in the month of August as compared with the production for the same month in 1925. The amount shows an increase of approximately 70 per cent.

This production was divided as follows: 379,111 passenger cars and 45,283 trucks, a total of 424,394 units. The total for the first eight months of the year also shows a substantial increase in production as compared with the corresponding period of 1925. The increase was 367,057 passenger cars and trucks.

Public Schools Open Safety Work in Middle West

THE safety poster issued by the Chicago Motor club to the schools of northern Illinois and northern Indiana illustrates the danger of crossing streets in the middle of the block. The bulletin upon which the teachers will base their talks to children this month says:

"The first part of the school year is the most difficult. You have been out in the open all summer, many have been away from home, and it is hard to settle down to the routine of studies.

"These children will find that the habits of study they formed during the school year have suffered from lack of use. Things you learned last year and knew by heart do not come to mind so readily. This is true of your regular studies, and it is also true of the lessons of safety.

"We must start now to take up the habits of safety that we may have neglected during our vacation. Those who were in school last year will remember that we signed a pledge, promising not to play in the streets. I shan't ask you if you kept that promise, for I am certain that most of the children who made this promise had character enought to keep it. Many children were injured during the vacation period; if these children had kept the promise they made, most of them, no doubt, should not have been injured.

"Playing in the streets is extremely dangerous, but by far the most dangerous practice is that of crossing a street in the middle of the block instead of at the crosswalks."

Expensive Rides.

With gasoline selling at 40 cents a gallon and taxes $5.10 per horsepower, motoring is a luxury in Great Britain. Because of the prohibitory prices, the "pram," a motorcycle with side car, is the most popular vehicle, followed by the motorcycle and a three-wheeled car with two seats. Another popular light car carries its engine amidships, under the high slung body. It boasts springs so powerful and sensitive that pneumatic tires are unnecessary, and uses a chain drive.

begs to announce that its Special Autumn Salon will be held at the showrooms, 2512 South Michigan Boulevard, from Saturday, October 2nd, to Thursday, October 7th; open evenings by appointment.

This showing will include six examples of distinctive custom coach work designed and executed by Rolls-Royce / Brewster. Both open and closed models will be displayed, suitable for town and country use. In exterior and interior finishings and appointments, these cars express the latest and smartest modes and color combinations. The Special Autumn Salon will prove of particular interest because it forecasts authoritatively the practice in motor-car coach work for the ensuing winter and spring.

Rolls-Royce takes pleasure in soliciting your attention to this showing and cordially invites you to attend.

The Stubborn Problem of 31 Years Solved in the Rubber-Silenced Chassis

1 The Harmonic Balancer—built into the Oakland crankshaft—eliminating torsional vibration.

2 Close-up section of engine mounting, showing rubber cushion and complete rubber insulation between motor support and frame side-member.

3 Cut-out view of Rubber-Silenced drive unit on transmission main drive shaft, showing rubber cushion.

4 New, heavy cross-member for the Oakland frame, completing a super-rigid support for the entire power-plant and body assembly.

Oakland has conquered the problem that has defied automotive engineers for 31 years—the elimination of perceptible vibration. Four vitally important features, plus the perfect coordination of every working part, render the Greater Oakland Six, with Rubber-Silenced Chassis, practically vibrationless at all speeds.

First—The Harmonic Balancer, pioneered by Oakland and built into the Oakland crankshaft, prevents any twisting of the crankshaft under repeated piston impulses and eradicates torsional vibration.

Second—Rubber supports for the Oakland engine form a cushion between power-plant and frame and effectually silence any vibration in the frame due to the torque reaction of the engine.

Third—The Rubber-Silenced Drive—not only does the Oakland engine ride on rubber, but it also drives through rubber, by means of this entirely new and exclusive development, which erases all body rumbles and vibrations communicated from the rear wheels, drive shaft and transmission.

Fourth—A new, extra-heavy cross-member, added to the frame, completes a super-rigid support for the entire power-plant and body assembly, and constitutes the final step in the conquest of vibration.

These features—found in their entirety only in the Greater Oakland Six—impart a smoothness and quietness of operation and a freedom from closed car rumble, unsurpassed by any other automobile, regardless of price.

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. Pontiac Six, companion to the Oakland Six, $825 to $895. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

MOTORDOM

Steady Driving Wins Over Speed in National Runs

Three A. Issues Code for Long Distance Tourists.

INTELLIGENT driving rather than occasional spurts of high speed is recommended by the American Automobile association as a tire saver for long distance motoring.

Speed alone will not aid the motorist to reach his destination in the shortest time. The automobilist who makes long distances with ease is the one who anticipates the turns and the stops ahead of him, it is pointed out by Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., whose transcontinental trip with Ernest N. Smith, general manager, in 96 hours, still is fresh in the memory of motorists throughout the country. Henry contends that the intelligent driver makes time where the short sighted bungler is merely waiting for a long stretch of perfect road where he can step hard on the gas. The A. A. A. president believes it is not even necessary to have an exceptionally fast car to get from city to city in the best time.

The association has drafted some definite suggestions which, if followed carefully, should enable the motorist to make long distance in far better time and entail fewer risks than when he depends on speed alone.

"First, know where you're going," the A. A. A. advises. "It is quite surprising the number of tourists who travel blindly, depending for guidance upon misinformation handed out to them en route.

"Know ferry schedules so as to be able to make quick connections. Passing one or two cars at an advantageous point often means saving a long wait by the river's edge.

"Learn the importance of quick acceleration and make every effort to keep the engine in such condition that it will help you to save time when starting off from crossings, after having rounded curves and when passing other cars.

"Learn how to make a quick shift into second gear so as to save the brakes when descending hills and to forestall the possibility of having to wait at the bottom of the hill until the brakes cool off.

"Climb more hills in second gear. A great many cars are now built with second gears which enable the driver to climb steep grades easily at twenty-five miles an hour or more as against a struggle at twenty to twenty-five in high gear.

"Drive at an even pace and avoid stopping. A few unnecessary stops cut the speed average considerably.

"Remember that at high speed the chances of tire or engine trouble always are greater.

"Get behind a good driver who is making good time in safety. He is a good man to follow.

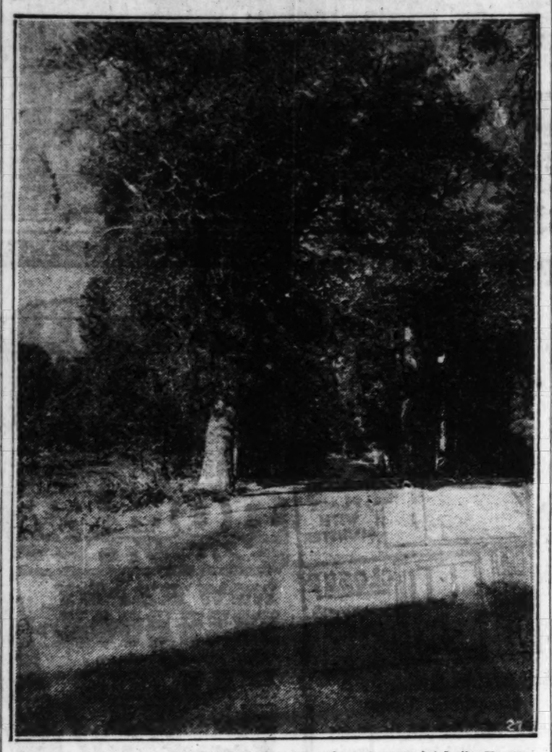
"Buy your supplies before you start. It saves slowing down to look for filling stations that serve your favorite gas.

"Before passing through an unfamiliar city it is better to stop and ask if there is a route that avoids traffic. It's the one stop on any tour that may save considerable time.

"Learn to watch the speedometer more. Don't set out with the idea of only seeing the fifties and sixties come up on the dial, but see how often you are driving a little below thirty or thirty-five when you could just as well be going at exactly these speeds.

"Take no chances of any kind. It takes time even to lecture some one who has scratched a fender."

INTO THE SHADOWS.



One of the many delightful vistas along the new, convict built, Yosemite Valley highway which will be formally opened as a feature of the diamond jubilee celebration of the valley's discovery on Aug. 1 of this year. At a cost of $1,000,000 convicts assigned from state prisons have blasted a 24 foot roadway through solid rock along the canyon of the Merced river to bring the famous valley within a week-end touring radius of San Francisco. The road is all below the snow line.

Happy Trade-In.

As first payment on a sale, an automobile dealer in Spokane, Wash., accepted two milk goats in lieu of cash or an old car. It was pointed out that the goats offered several advantages: no reconditioning was necessary and for the privilege of "parking" in a vacant lot they returned a profit in milk while being carried in stock.

Experts Translate Motor Sounds for Average Drivers

MANY car owners are forever "hearing things"; many hear nothing, says a bulletin issued by the Chicago Motor club. Neither group enjoys the full pleasure of motoring because those who are always looking for car trouble are nervous and those who do not understand the rattle and squeak language as spoken by the car usually come home at the end of a tow line.

"This condition is what is known as trouble consciousness," it adds. "It is not always an easy matter for the average driver to differentiate between noises that are inconsequential ravings of the car and those which are warnings of a breakdown. This explains why a water pump squeak will often spoil one motorist's whole day's sport while the screeching of an oil hungry universal joint will fail to elicit proper action from another. A motorist recently reported that he spent a most miserable Sunday afternoon looking for a service station because he thought that the tapping in his engine was a warning of something broken. A motorist more experienced would promptly have diagnosed the trouble as a too highly adjusted valve tappet riding a 'high spot' and would have tried to forget it until a suitable time arrived for making a better adjustment.

"Suppose, on the other hand, that the car set up a shrill squeaking by way of complaint. The driver who knew when to be trouble conscious would immediately stop the machine. If the squeaking continued when the car was at dead rest he would know positively that something about the engine demanded oiling. It would not be a difficult matter to trace the trouble, by means of elimination and the oil can, to the upper or lower generator bearing, or perhaps both. Having oiled this he would jump into the car and go on his way satisfied that everything was all right again. But this same sort of trouble could occur to at least fifty per cent of the drivers without their knowing it—until a week later when the bill arrived for a new generator bearing.

"The real art of being trouble conscious is to be able always to have an ear ready for evidence of serious trouble while being able to make the annoyance a closed book if nothing can be done about it for the time being. Worrying never tightened a rim lug nor greased a differential. Yet many drivers who have cultivated trouble consciousness to a point where it is a detriment rather than a help spend most of their time at the wheel worrying needlessly over a lot of ailments which are common to the majority of cars."

News and Views of the Auto Trade

RESULTS of the unique "Whippet field trial week" demonstration just completed by Willys-Overland dealers have succeeded all expectations, according to a detailed report of car performance made yesterday by G. V. Orr, president of the Chicago organization. Motor fans were invited to drive stock cars during the week and following the tests turned in fuel averages of as high as 46.8 miles to the gallon and speeds exceeding 60 miles an hour, he reports. Production of these cars has now reached 1,000 a day, the report adds.

C. W. Nash announced yesterday that work has begun on the installation of $600,000 worth of additional equipment in the Nash light six plant at Racine to increase the daily capacity of the plant to 350 cars. Demand exceeding the supply of this type car, he adds, has resulted in the expansion.

An autumn sales salon featuring new coachwork styles was opened to the public yesterday in the Rolls-Royce headquarters, 2512 Michigan avenue.

An unusual honor has been brought to America through the award of the Grand Prix d'Honneur in the annual French motoring classic to the Oakland six. This is the first time in five years that the honor has been won by an American made car, according to Paris reports.

Col. Halsey Dunwoody, vice president and general sales manager of the Gardner Motor company, presented H. J. Rosenberg to Gardner dealers as the new distributor in this territory at a dealer dinner held last week. Helm Walker, who has had charge of the Chicago branch, has transferred his activities to Pittsburgh.

Chrysler claims the pioneering of revolutionary developments common to the 1926 automobile in a detailed outline of mechanical improvements adopted by that manufacturer in the last three years. The outline detailing such generally adopted improvements as the air cleaner, oil filter, thermostatic engine heat control, radimeter, and other devices was issued by the company yesterday.

Henry T. Ewald returned from a European business trip last week after having established a new branch of the Campbell-Ewald Advertising agency in Paris.

Will Stop Deaths.

A bill has been introduced into one of the legislatures of the western states that should go far toward eliminating accidents at grade crossings. It is to the effect that "when two trains on different tracks approach a certain crossing they must both stop and neither proceed until the other has passed."

BREAD FRESH FOR MONTHS.

Abaker in Paris claims to have a formula for bread dough that will keep the loaves fresh for months.

PEERLESS

Announces the

New Six-90

EVERYONE who has driven this new Six-90 instinctively expresses amazement at its fluent, silent power. Delight with its rich, distinctive beauty, its soothing smoothness.

The new Peerless Six-90 has the kind of power that makes driving a joy—thrilling, satisfying power. And it is power without vibration!

For the motor—with a bore of 3½ inches, stroke of 5 inches, and a 7-bearing crankshaft—is mounted on live, resilient rubber.

Cushioned so the faintest vibrations can't come back to you. Cushioned so motor noises can't be transmitted along the frame.

By all means drive this new Six-90 and know the peak of six-cylinder performance. A phone call to the Peerless dealer will bring it to your door.

DAMAGE TALK ADVANCES CORN; WHEAT IS WEAK

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets decidedly were unsettled with corn strong and wheat weak, the former advancing nearly 2c on heavy short covering headed by local professionals who have been aggressive sellers of late, while wheat broke 1⅛@1⅜c from the high and closed about the bottom.

Corn gained 1⅛c with December 81⅜c to 81⅞c and May 88⅝ to 88¾c. Wheat was off ⅝@1c with December 1.40⅜ to $1.40½, and May $1.45⅛ to $1.45¾. Oats finished ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher with December 44⅜c, and May 47@c to 48¼c. Rye lost ¾@1c with December $1.00⅛ and May $1.06⅛.

Bearish sentiment was much less pronounced in the grain markets the past week, and prices averaged higher with wheat gaining 2¾@3½c; corn, ⅞@1⅜c; oats, ⅝c, and rye, ⅝@⅞c, as compared with a week ago. Liquidation in nearby deliveries of lard ran its course, and the finish was 17½@27½c higher than a week ago, with ribs 45c higher and bellies 15c over.

Damage Talk Bulls Corn.

Talk of heavy damage to the corn crop in parts of Illinois and Iowa as the result of continued wet weather and floods was responsible for the local buying which brought about the sharp advance, with numerous stop loss orders uncovered on the way up, and sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves. The bracist was for further unsettled weather. The country took advantage of the bulge to sell old corn freely, and purchases to arrive were finally estimated at around 200,000 bu.

Wheat market fluctuated with extreme rapidity, the opening being firm on buying by houses with eastern and foreign connections, but the market eased later with Winnipeg, only to rally sharp with corn, and then break sharply toward the last, closing about the bottom. Winnipeg led the decline from the start, and at no time were prices above the finish of the previous day with the close at net losses of 1½c.

Better Weather in Canada.

Weather conditions in the Canadian northwest were more favorable and country offerings of wheat show a tendency to increase rapidly, deliveries at interior points Friday being around 1,150,000 bu, or about 1,000,000 bu in excess of a week ago. The trade look for a fairly liberal increase in the domestic total. Export demand was slow, with sales 350,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions. Gulf premiums were 1c lower. Liverpool closed 1@1¼d higher, with importers and shorts active buyers.

Action of other grains was the dominating influence in oats and rye. Local professionals were fair buyers of oats early, with the bulge to the best figures of the day made in sympathy with corn, while rye was weak with wheat. Some export business was said to have been put through in rye at the seaboard.

SHARP BREAK IN LARD

A sharp decline in cotton oil prices brought heavy selling of lard, particularly January which carried prices down sharply and made a tame close at about the lowest of the day, with losses of 20 to 30c. January lard today. The heavy decrease in lard stocks at Chicago and western packing points with a loss of 32,930,000 lbs in the western the past month was without effect, neither did the advance in corn have any effect. Total lard stocks in the west are down to 69,449,-000 lbs or 10,000,000 lbs more than last year. Meat stocks are 201,600,000 lbs. against 209,000,000 lbs last year. There was a decrease in September of 41,768,000 lbs against 44,640,000 lbs last year.

The prices were strong with receipts light, and values around the highest of the week. Liverpool lard was 3 to 9d lower. Exports of lard from the seaboard on Friday were 438,000 lbs. Prices follow:

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Export demand for wheat at the seaboard was again slow, with sales in all positions finally estimated at 300,000 to 400,000 bu. Premiums on hard winter at the gulf were quoted 1c lower than recently. Charters were made here for 60,000 bu wheat at 12c to Montreal.

Chicago handlers sold 35,000 bu corn and 50,000 bu oats to the domestic trade, with 200,000 bu corn booked to arrive. Sales of 35,000 bu No. 2 hard winter wheat were made in store at ⅛c under December.

Millers were after hard winter wheat, with the basis firm to ⅜c higher. No. 2 hard brought 3@4½c over and No. 3 hard 1c under to 1c over December, with No. 2 red 1@2c under and No. 3 red 2@3c under the future. Basis in outside markets was unchanged.

Offerings of cash corn were only fair, but the demand was less active and the spot basis unchanged to 1c lower. No. 2 grades sold at ⅛c over to 1c under December; No. 3 grades, ¾@2¾c under, and No. 4 grades, 2@3½c under. Outside markets were ½@1½c higher.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 32 cars; corn, 122 cars; oats, 32 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 15 cars.

IS THIS A BULL MARKET

For almost a year the stock market on the whole has made no progress. Eleven months ago the average level of the industrial shares was exactly where it is now.

Does that suggest that the present high level is to become normal—is it ground for increased confidence or increased caution?

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The wheat trade is said to be more nearly evened up than for some time past. There has been an advance of around 10c a bu from the recent low point. Big shorts are said to have covered and eastern longs have secured profits. Buyers of Friday were amongst the sellers on the bulge yesterday. Reports of the large eastern interest being in the market continue to circulate and have more or less influence on trading operations. It was said at the last that local operators were liberal buyers of bids on wheat.

A few floor traders who operate heavily at times have taken the buying side of corn on the belief that there has been heavy losses to the crop through inundation of low lands in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri. They consider the trade as too bearish and have succeeded in advancing prices 3c of late. Crop experts do not regard the loss on the low lands as of especial importance as compared with the aggregate acreage and size of the corn crop in the country.

Sanford Evans of Winnipeg estimates that there is 75 per cent of the wheat in Manitoba and Alberta, and 50 to 60 per cent in the Saskatchewan yet to be threshed.

Expectations are that the visible supply of wheat in the United States will show an increase of more than 2,000,000 bu for the week, largely in the northwest. Chicago should show a fair increase. World's shipments are estimated at 11,500,000 bu, or about the same as a year ago. There were only 905,000 bu of wheat and flour shipped during the week exclusive of North America, compared with 2,011,000 bu the the previous week. Broomhall says that it is needless to say that North America will be bound to furnish very large quantities to make up for the deficiency in other exporting countries.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—M. E. Forbes, president of Pierce Arrow Motor company, said on his departure for Europe that no action would be taken on back dividends on the preferred until he returned, when $4,000,000 of second preferred probably would be issued. Later on 171,250 shares of common would be issued for the specific purpose of retiring the debenture bonds.

Commercial failures during the first nine months of the present year were the largest for that period since 1922, but liabilities, though exceeding those of last year, were considerably below the same periods of 1924, 1922 and 1921. A total of 15,125 defaults, with liabilities of $462,810,996, were increases of 5.3 per cent and 29 per cent, respectively, over the corresponding period last year. There were 333 commercial failures this week, compared with 336 last week and 351 during the corresponding week last year.

The Marland Oil company has called a special meeting of stockholders to be held Nov. 1 to vote on an increase in the authorized capital stock from 2,000,000 to 2,400,000 shares. The shareholders will be offered the right to the extent of 20 per cent of their holdings at $50 a share.

Fairly steady conditions, with few changes of outstanding importance, featured the wholesale commodity markets this week, 40 out of the 61 alterations occurring in the list of quotations being advances against 21 declines. In last week's compilation 31 reductions contrasted with 29 increases; in a similar comparison for the corresponding week a year ago 33 out of 58 changes were in a downward direction.

Bank clearings this week at most of the leading cities again show decreases. In part, this is due to the fact that in the corresponding week of last year, with which comparison is made, the week's return included the heavy bank settlements incident to the first day of October, whereas this year the week ends with the closing day of September. Furthermore, bank clearings throughout 1925, particularly during the fall months, reflected a period of exceptional trade activity. Clearings for this week at all leading cities aggregate $8,151,266,000, a decrease of 11.8 per cent.

"Our full year's interest and dividend requirements were more than covered in the first eight months of 1926," said W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe. "Our September earnings were larger than last year and indications are that we may top the October and November earnings of last year."

The Collins and Aikman company declared an initial quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, placing the issue on a $4 annual dividend basis. The Pacific Coast Biscuit company declared initial dividends of 12½ cents a share on the common stock and 43¾ cents on the preferred, covering the period from Sept. 15 to Nov. 1.

September business brought the total volume of Nash sales and production for the nine months of 1926 up to 111,965 cars, as contrasted to 75,347 cars for the same period in 1925, which was the biggest previous year. Dodge Bros. have decided to close several departments two days each week, pending the restoration of normal conditions in the middle west and south.

A reduction of fifty cents a ton in steel scrap prices is reported from the Pittsburgh district, heavy melting steel now ranging from $17 to $17.50 a ton. One pig iron interest in the eastern Pennsylvania district advanced the price 50 cents a ton to a base of $21.50 for No. 2 foundry grade.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—SUGAR—Prices established new high records with volume of business larger. Developments during week have generally been of constructive character. Consumption this country continues of record breaking volume, with indications, too, that some of trade are desirous of increasing reserve stock. Our statistical department increased its estimate of United States consumption to record figure of 6,100,000 tons. As a result of the record breaking consumption, greatly influenced by bumper fruit crops, conservative authorities are estimating Cuba's carryover will not exceed 100,000 tons at the end of December, and will be practically cleaned up before the new crop moves in volume. Some apprehension is felt as regards the effect of the recent freeze in the middle west beet section.

Licht's estimate of the total European crop is 7,340,000 tons, a decrease of 131,000 tons, and looked upon as being too high. Sentiment in the market still is somewhat bullish, although periodical temporary recessions are anticipated. Majority of trade feels there is nothing in the situation to create any depression in values. Heavy profit taking in futures was readily absorbed.

The refined and raw sugar markets were closed today. The futures market was quiet. Lamborn & Co., Inc., figures follow:

RAILROAD NOTES

The Seaboard Air Line railway has distributed large orders for equipment costing $1,336,000 to be financed by the sale of equipment trust certificates with the approval of the interstate commerce commission. The Baldwin Locomotive works got an order for fifty Mikado and mountain type engines and American Car & Foundry, Pullman company and pressed Steel Car company each shared in the distribution of cars.

Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company has booked 12,000 tons of rails for the Florida East Coast railway and 14,000 tons for the Texas and Pacific. Baldwin also has orders for 20 large locomotives for the Argentine State railways and 28 for the Central of Brazil.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad has authorized the purchase of eighteen Mikado type locomotives, twenty-two passenger, two combination passenger baggage, two dining and two postal cars. 1,000 steel gondolas, 250 steel underframe flat cars and 250 automobile cars. The Missouri Pacific railroad is inquiring for bids on 3,000 to 4,000 freight cars. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad are asking for bids on 1,500 freight cars as follows: One thousand automobile and 500 stock cars, bids are to be let about Oct. 15.

KILOWATT ICE MAN AIDS TRADE OF OLDER SORT

BY HARPER LEECH.

Was it such a hard summer on the ice man after all?

Early in August a market commentator said, "Presumably one of the effects of the heavy sale of electric refrigerators has been a falling off in profits of ice companies."

Whether this is true cannot be definitely stated, but it is significant that among the relatively few large concerns failing to report earnings during the first half of 1926, as large as during the same period of 1925 is the American Ice company.

But now that summer is over it is beginning to appear that a cold spring had a good deal more to do with it than the new competitor.

John Nickerson & Co. write as follows: "You probably will be interested in knowing that from surveys made recently it will appear that the leading ice companies will this year show sales and profits comparing favorably with those of last year, which was the banner year in the ice industry. This is attributed to the fact that increased attention has been given to the importance of refrigeration in the household as a result of extensive advertising by electrical refrigeration people and by ice companies. As a result, there is awakened public interest in this matter and the ice companies are doing an excellent business, developing both new customers and converting seasonal buyers into regular customers."

The battle of ice recalls that artificial ice manufacture, which got under way in the south as a commercial proposition in the seventies, still is gaining on natural ice, but never has yet tapped the possibilities of its markets as some other industries have done. This is shown by the discrepancies between cities as to its use. Dallas, Tex., seems to lead the world in per capita consumption, and there is no natural reason why Dallas should need so much more ice than Atlanta or Los Angeles. The fact that there are only about 13,500,000 regrigerators in American homes as compared to over 17,000,000 telephones and 20,000,000 motor vehicles shows that the ice man has more people to initiate than have the makers of low priced autos.

In ten years the per capita consumption of artificial ice in America rose from 480 pounds per capita to 700 pounds. By 1936, according to Walter G. Smauder, the consumption will reach 950 pounds, and but for the new competition would result in a production of 62,250,000 tons yearly against 40,000,000 tons in 1925. Based on income calculations and the experience of utilities in selling other appliances, he estimates that by 1936 there will be 2,000,000 household refrigerating machines in use, reducing the demand for ice by 8,000,000 tons—leaving a production of 54,250,000 tons.

However, these estimates may not pan out—there may be substantial increases of purchasing power and a decided cheapening of machines. That happened to the automobile industry and upset most early calculations.

But on the other hand the present ice industry is not confronted by any such decided and revolutionary differences as existed between the auto and the horse. The possibilities of improving its services and employing aggressive salesmanship are vast and have already yielded results in the new competition. Sales of refrigerating machines this year have certainly exceeded by 66 per cent the sales of the previous ten years, and may double them. It will be a pretty race to watch.

Getting in on the Ground Floor.

The desire to "get in on the ground floor" has cost many a man his savings.

The man who may be scrupulously careful in all matters pertaining to his business will too often buy a "pig in a poke" when it comes to investing his money.

Let a smooth salesman tell him about some new enterprise that is sure to make fortunes for all who invest, or show him pictures of some new and startling invention that is going to revolutionize some industry or other, and he is ready to put all his savings into it.

He is even anxious to get in right away before it is too late.

Our files contain hundreds of prospectuses which describe new inventions or processes that were going to startle the world and, incidentally, bring fabulous riches to those who were lucky enough to invest in them.

Many of these gems of promotion literature are a dozen years old, yet nothing has been heard of them since.

Industries have not been revolutionized by them, and all that lifts them momentarily from oblivion is an occasional letter from some one who has invested in them and who has lost track of them and writes us to inquire if they still are in existence, or why they do not pay the promised dividends, or at least reply to letters sent them.

Many of these inventions are utterly impracticable or are of such a nature that they never could have any commercial value.

Others are pure fakes and are mere promotions got up for the purpose of selling stock to the gullible.

Of course, there are new inventions that succeed, but these as a rule are not peddled to the small investor through high pressure salesmanship and lurid literature.

And for every one that succeeds there are hundreds that never return a dollar.

There are too many seasoned stocks in established and proven companies that are constantly available to the public for the investor to waste time and money on new and untried schemes with nothing in back of them but promises.

Banks, here and abroad have bought Forman First Mortgage Investments for many years

THE many American, Scotch, Dutch and British Banking Houses who have been customers of this institution for many years demand that the house whose securities they buy must combine judgment and experience with integrity and complete financial responsibility.

That the House of Forman has continued to hold their full confidence year after year is a high tribute to the strong and conservative policy that has marked this institution since it was founded in 1885.

As an individual investor you will do well to follow the example of these outstanding judges of investment value. Forman First Mortgage Bonds combine liberal yield, 6½ and 6%, with the strongest of ample, permanent security.

The meager week-end offerings of hogs cleared at the highest prices of the week on yesterday's brief session. Large local houses were the principal supporters, most smaller interests remaining out of the market, with shippers taking less than 1,000. Only undesirables and penholders, numbering 2,000 head were left at the close. General average price at $12.70 equaled the highest since July 15, with top at $13.90, equal to the highest since middle of last month. Selected 197 lb averages reached the peak, with choice 185@258 lb averages at $13.80 and prime 275 lb butchers up to $13.75.

Hog Supplies Decline.

Hog supplies last week fell off sharply, both in point of numbers and poundage, arrivals at 92,700 being second smallest since week ending April 4, 1925, when 85,974 were smallest since October, 1920. Arrivals were 45,400 below the corresponding week a year ago. Estimated average weight dropped 6 lbs at 253 lbs, the lightest since middle of June and 24 lbs lighter than a month ago.

General average hog price last week advanced 30c at $12.50, highest since middle of July. Range of prices is narrowest in some time. The top price on Oct. 1 at $13.90 stands 55c below the top a month earlier, while general average on the same day at $12.70 shows a gain of $1.25 compared with Sept. 1, indicating a narrowing of $1.80 between the top and average prices.

An immense decrease in supplies of lard on hand in Chicago has been a bullish influence in the market for heavy hogs recently. Pounds of all kinds of lard on hand Oct. 1 at 46,344,000 compares with 73,713,000 lbs Sept. 1, a decrease of about 1,000,000 lbs, every commercial day for a month.

Light Cattle Higher.

Yearlings and light steers finished the week on par with the highest point of the year, top grades selling under brisk competition between local and outside buyers. An expansion in eastern demand marked the ending of important Jewish holidays, and about 35 per cent of the week's arrivals sold to outsiders. Shipments at 24,500 were second largest of the year.

Following two weeks of excessive cattle supplies, last week's total dropped to 68,000, over half of this number arriving Monday. General average price of good beef cattle lowered to $10.45, against $10.70 the preceding week, due to recent losses in medium and heavy steers, which closed 25@50c under the recent high point and in some cases showed even more decline. Yearlings at $12.40 equaled the highest of the year, with best 1,276 lb averages at $11.75, 1,318 lb steers at $11.60 and 1,453 pounders at $11.25. Butcher stock steady to unevenly lower than a week ago. Calves finished steady to 50c higher; stockers and feeders mostly 25c lower. Western rangers closed weak to 25c lower, in view of a big run expected next Monday.

Western Lambs Increase.

Although sheep receipts last week at 139,200 are 9,300 below the largest this year, arrivals from the range are largest of the season, totaling around 100,000 head, in 376 cars, against 298 cars the preceding week and 289 cars two weeks ago. Sheep and yearling offerings were largest of the season and shared in 25@50c of the week's break, minimum declines in matured stock.

Best lambs finished 50@75c lower, common natives showing $1.00 loss, with feeders unevenly 25c to 75c lower. Top fat rangers and feeders reached $13.85 and best natives $13.75. General average at $13.00 was lowest since April. Aged wethers topped at $8.25 and fat range ewes at $7.00.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 36,000 cattle, 33,000 hogs, and 26,000 sheep, against 35,028 cattle, 26,042 hogs, and 45,878 sheep a week ago, and 37,458 cattle, 35,283 hogs, and 37,857 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 72,000 cattle, 115,000 hogs, and 130,000 sheep, against 77,362 cattle, 127,942 hogs, and 114,656 sheep a year ago.

NEW LOW ON COTTON; DROPS BELOW 14C

Cotton prices declined to the lowest in recent years, dropping below the 14c level in all markets, with spot cotton in New York down to 13.70c, New Orleans 13.95c, Galveston 12.30c. Futures were off 93 to 70 points at the close, which was on a small rally from the extreme low of the day.

Hedging pressure, short selling and liquidation tended to depress values and there has been a decline of more than $10 a bale of late.

Cotton prices are at a level where interest in the south are materially affected as it brings cotton planters very little revenue, the crop having been put in at a relatively high basis. Liverpool closed 13 to 14 points lower.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Price movements lacked uniformity in today's stock market, the frequent shifts in speculative sentiment proving bewildering to both traders and investors. A strong opening was quickly followed by a period of weakness in which many of the early gains were canceled, but the majority of issues were again pointing upward at the close.

There was nothing in the day's news to influence the market movement. No new call money rates are posted on Saturday, the Friday closing figure of 5½ per cent carrying over the week end. The weekly clearing house statement, issued after the market closed, showed a rather large deficit in reserve, but this is not unusual in a week when there is a heavy shifting of funds incidental to dividend and interest payments.

General Motors and U. S. Steel Lead.

General Motors and U. S. Steel were again the outstanding features of today's market. General Motors was quickly bid up to a new record high at 173, broke to 169 around the end of the first hour and then rallied to 170 for a fractional gain on the day. U. S. Steel closed fractionally lower at 153⅛ after having touched 154¾, or within five points of the record high. Dupont, which has large General Motors holdings, touched a new record top at 360 and then slipped back to 355½, up 2¼ points on the day.

New 1926 peak prices also were recorded by American Sumatra Tobacco, Colorado and Southern, International Haversster, and Norfolk and Western. On the other hand, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, and Maracaibo Oil touched new low prices for the year, and Continental Baking common and the "A" stock duplicated their previous minimum figures.

Amusement Shares Recover.

Amusement shares rallied briskly after an opening period of weakness. Famous Players closing a point higher on the day. American Smelting fell back 2 points, but the other coppers showed mixed changes. A brisk demand for the Barnsdall issues featured the oil group. Rails displayed a firm undertone, but speculative interest was confined to a small group of issues. Chesapeake and Ohio and some of the other recent strong spots encountered rather heavy profit taking, but offerings were well absorbed.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading, the only change of consequence being a drop of five points in Spanish pesetas, which ruled around 15.10 cents. Demand sterling was well supported around 4.84¾ and French francs ruled firm around 2.80 cents.

Bond Market Without Trend.

The bond market drifted rather aimlessly. Heaviness of several of the central and South American issues featured the foreign group. French liens displayed a firm undertone.

Standard railroad liens held firm, but some sharp declines took place in a number of ordinarily inactive issues. Cleveland Short Line 4½ dropped 2¾ points on one sale, and net declines of a point or more took place in Iowa Central 4s, Louisville Railway 5s, and Detroit River Tunnel 4½s.

Industrials were mixed. Copper company issues were in better demand, but some of the rubber company liens were in supply.

New York clearing house banks show a deficit of $23,360,720 in reserves, a decrease of $44,298,380 from the surplus reserve of $21,037,660 reported a week ago. Loans, discounts, and investments increased $94,761,000; net demand deposits increased $127,482,000 and time deposits fell off $1,482,000.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

Local unlisted securities were again active during last week, but considerable irregularity prevailed, advances being offset by an equal number of declines.

Acme Steel Goods was reactionary, losing 3 points at 71 bid, 73 asked. Both the first and second preferred issues of the H. Channon company were in excellent demand, improving 2 points, the former to 88 and the latter to 89, while the common was steady around 7. Although Chicago Rapid Transit was actively traded, it showed little change with transactions ranging between 8⅞ and 9⅛. Creamery Package was slightly easier, with sales at 33½. Federal Electric preferred improved 3 points from 43 to closing transactions at 46, at which price additional stock was wanted, with offerings at 48. The common was unchanged at 10¼ to 11¼. Gedehaus Sugar preferred was wanted at 18 without attracting sellers. Great Lakes Transit was erratic, selling at 26¼ in the early trading, declining to 23¼, then firming up to closing sales at 25½.

W. F. Hall Printing developed strength in the late trading, changing hands at 32, up 3 points. Interstate Iron and Steel common was 2 points higher at 96. It was later wanted at this price, with offerings at 100. The bid price on Kellogg company common rose from 103½ to 107, but transactions were on a limited scale, due to the scarcity of offerings. Keystone Steel and Wire common ranged between 46½ and 48½. The preferred was up from 84 to high and last sales at 87. Elgin National Watch was easier, being freely offered at 89¾, with no bids appearing. Palmolive company common was higher, rising from 105 to closing quotations of 107 bid, 110 asked. Velie Motors first preferred was in good demand at 40, with offerings at 45.

Slight betterment was noted in Chicago Railway Equipment preferred and common, the common advancing from early sales at 20¾ to closing sales of 30. The preferred was in demand at 24, with cheapest offerings at 25. Standard Cap and Steel was unchanged throughout the week, stock being wanted at 39¼, with some available at 39¾. Chicago Mill and Lumber preferred changed hands between 103½ and 104⅛. Benjamin Electric first preferred was wanted at 102, with no stock offered. Illinois Power and Light was wanted at 99, with few shares of stock available at 101. Albert Pick preferred was in good demand at 98, with stock available at 99.

Bank shares showed an excellent tone, with National Bank of the Republic the leader, scoring an advance of 7 points in selling at 395 and closing at 398 to 402. Union Trust changed hands at 428 ex-dividend $3.50, a new high. Continental and Commercial National was in good demand at 453, up 2 points. Chicago Trust ranged between 275 and 278. Illinois Merchants was wanted at 604, while stock was available at 610. Central Trust Company of Illinois showed little change at 300 to 304. Northern Trust company was quiet at 477 bid, 481 asked.

STUDEBAKER BIG SIX CUSTOM BROUGHAM

Lowest price ever placed on a Big Six four-door enclosed car

AT its new low price of $1785, the Studebaker Big Six Custom Brougham is the crowning triumph of One-Profit manufacture. Only seven American cars are given a higher power rating, and they cost from two to five times more.

The long, low-swung custom contour of this smart car is agleam with lustrous duotone lacquers. Four wide doors open into a luxurious interior, richly upholstered in fine Chase mohair, and replete with such refinements as Butler finish hardware, broadlace trim, silken shades and toggle grips.

More than $100 worth of extra equipment is included without extra cost. A patented no-draft ventilating windshield (exclusively Studebaker) assures perfect ventilation. Fresh air may be admitted, without moisture, even in severe rainstorms.

The Big Six Custom Brougham is powered by the famous Studebaker Big Six L-head motor—first to beat the schedules of the fastest transcontinental trains from New York to San Francisco. Its remarkable freedom from vibration is insured by Studebaker's big crankshaft, fully machined and dynamically balanced. Its long life is attested by reports from more than 800 Studebaker owners who have driven their cars 100,000 miles or more.

The Big Six has long outsold every other car in the world of equal or greater rated horsepower. Now comes this amazing new Big Six value. See it today while immediate delivery is possible.

Check These Features Against Those of Cars Selling for $1000 More

1. Powerful Studebaker Big Six L-head engine—equaled in rated power by only 7 American cars costing two to five times more. Noted for its remarkable smoothness.
2. No-draft ventilating windshield (exclusively Studebaker) insuring fresh air without drafts or moisture.
3. Disc wheels; four-wheel brakes; nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear.
4. Full-size balloon tires and Gabriel Snubbers.
5. Wide, form-fitting seats upholstered in fine Chase mohair with broadlace trim.
6. Instrument board in two-tone lacquer with instruments grouped under glass and indirectly lighted.
7. Two-beam acorn headlights, controlled from the steering wheel.
8. Full-vision steel body, with 23-inch doors and wide plate glass windows.
9. Silk curtains, toggle grips and opal iridescent dome light.

Other Equipment as follows: Engine thermometer and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on dash; coincidental lock; oil filter and air purifier; automatic windshield cleaner; rear-vision mirror; rear traffic signal light; spare tire carrier; and cowl lights.

PART 3 | REAL ESTATE HOME BUILDERS

OCTOBER 3, 1926.

First Unit in Big Upper Gold Coast Development Announced

DON'T BUILD A HOUSE THAT YOU CAN'T MAINTAIN

Be Sure It's One You Can Pay For.

The Tribune Small Homes Competition continues to attract widespread interest. Architects and architectural draftsmen can secure a complete program of the competition by addressing The Chicago Tribune Small Homes Competition Bureau, Tribune Tower, Tribune Square, Chicago. The contest closes Wednesday at 5 p. m., Dec. 1.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]

In THE TRIBUNE small homes competition two classes of houses are featured. The first is the five room house, with attached or detached garage. The second is the six room house, also with garage.

LOUISE BARGELT. [Chambers Photo.]

The house shown today belongs to the five room house class, that type so prevalent today because of its small overall and compact convenience in interior arrangement. It has been designed by C. W. Lampe & Co., architects, 155 North Clark street, and is now under process of construction at 590 South Fairfield avenue, West Elmhurst.

The estimated cost of this house by the builders, Ashton & Dippel, is $8,500. This includes a detached garage, but the lot, held at a $1,500 valuation, is not included.

A Safe Rule.

Following one of the many rules financing companies suggest in their income budgets as safe rules for the prospective builder—the rule that it is not safe to buy a house which is more than two and one-half times the yearly income—this house, or houses in its same class, could be easily within the man earning around $4,000 a year.

Assuming that he already owns his lot, at a valuation of some $1,200 or $1,500, and has saved perhaps $1,500 towards a first payment, the amount still to be raised would be $7,000. This he could secure in a first and a second mortgage, the first for $4,000 and the second for $3,000.

With these two mortgages, his monthly payments, interest included in the second mortgage, could probably be arranged within a $75 a month limit.

Paid Semi-Annually.

The interest on the first mortgage at 6½ per cent would be paid semi-annually and would have to be added to his expenses in figuring what he had to pay out on the home in the first years.

For the man who cannot possibly afford more than a $75 a month apartment rent $75 a month payments on a house should not be contemplated. For in addition to these payments, and also the cost of the first mortgage, must be added general upkeep, such as taxes, possible assessments, and heating of the house.

This is one of the first pitfalls to be avoided in the buying of a home on a monthly payment plan. Not to let those monthly payments amount to the maximum rent he can afford. For in addition to them, one will find he has at least $25 a month more to pay on other home owning expenses.

Upkeep a Factor.

Upkeep is an insistent factor which must be met each year, and there is probably nothing which takes the joy out of life more quickly than trying to pay for a house which was more expensive than you could afford to buy in the first place and which costs more than you can afford to maintain in the second.

To be sure, at that it is ahead of paying more rent than you can afford, for you have something of your own once you have emerged from the morass of your financial complications. But it is not necessary to get into such a painfully tight situation if you face your income squarely at the start, take stock of your assets and liabilities, and buy or build within your purse.

A house built as this one will need only a minimum of upkeep for a number of years.

In the first place, it is stucco on hollow tile, with thorough insulation between, and on the outside stucco there are two coats of waxed waterproofing. The roof is of red tile.

Doorways Arched.

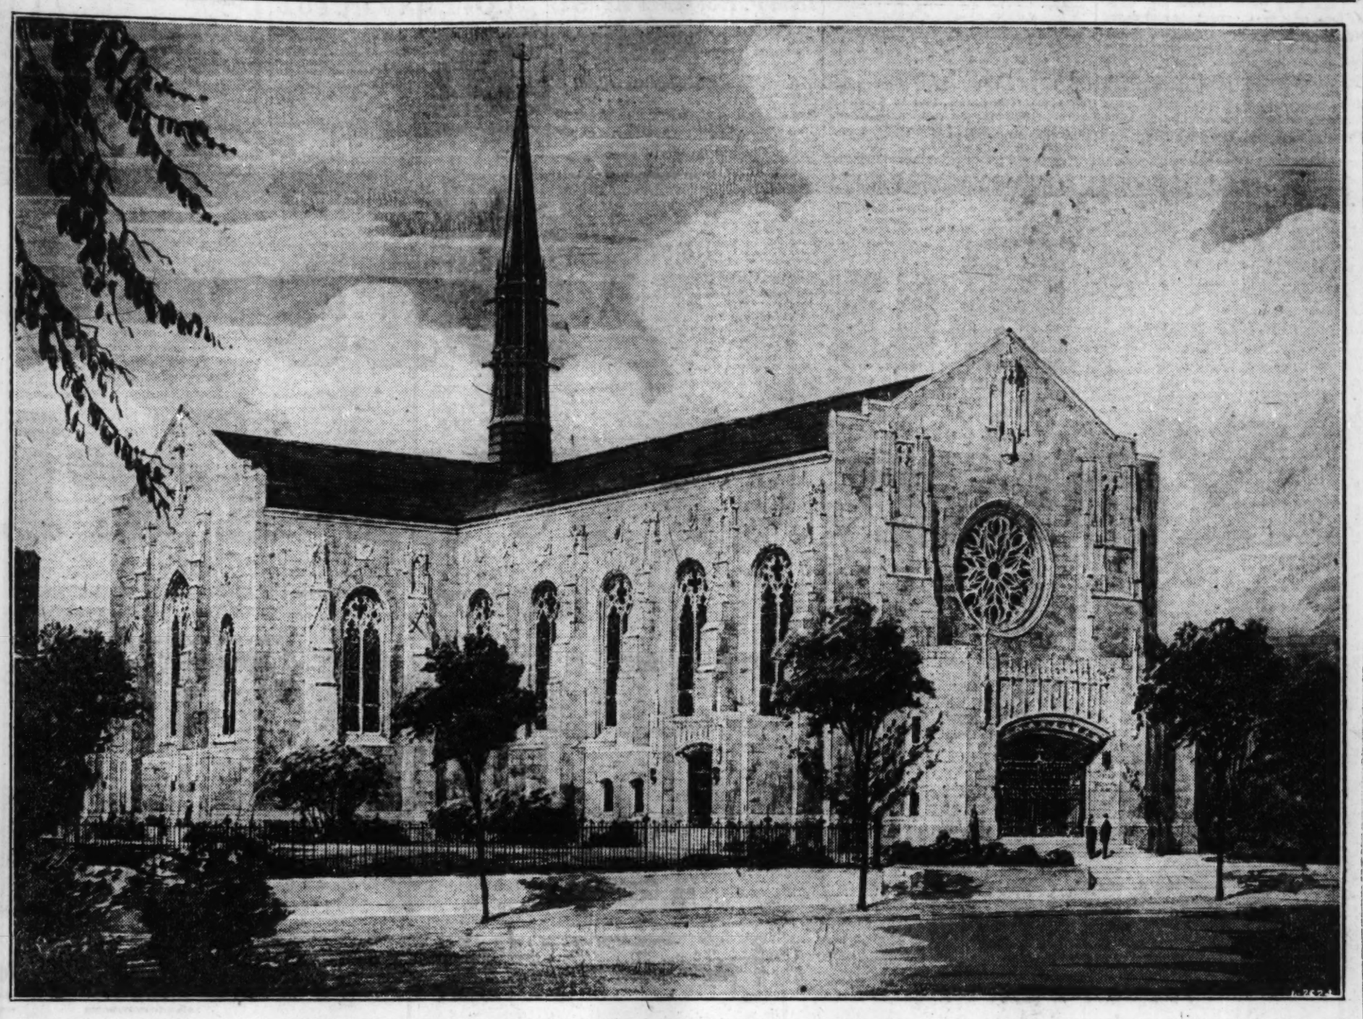
One enters directly into a living room through a loggia or porch. The living room is a story and half high, with a plaster beamed ceiling. The floors and doors are waxed to a dull finish and arched doorways lead into the dining room at the right and into the center hallway of the house.

The center hall commands every room, the dining room excepted. The bath is tile, with shower; a linen closet adjoins and the bedrooms have ample ventilation and closet provision. In the kitchen there is a rubber floor, laid to resemble tile. There are built-in cabinets, ironing board, and refrigeration in the hall.

Plate Glass Throughout.

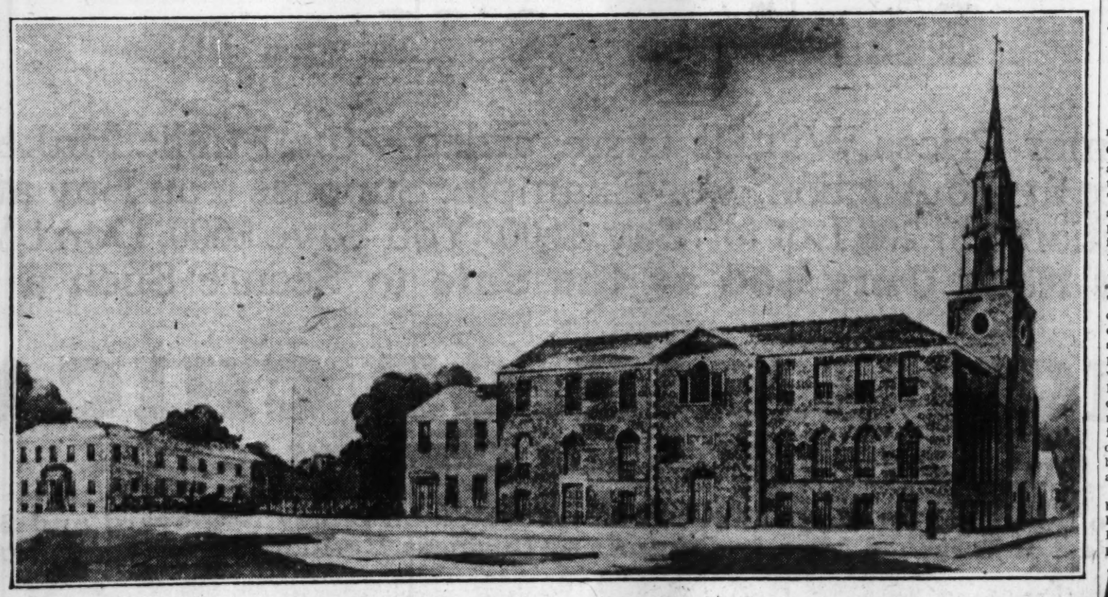
Steel casement windows of plate glass are used throughout the house, with rolled copper screens installed. Such a floor plan as this is possible, of course, with any exterior. The exterior is, after all is said, largely a matter of taste, but the interior must be planned with a view to obtaining the maximum standard comfort and convenience.

ST. PHILIP NERI CATHOLIC CHURCH



Joe W. McCarthy is architect of St. Philip Neri Roman Catholic church now under construction at 72d and Merrill. Its architecture is a modern adaptation of Tudor Gothic with an exterior of Plymouth granite with Bedford stone trim, slate roof and copper spire. The interior will have a flat ceiling, plastered; carved oak wainscot, foreign marble base and trim and floors. The cost, including furnishings, is placed at $700,000. The seating capacity will be 1,500. The Rev. W. J. Kinsella is pastor.

LOOKS MORE LIKE BOSTON THAN CHICAGO'S WEST SIDE



Edward F. Jansson is architect in the remodeling and rebuilding of the Greater Lincoln Street Institutional church, Methodist Episcopal, into the above group. "The building is early American colonial, suggesting in feeling the typical town meeting house of that day," explained an official of the bureau of architecture of the Methodist Episcopal church. "It is hoped that this building, following the historical background of these very early types, will carry as great a weight in the religious and civic affairs of the community as did Old North church and Faneuil hall in early colonial days in Boston. It is the hope of the church trustees to have this institution cater to the religious, moral, educational, and physical welfare of the groups within sound of its chimes."

WHAT CAN BE DONE FOR $8,500

A charming example of a small home which can be built for $8,500. A detached garage is included in this estimate. The exterior, of stucco on hollow tile with thorough insulation, follows Spanish lines. The interior has five sizable rooms, with a story and a half living room. C. W. Lampe & Co. are the architects. Will Build 5 Prize Winners at Flossmoor

Alvin L. Wagner of Wagner Bros., relators and mortgage bankers at 6222 Cottage Grove avenue, is going to use five of THE TRIBUNE'S small homes competition winners in the erection of five houses in Flossmoor.

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is to be congratulated on conducting the small homes competition," he writes. "We believe that this contest will be the means of developing the standard of small homes, making the home more beautiful and attractive and creating a desire for home ownership.

"This competition will be a public benefit. We are interested in small homes and will build five houses in Flossmoor from the first five of the prize winning designs."

Half Million in Bungalows on South Side

A building project involving the construction of considerably more than half a million dollars' worth of bungalows is announced for the south Chicago district. A total of sixty-one homes is to be erected. Charles L. McConnell, contractor, is the owner and builder.

The first group of ten bungalows will be on the west side of Essex, between 85th and 86th, a block from the new Edwin Coles school, and will sell for $10,500 to $11,500. They'll have six rooms and be of brick and stand on thirty foot lots. Charles S. Archer is architect.

The project is being financed through the Chicago Trust company's Metropolitan Life Insurance company's fifteen year plan. Herman Seiger, of the Chicago Trust company, negotiated the deal.

FRENCH WALLED CHATEAU FOR GOLD COAST

Oscar Heineman, head of the silk firm of Oscar Heineman & Co., has bought 125x200 on Lake Shore drive, eighty feet south of Wellington, from C. Bai Lihme, former Chicagoan, now living in New York. Arthur Wirtz was the only broker. Mr. Heineman intends erecting a $200,000 French walled chateau, with the idea of making it one of the show places of the upper gold coast. Montgomery, Hart & Smith and Paden & Kropf were attorneys.

Moon Mullins Tells What His Boss Is Doin'

Cold-Cream-by-the-Sea, Oct. 2.—Mr. Moonshine Mullins, prominent Chicagoan, who has just left here hurriedly, gave THE TRIBUNE correspondent an exclusive real estate story before he went, which, we believe, due to the social standing of Mr. Mullins, should be of considerable interest to Chicago.

MR. MOONSHINE MULLINS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

"I never read nuthin' but the Police Gazette," said Mr. Mullins, flicking a cigar ash on a passerby in the hotel lobby, "so I don't know whether this here is news or not. Anyway, my boss, this Frank Willard guy, has went and bought a lot on Ridge road in Kenilworth, across from the Indian's Heel Golf club, and he says he's gonna put up a swell house.

"Now, get this right; the big noise in this story is that I'm gonna have one swell studio up over the garage. If it wasn't for me 'nd Emmy 'nd the rest of the bunch, this here Willard bird couldn't be buyin' no real estate at all, so when you write this story gimme a good showin' and keep him out as much as you can.

"I ain't got nothin' agenst him. He's all right, only he's always makin' me look like a dumbell in your paper and between me 'nd you 'nd the bootlegger, he don't know no more'n I do.

"I'm gettin' kinda tired bein' made a fall guy for this bum Percyfield 'nd Emmy 'nd Mr. Plushbottom, so I'd like to get some real notoriety, as these here reeltors call it. Gimme a good place on the first page, won't you? S'long!"

Mr. Mullins took his feet off the nearby grand piano, threw his cigar stub in the upturned silk tile of Lord Plushbottom, standing on a table, took a fresh cigar out of your correspondent's pocket, scratched a match on a passing bellhop, and faded out of the lobby.

Syndicate Will Remodel the McClurg Bldg.

The leasehold interest and the nine story McClurg building at 218 South Wabash were purchased yesterday by the McClurg Building corporation. Alexander S. Schulman acquired the property from the Ayer estate for the syndicate at an undisclosed price.

All leases, including Brentano's book store, expire in 1928, and the new owners say as soon as conditions permit they intend doing extensive remodeling. The lower floors will be used for shops and the upper stories for "commercial purposes," which presumably means lofts.

The land is under lease from Frederick T. Haskell for ninety-nine years from July 1, 1886, at $12,000 annually for the first forty-nine years and $14,000 thereafter.

Michael Flicht of Michael Flicht & Co. and Russell Tyson of Aldis & Co. were brokers. Charles P. Schwartz and Mills & Howe were attorneys.

PREFERS DREAM BUILDINGS TO NIGHTMARES

Irving K. Pond, famous architect, toastmaster extraordinary, world traveler, writer, humorist, acrobat, etc., etc., believes that some of the dream buildings which now and then appear in the newspapers and never anywhere else, are more to be desired than some of the nightmares which make a permanent blight on the landscape.

IRVING K. POND. [Moffett Photo.]

At the first fall meeting of the Illinois Society of Architects a publicity committee, in a report, commented on the fact that the newspapers printed pictures of buildings which were merely dreams.

"I'd rather have beautiful dream buildings to look at in the newspapers, even if they never are built, than the nightmare contortions that every now and then are erected in Chicago," said Mr. Pond.

WOMAN IS MADE SALES MANAGER FOR ROTH & CO.

Miss Arma R. Shellman, who for the last two years has been head of the women's department of George F. Nixon & Co., has been made a general sales manager for Harry A. Roth & Co., who are planning one of the largest women's sales organizations in the real estate business. Miss Shellman gained her first subdivision experience in Niles Center. She is to center her activities on the properties of the Roth concern in the Niles Center district.

PLAN 15 STORY BUILDING EAST OF SHERIDAN

Apartments to Cost $2,000,000.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

With the purchase yesterday of the northwest corner of Surf and Commonwealth by Kurt Rosenthal and Edward Mayer comes announcement of a $2,000,000 apartment project which is the first step in a development by various interests which, it is expected, will cover two city blocks with hotels and apartments involving many millions of capital.

Mr. Rosenthal and Mr. Mayer will be the pioneer developers in the two blocks bounded by Diversey parkway, Commonwealth avenue, Oakdale avenue, and Sheridan road. These two blocks, at one time all owned by the Lehmann estate, contain the only property east of Sheridan road, between Belmont and Diversey, zoned for apartments and hotels. The balance of this Upper Gold Coast is rigidly restricted to residences for the next fifteen years.

That means that the Rosenthal-Mayer 15 story apartments, to be at the northwest corner of Surf and Commonwealth, will have an unrestricted view east over the lake and south over Lincoln park, for a long while.

Seven to Own Building.

The building, as yet unnamed, is to have several interesting features. It's to be a coöperative venture of Mr. Rosenthal, Mr. Mayer, and five of their personal friends. These seven men will own the entire building, which will have a total of fifty-six suites when the two units are completed. In other words, they'll occupy seven and rent the remaining forty-nine.

The apartments are to have what the owners believe to be the largest rooms so far to be found in Chicago flat buildings already erected. For instance, the living rooms will be 18x30, the dining rooms 16x22, and the master bedrooms 16½x24.

The first unit will be along Surf street and at the corner. It'll have fourteen nine room suites and the same number of sixes. The nine room suites will have four baths and the sixes will have three.

The second unit will be erected when the first is completed and occupied. It'll have fourteen seven and fourteen eight room suites. All will have three baths.

Olsen & Urbain's plans call for a large lobby, storerooms, laundry, recreation room for youngsters, etc., on the first floor. Above will be fourteen floors of apartments.

Plan Coöperative Garage.

A large one story garage in the rear is contemplated, so planned that one can enter or leave his car without going outdoors. This will be a coöperative affair, every car owning tenant paying his share of the expense of operation.

The site was purchased from Edward M. Levin and fronts 100 feet on Surf street with a frontage on Commonwealth avenue of 185 feet. At this point Commonwealth avenue is east one block from Sheridan road and, not being a through street, has practically no traffic whatever.

Harold T. Peterson and Rosenthal, Mayer & Lewis were brokers in the site purchase.

Pay $300,000 Cash for Acres in Westchester

The Buurma Bros., Lambertus and Hilbrand, who have done probably more high class residence building in River Forest, than any other firm, yesterday paid George F. Nixon & Co. and William Zelosky $300,000 cash for 228 lots in the Westchester district. The property is in the Bellwood village limits and is bounded by Mannheim road, Jackson boulevard, Bellwood avenue, and Madison street.

Construction work is to begin at once by the Buurmas. The first will be on residences which will be erected in units of twenty. Later apartments will be erected. O. J. Taeterow and J. C. Whitmar of the Nixon firm were brokers.

Business frontage of the property the Buurmas bought from Nixon and Zelosky has been resold by the two brothers to Shekleton Bros., subdividers. Harry Bierman and Ben W. Lawless were attorneys in this latter sale.

ROSE AND BIRDIE PAY $360,000 FOR APARTMENTS

Rose Wronski and Birdie F. Blatt yesterday bought the Shirley Arms apartments, at 4642-50 North Central Park avenue, containing sixty-one suites and four shops, for a reported $360,000. Albert Eichel was seller.

As part payment Rose and Birdie conveyed the twenty-seven flats, four stores and two shops at 3119 Lawrence, at $250,000. The newly formed firm of Korman & Lisco were brokers. Petaque & Lowitz and Henry H. Koven were attorneys.

Property Owners' Body Gets Promise of Paving

The Chicago Association of Property Owners reports that through its efforts Estes avenue, between Glenwood and Sheridan road, is to be paved.

BUILDERS PLAN EXPOSITION IN THEIR NEW HOME

To Be Year Round Material Exhibit.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Chicago is scheduled to have one of the most extensive and modern building material expositions in the country early next summer when the Builders' building now being erected at Wacker drive and La Salle street is completed. This announcement was made last night by Edward M. Craig, secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association, who is largely responsible for the construction of the building which is to represent the Chicago building industry and its allied branches.

A. E. COLEMAN.

When completed the Builders' building will represent an investment of approximately $8,000,000. Occupancy of it is scheduled for about May 1, 1927. Sixty per cent of space in the new building already has been let.

Open to the Public.

Mr. Craig announced that the second and third floors of the building will be devoted exclusively to the permanent exposition of building materials, machinery and other equipment used by contractors in the building industry. The exposition will be open to the general public at all times and construction experts will be on hand to advise all prospective home builders on the various angles of material buying.

The builders' secretary is enthusiastic about the great work that can be accomplished by the exposition. He said it will give all classes of persons an opportunity of getting acquainted in an intimate way with the material end of the construction business, the result being an erection of better and more satisfactory homes and buildings.

Booths to Be in Units.

The exhibit booths will be in units, the approximate sizes running from 8 by 8 to 14 by 20. Arrangements are being made whereby one or more exhibitors will be permitted to occupy one booth. All booths in the exposition will be divided and inclosed with a heavy ornamental railing, large and heavy velour curtains being used as drapes.

A central switchboard will control and serve the exposition, a phone being placed in each booth. All aisles will be lettered and exhibits numbered. Exhibit booths will be uniform in size, insuring a neat and pleasing appearance.

Service Bureau Planned.

Mr. Craig announced that in connection with the exposition it is planned to have an up to date service bureau which will be maintained for the convenience of contractors, architects, and the general public. The bureau will have files of complete information about all classes of building materials and machinery used in the construction business.

The builders' secretary said the service bureau is not only intended to cover those having exhibits at the exposition, but that its scope of information will include every manufacturer in the world who markets a product pertaining to the building industry.

One of the upper floors of the Builders' building will be used exclusively for offices of the various contractors' associations and the Builders' club and other organizations engaged in some branch of the building industry.

All Stock Taken.

The building is being erected by the John Griffiths & Sons company, one of the pioneer construction companies of Chicago. George Griffiths, the son, is personally supervising the construction of the new building. All stock has been subscribed to and is in the hands of Chicago contractors. The debt on the building is expected to be cleared in about 15 years.

When the Builders' building is completed one of Mr. Craig's ambitions in life will have been realized. For years he has been plugging away at the idea which at times waxed warm and then chilled in the minds of other large builders. The builders' secretary repetaedly pointed out the feasibility of a building to house the various associations of contractors and material interests and other allied branches of the building industry.

Way Back in 1912.

Back in 1912 Mr. Craig tried to interest builders in the purchase of the Old Metropolitan building [now the site of the Burnham building] at La Salle and Randolph streets. The capital needed then amounted to $150,000, the stipulation being made in the contract that an added $30,000 should be used in remodeling the structure.

Under terms of the proposed pact the builders would have to erect a new building in 1922. But as in the case of numerous other propositions, the purchase of the Metropolitan building was pigeonholed.

But Craig didn't let a trifle like a refusal make him pass up the idea. He kept on plugging away. Last winter his idea began to get popular, with the result being that work was started on the new Builders' building several weeks ago.

Rosenthal a Big Factor.

It is said that aside from the work Craig played in the enterprise, the man second in command, who worked several months from morning until late at night, three and four days a week, to make all preliminary arrangements a success, is Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the Builders' Association of Chicago. In more than one instance Rosenthal played an important part in making some of the major arrangements a success.

When all the heavy work was done, the builders selected A. E. Coleman, head of the employers' association, as president of the building company. Mr. Coleman, a prominent iron man, is well known in Chicago for his philanthropic work and church activities.

GOING TO BUILD? THEN CHOOSE A GOOD ARCHITECT

Art Commission Gives Some Advice.

Choose a good architect when you get ready to build, is the advice given prospective builders by the new Evanston art commission in a bulletin of hints on construction just issued. The commission, of which Thomas E. Tallmadge of Tallmadge & Watson, Chicago architects, is head, also warns against what it calls "perhaps the greatest evil in architecture—sham."

"The most important and first consideration is the skill and experience of the person to whom the design of the building is intrusted," the bulletin reads. "Thomas Jefferson demonstrated that a man need not be a professional architect to build a beautiful building, but the days of the amateur architect for structures of any size are about over.

"In the state of Illinois building permits are given only for plans bearing the seal of a licensed architect. So, if an architect is necessary, the first duty is to choose one, and in these days there are many who by education and experience have demonstrated that they can build beautifully as well as practically.

Sham Is Greatest Evil.

"Perhaps the greatest evil in architecture is sham. Therefore avoid the use of any material which pretends to imitate another. Galvanized iron stamped out to imitate brick or stone is atrocious, or the same material elaborately shaped in cornices or ornament in the forms that are ordinarily used for stone or wood or plaster is to be avoided. In fact, the use of galvanized iron for other than gutters, flat roof, and down spouts should be avoided. Unpainted copper always expresses its true character and can be used in many places where galvanized iron or tin cannot.

"Reinforced concrete and cast cement is a useful material with a great future. As it is so very new, architectural forms for its proper expression have not yet been satisfactorily developed. Its expression so far has been more or less of the character of Bedford stone, which it resembles in texture and color. Nevertheless, avoid direct imitations. Cast blocks imitating face stone are particularly ugly—an ornament when used should look as though cast and not carved.

"When cement is used for an exterior coat, as stucco on house or elsewhere, the rough cast or splatter dash should be avoided, as it gets very dirty, for Evanston has its smoke problem along with other cities. The smoother finishes developed by the cement companies are much more beautiful.

Better Bricks Being Made.

"Brick is perhaps our most useful and universal building material. Better and more beautiful bricks are being made today than ever before. There is no excuse, therefore, for using ugly brick. Yellow brick is the worst offender. It not only makes the building of which it is built an outstanding eyesore but it kills every other building in the block.

"Apartment buildings especially have been sinners in the use of ugly brick. Reddish brown, brown, gray, and certain soft shades of tan are the best colors to select. Select a brick which has, owing to different lengths of burning, a range of shades in the same color. Texture may be rough or smooth, but the mortar joints are best uncolored.

"If of brick, build your building of the same brick all the way around. The house with the ornamental brick facade and the common brick sides and back gave birth to the ancient wheeze of the Queen Anne front and the Mary Ann rear. You wouldn't have the front of your coat of broadcloth and the back of burlap—why your house or apartment? The only justification is where the building is built on a side lot line with the immediate possibility of a contiguous building. If a tenant or purchaser sees that you have skimped in use of your brick he will not unnaturally conclude that cheapness exists in the parts he cannot see.

A Word About Roofs.

"Other than flat roofs, there are shingles of wood, asbestos and asphalt, slate and tile. Although wood shingles are often beautiful their use is dying out on account of the hazard they present in the case of fire. Asphalt shingles are fire resisting, but are often unattractive, perhaps because they so closely imitate wooden shingles. Asbestos shingles are fireproof—usually interesting, often beautiful in appearance, but are very expensive. Slate is fireproof and always beautiful.

"Tile may be of almost any color as long as it is soft in shade and never glazed. Many tile roofs are often much too heavy in appearance for the buildings they crown. Especially for porches tiles should be small in scale.

"Speaking of roofs, many garages, apartments and stores have high gables, pediments or fronts with no roof or structure behind them. The facade should always express the nature and even the arrangement of the structure behind it. So, a false front is as ridiculous as false whiskers or anything else that so pathetically attempts to deceive. Real gables, dormers, pediments, etc., can be most attractive, not only on residences where they usually occur, but on shops and commercial buildings."

KANKAKEE TO BE HOST TO STATE REALTY BOARDS

Annual Convention to Be Held This Week.

Kankakee is to be host to Illinois realtors for three days this week, when several hundred members of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards hold the tenth annual convention of that organization. Although the formal sessions will cover only three days, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, the convention really will open Wednesday evening, when the president, officers, and directors of the state association will give a dinner for the presidents and secretaries of the member boards of the state body at the new Hotel Kankakee.

GEORGE W. ROSS.

The next morning the officers and directors of the state association will have a business meeting and the convention proper will be called to order Thursday afternoon by C. L. Tracy, president of the Kankakee real estate board.

After a welcome extended in behalf of the convention city by Louis T. Beckman, mayor of Kankakee, and a response by George W. Ross, president of the Illinois Association of Real Estate boards, there will be heard the reports of the officers of the association and reports from member boards on "The Tax Amendment," followed by a discussion on "Organization for Results" by A. C. Everingham.

Oak Parker to Talk.

On Friday the convention will have a conference on "Boards and Their Activities," led by Warren T. Easter of Oak Park, vice president of the first district, and Field Secretary J. J. Frawley. This will be followed by a conference on "License Law Problems," led by Walter J. Ruediger of Belleville, member of the Illinois Real Estate Brokers' License Commission, assisted by W. C. Johnson of Danville and Joseph K. Brittain and Max Murdock of Chicago.

"A Practical Demonstration of Appraisal Methods" by a committee of which John P. Hooker of Chicago is chairman and Ralph V. Field, Galesburg, and W. L. Dormand, Evanston, are assisting members, will be made in connection with a piece of property to be selected by the Kankakee Real Estate board.

The afternoon session on Friday will be addressed by Samuel H. Thompson, national president of the American Farm Bureau federation, on "A National Policy for Agriculture." This discussion will be followed by a conference on a "Farm Land Bureau," led by Henry G. Zander, Chicago, and a "Farm Listing Contest," with Fred E. Clark, Chicago, and W. C. Johnson, Danville, as judges.

Governor to Be at Banquet.

On Friday evening the annual banquet will be held. The guest of honor will be Gov. Len Small, whose home is in Kankakee.

The popular Danville silver trophy cup contest in connection with the three minute speeches by representatives of real estate boards on their home towns will be a feature of the annual banquet as usual.

Saturday, in the morning, "The National Association" will be discussed by Ben Faast of Eau Claire, Wis., director of the national association; Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the national association, and A. J. Berge of the same body. The discussion will be followed by the business meeting of the convention.

The entire program for the three day convention has been arranged under the guidance of Edward S. Judd of Chicago, chairman of the program committee.

H. D. PETTIBONE TO BE SPEAKER AT REALTY CLASS

Holman D. Pettibone, trust officer of the Chicago Title & Trust company will give a lecture on "common law trusts" before the class in real estate law of the Cook County Real Estate board, at the board rooms on the 17th floor of the Conway building next Tuesday evening. Attorney James G. Skinner conducts the real estate law class every Tuesday evening from 7 to 8. The board has extended an invitation to real estate brokers, attorneys, salesmen and property owners to attend these lectures.

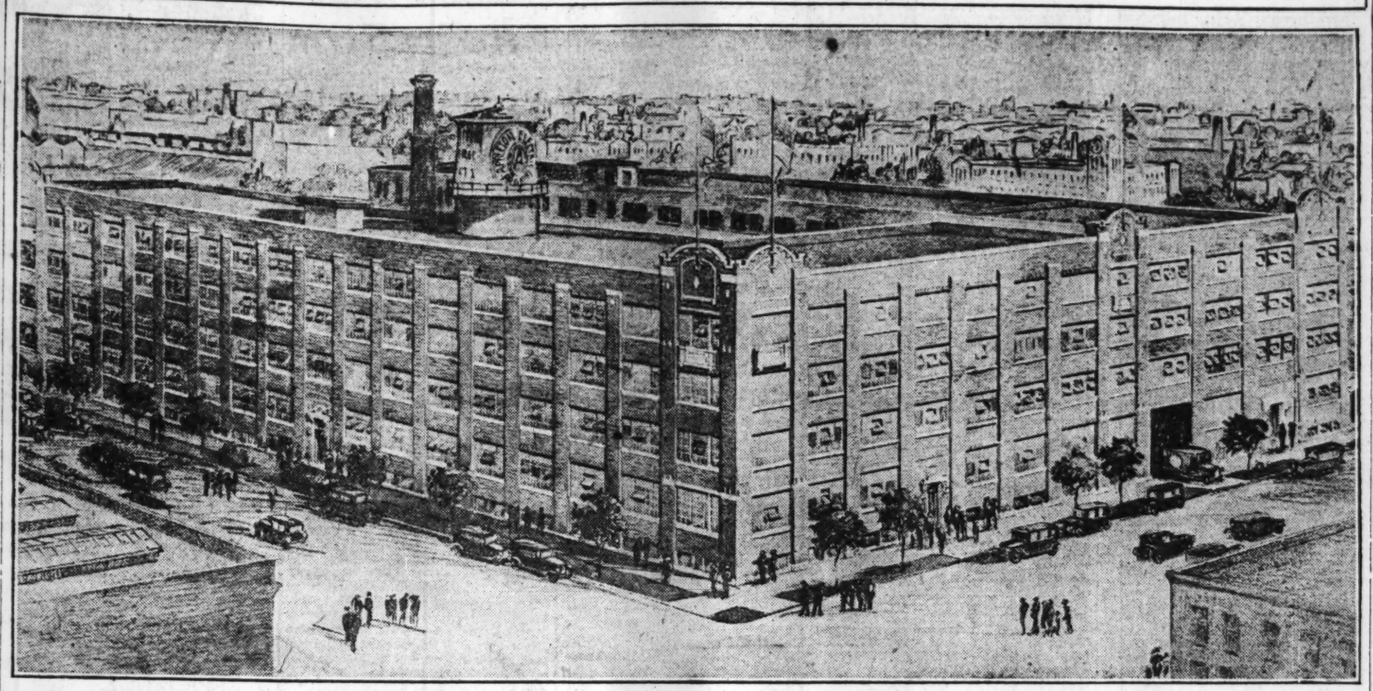
APPLETON ELECTRIC COMPANY'S PLANT AND ANNEX



Construction is under way on a $200,000 four story annex to the plant of the Appleton Electric company at Wellington and Paulina, from plans by Walter W. Ahlschlager, Inc., which will add 100,000 square feet of floor space. The company owns the ground from Paulina west along Wellington to the Northwestern tracks, which gives it room for further expansion. Miss L. B. Harding made the above rendering. It shows both the present plant and addition. Albert Ivor Appleton is president and treasurer of the company.

ADDING TO THE PRESTIGE OF GOOSE ISLAND

START WORK ON BIG WAREHOUSE OF PECK & HILLS

Three More Stories to Be Added Later.

Work is now under way on a $350,000 warehouse by the Peck & Hills Furniture company at Ogden avenue, Bliss and North Branch streets, which is to be three stories at present, but which will have foundations for three more floors. N. Max Dunning is the architect.

"This new warehouse marks one more step in the company's steady growth since its organization over a quarter of a century ago," said Mr Dunning.

"If it be a sprinklered building of reinforced concrete, with face brick on all exterior street walls and with elevator and tank penthouses treated architecturally of face brick."

The ground area of the building is 32,621 square feet, giving 97,863 square feet of floor area in the three floors to be erected at present.

The company has a sales and display building at Wabash and 14th. It also has a chain of stores and warehouses reaching from coast to coast.

LADIES, BLESS 'EM, TO HAVE GOOD TIME AT REALTY CONVENTION

The social end of the program at the annual state convention real estate boards to be held this week at Kankakee has not been neglected. An automobile tour of Kankakee, under the auspices of the Kankakee chamber of commerce, is to be made on Thursday afternoon.

MRS. JOSEPH K. BRITTAIN. [Sykes Photo.]

In the evening the president's reception and annual ball will be given at the Masonic temple. On Friday, there will be a luncheon for visiting ladies in the Hotel Kankakee ballroom in honor of Mrs. George W. Ross. The ladies of the Kankakee real estate board together with Mrs. Joseph K. Brittain, Mrs. James Smart, Mrs. J. C. McDowell and Mrs. J. B. Whitehead will be hostesses on this occasion. Of course, the big event of the evening is the annual banquet on Friday, which is followed by dancing.

On Saturday afternoon the annual golf contest is held at the Kankakee Country club.

News of the Architects

Arthur F. Deam, designer, who has just returned from three years in Europe, is now with the N. Max Dunning organization. Mr. Deam is a graduate of Columbia and a winner of the Prix de Rome.

ARTHUR F. DEAM. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Richard T. Sullivan, for fifteen years a consulting mechanical engineer in Chicago, is now associated with Frederick J. Teich, under the firm name of Teich & Sullivan. Mr. Teich's present offices in the Garrick Theater building will be used. In addition to the general practice of architecture, they will specialize in banking, hotel, and industrial design.

The Architectural Drafting service, formerly at 112 West Adams street, has moved to the Putnam building, 10 North Clark street. Its new phone is State 4413.

Joseph F. Booton, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he won the John Stewardson Memorial scholarship in 1924, followed by study in Europe, is now associated with John A. Nyden & Co.

Buys 107 Acre Tract in Du Page County for 'Sub'

The South Shore Acreage company has bought 107 acres in Du Page county, at Joliet road and 79th, from Joseph Pozolizis, and will subdivide into acre tracts.

Attorney Buys Corner of Clark and Roslyn Place

The five stores at the northeast corner of Roslyn place and North Clark street have been sold by Mrs. Carrie F. Sittig to Attorney Samuel Grodson for a reported $57,500. John Arthur of George Ballard & Co. was broker. Ringer, Wilhartz & Hirsch were attorneys.

NORTH SANGAMON LEASE.

The Art Wall Paper company has leased the two story building at 412 North Sangamon from Walter J. Cummings for six years at a term rental reported by E. N. Duerlein & Co. to be $24,000.

WOMAN IS BUYER OF HOLLYWOOD BEACH HOTEL

Gladys Sprague has sold the Hollywood Beach hotel, formerly known as "The Gables," at the southeast corner of Kenmore and Hollywood, to Johanna Sultan at a reported $350,000. In part payment twenty-four flats at 133 Clyde avenue, Evanston, were given at $185,000, and six flats at 607 Buckingham place, at $70,000. Schwartz & Schwartz and the E. E. Stults Realty company were brokers. Decker & Golden and Walter G. Walker were attorneys.

Pays $125,000 for Four Chestnut Street Houses

Harry Sehl bought from Samuel Erman four residences at 22-28 West Chestnut, 88x120, for a reported $125,000, through W. K. Kapsis. Grossman & Grossman were attoneys.

PLAN BUILDING AT WAVELAND AND CRAWFORD

Benjamin and Abraham H. Schwartz bought from Barbara Flook the southwest corner of Crawford and Waveland and contemplate erecting a $150,000 three story building to contain stores, offices and flats. Frisch & Frisch were attorneys.

Chicago Heights to Have "Sub" for Colored Folk

The plat for forty acre subdivision for colored people in the Chicago Heights district has been recorded. It lies east of the Chicago Heights industrial district and is bounded by Lincoln highway, 18th street, Ellis and Greenwood avenues.

The highway lots are reserved for business purposes. A ten acre tract at the south is being leased to a baseball club and the balance will be sold for residences. Edwin C. Patzlaff is manager.

New Subdivisions

Pater & Co. say they intend placing on the market next Sunday over $2,000,000 worth of property in their "Pater's Milwaukee Avenue Heights," which they say is fourteen miles from the loop.

The property has three miles of business frontage on three concrete highways, Dempster street, Ballard road, and Milwaukee avenue.

SYNDICATE TO BUILD FLATS AT MARYLAND-84TH

A syndicate has purchased the vacant 125x300 at the northwest corner of 84th and Maryland from Alex G. Javaras for a reported $42,000 and is contemplating the erection of a big court flat building.

Buys Site on East 63d for Large Fireproof Building

Howard G. Grey of the Lambert Tree estate has bought from John and Frank Hayes, owners of the Hayes hotel, 51x173 at 1121-25 East 63d, and intends eventually to improve with a large fireproof building. McKey & Poague were brokers and will manage the property. The land is now improved with a one story building leased to a motor renting concern.

TWO FURNITURE STORES LEASED BY SPIEGEL'S

One for West Madison; One for Cottage Grove.

Spiegel's are to have another furniture store, in addition to the one at 6344 Cottage Grove avenue, announced in this section on Sept. 19. It'll be at 4042 West Madison street, just west of Crawford avenue.

MODIE J. SPIEGEL.

Spiegel's have leased the two buildings for twenty-five years at a term rental reported to be $1,125,000. These two will increase the number of furniture stores operated by the Spiegel concern to eight. In addition there are two "outlet stores."

Steif to Be Architect.

B. Leo Steif & Co. have been retained as architects of both buildings. The one on West Madison will be 50x175, four stories, in Spanish renaissance architecture and is to be built by John E. Decker. The new Marks Brothers theater, one of the largest in the city, is going up half a block west of the new Spiegel store.

Dr. Thomas H. Kelley is the lessor of the Cottage Grove four story building which will be 48x122. It's opposite the Tivoli.

"The lower floors of both buildings will be faced with marble," said Modie J. Spiegel, a former member of the board of education and president of the Spiegel-May-Stern company which owns the Spiegel furniture store.

Green and Lavender Marble.

"In one case the marble will be lavender and the other green. The trim will be bronze for the show windows. The terra cotta of the upper floors of both buildings will be cream and ochre pulsichrome.

"The architectural details are adapted from the Casa Consistonal, a town hall at Palma, on the island of Majorca in the Mediterranean.

"The high ceilings, with richly decorated beams, the numerous niches with their concealed lighting systems and hand wrought iron lamps will make these exhibition rooms rank with the best in Chicago."

Blue Island Avenue Lease.

Rosenberg & Lurie were the only brokers in the Grove lease and represented Spiegel's in the Madison street deal. A. L. Kelly of Ready, Cormack & Strauss, represented Mr. Decker.

Spiegel's also have leased the store at 1863 Blue Island avenue from Emma Weisskopf for ten years at a rental of $30,175 for the term, according to Rosenberg & Lurie, brokers in the deal. This will be used as a Spiegel "outlet store."

Twelve Story Building for West Adams

West Adams street, which seems to be having a lively little building boom of its own in the neighborhood of Franklin street, is to have still another tall structure.

It was announced last night that Loebl & Schlossman have drawn plans and work will start within a month on a twelve story building at 316-318 West Adams street to be erected by Nat Ribback and M. W. Fried of the Nat Ribback company, dress manufacturers.

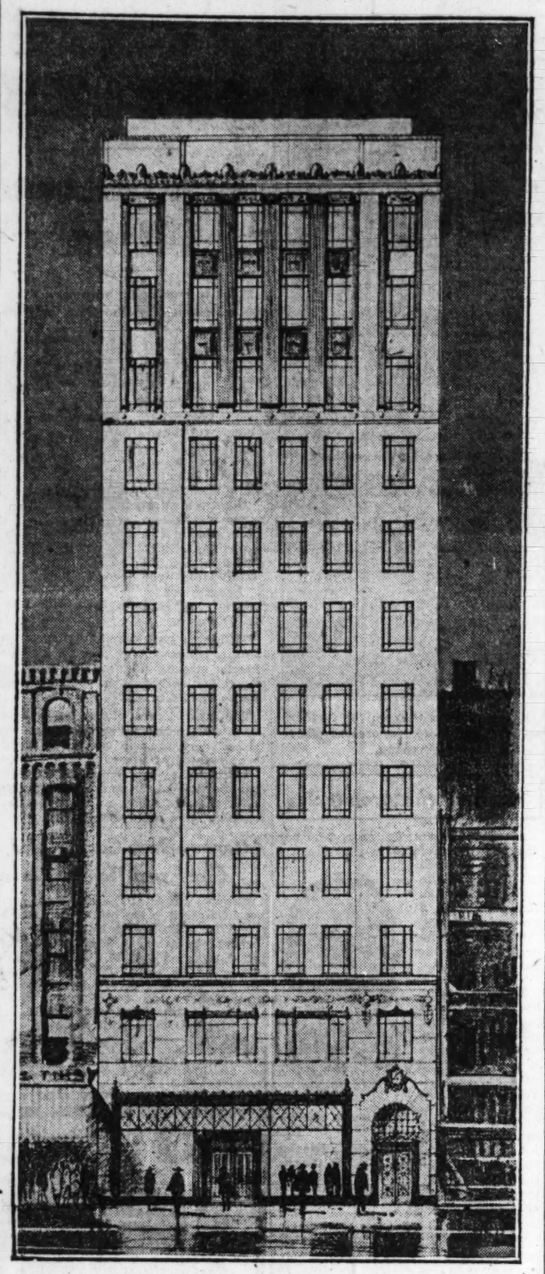
They have secured the ninety-nine year leasehold, 50x180, at 316 and will tear down the present old improvements and erect a $650,000 modern terra cotta and brick building. It'll be ready by May 1.

It's next to the new Shetnitz building, now going up at the northwest corner of Franklin and Adams. Across on the northeast corner the Franklin-Adams building is under construction. Adjoining it on the west is the building to be remodeled and occupied by Morris, Mann & Reilly.

Buys 165 Acre Oak Grove Farm North of Lake Zurich

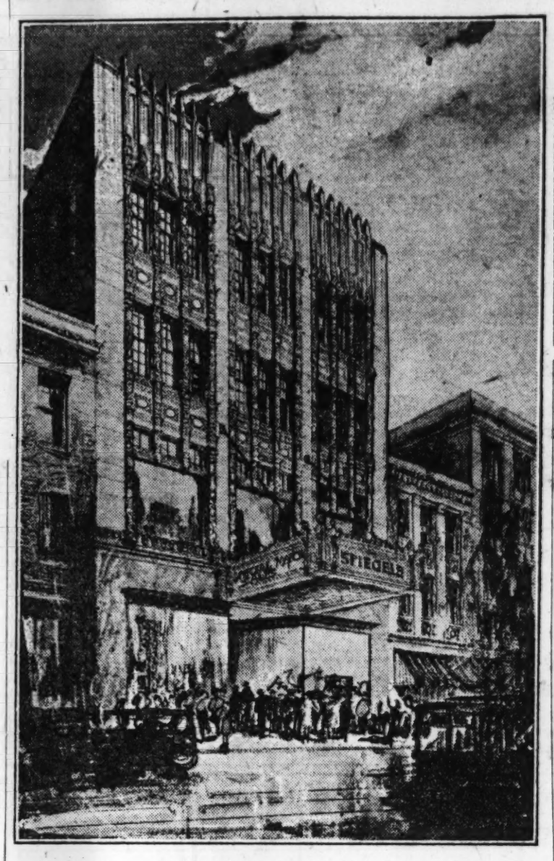
Morgan Palmer Jones bought the 165 acre Koffen or Oak Grove farm, on Rand road, about 500 feet north of Lake Zurich, from the Noel State bank, trustee. C. C. Loehde, of Krenn & Dato, was the broker.

FOR WEST ADAMS



Loebl & Schlossman are the architects of the above twelve story building, to go up at 316-18 West Adams. The owners are Nat Ribback and M. W. Fried of the Nat Ribback company, dress manufacturers. It's to cost $650,000. Completion is set for May 1, 1927.

ACROSS FROM THE TIVOLI



This is to be the new Spiegel furniture store at 6344-46 Cottage Grove avenue, first told about in this section on Sept. 19, to be erected from designs by B. Leo Steif & Co.

Noyes Plans Nation-Wide Realty Firm

One of the most comprehensive and far reaching realty projects in the country is now functioning under the name of the Charles F. Noyes National Real Estate corporation, with headquarters in Chicago. It is said to be the first attempt to nationalize the real estate brokerage business.

According to Gotham comment, "control of the real estate business of the country" is the aim of this ambitious organization. "It will reach out from its headquarters in Chicago not only into every state of the Union, but into every city of 50,000 population or more, and through them into the hamlets and villages within the vicinity," says New York advices.

The company's field of operation will include the entire country, with the exception of Greater New York, which will remain the domain of the Charles F. Noyes company of New York, the parent company, of which Mr. Noyes is president.

The Chicago office represents a consolidation of the Leo Raemer agency and the real estate offices of the United Cigar Stores Company of America.

Mr. Noyes stated a few days ago in New York that it would take at least twelve months before his plan was in full operation. By that time locations will have been established in every strategical location in the country and the proper personnel selected.

All national officers will be under the direct control of the Chicago headquarters, which in turn will be under orders from the Noyes offices in Manhattan. The Chicago offices are in the Metropolitan building.

Walgreen Company Makes New Lease at Clark-Devon

The Walgreen company has made a new lease at the southwest corner of Clark and Devon whereby considerably more space will be taken over by the drug concern. The term is fifteen years and the total rental is reported as $144,000. Carl Edwards is the lessor and negotiated the deal himself. Walter Schwanke represented the Walgreen company.

BUYS SITE ON STONY ISLAND FOR BUILDING

Frederick W. Moeller has bought the northwest corner of 69th place and Stony Island avenue from P. J. McMahon for a reported $52,000, and will erect a store and kitchenette flat building to be completed April 1, 1927. Fred A. Shoup of McKey & Poague was broker.

Alexander W. Hannah Buys the Automobile Wash Bowl

Alexander W. Hannah has purchased the Automobile Wash Bowl occupying the property 212x212 feet at the southeast corner of Elston and Diversey, for a reported price of $75,000, all cash, from Silverstein and Levit. Robert M. Magnuson represented the sellers and Ross & Newton represented the buyer. The legal details were handled by Campbell & Fischer for Mr. Hannah and Feiwell and Epstein for Silverstein and Feiwell.

M. Samuels & Co. Take Lease at Lincoln, Melrose

M. Samuels & Co., operating the Newark Shoe stores, has taken a long term lease from Joseph Strauss on the property at the northwest corner of Lincoln avenue and Melrose street. The lessees agree to erect a new building within ten years. S. Sidney Stein of Moses, Rosenthal, Stein & Bachrach handled the legal details. Leo Raemer was broker.

Chicagoans Buy 150 Acres Along Michigan Shore

Henry C. Wartell, president of the Continental Realty company, and associates have purchased 150 acres of wooded property near Manistee, Mich., overlooking Lake Michigan, and will subdivide into large size homesites. It has been christened the "Riviera Beach Estates."

FIFTEENTH-THROOP LEASE.

The Gross Manufacturing company has leased the entire two buildings at the northeast corner of 15th and Throop from E. C. Ruttenberg, president of the Almco Lamp company, for a term of years at a reported $6,600 annual net rental through George F. Sivore & Co.

MISSISSIPPI GULF TOWNS LOSE ONLY PECANS IN STORM

During the height of the Florida hurricane excitement it was stated several times in wires from the south that the hurricane was headed straight for Biloxi and the rest of the narrow strip of Mississippi gulf coast. Of course, it didn't get there, but readers have wondered what really happened on that attractive strip of country.

E. A. Lang, manager of the Pass Christian office of the Mississippi Coast Realty company, writes us: "We're glad to say that other than blowing off a part of the pecan crop there was absolutely no damage.

"Things are looking very bright for a good winter tourist season. With the 185 room Pine Hills hotel, overlooking Bay St. Louis, nearing completion, the 200 room Hotel Markham under way, the 400 room Edgewater Gulf hotel rapidly going up, and the 200 room addition to the Buena Vista finished, the Mississippi gulf coast will have practically 1,000 new hotel rooms.

"Pass Christian Isles, the elaborate project at Henderson's point, Pass Christian, is moving along fast. Two dredges are working and a crew of men are laying out streets and a golf course. Chicago capital is interested in this."

BEG YOUR PARDON

H. J. McCormick, vice president of the Wenzel Hotels, Inc., states that the trading of the Berkshire hotel for Missouri farm land does not affect their tenancy. They are not owners, but lessees.

PAYS $250,000 FOR ESTES AND PAULINA FLATS

Louise and Anne Strohm have sold the thirty-six apartments at the northeast corner of Estes and Paulina to Charles Stenberg for a reported $250,000 cash. Harrison & Riedy and W. D. Murdock & Co. were brokers. Elmer L. Anderson and Henry L. Wilson were attorneys.

Bedford Shirt Company to Have Shop in New Building

The Bedford Shirt company has leased the west store in the new Madison-La Salle building, now being erected at 175 West Madison, for ten years at a term rental reported to be $150,000. M. H. Stein of Frankenstein & Co. and Willoughby & Co., agents of the building, were brokers.

Winthrop Harbor Acres Bought for Subdivision

Adolph Trebow and Joseph J. Millstone bought twenty acres on Main street, east of Sheridan road, at Winthrop Harbor, and will at once subdivide. Kathryn O'Malley was seller. Holland & Shuchter were attorneys.

NEW SECTION OF PERSHING ROAD TO OPEN IN 1927

Mile Between Halsted and Ashland.

JOHN BLAIR WHIDDEN. [Maffett Photo.]

Pershing road, formerly 39th street, which has as its ultimate goal the linking of Lake Michigan with Chicago's newest zoo near Riverside, eleven miles away, is going to have the important section between Halsted and Ashland completed by September, 1927. This announcement was made by John Blair Whidden, managing director of the Pershing Road association, and is based on a letter he received from Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the Chicago plan commission.

"This is news of a sort that will be gladly appreciated by the thousands of people whose daily lives are directly influenced to a measurable degree by the status of the Pershing road improvement," said Mr. Whidden.

Thousands Affected.

"For instance, the 25,000 employés in the plants of the Central Manufacturing District and 50,000 in Packingtown. And more especially will it be appreciated by the 2,000 employés of the United States government warehouses and other nearby warehouses and factories who are now forced to lose some forty minutes a day traveling around present obstructions. Forty minutes daily for 2,000 equals 80,000 minutes, or considerably more than a hundred working days lost every day by this group alone."

"Pershing road is the logical through street for relief from an intolerable traffic condition. The reasons are clear and convincing.

"Not only is it in almost the geographical center of Chicago, but it is only a short distance from the center of the city's population.

Center of Industrial District.

"When completed it will be intersected by every important north and south street in the city and such leading diagonals as Cottage Grove, Archer and Ogden avenues.

"It is the center of a large, important, and rapidly growing industrial territory, including the central manufacturing district and Packingtown.

"Lastly, it is a full section line and township line. Sixty years ago Pershing road, then 39th street, was a southern city boundary line and led directly from the lake to the Des Plaines river at a point near Riverside.

Three Miles Shut Off.

"Today there is no through east and west thoroughfare between 22d and 47th streets, although many of the western suburbs are located in the vicinity of 39th street. The distance thus shut off from east and west downtown traffic is three miles in extent.

"Furthermore, there is not at the present time a through passageway of any sort between Halsted street and Ashland avenue for a distance of a mile and a half."

Brokers' Notes

A. G. Pierrot, author, former college professor, attorney, and lecturer, has been elected a vice president of Hastings Brothers & Co., in charge of organization and extensions. Amazing Lumber

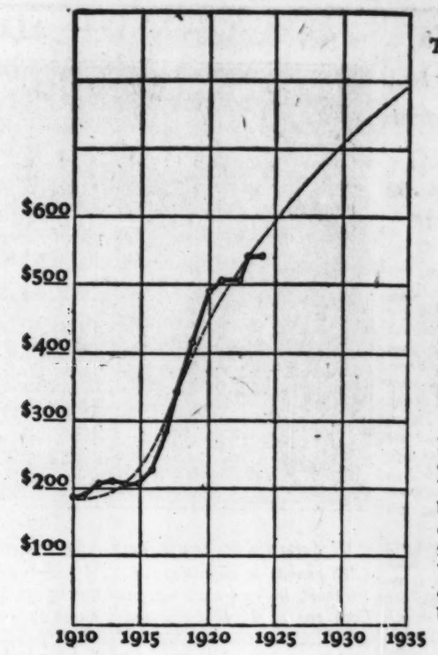
[not cut from trees]



Trend of Anthracite Coal Prices at the Mine

Chart showing average price of anthracite coal per ton at the mine, from 1910 to 1924. Retail prices follow this basic trend.

Look Ahead. Fuel costs are rising fast. When you build or buy a house, you contract to heat it for years to come. What will your coal, oil or gas bill be in 1936?

saves ⅓ your fuel money

Yet it adds little or nothing to building costs. Celotex will also keep your home warmer in Winter . . . . cooler in Summer. Now available for every home, new or old

HOW much do you pay for wasted fuel each year?

Careful tests by heating engineers show that from 25% to 35% of furnace heat is needlessly wasted through solid walls and roofs.

That is because wood lumber, masonry and other usual wall and roof materials, when used alone, offer too little resistance to the passage of heat and cold.

This great waste of fuel can now be stopped! An amazing heat-stopping lumber is available for every home, new or old.

This amazing lumber is Celotex. It is not cut from trees, but manufactured in broad strong boards from the long, tough fibres of cane. It is enduring . . . scientifically sterilized and waterproofed. Celotex is stronger in walls than wood lumber and many times better as insulation. Wind and moisture can not penetrate it. It quiets noise.

In addition to saving you money, Celotex brings comfort and health protection that can not be measured in dollars and cents. For it will keep your house warm, free from draughts and dampness in winter . . . refreshingly cool all summer long.

No wonder people everywhere have eagerly accepted it. That more than 90,000 have built with Celotex in five short years.

COSTS LITTLE or nothing extra. Another reason for the tremendous success of Celotex is that, unlike ordinary insulation, it is not an extra item in the building.

It replaces wood lumber as sheathing (see the illustrations), eliminates building paper. It builds a more rigid wall than wood, because of the greater bracing strength of these broad Celotex boards. It adds the insulation needed back of wood, brick or stucco exteriors at no extra cost.

Under plaster, replacing lath, Celotex costs a few cents more per yard at first, but is a great economy. It means less upkeep expense because of no lath-marks . . . fewer cracks.

With Celotex in the walls and in the ceilings or roof of your house a smaller, less expensive heating plant and smaller radiators will keep you comfortable. Year after year it will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel money.

NEW COMFORT for old houses. In houses already built, a big measure of this comfort and economy is being secured by lining attics and basements with Celotex. That helps a lot and costs but little.

There are also dozens of other places where Celotex is the ideal material for building and remodeling.

Look Ahead! Now that Celotex has made insulation practical, heat-leaking houses are a poor investment. The authorities say such houses are becoming obsolete; harder to sell, rent or borrow money on.

IF YOU ARE going to build, talk with your architect, contractor or lumber dealer about Celotex. Leaders in these lines advise its use. All lumber dealers can supply it.

IF YOU ARE going to buy, see that Celotex is used before you put any money into a house.

Also ask about the $200.00 gold bond now issued on every Celotex-insulated house.

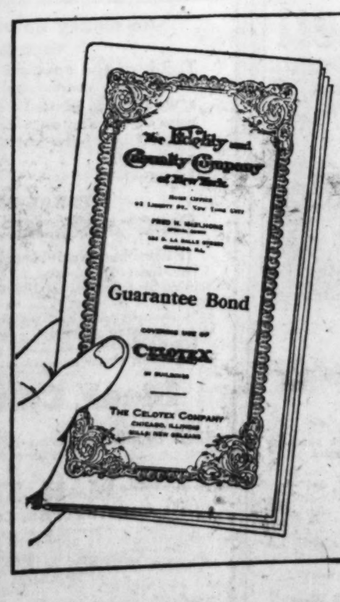
Meanwhile, send for the free Celotex Building Book. It explains fully this great improvement in building. Just mail the coupon.

AS SHEATHING
Celotex is nailed directly to the framework and supplies the insulation needed back of brick, wood or stucco exteriors. Here it replaces the rough boards formerly used, gives greater strength to the house walls and makes building paper unnecessary

UNDER PLASTER
On inside walls and ceilings, plaster is applied directly to the surface of Celotex. This eliminates the use of lath and gives stronger, insulated walls: less apt to crack and free from lath-marks.

IN THE ROOF
Most heat beats into houses through roofs in summer, causing hot attics. Most heat leaks out through roofs in winter, causing high fuel bills. Celotex applied over or under roof rafters gives the needed protection. For best results both uses are recommended.

FOR OLD HOUSES
In homes already built, a big measure of Celotex comfort and economy may be secured by lining attics and basements with it. In the attic an extra finished room can be made by nailing Celotex to the roof rafters. In the basement line the ceiling with Celotex.



Now . . . A Gold Bond for your protection

To protect you in buying a home and to assist you in mortgaging or selling, The Celotex Company now issues a $200.00 Gold Bond, signed by The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York. This Bond certifies the use of Celotex.

Ask to see it before buying any building. Ask your lumber dealer to supply it when you build.

FARM AND GARDEN

U. S. and Canada Seeking Way to Kill Corn Borer

Farm Pest Seems to Be Steadily Advancing.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

WINDSOR, Ont. — [Special.] — Canada and the United States have joined hands in the search for some practical means of stamping out the European corn borer, which has spread into new territory for twenty to seventy-five miles out from the Lake Erie infested area that covered more than 100,000 square miles in the two countries last year. Scientists are baffled. No man has yet found a scheme that even promises to keep the pest from spreading to every section of the great corn belt of North America.

Entomologists, who have turned over every stone in their search for some means of destroying the borer or reducing its population, say the outlook is gloomy. Investigation will be continued with the coöperation of agronomists, chemists, bacteriologists, zoölogists, and agricultural engineers, to see if there is any way of conquering the pest. Agricultural leaders in the dominion and the states are unwilling to give up the fight, which has now become international in scope.

Enlist to Save Crops.

Various agencies, including interests outside the immediate ranks of agriculture, are being enlisted to save the crops and live stock of this country from the plague. More than 200 field crops and vegetable plants are hosts to the European borer, which has been a menace to crops in Hungary and Italy for generations. If farmers stop growing corn, as they are doing here in Ontario, the borer would not starve to death, because he would turn to another crop and leave it a worthless mass as it has corn and then move on to his next choice.

The experience of growers in this province indicates what might happen to the entire corn belt of the United States. Here farmers are looking for other crops to be used in place of corn. Many are planning to grow tobacco, tomatoes, grapes, sugar beets, and alfalfa. Several hundred thousand dollars have been raised within the last few months in the badly infected region of Essex county for the purpose of building factories to take care of the new crops.

May Quit Growing Corn.

Farmers say that before they will go to the expense of cleaning up their infested cornfields they will quit growing corn, and that is what has already happened on many farms, and others have made a great reduction in the number of acres. But corn is not as important in Ontario as it is in the states, and it is not likely that corn belters could find a substitute for corn.

It is the greatest calorie producing crop grown in the world. It is the germ crop for the live stock industry. The destructive work of the corn borer affects the whole economic structure of American agriculture, which has its ramifications in almost every business on the continent.

If the borer keeps on whittling down the corn acreage in Canada, there will be little left in a few more years. The same process of acreage reduction is working in Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana, where the pest is rapidly spreading, moving into new fields from fifty to seventy-five miles beyond the infested area last year. Entomologists of the dominion and the states are surprised at the advance made by the pest this summer. New state and federal appropriations will be called for to keep pace with the borer.

Quarantine Lines Established.

Official inspectors have been stationed on the quarantine lines around the infested zone, and while effective work has been done in preventing travelers from carrying the borers in ears of corn, there has been no way found to keep the moths of the European borer from flying over the heads of the inspectors and going into new territory to lay eggs and hatch out new broods.

It took years to corner and destroy or control such pests as the Hessian fly, chinch bugs, cabbage worms, brown tail moths, boll weevil, alfalfa weevil, and similar crop enemies. Entomologists say the borer has them all beaten. Killing the borers is a difficult thing to do, because he is inside the ear and stalk. He is one of the few criminals of the insect family that is hidden inside, where he cannot be easily touched. About the only way they can be destroyed is to burn and shred the stalks or ferment them in a silo. The moth does its flying between 8 in the evening and 4 o'clock in the morning. It never eats, making it difficult to use poison. A flame doesn't attract the borer moth as it does some other moths.

Moths Like Hydroplanes.

The moths are like hydroplanes; they can light on the surface of water and take flight again. It is now common belief among entomologists that moths can fly across Lake Erie, a distance of more than fifty miles. Some scientists say that the new infestation found in Indiana this year was probably brought in by moths flying from Ontario fields across Lake Erie.

The rapid advancement of the borers indicate that, with favorable winds, the moths can fly many miles. The pest has been found in Michigan within a few miles of the east shore of Lake Michigan, as far west in Indiana as the second tier of counties, and it is now down to fields near Pittsburgh, Pa. Scouts are at work trying to find borers in new territories, and the actual extent of the infestation is not known. It may be found in Illinois corn fields any day.

Cotton States in Danger.

The borer may get into the cotton states before it reaches the corn fields of Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, if it is not prevented from being carried down the smaller rivers into the Mississippi. It can live for a long time in water and could be easily carried in streams in cornstalks. A test has been made which shows that stalks are carried for hundreds of miles by water. A bundle of cornstalks was tagged and put into the Ohio river and was later found 184 miles down the stream. A single tagged stalk was found 282 miles down the Ohio river from the place where it originally entered the stream. This indicates how easily it will be for the borer to find its way into the delta cotton region in the Mississippi valley.

COMBINED WEIGHT MORE THAN TWO TONS—This is the 1926 Illinois champion ton litter of sixteen pigs, weighing 4,198 pounds, or an average of 262⅜ pounds each, at the end of 180 days. The prize winners were raised on the W. T. Raleigh farm near Freeport, Ill., and were farrowed by Orphan Maid, a sow that produced three litters or forty-seven pigs in ten days less than a year's time. Each one of the litters averaged weighing 4,499⅓ pounds. The pigs were produced under the McLean county sanitation system.

DOWN ON THE FARM

Raleigh Farm Wins Ton Litter Contest

THE W. T. Raleigh farm near Freeport, Ill., has won the Illinois ton litter contest for the third time with a litter weighing more than two tons. The champions were farrowed March 20, 1926, and at the end of 180 days they weighed a total of 4,198 pounds, or an average of 262⅜ pounds each, according to Dr. George H. Conn.

The pigs were farrowed by Orphan Maid, the sow that has the record of having produced three litters or a total of forty-seven pigs in ten days less than a year's time. The three litters weighed an average of nearly 4,500 pounds each.

This year's champion litter in the Illinois contest conducted by the University of Illinois was produced under the McLean county sanitation system which requires that all brood sows be disinfected and placed in a clean and disinfected pen for farrowing and then the litter must be hauled to a clean lot where no hogs have been kept for several months.

The champions come from a famous breed of Poland Chinas. Eighteen were farrowed and sixteen lived. Dr. Conn in discussing the feeding of the prize winners said:

"Next to the breeding the most important factor in the producing of ton litters is the feeding. The feeding of the ton litters really began before the pigs were farrowed. The brood sows on this farm are carefully fed in order to produce strong, vigorous litters that will make rapid gains on small amounts of feed.

A carefully balanced feed containing considerable animal protein in the from of skim milk or tankage comprises a goodly portion of the brood sow's ration during the winter months. In addition to this hulled oats and some middlings are fed, also some minerals. For a month before the sows farrow they are not given any corn, neither are they given any corn until the pigs are at least a month old. By this method of feeding, strong vigorous pigs are farrowed which gain rapidly and consistently and practically no trouble is experienced from scours and other usual pig ailments.

"The young pigs are weaned at 8 or 9 weeks of age. When 4 or 5 weeks old they are given a grain mixture in a self-feeder placed in a creep where the older hogs cannot get to it."

Jack Frost Fails to Hurt Popcorn Crop

THE biggest pop corn belt in America, centering around Odebolt, Ia., beat Jack Frost around the corner only a few days. Ninety-five per cent of the crop was far enough along in its final stages of maturity to escape the early killing frosts that blanketed Iowa on Sept. 24 and 25.

John J. Roche, a pop corn expert at Odebolt, after making a survey of the fields following the heavy frosts, says that 95 per cent of the pop corn crop has passed the frost damage stage and will mature fine ears.

It is roughly estimated that in the Odebolt district this season there are probably as much as 7,500 acres of pop corn. J. A. Hafner of the Cracker Jack company, Chicago, says the yield will be at least normal or above. The average crop in that district is about 2,500 pounds to the acre and Mr. Hafner estimates that the yield will run from 2,500 to 3,000 in the fields that have escaped frost.

Happily Surprised.

Immediately after the frost farmers figured they would suffer heavy losses in their pop corn fields, but later they found the crop had ripened rapidly during the week previous to the drop in temperatures that brought the frost.

In Mr. Roche's report to THE TRIBUNE he says: "It is the opinion of well informed farmers in this section that the early frosts greatly benefited the pop corn crops here. They kill the growth, and with normal dry weather early picking and rapid drying between now and Nov. 1 will be possible.

"The stalks that suckered from the main plants and which naturally were still in their infancy and held immature ears, suffered, but such ears would not have matured until Christmas without frost, so the loss is nothing to speak of when we consider that such ears represent but approximately 5 per cent of the pop corn crop."

New Cribs Required.

New cribs are being built at the shipping centers of the Odebolt pop corn region to be used in storing the pop corn this fall and winter. There are twenty-five cribs in Odebolt, some of them holding as much as 30,000 bushels of pop corn in the ear. Two of the new cribs that are now being built will have a capacity of 40,000 bushels, the largest in the United States.

Pop corn growers in Iowa have been more fortunate than farmers in other states. Conditions throughout the season have been favorable in the Odebolt district, where the yield is expected to run from 800 to 1,300 pounds to the acre more than in the district around Arthur, Ia., five miles west of Odebolt.

The big supply of pop corn to be picked in the Odebolt territory no doubt will be needed to make up for the shortage in other districts. At North Loop, Neb., another one of the big pop corn districts, dry weather, coupled with damage from the early frosts, has lowered the yield, according to reports coming to Mr. Hafner. Even the Odebolt growers had cut down their acreage because of the supply on hand from last year's crop. They often raise 10,000 acres, which is probably 2,500 acres more than this season's pop corn crop.

Don't Tolerate Leaking Faucets

They're hard on the nerves—hard on the pocketbook too. Constant trouble and annoyance—then repair bills—eventually replacement of the whole fixture.

Faucets have always had a bad name because no one ever took the trouble to design one scientifically so that these things could not happen.

Not until the invention of Chicago Faucets with the famous Quaturn Renewable Unit that is taken out and put back again almost as easily as an electric bulb or a fuse. The unit is standardized—fits all Chicago Faucets.

Now the old bugaboo of a leaking, pounding faucet is gone forever. A great step forward. Are you profiting by it?

PLAN EXTENSIVE ADDITIONS TO LINCOLN CHURCH

$200,000 Program to Be Carried Out.

Plans are now being prepared for a $200,000 development of the Greater Lincoln Street Institutional church (methodist Episcopal), at South Lincoln and West 22d place. The present church buildings are to be remodeled and in addition an entirely new nursery building is to be erected.

The church group is in one of the most cosmopolitan and densely populated sections of Chicago. The city census estimates the population to be 52,000 to the square mile. The church has as its parish four square miles of such territory. It is the only English speaking Protestant church conducting a social service program in that district. There are about forty nationalities in this territory, twenty-one of which have been represented in one church service.

To House Five Departments.

The proposed new day nursery building will be 35x60, with two permanently enclosed porches and will house five departments of work: a day nursery, an infant welfare station, a city children's dental clinic, a nursery day school and organized kindergarten play.

This part of the program has been carried on heretofore in the present quarters, which are proving inadequate. During 1925 more than seven thousand children were brought in by working parents and given over to the care of the nurses while the mothers worked in factories.

14,000 Meals Served.

Accommodations in the new day nursery building provide for a large bath room for the very small children who are given regular rest periods during the day, and two large play rooms with two open porches for those children a little older.

All of these youngsters are given a Sunday lunch and other meals and clothing if needed. A total of 14,000 meals were served in the last year in this way.

A three story community building will contain an assembly room and classrooms on the ground floor, serving as headquarters of the religious educational work, Sunday school, movie shows, and social life. The second and third floors will provide a standard sized gymnasium with locker and dressing rooms for boys and girls.

Play Space for Youngsters.

The middle section of the main structure provides the living quarters for the full time workers, the church offices, and the club rooms.

Adjoining the offices is the outdoor playground, which now has two tennis courts, a handball court and play space for the little children. This will be rearranged and resurfaced, keeping the same accommodations.

The present church auditorium unit will be changed in only a minor way on the interior, although a new tower will be built, housing a set of chimes and supporting an illuminated cross.

More Space Needed.

The need for the service this church renders is so great, according to officers of the congregation, that special stress will be laid on achieving this building immediately. Plans are now being developed for the financial program which will move forward about the second week in October.

The Rev. W. J. Schuerman is the pastor. Plans have been prepared for the construction work by the Chicago office of the bureau of architecture of the Methodist Episcopal church. Edward F. Jansson is the architect.

BOGEY LEA COUNTRY CLUB

Architect Joseph H. Klafter designed the above building for the Bogey Lea Country club, announced for the Barrington district. It'll be on Dundee road, a mile west of Rand road. The usual club lounge, etc., will be on the first floor, with service quarters and a few guest rooms on the second. The cost of building and furnishings is placed at $135,000. S. Chester Danforth made the rendering.

LOOKING BACKWARD

To Oct. 3, 1916; 10 Years Ago Today

A. D. Lasker, president of Lord & Thomas, purchased from Hugh T. Birch a tract of twenty-two acres on the lake, just south of the country home of Mrs. Emanuel Mandel, in the south part of Highland Park. The property is vacant and of an unusually attractive character, being heavily timbered with fine trees and ravines on both the north and south parts of the tract. Mr. Lasker will improve with a fine residence, which he will occupy as a country home.

A. D. LASKER. [(C) Harris & Ewing]

Edward G. Carter has begun the construction of a ten story fireproof apartment building at the northwest corner of 55th street and South Shore drive, overlooking the lake and Jackson park. The cost of the building is $900,000 and it will contain twenty apartments of nine to twelve rooms. C. W. and George L. Rapp are the architects.

Ernest H. Lyons has sold to John W. Page, president of the Page Engineering company, the vacant property 100x111 feet, at the northeast corner of Huron and St. Clair streets for a reported consideration of $45,000.

To Oct. 3, 1906; 20 Years Ago Today

The University of Chicago sold to Charles H. Ruddock and A. W. Rhodes the property at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and 12th street for $200,000. It is known as the Chicago Manual Training school, has a frontage of fifty feet in Michigan avenue, with a depth of 171 feet in 12th street, and is improved with a three story building. The purchasers gave back a trust deed to Charles L. Hutchinson for $200,000 for five years at four per cent.

C. L. HUTCHINSON. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Edward C. Potter and wife, Emma C., sold to Louis Morris, a clothing manufacturer, the residence property at the southwest corner of 48th street and Ellis avenue for $65,000. The lot is 92x250 feet and the house is a three story brick structure containing fourteen rooms.

The Old People's home completed its purchase of the Moran and McWade properties 100 feet south of 47th street, fronting 333 feet, with a depth of 302 feet, for an aggregate consideration of $54,720. This is to become the site of a new home which is expected to cost from $150,000 to $200,000.

To Oct. 3, 1896; 30 Years Ago Today

Keebler & Co. closed a lease for Charles D. Peacock to the Foreman Shoe company on the store and basement adjoining Mr. Peacock's new store at the northeast corner of State and Adams street, for a term rental of $64,000. The lease goes into effect Jan. 1, 1897, and runs for a term of five years and four months at an annual rental of $12,000. The store has a frontage of twenty-six feet and is thirty-six feet wide back of the elevator, the depth being 145 feet.

"That Settles It"

"You have shown us all the fine points of this house; we like the location, the plan and the finish, but that sign settles it."

"That sign" is a pretty reliable indicator for any prospective home owner. Wherever you see it, you see a home on which the builder was willing to spend a few more dollars in first cost for Better Plastering on metal lath so that the buyer might save money in upkeep over a period of years. —And if he went to that expense, isn't it reasonable to suppose that he selected quality materials and workmanship throughout?

If you are considering the purchase of a home—look for the Better Plastering sign. This familiar sign means that the builder has used a full thickness of plaster over metal lath and that you will not be paying out money to repair cracks, falling plaster or for heavy, unnecessary redecorating expenses. Such a home may cost a trifle more to begin with but it is well built and will save you several hundred dollars over a period of a few years.

Crack-proof, streak-proof walls and ceilings plus protection against fire make the home with the Better Plastering sign the home to buy.

If you lived on Pikes Peak—

You would save 1/3 of your fuel . . .

Save it in Chicago with Hoffman No. 2 Vacuum Valves

IF YOU ran your steam heating plant on top of a mountain, even a slight fire would make steam because air pressure is less. No matter where you live Hoffman Vacuum Valves decrease fuel consumption and increase heating comfort on a one-pipe steam heating system by reducing the air pressure in radiators and boiler. They speed up steam heat so amazingly that radiators get warm in a fraction of the time you have been accustomed to. They give continuous heat comfort you never would have believed possible. Heat is absolutely under your control—warm steam for mild days—hot steam for zero days. Every morning you get up to a snug, cozy bathroom and breakfast room. At night your living room stays warm hours after fires are banked.

No matter what make of steam boiler you have or whether your one-pipe steam heating plant is old or new, you can greatly improve its operation merely by replacing the venting valves on all radiators with Hoffman No. 2 Vacuum Valves. They are guaranteed in writing to give five years of satisfactory service.

This test will convince you

CHANGE one venting valve to a Hoffman No. 2 Vacuum Valve. See how quickly this radiator gets warm as soon as steam comes up. Notice how this radiator holds its heat long after other radiators get cold. Then you will realize what would happen if every valve were changed to a Hoffman No. 2 Vacuum Valve.

After you are convinced, phone your neighborhood heating and plumbing shop and ask them to change every air valve in your house to a Hoffman No. 2 Vacuum Valve. Simply tell the heating contractor how many radiators you have. He will do the rest. There will be no dirt, noise, or confusion. He can make the change and tighten up the system generally in an hour or two.

Send us the coupon for a complete description of Hoffman Vacuum Valves, "Locking the Door Against the Heat Thief." It explains in simple words how the magic vacuum created by these valves reduces pressure and transforms the operation of an ordinary one-pipe steam heating plant.

Users of these valves claim an average fuel saving of one-third

DR. WILL R. NEFF,
1716 North Michigan Blvd., writes:

"My plant is heating my home almost solely under a vacuum and seldom goes into pressure, since installing Hoffman No. 2 Vacuum Valves. I consider them as important a part of the system as the boiler and radiation.

"You are at liberty to refer anyone interested in this product to me, for I consider them the last word in air valves, and feel that they will pay for themselves by saving in fuel in a short time."

F. E. TARRANT, of 1232 W. Van Buren Street, writes:

"In my building I pull about twenty inches of vacuum after banking the fire which enables me to generate steam with temperature of the water in the boiler as low as 162 degrees. The valves are saving me remarkably in fuel consumption. It takes about ten minutes to get steam to the radiators in the morning, where before it took an hour or more. It is now necessary to take care of the fire only three times a day and the janitor banks his fire from an hour to two hours earlier than he could before."

CENTRAL HEATING & ENGINEERING CO.,
76 Monroe Street, writes:

"There is nothing but praise to offer. The Valves are accomplishing all that has been claimed for them. Our customers are all well pleased with the saving in fuel and heating comfort that the valves have made possible for them. One customer informed us that he would not sell them at any price.

"We feel that the valves are making friends and satisfied customers for us where we install them, and we recommend them highly at every opportunity."

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS by Sara Moore

WORDS WITHOUT MUSIC.

Meaning carefully to quote,
Thus the headline juggler wrote:
"Mourning for her love long dead,
Widow says she will not wed."

Printers' type ofttimes falls short
Of an accurate report.
With much emphasis—in vain—
She had said: "NEV-AIRE AGAIN!"

"NO PRICE TOO HIGH!"

Myrtle won a beauty prize.
(Pansy eyes,
Oversize!)
Myrtle has, the papers say, million dollar legs.
Myrtle became a movie star.
(Popular?
Leads by far!)
And she keeps her cash, I hear, stowed away in kegs.

Kate produced a painting rare (Thought and care—Genius there!)
Splendid, brilliant masterpiece, those who know proclaim.
Scarcely bread can Kate afford.
Her reward
Was (O, Lord!)
Just a bit of ribbon pinned on her picture's frame.

THE IMPROVISER.

The perfect detail
Of some lives
Leads one to believe
Destiny, for them,
Has been arranged
By an expensive
Interior decorator.
I like to choose
Rare pieces of experience
For myself.
My life is adorned
With treasured bits
Unearthed at unexpected times
In most haphazard places.
For me—no periods!

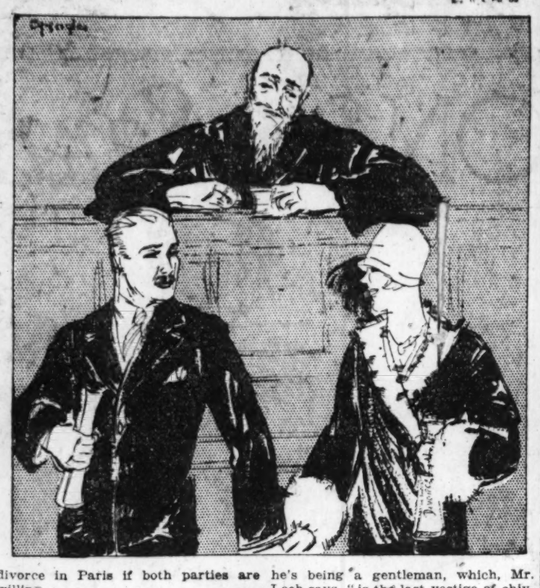
That Paris Divorce

by Doris Blake

Is a Luxury and Not So Simple to Get, After All.



PARIS.—A group of American expatriates were sitting around the Ritz lobby in Paris not long ago and someone suggested that a club should be started for the alimony queens in the city.

Whereupon the usual violent argument on the subject of divorce ensued. Should one, or should one not? Is marriage an institution that should be preserved or dissolved? And last of all, is Paris really the divorce mill of current rumor?

Dismissing the talk about the finest institution in the world if you strike right and stick fairly to your bargain, the question of Paris as the quick-and-easy and overworked divorce market intrigued our interest. With authorities right 'round the corner, there was no need to prolong the debate. We applied at the office of Charles G. Loeb, one of the best known divorce lawyers in the city, who quite frankly professed that he does not like the idea of divorces, personally. That is, he thinks people ought not to marry until they are sure, and if they are sure enough to marry they ought to be willing to work hard enough to put it over successfully.

"And when I say work, I mean work," he announced. "You can't build up a successful business just by putting up a sign of partnership. Signing the marriage papers amounts to that and I think most people get out of marriage just what they are willing to do for it.

"However, if two people really want a divorce, wild horses won't stop them from getting it, and if they prefer to come to Paris, why not—if they have the price?"

About the Ins and Outs.

Mr. Loeb naturally knows all the ins and outs of the game. He knows when you can get the knot untied and when you can't. He knows all the whys and wherefores. He handled the famous Frank J. Gould case, in which Edith Kelly Gould was divorced and granted only three thousand francs alimony a month, not enough to pay for the upkeep of a modern coiffure.

So let Mr. Loeb tell one thing. There are plenty who are eager to get a divorce in Paris. But they want their alimony fixed in the good old land of the free and generous alimony providers. The ordinary French judge makes about as much in a year as one of our fair to middling typists. And a Frenchman doesn't believe that a lot of money is good for woman. A few hundred francs a month would appear quite a lot to him to give to a woman who stampeded her job as wife.

So, before they come to Paris to get the divorce, the preliminary separation papers disposing of all financial matters [and children, if there are any] are arranged by the wise.

"But what's all the shooting for?" Mr. Loeb asks, comfortably seated in his office just off the Opera. "Everybody likes to come to Paris, to begin with. It is a wonderful city. If you are determined to go through the business of divorce and you can afford it, why not do it pleasantly?"

More Smoke Than Fire.

This is an argument unanimously agreed upon, you'll admit. A painless operation performed between window shopping and plans for alimony spending [if you get it] on the Rue de la Paix.

However, Mr. Loeb says there is much more smoke than fire to all you hear about the number of divorces granted in Paris. There were only about three hundred given Americans last year. The proportions, he admits, grow a little larger each year, but not enough to get excited about. Not nearly so large an increase, in fact, as the increase in the states, themselves.

"This getting a French divorce is a matter of business," continued the lawyer. "I think the preliminary stage of unhappiness that any couple goes through before they agree to separate is the most tragic situation in life. Most people give up too easily, too. But once they get as far as the lawyer's office, the main question is how to settle matters with dignity, fairness and haste.

"But Paris is no divorce mill. I'll bet there are more divorces granted in Reno in a month than in Paris during a year," he hazarded.

It's like this, according to Mr. Loeb's explanation. People with money have innumerable advantages over those with none. If two people can't get along, but have only a small salary to live on they manage to patch things up. Sometimes you'll find within a year they are thanking their stars they had to stick it out, because they discovered, after all, they would not have been happy apart.

"The two little bears," Mr. Loeb philosophizes, "bear and forbear, you know. That's a lesson lots of married people never learn."

When people have too much money the way out is too easy. "If the wife doesn't get her way twice running, or if the husband objects to the way the little woman has her hair cut, off they go to the divorce court."

Why Publicity Arises.

One hears a great deal about people running over to Paris, establishing a residence, and coming back home with the papers signed and sealed, in a month. But it is actually more involved than that, although there is little to stand in the way of getting a divorce in Paris if both parties are willing.

Reverting to Paris' reputation as a divorce mill, Mr. Loeb explained how logical it is that notoriety is given to many divorces obtained here. There are good reasons, he says. One is that it costs about $6,000 to obtain one. If a person can afford that little extravagance, he must be fairly wealthy. Being wealthy, he is more or less known, and being well known, everything he does gets into the home papers. If it gets into the papers, everybody talks about the divorce, and there you are. You hear a lot of talk about somebody's Paris divorce, and by the time the decree is finally granted you fancy you've heard about fifty cases instead of one.

The French divorce laws are practically the same as they have always been. It is just as easy to get a divorce in Paris as it used to be, provided you have the grounds and the money. You don't need to invent causes in this city. There is less hypocrisy about it here, Mr. Loeb thinks.

The technic of the Paris divorce is this: The French court insists on receiving a certificate stating the divorce laws of the state from which the plaintiff comes. The American attorney, representing the plaintiff, must enumerate for the judge the causes on which a decree can be granted in that state.

On the face of it, that would seem to make it hard to get a divorce. But apparently not. If an American comes to Paris and establishes a bona fide residence, he can obtain a divorce on exactly the same grounds that a Frenchman can. This is managed under a department of international law called the Theorie du Renvoi.

Softening the Charges.

In New York, for instance, adultery is the only ground for divorce. There is still enough of the Puritan streak in the average divorce gambler, apparently, to resent the ugly term, even though it is admitted quite openly that nobody believes it when inserted as a charge.

New Yorkers can, if they establish residence here, get their divorce, then, on any other charge they wish, provided they find it distasteful to use the home charge.

Suppose you come from South Carolina, which is one of the states where you cannot be divorced on any grounds whatsoever? That wouldn't prevent you from getting a Paris divorce if you were hell-bent-for-freedom. Establishing the domicile in France is the solution. Once you have accomplished the domicile you can sue on any grounds you like, providing they come under the French law. The international code has accepted the law of domicile in precedence to that of nationality.

By this sophisticated method of reasoning, the French courts and American lawyers consider that they are applying the law of New York or California, or Indiana, when they grant an American domiciled in France a decree on grounds not admitted in the laws of the state from which the plaintiff comes. But this law, like so many others, seems to have been made just to be broken.

Three Weeks Will Do It.

One can get a divorce in about three weeks in Paris, if you file a suit naming the grounds that are legitimate in your state. That is, Mrs. A. can get the divorce if Mr. A. either appears or sends his admission of guilt or assent, via his attorney.

In America it's just the other way round. If the defendant is willing to let the divorce go through, the one important thing is not to appear or to take any notice whatsoever of the goings on.

If the defendant in a Parisian case is too busy to come to France and does not hire a lawyer to represent him it will take a couple of months before papers can be sent over, served on him and returned.

When one says "he," meaning the guilty party, it is a matter of form more than anything else. Most of the divorces granted in Paris are on grounds of incompatibility. But the husband usually lets the wife get the blame, he's being a gentleman, which, Mr. Loeb says, "is the last vestige of chivalry in this gross material, unromantic world."

Stories of charlatanism practiced on divorce seekers are afloat, such as the one about women who have gone home waving a badge of freedom which turned out to be a worthless piece of paper. You can go back home to your husband with a surprise haircut, but not with a surprise divorce diploma and the women who are being preyed upon by the shyster lawyers are those who think they can accomplish a divorce without the knowledge of their mates. A husband has to help his wife get a Paris divorce and that is all there is to it. You can't slip one over on him.

"Some women would get gypped buying buttons at the five and ten," says Mr. Loeb, "so they ought to be warned against what shyster lawyers there are in Paris. Any one who seriously contemplates a French divorce will first consult a reputable attorney at home and set out knowing most of the ropes.

"It is one of the world's greatest luxuries, a divorce in gay Paree. The least you can get one for, say, if the lawyer is a friend of the family and all that, is about twenty-five hundred dollars. Then you have to pay the lawyer back home, in addition.

"The reason the alimony is settled in America is because it is the only way a woman can get a reasonable sum. Also, any judgment awarded by a French court is taxed by the government. Children under 10 will always be given to the mother, if that issue is brought in France, which is rarely done, however.

"Yes, it's a funny business," says Mr. Loeb. "The most ardent young bridegroom will growl if his marriage expenses run up. But if he wants a divorce, the sky is the limit. Because, as I said at the start, if people want a divorce, wild horses won't stop them. What it's all leading up to I wouldn't even try to guess. But I have one idea, and that is that the children who have suffered from these casually disrupted unions are going to have violent revulsions against divorce and inaugurate again the good old fashioned institution of marriage 'till death do us part.'"

Rescue the Ring.

"Dear Miss Blake: Recently I met a young fellow whom I grew to love in a short time. He asked to wear my ring and I let him do so. He promised to call me up, but broke his promise. The next time I spoke to him he set another time to call me up, but he has not done so. Should I give him another chance, or ask him for the return of my ring, even though it would cause me some heartache to sever our friendship? BASHFUL."

Get your ring back as quickly as possible, Bashful. The longer you wait the less chance you'll have to rescue it. And when you get it hang on to it, dear. He isn't worth another chance.

Correct Dress for the Groom

By Persis Standish

The Bride Has a Wide Choice of Attire; Her Mate, However, Has a Limited Field.

Persis Standish will answer questions of all kinds on etiquette, manners, and politeness. Self-addressed, stamped envelopes must accompany each request for information. Send your letters to Persis Standish, Sunday Department, Chicago Tribune.

TO continue the wedding discussion and answer all the questions asked by correspondents, the next subject is: "What shall the groom wear?"

The answer is, the conventional black, of course. Long ago it was thought proper to have weddings only in the forenoon, that is, before 1 p. m. It is still customary in some places to taboo big weddings after noon. But in the more cosmopolitan cities weddings are often at night—even big church weddings, although somehow they seem smarter in the day time. Evening dress has always and always will be a bit out of place in a church.

For a formal morning wedding—and any wedding in a church is a formal occasion, the groom, best man and ushers dress alike. They should wear morning coats, striped dark gray trousers, a black single breasted waistcoat, stiff white shirt, varnished boots, black silk stockings, white buckskin gloves or gray suede gloves according to the choice of the groom. Ties either of gray figured silk or black and gray striped silk are worn. The groom selects and pays for the boutonniere of white flowers, preferably gardenias which he and his attendants wear. Top hats, of course, are in order. This is the correct garb for the groom and his attendants at a formal wedding.

If the bride and groom wish to have an informal wedding and dispense with ushers and wear none of the conventional clothes it is not against the law and they will find many ministers and priests just as willing to marry them, and I dare say they will be just as happy afterwards. Happier, in fact, because if they have any imagination they certainly cannot help knowing that a big church wedding is in a way a "show" and anybody who wishes has a right to criticize humorously and otherwise anything in the nature of a show.

Defying the Rules.

One of the loveliest wedding I ever saw defied all the conventions and was a complete success. The bride and groom lived in a country community where morning coats are only seen at funerals and then only on the clergy, so the groom, who, though a post-graduate of three universities, had only a small salary, decided not to dispose of a major part of a month's stipend on a morning coat he would use only once. He and his ushers and groomsman wore flannels. The wedding was in the bride's garden and she and her two attendants were garbed in simple chiffon gowns with large organdy hats. They carried a variety of garden flowers and altogether the effect was charming, informal, and never to be forgotten.

Another way to avoid the fuss and trouble is for the groom and his attendant and the bride and her attendant to go to the vestry of the church and be married in traveling clothes. A bride can make her traveling costume something that the beholders will never forget, what with the beautiful soft colors now in vogue and the luxuriance of furs she can look like a Russian princess.

An Evening Wedding.

If, however, the wedding is to be at night and in a church the conventional dress for the groom is full evening dress—that is, swallow tail coat, white waistcoat, black patent leather oxfords, black silk sox, white tie, white glacé kid gloves with two buttons, white bouttonniere. His groom man and ushers should dress in like manner. Dinner coats are not in order for such a wedding.

The bride and her attendants wear evening gowns, of course, but it is not proper for them to be too low cut. In Catholic and Episcopal churches the heads of women should be covered, so that it is the customary for the bride's attendants to wear some sort of wreath or head dress.

Guests who are invited to an evening church wedding should remember this, likewise, and if the wedding is in either a Catholic or a high Episcopalian church, wear something on the head—either a wreath, or a bandeau, or some sort of head dress. The bride, of course, wears a veil. If the attendants wear head dresses these should, of course, be kept on during the reception and even during the dancing afterwards, should there be any.

Bare Arms Are Taboo.

It is considered bad form for a bride to be bare armed in church. Therefore, long gloves are a necessity if the sleeves of the wedding gown are short. Many wedding gowns are made with long sleeves, as they look prettier than long gloves. They may be as transparent as the bride wishes, but they may also be made of the same material as the gown.

The bride's attendants, of course, wear long gloves, because while a bridal gown looks lovely with long sleeves, the conventional evening gown worn by the maids looks horrible if made with long sleeves.

Neither the bride's mother nor the groom's should wear black for the occasion of a wedding in the family, unless it is the stunning black of spangles, and even then a color would be better. There are some elderly women who positively hate to wear anything but black, even for the most festive occasions, but they could, for the wedding, wear black lace over a color, over flesh, for instance, or biege or silver or gray.

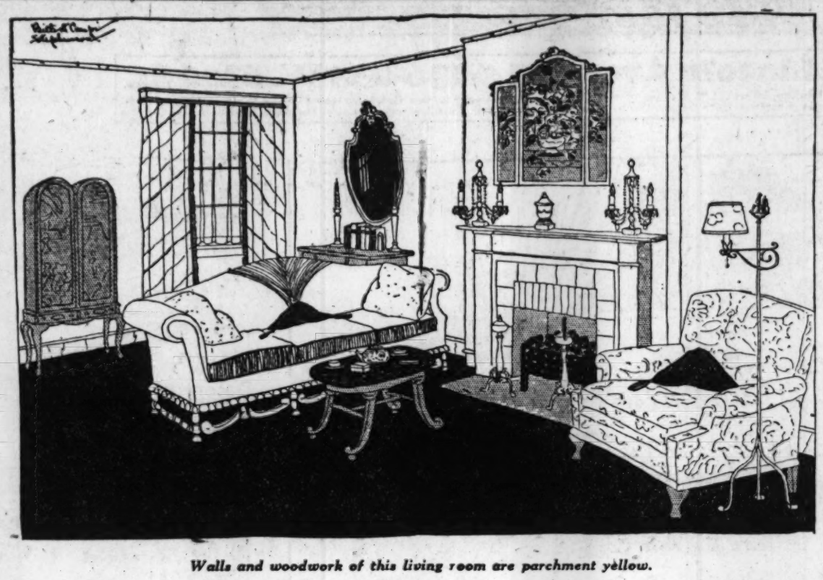
The HOME HARMONIOUS
By Anita de Campi

The Rooms of This Charming Little House Combine Good Taste with Real Comfort.

Anita de Campi will be glad to assist the homemaker in any problems pertaining to home building and home furnishing. Address your letter to Anita de Campi, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped addressed envelope for personal reply.



Walls and woodwork of this living room are parchment yellow.

IT IS only on rare occasions that we find a house completely furnished according to the dictates of some particular period. And as a general rule, we learn that those who live in that house have another house or an apartment, done in a less formal style, in which they spend the greater part of their time. The period house is so liable to resemble a museum that it almost invariably dampens our spirits. We appreciate its beauty in a quiet, contemplative way, but we simply couldn't be so sacrilegious as to have a roaring good time in it. For comfortable, cheerful living, simple furnishings of good lines and color take precedence over those of stiffly formal settings.

Reflecting the happy nature of its inhabitants is a delightfully comfortable and colorful little house which has just been completed. A fan lighted doorway opens into the most inviting of entrance halls. Here the wainscoting, woodwork, and mantel are painted a deep, soft green. Above the wainscoting, an ivory paper shows scenic medallions in tones of green. At the open fireplace, directly opposite the front door, polished brass accessories are used. Above the mantel hangs a large mirror in a dull gold frame, and on the mantel shelf are placed a pair of gold and ivory vases and a decorative gold clock. A love seat, upholstered in dull rose velvet, stands at one side of the fireplace, and at the other side a little arm chair, upholstered to match, is accompanied by a low, round table on which a gold lamp is placed. The lamp has a shade of dull rose taffeta, finely plaited, and is finished with soft, green ruchings. A pair of triangular cabinets, of carved walnut, fit into two corners of the room. On each of these is an electrically equipped candelabra of old brass and crystal.

Doors at each side of the reception hall lead into the living room and into the dining room. In the living room, a corner of which is illustrated today, the walls and woodwork are parchment yellow. Parchment yellow silk gauze makes sill length glass curtains. The overdraperies of diagonally striped sunfast in coral red, ecru, jade green, and black are lined with ecru sateen and hang straight to the floor from beneath wooden cornices painted parchment yellow. Brass andirons are used at the fireplace. An antique fire screen, decorated with a floral painting, is hung in the space above the mantel. On the mantel shelf a French urn is flanked by a lovely pair of brass and crystal electric candelabra.

The davenport, comfortably placed at right angles to the fireplace, is upholstered in soft, jade green velvet, with two accessory cushions of coral red silk, shot with gold, and one, in triangular shape, of black satin, with black and gold tassels. A marble topped coffee table is conveniently set before it.

At the other side of the fireplace, to complete this friendly grouping, is a commodious arm chair, done in green and taupe wool damask. It is accompanied by a wrought iron reading lamp, with an adjustable bracket, fitted with a natural colored parchment shade, banded in jade green and decorated with circles of green, mauve, and old blue. A yellow, Chinese lacquered cabinet adds a note of interest.

Before a group of windows in the wall space opposite the fireplace a long carved walnut table is placed. It holds a pair of brass candlesticks, electrified, and fitted with shades of finely plaited cloth of gold over yellow silk, finished with black and gold braid. In the space between the lamp is a selection of current magazines. Near each end of the table an arm chair is placed, one in green velvet, the other in frieze. In one corner of the room, near a set of built-in book shelves, is a large wing chair, upholstered in ecru linen on which crewel embroidery has been done in many soft colors. At one side of it is an octagonal table, holding a green glass smoking set and a lamp with a crackled pink parchment shade. The floor is carpeted with plain taupe chenille.

French doors at one end of the living room open into a charming sun room. Walls and woodwork are corn yellow. Coarse, square meshed, yellow net makes the glass curtains. At the ends of each group of windows hang draperies of cretonne in a Chinese design, on an ox blood red ground. They are lined with ecru sateen and hang straight to the floor from black wrought iron poles. A black card table, with a matching set of chairs, is ever ready in extending a cordial invitation to a game of bridge. Two black arm chairs and a settee have boxed seat cushions of striped wool rep in peacock blue, old gold, ox blood red, and ecru with hairline of black.

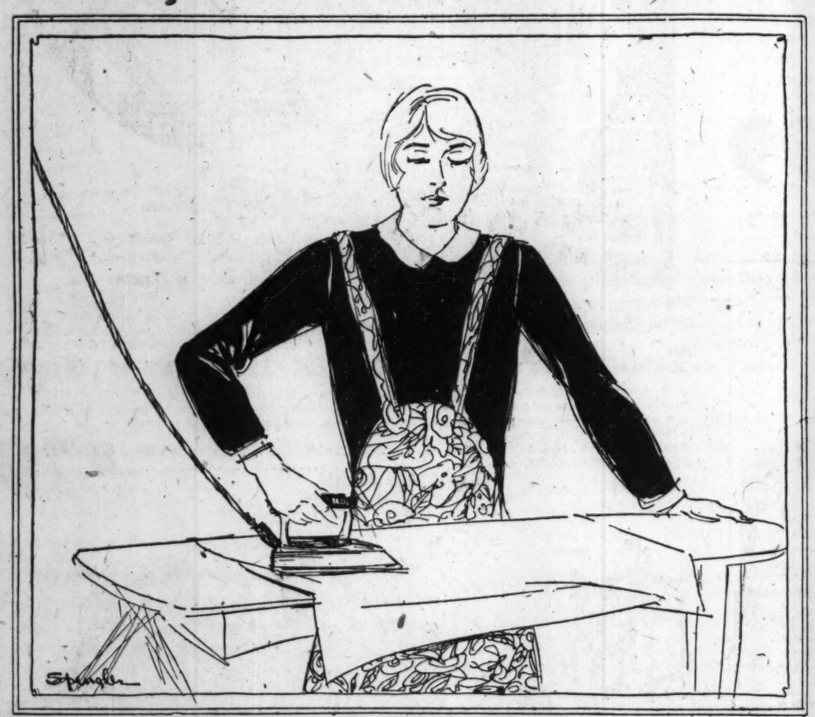
Wrought iron reading lamps with parchment shades are conveniently placed. On a table desk is a lamp made from a Chinese figure in crystal, with an embroidered gold colored silk shade. A pair of narrow hanging book shelves holds an interesting array of the latest books. Chinese pictures in narrow ox blood red frames decorate the walls. The floor is painted black.

Across the hall from the living room is the dining room. Wainscoting and woodwork are painted oyster green and the wall above is papered with a pale, silverish green grass cloth. Honey colored silk gauze glass curtains are sill length. Blocked linen draperies, lined with ecru sateen, are topped by wooden cornices painted to match the woodwork. The furniture is most unusual. Chairs are upholstered in maple brown leather and in the back of each is painted a flower medallion on a silver ground. Panels of leather, decorated to match, are fitted into the fronts of the drawers of buffet and serving stand and into the doors of a commodious cabinet. Pieces of green glass and silver grace the buffet and dining table. Mauve carpeting covers the floor.

Upstairs in the main bedroom the woodwork is ivory and the walls are done in an ivory paper with small jade green polka dots. Glass curtains are of ivory silk marquisette. Jade green satin draperies, lined with ivory, are drawn together on rods at the tops of the windows and are caught back high up with cuffs of the same material so that they make a sort of valance before falling to the floor in graceful folds. The furniture is maple. On the bed is a cover of jade green satin, trimmed with ruchings of coral pink. A night stand beside the bed holds a gold and ivory lamp with a plaited coral pink taffeta shade bound with gold ribbon and trimmed with little silk flowers. Shades on the side lights match this. In one corner of the room is a wing chair upholstered in coral pink satin damask. It is supplemented by an end table and a dully gilded reading lamp with a finely plaited striped taffeta shade. Deep green carpeting covers the floor.

Practical and Fancy Needlework

By CLOTILDE



What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework write to Clotilde. The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, if a personal reply is desired.

FINE POINTS ABOUT IRONING.

AN ironing board and iron are a necessary part of a sewing equipment. A sleeve board is also a convenience, and sometimes where the seam to be pressed belongs to a sash or tie string, for instance, an unvarnished broom handle or even smaller stick is best to use.

No matter what you are sewing on, if it isn't perfectly smooth it should be made so. No sewing can be well done with crumpled cloth.

To take out creases that are often in materials when bought, press on the length on the wrong side, never letting the iron stay long enough in one spot to leave a mark. If the material will stand dampening, a piece of cheese cloth can be wrung tightly out of lukewarm water and laid over the crease, with a piece of heavy cotton cloth over it. Run the iron over lightly, so as to steam the material, then remove the cheese cloth and press over the muslin and finally remove that, pressing the material perfectly dry and smooth.

Where seams are finished with binding ribbon, these bound edges should be well pressed with the tip of an iron before laying the seam over the round stick to press open. The seam, if pressed on a flat board, will show the outline of the edges on both sides. But if a round stick is used the iron will not touch the seam edges at all. Often when pressing dress seams open one finds small creases have been ironed in on the right side. These should be pressed out at once.

Where a curved seam is to be pressed, put it on the round stick and only press a short distance at a time; then shift the seam further along on the stick until the entire length has been pressed.

When necessary to press silk be sure that the iron is only warm and never press on the right side unless a piece of cloth is laid between the iron and silk. Never let the iron stay long in one place, either, but keep it moving either straight across or straight up and down the material.

Pressing tucks so they will look well is something that needs especial care. Stand an iron up on the back end, hold the tucks firmly between the hands, with the tucks running downward, and run over the iron. Holding them out tight will not only press the tucks well, but will press the material under and between them. The tucks will not have that flattened appearance so often seen, but take care that the iron is not hot enough to scorch. Pressing velvet or any material having a "pile" can be more easily done by two than by one person. The iron is held bottom side up by one person and the velvet is passed wrong side down over the iron by the other person. It is necessary to hold it quite tight so it will keep smooth, and in order not to have the marks of the fingers show, hold a small piece of velvet in each hand, with the pile touching the piece to be pressed. If the pile needs to be raised after pressing use a soft brush against it.

Strange Weddings

Have you ever seen a wedding so outlandish that it upset all your ideas of the traditional ceremony? Some marriages are foreign and quaint in their adherence to ancient customs; others are ultra modern in their haphazard speed and unconventionality. The Tribune would like to know the story of the strangest wedding you've ever seen. We will pay $1 for every letter published. Address: Strange Weddings, Chicago Tribune.

Exemption.

During the war when draft dodgers were as ingenious as spies and as thick a couple came to the city hall to be married. He was dressed well enough, was stockily built and red haired. But his eyes and mouth were hard, calculating, and selfish. One would instinctively avoid him in looking for help or sympathy. The bride? A crippled, deformed body and the most pitiful, beseeching, and servile expression ever a human being wore. Surely neither with the thrilled, the joyous, the shining face of the average bride or groom.

After the ceremony, with an abrupt "Well, come on," he started for the door. She hesitated in such a wistful, bewildered way that our hearts went out to her, and as one the entire personnel of the office rushed to her, wishing her joy and making quite a fuss over her, helping her to the car where he already sat. The joy on her face over our poor little demonstration brought tears to our eyes for many a day to come.

But the expression on his face, as he sat in the car after the ceremony, will stay just as clearly—that of one who was plainly pleased with himself for planning and carrying out a marriage with a sickly, crippled woman to obtain exemption. E. W. S.

Down South.

Once when I was a girl in the south, one of our Negro servants showed me an invitation to a wedding which she had just received. The invitation ended with a postscript which read: "P. S. You are expected to bring a present." I was much amused and told her to tell the bride that I would furnish all the flowers for the wedding if she would reserve a back seat in the church for me and a party of friends. This she was pleased to do.

The parson who united the couple was a field hand of my father's on week days.

"Does you take dis man fo' bettah er wusser, fo' richness er po'ness?" he questioned.

And when he had finished tying the knot, he said in a loud voice and with a great flourish, "Salute yo' bride."

As the dusky groom kissed the bride, there was a perfect storm of hilarity. Spectators yelled with laughter, some jumping on the benches, some throwing their hats to the ceiling. At this point we slipped away from the scene, and far down the hill we could still hear the merry chorus of "whoopees" and "haw, hawa."

MRS. W. G. F.

An Odd Choice.

The strangest wedding I have ever seen was one where two foreigners getting married had "Nearer, My God, to Thee" played as they were leaving home to go to church. C. E.

Bright Sayings of Husbands and Wives

The snappy comeback of the better half when cornered has often been a source of wonder to husbands and wives! The husband or the wife has come across with a bright saying that will never be forgotten by the other half of the matrimonial sketch. What was that bright saying, Mr.? Mrs.? Send it to us, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. Address Bright Sayings of Husbands and Wives, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

A Kindly Come-Back.

Sister was sputtering about some shortcoming of her hubby, which he was taking with chuckling good nature.

Mother said, playfully, "She's a regular Tartar, isn't she?" And he returned, quickly, "Yeh—cream of tartar." M. M. R.

Aha!

Stingy Papa (looking wistful and expectant as his birthday arrives)—By Jove! It's queer that I NEVER get a birthday present.

Big Hearted Mamma—Did you ever give any? B. C. K.

Starting Right In.

"I want things arranged in this house so I shall know just where everything is kept," so said friend husband.

"All right," sweetly answered his wife, "let us begin with your late hours. I would love to know where they are kept." N. R.

Varied Activities of Women

Five states now have women as secretaries of state.

There are 10 senators and about 140 assemblywomen in 35 states.

In each of the 63 counties of Colorado the clerk of the county is a woman.

More than half of the county superintendents of schools in Iowa are women.

Turkish women by the abolition of an old law now are permitted to marry Persians

Miss Bing Hong Lim, an oriental, has been admitted to practice before the bar in England.

Idaho has elected women as county treasurers in 61 per cent of the counties of the state.

Though she is only 27, Mrs. Alvin Sliger of Knoxville, Tenn., is a grandmother.

Women aviators in England have been placed on an equal footing with the men in regard to licenses.

When out walking at night Persian women are preceded by a servant carrying a primitive lantern.

Miss Rose Budine of Kansas City, Mo., recently made a 2,000 foot parachute leap from a plane. It was her first trip in the air.

A Simple Application That Dissolves Blackheads

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those ugly blackheads. Get a little Calonite powder from any drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and in two minutes every blackhead will be dissolved away entirely. A FRIEND IN NEED by Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friends in deed and the friends in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has made some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send articles to The Tribune but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

YOU CAN HELP, GIRLS AND BOYS.

THESE are nice days, aren't they, boys and girls—when the autumn air puts zip into games, and you come home to a comfortable warm house and a good supper after lots of fun? And Thanksgiving is coming, and Christmas, and there'll be lots of fun with sleds and skates.

But I wonder if you've thought about the boys and girls who don't have any fun when the weather is cold and winter is coming. We have good, warm clothing and nice houses to run into when we get cold. But there are hundreds of boys and girls in Chicago who don't. Lots of them are going to school with holes in their shoes and without overcoats.

Now is the time to help them—before it gets too cold and before they've taken sick for want of sufficient clothing. We can help a lot, and it won't be the least trouble. Then when we're enjoying ourselves this fall and winter, we'll be all the happier because we've made it a happier and easier time for other boys and girls.

Here's how we can do it. Many of us have shoes a little worn which would be fine once a good half sole has been put on. We have clothing of all kinds which we have outgrown. If we just think, we have all sorts of things we can give without missing them—and think how much happiness they'll give!

Almost anything will help now that winter is upon us. I have calls for all the clothing you can spare. If mother can add some bedding which can be made whole by patching, that will be splendid. And don't forget toys and games. Poor children don't have nearly the chance you do because all earnings must go for necessities. So think over what you have, girls and boys. Please let me know and we'll make many children happy.

To Enlarge a Library.

"I have quite a few good, bound books I would like to give to some shut-in or add to some small library. They are fiction of good selection.

"M. L. H."

Here's an offer to make some book lover quite happy. These volumes would be a valuable addition to any library.

Would-Be Sleuth.

"I am interested in detective work, but I have not many books on the subject. I will appreciate it if any person will send me books on this work and also any on the solution of ciphers. M. A. D."

Have you the literature which will make this potential sleuth more proficient? If you know all the tricks you might pass it on to him.

If You Enjoy Reading.

"I have several years of 'Saturday Evening Post,' 'Liberty' and 'Literary Digest' I will give to any one who wants them. G. S. M."

Here's a store of good reading to give you many hours of pleasure. If you'd like to take advantage of this offer write me at once.

Shoes to Give.

"I have four or five pairs of boys' shoes in good condition to give some poor mother. There are a pair of sandals, a pair of high shoes and two pairs of oxfords. The sizes are about from 3½ to 5½. F. E."

These will keep some little boy well shod during the school year. If you are in need of shoes let me know.

For a Dining Room.

"I have a dining room set—four chairs and a table—in good condition to give to some one in need of them."

"C. E. M."

Thank you, C. E. M., I know there are a number of needy families who would be most happy to have the furniture you offer.

Pets to Give.

"I have a pretty maltese cat and a kitten which I want to give away. They will make ideal pets for some lonesome person. Mrs. W. N."

If you'd like to have one of these cunning little animals, let us know. They will, indeed, make nice pets.

Some One Will Welcome This.

"I have a good hot blast heating stove I would like to give to some deserving person in need of one.

"H. T."

With a spendid heater like this, one would not have to fear the coming winter with its cold days. If you need such a stove let me know.

Offers a Gas Range.

"Please give my address to some needy family who wants a good gas range. The one I have to give is in good shape and is family size.

"Mrs. L. S."

This should solve the cooking problem for some one in need of such a stove. Would you like to have it.?

For Preserving.

"I have a lot of quart fruit jars to give away and also a large sled and a white dresser. Mrs C. B."

Here's an offer to interest thrifty housewives who are planning to do a little preserving. And some youngster is going to have a lot of fun with the sled this winter.

Needs a Brief Case.

"I am going to evening school and I need a brief case, but I cannot afford to buy one. Will you kindly help me get one, Miss Brown? I will be glad to pay the postage. W. J. C."

Can you lighten the burden of this young man?

Interested in Music.

"Will you please find out if any of your readers has a cornet or a melophone that is of no use to them. I am interested in music and would appreciate it if I could get either one of these instrements through your column. J. F. G."

If you have either of these instruments and are not using them, why not encourage this lad's interest in music?

Strawberry Plants.

"I have a nice batch of everbearing strawberries I would like to dispose of. As this is the best time of year for transplanting I wish you would find some worthy person who is interested in strawberries and who would like to have them.

"Mrs. R. J. S."

If you are interested you should take advantage of this unusual offer immediately.

$5 Apiece for Bright Sayings

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

"I can come over if you asks me," said a little neighbor girl through the hedge.

"Well, I should like very much to have you," I said cordially.

After she was seated comfortably in a porch chair she said concernedly: "You might phone my mudder and say you has company, and it's me."

M. C. R.

Bobby was playing train with four chairs in a row for cars, when Uncle Tom came in and sat down on one of them.

"Don't sit there, Uncle Tom," said Bobby, "can't you see that's my train?"

"Well," said Uncle Tom, "I'll be your passenger and ride on your train."

"All right," said Bobby, none too pleasantly. "Where do you want to go?"

"Let me see," said Uncle Tom. "I guess I'll go to Chicago."

"That's fine," said Bobby, "this is Chicago." Mrs. B. H.

William had gone home with his auntie to spend the night. During the night he fell out of bed. His aunt picked him up and put him back in bed thinking he wasn't hurt.

He kept crying, however, so his aunt asked, "William, what is the matter? Are you hurt?"

The reply was, "No, I'se not hurt. I'se just cryin' 'cause I'se a-losing so much sleep." Mrs. E. J.

ISN'T IT ODD by William Atherton Du Puy

ISN'T it odd that there should be so much talk about snake bites when, as a matter of fact, the poisonous ones do not bite at all, but stab their victims as a soldier might thrust with a bayonet!

Practically all the poisonous snakes in America belong to the same family of pit vipers. They are snakes with deep pits in the sides of their heads. They are the cousins of the rattlesnakes, the copperheads, and the water moccasins. They therefore use the same sort of weapons and fight in the same way.

Each of them has two daggers, one at the point of each upper jaw, which he keeps carefully sheathed. When not in use these daggers, or fangs, fold back on hinges into grooves in the roof of the snake's mouth. There they lie out of the way unless some sort of fight is forced upon their owner.

These fangs may be an inch or more long, depending on the size of the snake. They are as sharp as needles. They can be inserted as easily. But they are more than needles. They have tiny channels running through them down which the poison in the bulbs back of them can be squirted.

The rattlesnake never starts a fight, but when man or beast crowds it there is likely to be trouble. This snake is so clumsy that it finds safety in making other animals afraid of it. It coils when pressed because it can strike better from that position.

Would You Call These Amazing Recoveries Miracles?

How thousands of sick, ailing people—some of whom had already despaired of life—found new health, new energy, new vitality, new happiness—all in Nature's simple, easy way.

No matter how sick and ailing you may be—no matter how weak and helpless you may feel—no matter how many treatments and remedies you may have tried without success—here is an entirely new, easy, pleasant way to regain your health—to be strong and robust once more. Thousands who have tried it are reporting astonishing results.

Read some of these letters—they represent only a very small percentage of the enormous mass that pours in daily. Yet each tells the same story—how BioFood, the greatest achievement of the new science of Bio-chemistry, has brought vibrant health, abounding energy, and glorious vitality—to people all over the country.

And the best part of it all is that these remarkable results were attained through Nature's simple, easy way. No drugs—no medicines—no dieting—no fasting—no fatiguing exercises.

The Secret

It is a well-known fact that the body is made up of twenty different basic elements—each of which must be present in the proper proportion, if perfect health is to be maintained. However, if there is the slightest deficiency in even one of these vital elements—if the proper amount is not present—illness in some organ of the body immediately manifests itself. For instance, if calcium is lacking, the bones and teeth become soft; if iron is lacking the blood is pale, and gradually all the body cells break down. Nature simply must have every element in its proper amount.

Recognizing this important fact, doctors tried for years to discover some method that would restore to the body those vital elements that might be missing. But when they succeeded in correcting one disorder, another disorder would often assert itself. They simply could not strike the right treatment that would establish normal health in the entire body.

A few years ago biologists made the remarkable discovery which startled the medical world that health can be restored by feeding the ailing body with properly balanced chemical ingredients. But because this method was only handled through physicians, necessitating the compounding of small quantities, it was available only to the rich.

It remained for the famous biologist, Eugen Kühne, to perfect methods whereby this amazing body building agent could be compounded in quantity so that it can be sold at a price within the reach of all.

What BioFood Is

BioFood is not a tonic—it is not a medicine. It is a body-builder—a marvelous substance that enables nature to repair diseased tissue—to build new, healthy cells, and correct faulty metabolism. It is really surprising what a large number of disorders yield to the wonderful effects of BioFood—nervousness — indigestion — constipation—gastritis—even rheumatism, and many other serious ailments.

Unlike most medicines that at best affect only a certain organ, BioFood has a corrective influence in every part of the body—wherever the bloodstream carries its nurture. To men who have begun to feel the effect of advancing years, BioFood gives a new impulse that is usually felt almost immediately. To rundown, ailing women, BioFood quickly brings a tingling state of health and vitality.

No Limit to Marvelous Effect Yet Found

So amazing have been the reports from those who have used BioFood, that Science has not yet found a limit to its marvelous effects. People take it for its marvelous aid to digestion—and find it slowly but surely alleviating trouble with soft, unsound teeth! Or they start with BioFood because of kidney trouble—and remarkable as it may seem, eyestrain, headaches and pains in general actually disappear! Simply because BioFood has nourished and strengthened all the tissues in the body!

And perhaps most amazing of all, people find that once they have commenced taking BioFood, they are able to eat anything—everything—foods that had formerly disagreed with them—and actually enjoy them, without the slightest after-distress. But BioFood is not a substitute for the regular food you take at meals. It is a highly concentrated life-giving nourishment that establishes perfect digestion—perfect assimilation—and perfect elimination. It provides the body with the very elements needed for growth and repair.

Control Your Weight With BioFood

If you are thin, pale, anemic, underweight, BioFood will accomplish wonders in rounding out your body and bringing you up to normal. And, amazing as it may seem, innumerable cases have been reported to us where people suffering from over-weight have been restored to normal, because their fat was due to a false chemistry, amounting almost to a disease. BioFood establishes a natural functioning of every organ in your body by correcting the body chemistry. The body, by Nature's own laws, returns to its normal weight.

BioFood Excellent for Everybody

No matter how old or how young you are, you owe it to yourself to give BioFood a trial—and let it bring you glorious health and energy, just as it has to thousands of others. There is no BioFood "age"—it benefits old and young alike. Mr. Stritesky actually felt rejuvenated inside of one month, after taking BioFood. And little Theresa Gans, a weakling since birth, became a robust, healthy little girl in only 90 days!

Eugen Kühne.

Famous biologist who gave to the world BioFood, the perfected food product of Bio-chemstry, which is revolutionizing the Science of Health.

FREE —The New A B C of Health —Send for It TODAY

Here is an astounding revelation—a wonderfully simple, easy-to-understand booklet prepared by Eugen Kühne himself—which reveals some of the most interesting, most important facts of life.

It explains how the new science of Bio-chemstry—the chemistry of life itself—is able to accomplish these seemingly miraculous recoveries. It shows you how to banish most of the diseases you may be afflicted with—by natural methods—without the use of harmful drugs, dope, or special diets of any kind.

It is simply crowded with facts and information that you'll consider priceless—for it actually opens the way for you to vigorous health, strength, energy and youth. You simply can't afford to be without it—and it's YOURS—FREE OF CHARGE!

Simply mail the coupon below—"The New A B C of Health" will come by return mail—and you will be happy for the rest of your life that you took this fortunate step.

Chicago's Largest Retail Furniture Dealers

An Institution Devoted to the Sale and Distribution of Furniture of Better Quality at Fairer Prices

Within the memory of those who are still in their thirties, the General Furniture Co. has developed a chain of stores that gives it unquestionable claim to the title of Chicago's largest retail furniture dealers. This tremendous growth has not been an accident, but is largely, if not entirely, due to public confidence—the dominant desire of the General has been to sell a little better article at a little less money—to render an unselfish service, preferring to sacrifice profits rather than patrons—never dabbling in questionable mechandise, believing that the sale of exchanged furniture is the rightful business of the second-hand dealer. These principles, religiously followed, have made the General Furniture Co. the most trusted in its field—you know the goods you get at the General are new and you know that they cannot be bought for less money elsewhere.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Vegetables May Be Delicious or Unpalatable, According to the Method Used in Cooking Them.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

IF AS many people had written charmingly on how to cook vegetables as have written delightfully of the growing of them, art and skill in the former business would be a far greater thing than it is today.

Compare dainty and lacy mashed potato with some tepid, soggy, gray, watery instead of snowy product, a far too common product, and you can but weep that such good material has gone into making anything so bad. Attention is not even given to having this poor product hot for the eater, and even that would make it a little more acceptable. A true and right sort of mashed potato should be as soft as cream, and as dainty as lace. If riced it will be whiter. If mashed potato is too dry it is choky, while if it is just right it is as smooth as velvet to the tongue and throat.

The Test of a Well Cooked Vegetable.

A well cooked vegetable is palatable without any seasoning whatsoever, except salt, and in not a few cases that can be spared. This is not claiming that vegetables should be served and eaten thus, but they should be cooked in such a way that they "need no bush." Cauliflower perfectly cooked is so dainty that many of us would prefer to eat it without a single addition, although we know it can stand the elegance of even a Hollandaise sauce.

Vegetables Essential to Diet.

There are no end of reasons why vegetables are essential in the diet, and the fact of the value of vitamins, especially what is in the leaf vegetables, now leads all the rest. Second, they extend the more concentrated foods. A diet of too concentrated foods warps the human frame all out of shape. Vegetables are peculiarly essential because of their flavors, if they are spared by the cook, but their bulk is even more vital perhaps, while the delight yielded by their flavor speeds up digestive forces. And we should also value their moisture contribution. The average human being is not sufficiently mindful of the liquid needs of his body. These needs, disregarded, insidiously result in various deformities and diseases. Raw vegetables contribute a distilled mineral water and cooked ones should be savory with moisture.

A First Point for Cooks.

A first point to teach her who would cook vegetables worthily is that they contain a great deal of water, some up to ninety per cent, and practically all are more than half water. Fruit juices may be diluted till insipid, and the water in vegetables which have not as vigorous or pronounced flavors in general as that in fruits may be diluted so as to all but spoil the cooked product.

Many or all the vegetables contain some sugar, and sugar and water much diluted is vapid stuff, while when condensed it makes delicious sirups. In some vegetable cookery the sugar and water are both preserved and condensed. This is especially true when a vegetable is baked, whence the popularity of the baked white potato, while the sugar in a twice baked sweet potato is actually caramelized, and so much of the water evaporated that what remains is like a sirup.

Sweet corn in the milk needs so little cooking that but little time is given for the sugar to be leached out, while the "roasting ear" owes its supremacy to the fact that when it has been fresh picked the sugar and milk are at their best—they soon deteriorate off the stalk—and they are not in the least diluted with water.

It has been a favorite notion that some vegetables are strong—onions, for instance. Raw they are, but that juice with its sugar can be so modified while being retained as to be as sweet as pie. Boiling it in several waters is not the way to do this. And a part of this notion has been that cabbage, spinach, and related greens should be cooked in a great amount of water, to do which inevitably dissolves out of them a good part of their minerals and sugar, and leaves them far less palatable than they should be.

On Blanching Vegetables.

It is a French method to scald every vegetable that goes into the pot, but in the case of fragile products like lettuce, new cabbage and other greens, just pouring boiling water on them will be sufficient, with the cold rinse. Such treatment is essentially the final step in cleaning them, a thing discovered by those who have canned vegetables successfully, while those who have failed, and they have been many, perhaps did so because their product was not surgically clean. In some cases with spinach in particular—live steam has been used for the blanching, and this followed by a cold rinse did the work. The thing that does the best work is the rapid change from boiling hot to cold, and ice water is the best thing for a cold rinse when the vegetables are to be canned. This change is so great that it really shortens the cooking time, and that is always an advantage in the case of vegetables, which retain their true character best when cooked in the briefest time possible. Of course, the process reduces the bulk greatly, in the case of greens, and that is advantageous whether the product is to be canned or used immediately. And for obvious reasons much less water can then be used in the cooking.

Combinations of Vegetables.

Combinations of vegetables seem to extend the variety of vegetables at our service, and with a little practice one soon can work out some favorites such as the following hash or stuffing.

Vegetable Stuffing or Hash.

The following vegetable mince may be used for stuffing a cabbage—to be cooked afterward usually—green peppers, and eggplant, or it may be cooked and used as a border for buttered boiled rice, or as just hash: One medium sized onion, one stalk of celery, one-half green pepper, one-half cup of ground carrot. The quantities may be multiplied to suit. Cut two slices of bacon fine and cook them in the frying pan, then put in the vegetables and cook them gently for half an hour without browning them, with the pan well covered. Then add one cooked and chopped beet. People who think they do not like vegetables, no matter how much they need them, will eat this.

Cooked Lettuce.

At this season lettuce greens may be one of our least expensive greens, especially if we have some going to waste in the garden, or going to seed. Tip and leaf and stem of the latter may be cooked to excellence, remembering that it is the leafy vegetables that give us the most valuable vitamin. Prettier garnishes for cooked foods are made with cooked lettuce than with the raw, and are more edible. With meat gravies, chopped boiled eggs, and other vegetables, cooked lettuce may be made to have considerable body as a dish. With a rich brown gravy it is Spanish and if we want French designations for our cooked lettuce we may find at least one hundred and fifty of them. Chiffonade is one.

Chiffonade Lettuce I.

Chiffonade means literally made into rags, but the lettuce with this name is cut like slaw when it is used raw for a salad. In cooking lettuce it is an advantage to cut it so. Inspect and wash the lettuce thoroughly, gather up a handful of it and cut across, using a board. Put it in a pan, pour boiling water over it, pour this off, and drain the lettuce, then put with it one tablespoon of butter for what would amount to one large head of leaf lettuce and under a cover cook until the lettuce is tender. Season it with a bit of salt and use it plain as a vegetable, or as a garnish, or cold with a salad dressing, or hot with any sauce you like and can make expertly.

Chiffonade Lettuce II.

We might label the above recipe grass green cooked lettuce, and this one olive green cooked lettuce. The difference is that the above lettuce is blanched, while if, after we have cut it up slaw fashion, we cook the lettuce without blanching it we get the olive color, and also we get the full benefit of the bitter principle in it, and this is probably good for us. Add the butter, in amount as above, to the cut up lettuce, cover the pan quickly so the steam formed will prevent it from wilting, and cook till tender over a gentle fire, after a quick start.

Cooking Spinach.

All greens should be thoroughly washed, but it is best to pick them over dry and do any necessary paring. In the case of spinach the leaves may be cut off, if desirable, and the hearts cooked separately. They are interesting so, and seem like a different vegetable. If you value the best thing that spinach can do for you, do not use soda in cooking it. It may be blanched in live steam, or for two or three minutes in boiling water, with the thorough cold rinse. Then cook gently in no more water than clings to it after being lifted out of the cold rinse. There is likely to be a certain disagreeable quality to spinach which is not blanched. It takes but a few minutes of gentle cooking to get spinach leaves soft enough to cut with a spoon.

Spinach is one of the vegetables which, like potato, should be prepared at the last minute, and not as much as a tablespoon of free cooking water should be in the serving dish. One way to prevent this esthetic disaster is to sieve the cooked spinach, and dry it for a brief time over a fierce fire, after adding a little butter, with constant stirring. After that it may be seasoned further and finished in a little cream or hot meat stock, in either of which it may be near perfection. Other cooked vegetables besides spinach may lack quality because of the presence of some of the cooking water which in many cases can be entirely cooked out at the minute the vegetable is done. A thin white sauce added to spinach sieved and dried out makes excellent spinach soups, yet some spinach water in the sauce is worth while, which seems a paradox.

Creamed Spinach.

If correctly cooked, spinach need not have a strong flavor, but when it does this may be softened by cream or a sauce. If one cup of medium white sauce is added to four cups of chopped spinach, while both are hot, and they are served hot, this supreme member of the iron bearing vegetables is both daintier and softer to the taste. The white sauce should be thoroughly cooked and the two well blended.

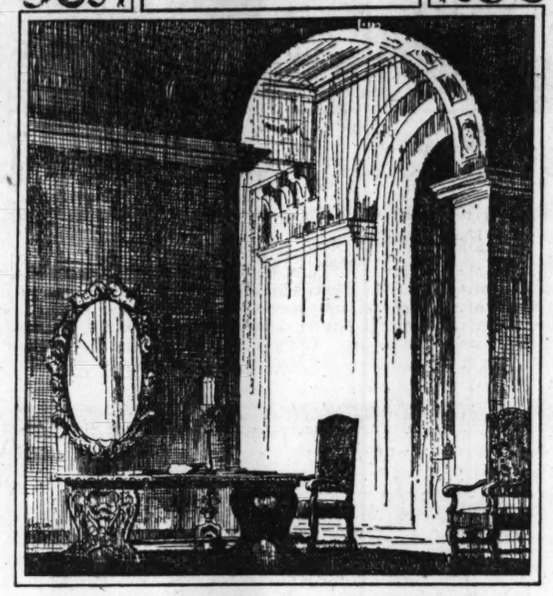
CARLTON HOTEL



An hotel that combines
American facilities with the best traditions of European service

You who in Europe have sighed for American conveniences, and in America have missed the intimate charm of the de luxe hotel abroad, will rejoice in the Carlton Hotel in Washington. For here is the Continental standard of service in a setting that is as luxurious and comfortable as modern art and science can make it. Here the visiting nobility find their language spoken by their countrymen, their dishes prepared by an internationally famous chef, their rank respected by proper address from those who know whether to say "My lord," or "Signor le duce," or "Monsieur le comte."

To preserve the intimacy of the hotel, the number of rooms has been limited to 257, only a few of which are available singly, the majority being arranged en suite for families, diplomatic missions, touring nobility and royalty. It is suggested that reservations be made well in advance. Guests for whom accommodations are reserved are taken directly to their rooms, where a clerk registers them individually.

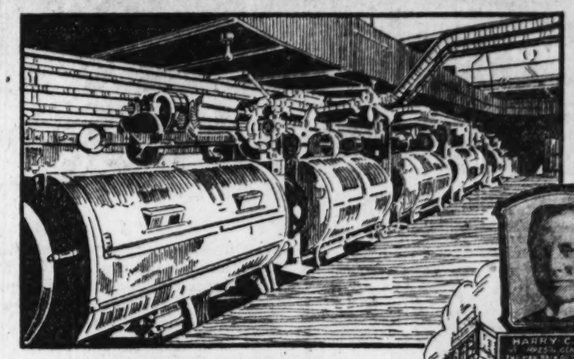
Morrison Hotel



A PART OF THE LAUNDRY, MORRISON HOTEL, CHICAGO

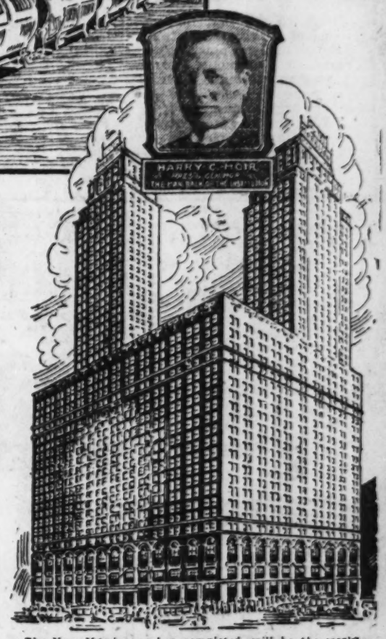
THE immense mechanical equipment of the Morrison Hotel is an assurance of speed and completeness in providing for the needs of the guests.

A Laundry Staff of 75 Workers

Only those who have been behind the scenes realize the size and diversity of the organization that assures their convenience. The laundry, for example, is equipped to handle over 50,000 pieces of flat work daily, and 75 workers are employed in this department alone.

A Power Plant Enough for 4 Cities

The power that drives the high speed elevators, lights the brilliant Terrace Garden, ventilates and heats the guest rooms, etc., could take care of four medium sized cities at one time.



The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel, 46 stories high, with 3,400 rooms

1,944 Rooms, $2.50 Up

Each of the 1,944 rooms is outside, with bath, running ice-water, bed-head reading lamp, and Servidor. Every floor has its own housekeeper; all guests have garage privileges. The location, at Chicago's very center, so enhances subrental-values that they pay all the ground rent, enabling the hotel to charge $2.50 to $5 for rooms that would cost $5 to $8 in any other leading hotel.

The Terrace Garden's table d'hote Sunday dinner is served from 5 to 9 p. m., with dancing and full entertainment program; only $1.50

Bring Out the Hidden Beauty

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, tanned or wrinkled complexion is one fair to look upon? Mercolized Wax will gradually and gently peel off the devitalized surface skin, revealing a new, fresh, white, beautiful skin underneath. The new complexion is a perfectly natural one, therefore in no way to be compared with a make-up. The wax leaves no trace but that of increased loveliness.

A New Skin—Your Own!—at small expense and effort. Simply apply Mercolized Wax at bedtime as you apply cold cream; wash it off in the morning. Fine, almost invisible skin particles are flecked off with the wax. No harm possible. No detention indoors. The lively young, healthy underskin is brought gradually to view—you have the exquisite complexion of robust girlhood—and every one will tell you.

You Look Years Younger—Assist Nature if she needs your help. Obtain an ounce of Mercolized Wax from your druggist or department store, use as directed—and you will bless the day that you made the acquaintance of this wonder working product.

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

Daytime Frocks and Coats Are Showing Embroidery And Thus Attaining an Elegance, While Keeping To the Lines of Smart Simplicity.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—Embroideries are back in fashion for daytime clothes. One of the striking news items of fall fashions is this. I don't mean just measly little lines of embroidery on pockets and around neck lines, but real embroideries that cover a considerable part of the area of the gown or coat, or both. Now that Paris is putting two and three different colors and fabrics in one single frock or ensemble, embroidery does the necessary job of tying them together so that women will not look like animated patchwork quilts out of grandmother's bedroom.

Also, there is a general return to greater elegance, and the only way to get it without losing our precious simplicity is to add embroidery of the right kind—the right kind being, on daytime clothes, subdued in pattern and in color, and lending a discreet incrustation of opulence to plain fabrics. There is still another, altruistic, reason for the return of embroideries in Paris, and that is to give work to the deft fingers of the little midinettes who, during the past embroideryless seasons, have been largely jobless. M. Daniel Vincent, the commissioner of commerce and labor for France, and genial Charles Kurzman got busy early in the summer on this business of enhancing the fall fashions with those masterly French embroideries which have been conspicuously absent for some time, and at the same time giving work to the workless. They enlisted the couturiers and the result is the new vogue for this type of costume, not only for evening, but also for every hour of the day.

Nobody is sorry. Every woman loves the richness of the work, which isn't heavy enough to give any one dyspepsia. And, as I said before, embroidery is putting over the new patchwork idea in costume when nothing else could.

Our models today are chosen from the new collections to show you how really entrancing these things can be when they have the leaven of a little embroidery to make them palatable. And every woman who ever owned a piece bag, and reveled in it, will appreciate the possibilities of this new idea from Paris.

Our first offering puts over the arrangement for afternoon, and incidentally for informal evening. Paris is strong for the informal evening gown with sleeves, which also serves nicely in the afternoon. The French are so practical. This model shows the most beautiful color combination. The sleeves and the yoke of the waist are of a peach colored crêpe de chine, while the body is a rose-henna velvet. This is one of the smartest of Paris tonal unions, and a becoming one to all but pale blondes. The peach crêpe forms a small round yoke in front and a deep V yoke in back, suggesting a decolletage without being one. The velvet and henna part of the waist is bloused at the rather high waist line, and is covered with peach and light henna butterflies embroidered in a combination of silk and wool.

The new long sleeved dinner dress serves for afternoon also. Of velvet and crepe de chine, this frock at the extreme left is embroidered in silk and wool.

Next, curved bands of black velvet divide honors with silver embroidered black georgette on this evening gown, with its separate waist and hip lines.

Three colors—taupe, gray, and black—and original embroidery are new notes on the winter coat shown second from the right.

A stunning evening coat in three fabrics—gold lame, silver embroidered white velvet, and black velvet—is trimmed with ermine and sketched at the right.

The skirt is divided fifty-fifty between peach crêpe de chine and rose-henna velvet, this half and half division being cleverly arranged in diagonals so that it doesn't look too much cut up. It is a straight full skirt shirred onto the waist line, and the velvet half is embroidered in the same manner as the waist.

One of the prettiest details of this frock is the papilio, or butterfly, drapery of peach crêpe de chine at the back, which just suggests the drapery of the eighties. There is a lot of verve and elegance to this model, and it has, at the same time, a kind of debutante simplicity that marks it for the young lady of not too much experience, at least in looks.

Our second sketch shows the way in which Paris prefers to cut up a dress and to embroider it for the formal dinner or theater, or both. The piecework on this frock is a good deal more complicated, with black velvet cutting all of those curves on the waist and skirt. The rest of the gown is made of black georgette, a good substantial quality, and completely covered with a fine embroidery in silver thread. Placed as it is over a straight slip of silver lamé, this frock produces an effect of moonlight on dark water, which is most poetic. Paris is just reveling in this dark and mysterious combination for the winter evening gown, and there isn't a couturier who has omitted putting several black and silver evening dresses and as many ebon and silver evening coats into his collection. Looks sad and mysterious, and at the same time daring and a trifle vampish.

The Parisienne loves black and silver, and gets any of the above mentioned effects with a frock in these colors by simply putting on a heavy or light makeup to set the mind of the onlooker in the direction she wants. But the sketch. Notice the waist line as distinct from the hip line, the first marked by a straight black velvet belt and silver buckle and the second by a curved band of velvet. Fall styles often emphasize these two points separately, instead of running them together in a hip-waist line. Also the flare of the skirt from the top of the knees to the hem line only is a fall news item. Of course, the waist blouses a little above the belt, and instead of a flower on the shoulder there is a flowerlike bow of black velvet. This creation is from Brandt.

Our next model shows the cutup embroidered coat for winter. It is a creation of Jaquet. This coat is unusual in that, although it is done in three colors, it is all made of one kind of material. That material is Meyer's beautiful "Velours Leda" that looks like velvet and wears like wool. It is in black and two tones of gray. That is gray and mole. The waist part of the coat is made of black and so is the sleeve, mostly. There is a deep shawl collar of taupe, or mole, as it is now called, and the sleeves have a deep band of mole and a narrow band of gray to finish them off at the bottom. The embroidery, which is done in mole colored silk on the black part of the sleeves and the lower half of the waist, is in black on the mole cuff. It consists of fat lines and triangles. There is a double belt, to emphasize the importance of the waist line, for most coats this season are definitely belted as a part of their chic. The upper belt is gray and the lower taupe, embroidered in black triangles. The skirt of the coat is two-thirds black velours Leda and one-third taupe Leda. The front, as you notice, is taupe and the plaited sides and plain back are of black.

Our last model shows the radical piecing of the new evening wrap. It is a favorite model of Jean Magnin and is called "Don Juan." It is made of lamé velvet and fur. The yoke, with its lightning points, and the collar of dull, pale gold lamé, the center or body portion of the cape is white velvet with a heavy incrustation of silver, a new kind of embroidery that is invisible as to stitches, and looks like a coating of frost. The lower part is black velvet, and the uneven hem line is bordered with ermine, which also forms the inside of the high collar. This striking wrap has the charm of being charming when worn over almost any kind and color of evening frock.

STARTING FOR EUROPE - Tips on Passports, Luggage, Clothes, Etc. - by Antoinette Donnelly

PARIS.—[Special correspondence.]—When I was a very young thing, there lived in our town a woman who had been abroad twice. She was one of the civic prides, pointed out to visiting friends and relatives who were expected to be quite as awed by the phenomenon as we were. Today, in the same small town, they undoubtedly are pointing out for distinction the individual who to date has somehow managed to save her perfectly human face from mutilation at the hands of that arch enemy of woman—the passport photographer. And even she, in all likelihood, is surreptitiously planning a sweet revenge for the day when she can retaliate with a tale about the Parisian copyist who built for her a Chanel model for less than one-tenth the francs the great house would have charged her.

Half the world, they say, is planning its trip abroad and the other half telling them how they should do it. To add to the complications of the planners I raise my voice. It's one of the things you can't prevent a tripped-abroad from doing; especially if it is not her nineteenth or twentieth trip.

My first journey across seas is not so far distant but that the pre-departure problems that assailed me are still fairly fresh in my mind, and being an average woman they're probably the same queries that arise with those who still have the initial trip ahead.

Going and Returning.

First thing, of course, will be to get a definite idea of the date you want to sail, and what is equally important a date on which to return, and find out about the return sailings along with the outbound, making your reservations for the former before you sail. In winter travel the difficulty of getting return passage is not so great; but in the rush season, June and July going and August and September returning to America, accommodations are most difficult to secure unless spoken for some months in advance.

If you know what line you want to travel on, go or write to the steamship office, asking for information about the ships they have sailing on the date you have in mind, and get from them also a clear idea about the size of the stateroom and size of trunk it will accommodate. There is a tremendous difference in staterooms and though the outside are the better they are not always the most expensive. Outside of the busy season if you do not like your stateroom, or stateroom companion, the ship's purser may be able to do something better for you, but during the rush season there is small hope of being changed to more congenial quarters.

If you have no particular steamship line in mind for your trip, the problem of securing accommodations either to Europe or from it is best solved for you by dealing through a reliable agency. These agencies represent all the lines, offering you a wide choice in the matter of boats. They charge no more than you would pay the steamship company direct. They collect their commissions from the steamship companies, not from you. You pay a deposit on your reservation, the balance to be taken up a couple of weeks before sailing when you are notified that it is due.

Applying for a Passport.

You get your passport application blank by writing either to the Bureau of Passports, State department, Washington, D. C., or by applying to the clerk of any United States district court or state court at your county seat. Resident aliens go to the nearest consul of the country of which they are citizens to get all necessary information. A re-entry permit to the United States will be necessary for the alien and application for this should be made to the Commissioner General of Immigration at Washington, D. C.

Being a woman, what will concern you more than passports and reservations is the luggage to carry and the clothes to wear.

My first trip over was one of those hop-skip-and-jump ones, with a stay of less than a week at any one point. A trunk would have been a nuisance under the circumstances, but I doubt if it could have been more so than the two handbags and hat box which tagged me everywhere. Had I been clever enough to have gone with a suitcase and a handbag or dressing case, worn one good hat over and replaced it at comparatively small cost, as can be done over here, when it needed replacing, that would have been the ideal luggage for the short-and-many stops.

The majority of women I know start packing with every intention of restraining themselves, but dash out madly the last moment to purchase an extra satchel to take care of the things they decide at the last minute they had better take along for safety's sake. These are the people who wish later they had put all into a trunk and a handbag.

Luggage Problem Solved.

Coming direct to Paris this time I took a trunk and suitcase and found it a most agreeable disposition of the luggage problem. One thing surely is true—your clothes are more presentable out of a trunk than out of a suitcase. The salt sea air has a way of crumpling even the most excellently packed wardrobe. And, by the way, a packing tip that was given me by one whose frocks had a bandbox freshness about them is not to use too many hangers in a wardrobe trunk, to drape several garments over the same hanger, and cover the hangers with a thick roll of tissue paper to prevent creasing; also, to arrange garments so that the bulk does not all come in one place.

You buy your ticket to Paris on the boat and your trunk is checked right through to the Paris station, so that you do not have to worry about it until you get to your hotel, where you turn your keys and baggage check over to the hotel porter who attends for you the business of having it examined by the customs and delivered to your room in convenient time.

All the ship people have special trains chartered and waiting on the pier wherever you land in Europe. At Cherbourg this train waits until all hand baggage is examined by the customs officers.

Your ship steward takes care of your hand luggage and gets it off the boat safely for you. You get a dock porter to lead it and you to the customs house. Only your hand luggage is looked into by the customs at Cherbourg, the trunks being examined in Paris. If you are excitable there is so much confusion around the Cherbourg custom house you may be terrified that the boat train will go on without you because your dock porter hasn't turned up with your bags, but he turns up eventually and the train waits an interminable length of time after all the baggage has been examined.

After your bags have proven themselves innocent of concealing cigars and cigarettes your porter carries them over to the boat train, deposits them in the rack over your seat in the train and heaven only knows what he is saying about the generous tip you've handed him, but you are given to understand by his grimaces that you could have done a lot handsomer by him.

Clothes for the Ship.

Now for what's in the trunks or the bags for steamship wear.

Unless you are a woman with sufficient strength of character to be able to resist the lure of shop windows and the most skilled saleswomen on the face of the earth, which I regret to announce I'm not, you'd better not stock up on clothes before leaving home. Your conscience will not trouble you half so much when you do succumb to the art of the vendeuse who assures you that "this little model" is all that stands between you and the well known chic you came over to have a look at.

If you come first class I would advise you to have a smart little evening gown or two. On some of the smaller boats, particularly of the cabin class, dressing for dinner is not one of the evening's occupations, as it is on the big liners. All the men in first class wear dinner jackets in the evening, and while anything like a parade of clothes by women is not in good taste, you do feel a bit out of place if not in demi-toilette, at least. You go to the salon for coffee, and to dance, or to watch the dancers and there is such a party air about the place that you want something you feel well in. Formal or pretentious things such as you'd wear to a night club, elaborate evening wraps, jeweled and brocaded frocks, fans and the like are in bad form. The clothes rule for shipboard wear is that anything that gives you that dressed-up and expectant look is not suitable, but you can look as charming as you want to in less formal things for dinner wear.

That Sports Uniform.

For daytime wear on shipboard your dress is a simple problem. The best and most appropriately dressed are the women who don clothes of the sports genre and wear them from the morning hour they appear on deck for their twenty-turns-around until they disappear to dress for dinner. It is almost a standardized costume, this tailored suit, or sports dress, or two piece of wool, jersey, balbriggan or what have you; the tight fitting small felt hat and good walking shoes, and warm coat, which you will need in midsummer. You can have a number of changes of this type of daytime outfit, if you wish, but with one smart lined and "efficient" looking outfit you can make your trip over at peace with yourself in the knowledge that you are suitably dressed.

If one is in doubt about the custom of dressing for dinner on the particular boat on which one is a passenger, it is a good idea to test out the feeling the first night in an informal dress such as you'd wear to an afternoon tea. The first night out is not so dressy as on later evenings, and on Sunday night the tendency is to observe the Sabbath in a more subdued note in dinner clothes. The same Sunday rule is observed throughout the European capitals.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Patterns by Clotilde

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune.

2498—Woman's and misses' dress. Sizes 14 and 16 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 36 inch material with ⅝ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

2788—Woman's and misses' dress. Sizes 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards of 40 inch material with ⅞ yard of 18 inch contrasting, and 1½ yards of 3¾ inch wide ribbon for the bow.

2820—Girl's dress. Sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 40 inch material, with ¾ yard of 1½ inch wide ribbon for the tie.

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

THE long waisted body, the sleeves that extend to the neck line, the convertible collar and the circular skirt all combine to make pattern No. 2498 one that will be in demand. It is a design that is smart in every detail and will not present any difficulties in cutting or making, if you are accustomed to doing much of your own sewing.

Flat crêpe in a navy blue, jade green or any other becoming color, or flannel in one of the delicate or more somber shades will be good. Another material that is fine for cold weather is the silk and wool Roshanara crêpe.

The long sleeves, extending to the neck line as they do, lend the appearance of a yoke across the shoulders. To this shallow yoke on the front, the fronts of the waist are slightly gathered. The front of the waist is open the entire length, and plaits or hems are applied that extend to the neck, where they join th collar, rolling slightly to form revers. Or if preferred, the dress can be closed to the top of the collar.

If you are making the dress to wear at home, you may prefer having short sleeves, and these are prettily finished with turned back cuffs. The dress can be buttoned, and this is the better way, or snaps may be used to fasten it, and buttons may be set on as trimming.

The skirt is cut in two places, and is circular. The seams come on the side, and after these are finished and the skirt is joined to the waist, allow it to hang for several days, as it will surely stretch on the sides. It will look well to use a contrasting color, if not material, for the collar, front plaits, cuffs, and belt, and the best finish for the bottom of the skirt will be to use the trimming material for a bias binding.

The inserted pocket on the lower left hand part of the waist gives a jaunty finish.

Pattern No. 2820 is a charming design for a girl's dress; and is an exact copy of a grown woman's frock. It can be made equally well from thin dressy materials, or those suitable for school or street wear. The dress is cut in two pieces—front and back; and the inserted shirred piece in the center front adds to its smartness and provides desirable fullness at the hemline. The long shoulders form short sleeves, if that is your choice; and if long ones are to be used, there is a pattern for a one piece section, with the fullness at the wrists gathered into narrow bands. The neck line is round, and a narrow bias binding will be the best finish. The slash in the front of the waist below the neck line through which ribbon is put gives just the right finish.

Pattern No. 2788 is designed especially with the idea of helping large figures to look slender. The lines are long, the fullness at the sides of the skirt being set in in such a manner as not to detract from that slender look. The square neck line and the deep "V" formed by the collar are both flattering features. A sheer black crêpe made up in combination with Chantilly lace would be stunning. Or an orchid flat crêpe, a striped tub silk, a figured georgette crêpe, or one of the beautiful linens would be suitable materials—depending on the occasions on which it is intended to be worn. The dress measures at the bottom, with the plaits drawn out, about two yards for size 36.

Tidy, Curly Hair in Summer

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I use a hair dress which every girl and woman would delight to know, especially in summer. It keeps my hair wavy, fluffy, glossy, tidy. I never go to a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. I get all that curl and glow by using this dressing twice a week in my room.

Great experts made this dressing especially for me. It is not sticky or greasy. It quickly does to perfection all my hair needs to be beautiful, wavy and tidy.

Now all toilet counters supply the same dressing under the name Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle, so you risk nothing by a test. Go try it. You will find it just what you want. It is one of the best helps I ever found to keep women looking nice.

PLEASANT LAXATIVE For Sick, Bilious Children

Mother! Give Constipated Child "California Fig Syrup"

If your little one is out-of-sorts, won't play, seems sick, languid, not natural—suspect the bowels. A teaspoonful of delicious "California Fig Syrup" given anytime sweetens the stomach and soon moves the sour fermentations, gases, poisons and indigestible matter right out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative. It never cramps or overacts.

Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

The Cheekiest Person I Ever Met

Send us a short, to the point, reminiscence of the cheekiest person you ever met, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. All letters must be addressed to the Cheekiest Person Editor, The Tribune, Chicago.

Penurious.

When I first entered college I took a room in a private home and paid a month's rent in advance.

At the end of the first week I moved into a fraternity house, forfeiting my other three weeks' rent.

At the end of the month I received a bill for forty-five cents for an electric light bulb I had broken while at my first room. That is my idea of cheek. M. H.

She's Saving.

The cheekiest person I know is a woman who lives in the same flat as I do and comes up on wash day after I'm through and asks if I have any starch left. Then she doesn't have to buy any, and saves water and the trouble of making it. That's nerve! F. P.

Her Gift.

I have a cousin who is most disagreeable. I always try to be nice to her and go to a great deal of trouble in selecting her Christmas gift. However, she is never pleased.

Last year a few weeks before Christmas she asked me if I wouldn't give her money for a Christmas gift, as she never liked my presents. On Christmas day I gave her $3.

She took the three bills and returned one, saying, "This is my present to you."

Can you imagine it! D. C.

That Finished It.

A woman and her daughter moved into the apartment above us recently. The other evening the daughter gave a party for her feminine friends. My husband and I work downtown all day, and in this hot weather we reach home in an exhausted state. Their girlish giggles and high voices brought us no rest, I can assure you. About one o'clock the noise abated somewhat, so we started preparations for retiring.

Soon a knock on our door startled us. On answering it, the form of our neighbor obtruded on our vision. She merely wanted to know if my husband wouldn't see these eight damsels home, as she didn't think it safe for them to walk to their respective homes alone (they averaged about thirty years of age apiece). Our families have not spoken since. F. F.

Nerve Colossal.

A man who bought all of his medicines at another drug store would stop in our store and ask us to give him a glass of mineral water and a spoon to take his medicine with. L. A.

Corns lift off!

Corns between Toes— Hard Corns, Soft Corns

Doesn't hurt one bit! So easy, so simple. Drop a little "Freezone" on that sore, touchy corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off—root and all—without pain or soreness. Yes, Magic! A few cents buys a tiny bottle at any drug store, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes.

BRIGHT SAYINGS OF HUSBANDS AND WIVES

RESULTS OF JEALOUSY

We're all acquainted with jealousy, the monster that smashes love affairs, wrecks homes, causes business quarrels, and generally plays havoc with us mortals. We'd like to know your most notable experience with a jealous person or persons. If you have encountered a situation where jealousy led to a tragic or ridiculous climax, tell us about it. The Tribune will pay $1 for every story published. Address Jealous Editor, Chicago Tribune.

Selfish.

I think the most jealous person was the sister of a suitor of mine. He seemed to think a good deal of me and I know I liked him, too. We lived in a small town and at every party that was given, and to which she went she would seat herself between her brother and me. All the crowd soon noticed it. She had to have every other dance with him.

I asked her why she did it. She said because she loved her brother and did not think any girl was good enough for him.

Needless to say, she still has him.
M. W.

A Broken Romance.

A chapter in the life of a woman I know is worth repeating for the lesson it may teach.

The man she was to marry was spending the evening with her in her home.

Her brother's sweetheart, who lived a few blocks away, had called to see her, the brother being out of town at the time.

All too swiftly the hours passed, and it was quite late when the visitor decided she must leave. The hostess' fiancé suggested she go with him to see the friend home.

She thought it unnecessary, however, declaring it was right on his way.

Upon reaching the girl's home their attention was attracted by some one slipping along the driveway at the side of home. Upon investigation they discovered his fiancé. Her jealousy had prompted her to follow them.

He escorted her to her home, told her he could not marry a jealous woman, and that was the end of her romance.

In a few years he married another.
MRS. M. H. O'B.

Cheating Failed.

This story was told me by a friend. She said, "I had a classmate in school who was evidently jealous over the fact that I was a better student than she. When the final exam time came around she was determined to have a better mark than I had, and so she copied the test answers from a book and during the exams held the paper in her lap and deliberately cheated. When we were given our marks, to her great surprise and chagrin, she did not have 100 per cent, but zero! She had copied the wrong answers in her haste and her jealousy only set her back instead of ahead." H. B.

Dog in the Manger.

Jealousy in sweetheart days is usually laughed at, but is responsible for many mismated marriages, and consequent divorces.

Teaching in the country, I met a big, handsome man of great physical charm, but ignorant, prejudiced, and with a record of moral worthlessness. Although freatly attracted, my reason, undimmed by jealousy, would have caused his rejection. But while he courted me he often paid attention to another. My intense jealosy of her made it unbearable to give him up to her, and so one mad day we married.

Of course, our marriage was a failure—we were entirely incompatible in mind and morals. Now he is without a wife, and I am a business woman who must forego woman's greatest joys and responsibilities. Don't marry a man because you cannot bear to yield him to another. MRS. C. E. L.

Women in the Professions - - - - - - - - - By Georgia Bayne

PRACTICALLY none of the professions today are barred to women. And while they do not receive in all of them the same remuneration as men, there are nevertheless a number of excellent professions today which the college girl and the non-college girl can enter, with reasonable hope of good returns for her time, labor and ability.

The situation in the profession is as strikingly different today as it is in the business world, as far as the opportunities for women are concerned. Colleges and universities have, with few exceptions, admitted women to their different professional schools. Even in law, which is perhaps one of the newest fields for women to enter, there are now practicing women lawyers in every large city. They are still the exception rather than the rule, however, as many women with legal training are preferring to identify themselves with social, political and business organizations needing the trained legal mind.

Medicine and Surgery.

While it is true that medical history of women in this country started unfortunately, the first woman to be executed in the colony of Massachusetts bay was Margaret Jones, a woman physician and accused of witchcraft, women have come a long way since that day.

Medicine is certainly one of the most attractive of the professions open to college women. Medical women, the country over, are earning more money than most women in the other professions, and their remuneration is the same as men's.

The educational requirements are two years in an accredited college or university and four years of medical training. After a woman has received her medical degree and hospital training, she can then choose between a private practice, or a position in some institution.

A salaried position is surer, especially to the young doctor starting out with no financial backing. The woman who chooses a private practice may specialize or do general work. In either case her returns will be small at first, but the future possibilities are great, and both in surgery and medicine women are achieving distinction in all parts of the country.

Women doctors and surgeons can expect to earn proportionate salaries with men, if they are successful. With the young woman doctor as well as the young man, the first years are often hard. If she is not financially independent, a salaried position for the first few years often makes the start easier. Then she can establish a practice of her own.

Women are earning in medicine today, from $1,500 to $15,000, or even more.

Newspaper Work.

Newspaper work attracts both college and noncollege women. There are no hard and fast educational requirements to be met in entering the journalistic field.

Some women go into newspaper work from schools of journalism and others plunge into it on leaving high school or college. Still others, with a stenographic training, use this as an entering wedge. They secure stenographic positions in newspaper offices, and if they have a talent for writing and a desire to enter the newspaper field, they are often given a chance to show what they can do when an opportunity opens.

Women are employed today on newspapers in many different capacities, as reporters, society editors, and club editors. They conduct departments of interest to women, including love, beauty, etiquette. They are movie reviewers, dramatic reviewers. There are also women copy readers and special feature writers.

There is abundant chance of advancement in the newspaper field today for the girl who has a natural talent for the work. By talent is meant a facility in writing, a liking for it, plenty of enthusiasm, judgment, quickness of observation as well as aggressiveness and sticktoitiveness.

Newspaper work in the past has not offered the financial returns found in some of the profesisons, but at the present time its salaries, on the whole, average well for the successful with the money made in other lines.

Like most work it is tremendously enjoyable to those who are especially adapted to it, temperamentally as well as through natural ability.

Law.

The woman graduate of a law school has other lines of work open to her than that of a practicing lawyer. Many graduates prefer to identify themselves with various social, political and industrial organizations, all of which need the services of the legally trained person. Many business houses also have lawyers retained by them, to handle their business which may be of a legal nature.

These regular positions are usually preferred by a woman lawyer today to practising in the courts. Though there are instances of practicing women attorneys, there are extremely few of them. Law is still a pioneer field for women, and while her chances of success are greater than ever before in history, and will probably increase each year, at the present time forging ahead to distinction, or even to a lucrative salary of $4,000 or $5,000 a year, 'is not easy to achieve.

Length of preliminary training differs in different schools. Some law schools require a college education and others do not.

Women lawyers, practicing and connected with different organizations are earning from $1,500 a year up.

Advertising.

Advertising as a profession is an interesting and remunerative line of work for a woman to take up.

There are opportunities for women in the advertising departments of big stores, in advertising agencies, in the management of agencies and some women even own their own agencies.

Distinctly creative work, it can be broadly divided into classes, that which is known as national advertising and that of retail advertising.

As in newspaper work there are no fixed educational requirements. Whether a girl has had one year at college or four, she must possess considerable originality, an ability to express herself vividly and forcibly, and be able also to turn out a tremendous amount of work in a short time, if she wishes to achieve any distinction in the profession.

Stenography is often an excellent wedge by which to get an opportunity to become a copy reader. A girl identifies herself with an advertising agency or with the advertising staff of a retail or wholesale merchandising firm, and often when there is an opening for a copy reader she will be given a chance to show what she can do.

A girl with stenographic training who was determined to go into advertising might again take an advertising course. College women after graduating often take a few months intensive training in business advertising, and it goes without saying that at college they have taken all the courses which might possibly help them.

Salaries range from $1,200 up. It is a well paid profession, with plenty of chance at the top.

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't Show!

There's a way to keep your hair just-so, without any of that objectionable, "plastered-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-dampened towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and its beautiful lustre!

Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff. Dissolves every bit of it. Puts scalp in the pink of condition. Invigorates hair and hair-roots. Why use anything else?

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Doris Blake's Answers TO LOVE PROBLEMS

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped addressed envelope.

Indifferent.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl. The last time I phoned her she refused to go out with me. I tried to reason with her, but to no avail.

"LONELY."

She doesn't return your love, and feels it wouldn't be right to continue seeing you. It accounts for her indifference to you, don't you think?

Unreasonable Attitude.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend wanted to make a date with me for one evening. I told him I was going away for the evening with some girls in a club. The night I was to go he called up and asked me if I was going, and I said 'Yes.' He got mad and hung up. Should I be the one to call?

"BLONDY."

You did nothing to give offense, dear. He is most unreasonable in his attitude, and it's his place to do the calling.

She Doesn't Invite Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a girl who invites fellows to her home, but never has asked me. Is it that she does not love me?

"CHARLES."

It's either that she likes the other chaps better, or that you haven't given her reason to feel you'd appreciate an invitation.

Bashful Boy.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a fellow who claims he is bashful. Whenever we go out he speaks of his bashfulness. He has never said that he loved me. Do you think I ought to tell him of my love first?

LOVESICK."

No, Lovesick, you might scare him to death were you to make such a declaration. Remember, he's a bashful boy, so you must break it to him gently.

Shows Lack of Interest.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been friends with a girl who now seems not to care as much as at first. What should I do?

BILLY."

Find another one, Billy. When they show a lack of interest it means your days are numbered. Don't wait for the big crash.

She Can't Do Everything.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been keeping company with a girl for a year. She has never asked for an engagement ring. Is it my business to ask her?

WONDER."

It's up to you, Wonder. We occasionally hear that girls do the proposing, but it isn't the rule—rather the exception.

Parents Are Unwise.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl, 21. My parents do not let me go with fellows. A young man has invited me to go to a party. How can I ask my parents to allow me to go?

"L. L. LONESOME."

Now is the time to make friends, if you're ever going to, dear. This your parents must realize. You're old enough to have beaux, and if you're to have your own little home in the future you must be permitted to entertain and go out with boys.

BEAUTY ANSWERS by Antoinette Donnelly

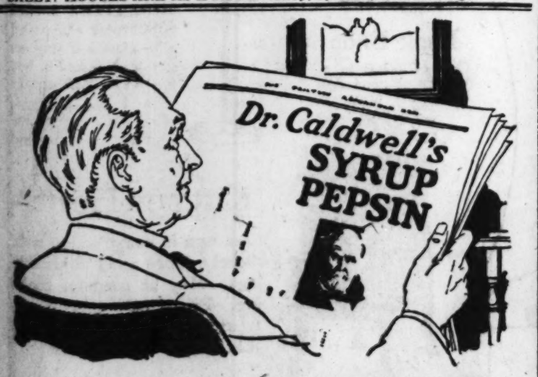
What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

J. F. S.: IT IS HIGHLY IMPORtant to keep the scalp clean and free from dandruff. To do this you should brush the hair vigorously for five minutes every morning and night, and shampoo frequently. Brush until there is a feeling of warmth in the scalp and all dandruff is removed. A stiff brush with bristles well separated is preferable. Wash the brush frequently in water which contains a little ammonia. For shampooing instructions, send along a stamped addressed envelope.

SALLY: HOUSES ARE AS A RULE overheated in winter. The temperature should be kept between 65 and 68 degrees Fahrenheit. Every house should be given a thorough airing once a day. Let in all the sunlight possible, as sun destroys germs.

W. C. C.: CURVED SCISSORS MAY be used for cutting the finger nails, as the nails are more conveniently cut in a curved direction. The nail file is more generally used. But curved scissors should not be used for the toenails as these should be cut straight across. If more people realized this, many foot discomforts would be avoided.

MARIE: CABBAGE IS A VALUAble food, as it is rich in lime and potash. If you cannot eat it cooked, try eating it raw in salads or cold slaw. Mostly all green vegetables supply the necessary minerals for the body. Eat cauliflower, carrots, parsnips, lettuce, celery, spinach, and beet tops.



A Laxative to Rely On

Take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for Constipation. Mild and Gentle. Never Loses its Good Effect

YOU know how much more difficult it is each year as you get older to avoid the ill effects of chronic constipation. The stomach and bowel muscles relax as age advances, and as you are naturally less active, in time they work only by stimulation. You try dieting and exercise,—then take medicine.

All medicines, however, are not suited to elderly people any more than to children, so you will be glad to know of a particular medicine that acts as near to nature as has yet been found. It is a prescription written thirty odd years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell and used most successfully in his practice. It is known today as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you can buy it under that name at any drug store. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months, and all can use it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly, gently and without griping. It so trains the stomach and bowel muscles that in time medicine of all kinds can be dispensed with. When people learn of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and see how wonderfully it acts they realize how unnecessary it is to use drastic salt waters, pills and powders, for these do but temporary good and are weakening to most constitutions. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, on the contrary, is so natural and safe (it contains no narcotic or strong drugs) that generations of mothers have given it to their babies.

Take a spoonful the next time you are constipated, or have any ailment due to constipation such as biliousness, headache, bad breath or indigestion. If Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should ever fail to do as claimed, you can have your money refunded. More people use it than any other laxative in the world.

Write "Syrup Pepsin," 521 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for a free sample bottle.

Thank You, Friends

The inspiring public response to our invitation to attend the opening of our Fifty-first Anniversary Sale was wonderful. It taxed our facilities—but we believe that we met the wishes of every one of the thousands who filled the store.

And this is only the beginning. Now that the sale is launched so splendidly, we confidently look forward to establishing a new merchandising record. Every evidence indicates that it will surpass our Golden Jubilee of last year.

There is nothing but good news here. Our months of preparation have resulted in a real exposition of everything to eat, everything to wear and everything to use in your home.

The prices are what we promised. You can buy without skimping. Whether your purchase amounts to a dollar or hundreds of dollars, you can practically put the profit into your pocket.

So, again we thank everybody—the old customers, the present customers and the new customers. We want you and your families and friends to make yourselves at home. It is our Fifty-first Anniversary; we are proud of it, and we want you to enjoy it and benefit from it.

Chicago's Greatest Sale Drugs and Toilet Goods

The event that thousands of Chicagoans will welcome to secure their toilet needs. Prices so low that the values are apparent at first glance. Come early—the crowds will be great.

PREVIOUSLY, when we have held this famous drug and toilet goods event, we served over thirty-seven thousand patrons during the sale—but this year we have made arrangements to serve many additional thousands, with added floor space and greater values.

80 Extra Clerks to Take Your Orders on the Main Floor

THE Fair enjoys the reputation of selling more toilet preparations, both American and imported, than any other one store. As this is our greatest sale of the year, plan to attend early and avail yourself of these extraordinary savings.

We reserve the right to limit quantities. No Mail Orders will be filled.

51st Anniversary Sale!

FEATURING NATIONAL KARPEN WEEK

A splendid coincidence—our 51st Anniversary sale and National Karpen Week coming the same time. It has made possible the offering of quality Karpen furniture—the make that carries a guarantee tag assuring honesty in hidden construction, covering and protection against moth-havoc—at prices that are remarkably low. Karpen Week is held to introduce the new Fall Karpen styles, therefore you are assured the newest at these special prices.

In addition to these marvelous groupings of Karpen furniture we made a great purchase of suites of other well-known makes. The combination of the two brings about one of the largest purchases in the History of The Fair furniture department. It offers to the value-seeking homelovers VALUES on VALUES—enough to satisfy all. But of course, as is usual in such a tremendous sale where there are real values, we cannot guarantee how long the quantities will last.

Winter Season of Concert Begins

By Edward Moore.

IN the course of picking up the threads after an absence from the music desk, there are indications that the concert season will go on as usual, which means good and lively.

The said season will be more or less formally opened this afternoon by the North Star Singing club at Orchestra hall and Marjorie Montello at the Studebaker. The club, conducted by Joel Mossberg, is giving a homecoming concert after having spent the summer in giving thirty-seven similar programs in Sweden. Marie Sidenius Zendt, a first class soprano artist, will be the soloist.

MARIE SIDENIUS ZENDT
Soloist with the North Star Singing club today
[(C.) De Gueldre Photo.]

Miss Montello, another soprano, is making her first professional appearance hereabouts. Her management relays the information that she was born in St. Louis, stepped from high school into the movies, and from the movies into the operatic field; that her photograph was used on calendars and Flag day school book illustrations, and that she is said to possess a phenomenal voice. Also there is a sheet containing pleasant adjectives extracted from the press of Knoxville, Tenn.; Wilmington, Del.; Galveston, Tex.; Pine Bluff, Ark.; Greenville, S. C., and a dozen more. Among other numbers this afternoon she will sing a song not named in the publicity material, but with words by Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and music by Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer.

Next among the items is that music will be served on the opening bill of the New Palace this week both by Roger Wolfe Kahn and his jazz orchestra and by Adelia Careno, who classifies as a coloratura soprano and whose name is called a nom de plume, though perhaps nom de two-a-day would be a more accurate designation.

Mary Garden Writes About "Judith."

Mary Garden would seem to be getting ready to hand another of the well known Garden thrills to the opera public. She has been writing to the Civic Opera company about Arthur Honegger's new "Judith," in which she is to appear this season.

"The work is difficult beyond expression," writes Miss Garden from Monte Carlo. "The chorus is a terrible test and will require beginning work at once to be ready in time.

"Even the minor rôles make great demands upon the artist. For instance, the rôle of the servant, Mr. Honegger says, has to be sung by one young, pretty, and with brains, and, though the part is small, it is very important and appallingly difficult.

"After casting this rôle please give it to another, too, for it would be very wise to have every rôle in 'Judith' prepared by two singers.

"Even the tenor voice that is heard back stage behind the scenes is most important and has to be exceptionally good.

"The chorus presents a terrible question, for what they have to do is a thousand times more than I have to do, and that is saying something, for never have I studied anything so interesting, but so fearful in its demands upon an artist.

"'Judith' is simply terrible to contemplate, but it is worth all and many times over the work involved. Truly, had there been three acts instead of one never would I have undertaken it. It's a gorgeous, real sensual sensation, and will be a great thing for Chicago to hand to America, even if they stand up and call us all crazy the first night. I am doing it in Paris at the Opéra-Comique next season.

"Nothing in the rôle will be so interesting as the critics the first night.

"After music lovers have had opportunity to analyze Honegger's work the verdict will occasion no misgivings, but so the fall of the curtain there will be much marveling until the factor of time brings home the great artistic worth of the work."

Thanks for the compliment, possibly intended to be somewhat modified, in the next to the last paragraph.

Feverish Activities Back Stage.

Other word from the opera company tells of the feverish activity prevailing back stage and in the company's new studio. Here, says the bulletin, you will find carpenters, designers, painters, machinists, electricians, armorers, period furniture workers, seamstresses, wigmakers, and a dozen allied groups of artisans, all toiling far into the night in the great shops turning out the scenery, costumes, properties, and effects that constitute the frame and background for the romantic pictures amid which opera is rendered.

"La Cena delle Beffe," among the new works, is proving the greatest problem because of the importance of atmosphere in its presentation. The hands of time are being turned back in the group of opera shops to restore the surroundings and atmosphere of Florence in the days of Lorenzo the Magnificent.

"Judith," too, is making heavy demands upon the technical departments, especially the armorers, who are reviving rough shields, breastplates, swords, and spears of ancient vintage to stock a museum of antiquity. In the rush of activity the head of that department, Teddy Henneman, nearly lost his arm through being caught in the machinery Tuesday, escaping with the loss of a finger.

"Tiefland" also calls for much that properly may be referred to as manufacturing, and the same is true of the two other new works and the three important revivals, especially Mozart's "Don Giovanni," which is the subject of new and experimental treatment in the ultra modern.

Nor is this feverish activity of production confined exclusively to the novelties and revivals. The works in the standard répertoire are being given painstaking attention, as, for instance, the new first act set in which "Tosca" will blossom forth when it is next sung.

While on matters touching on and appertaining to the opera company, it might as well be recorded that Rosa Raisa found time to become her own motorist in Italy this summer, having learned to drive her own car at her own sweet will. And Giacomo Rimini, her husband, thinks that motoring is more of a problem in Italy than in the United States. "Every one wants to drive as fast as I do," he says, "and that makes it dangerous."

"Deep River" Proves Interesting.

Franke Harling, who wrote the music for the one act opera, "A Light from St. Agnes," made audible at the Auditorium last winter, has composed a score for Laurence Stallings' play, "Deep River," and its exhibition in Philadelphia has apparently been taken up as a forerunner of its prosperity. The piece is a melodrama interspersed with musical numbers, dealing with the feud of two men over the affections of a quadroon girl in New Orleans a century ago, and contains midway in its progress an elaborate voodoo scene which would seem to be fairly operatic.

Some of the critics say that Mr. Harling has placed considerable dependence upon Puccini and Giordano, but they admit that it is opulently alluring and ear filling. According to the accounts, he has made free use of the music of spirituals and jazz for his material, which, for that matter, he did in "A Light from St. Agnes." A good deal is said about his mellow touch and the softening touch of the true musician. In fact, the Philadelphia Inquirer grows lyrically enthusiastic:

"'Deep River' marks a mile post in American made opera. With this arresting experiment in combining music and melodrama to aid emotional eloquence, the ever intrepid Arthur Hopkins has done much to untie the can from American in opera offerings. His first operatic enterprise is progress on a pioneer highway that might well be envied and emulated by the average impresario. It is refreshing to find so active and original an intellect among the mass of those who stick to convention and claptrap, and Mr. Hopkins has again earned enthusiasm for his artistic integrity, for the collaboration of composer and playwright in this instance was directly due to him, and the impression made by last night's metropolis of composer and playwright in this instance was directly due to him, and the impression made by last night's metro-

THE BELLS
TIN GODS VARIETY
THE LAST FRONTIER
BLARNEY

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!

And this, said she, smiling brightly, is the lead a kind friend sent in to start off this morning's column. Thanks go to Mrs. Laura Puhalski of Lombard, Ill., and again the "Help Wanted" sign is hung out for a November lead to precede the back talk on the six best films of October. I think it's lovely the way you folks come across. Well—here's Mrs. Puhalski:

RENEE ADOREE
played in "Tin Gods" and "Blarney."

The six vurri best—
This isn't a jest,
I'd like to please you all—
But some like a flapper
And gentlemen dapper,
And some for a "sob sister" fall;
While others like rummies,
Go "nuts" over dummies,
And some for a "wester-ern" call;
Some just worship a vamp,
Some admire a real scamp,
And some like the gun or a maul;
Some want hair raisers,
Some are dog praisers,
And some just love a good bawl.

But if I throw kisses
Or emit any hisses
Some think I've got all kinds of gall;
I'm not a bit bilious
Or e'en supercilious,
And errors I'll gladly recall;
But I like what I like,
And I nail with a spike
Good directing, good acting, 'n all;
I will boast, if you please
[Don't you call this a wheeze?]
My number of fans is not small.
What? Yes, I—I remember,
"Six best of September"—
Here's hopin' you liked 'em all.

"THE BELLS," featuring Lionel Barrymore, gave many of us much genuine pleasure. It was from the play, presented on the stage a number of times with Sir Henry Irving, on the last occasion, appearing as the burgomaster, who, needing gold desperately, got it and went through hell on earth because of the way he got it.

The character study of a guilty man, lashed by an avenging conscience, furnished just the sort of material a Barrymore understands perfectly how to work with and this star's impersonation was a brilliant and memorable one.

An effective film with an able cast.

"TIN GODS" was one good movie that we, who saw it, aren't going to forget in a hurry. The film was adapted from the novel by William Anthony McGuire and Mr. Meighan was seen as Roger Drake, a bridge builder.

To me, he gave a character study that was rarely beautiful. (I quote.) "Not at any moment does he strike a false note. A real man, acting under real conditions, as such a man would act. There's never any time in a Thomas Meighan picture when you haven't the feeling that you could walk right up to this star and speak to him without having him do some kind of a hocus pocus to get out of character and then back in again. He's always the man—never the mummer."

The picture was splendidly directed and Renee Adoree, who had the leading feminine rôle, made you her slave for life by the way she played it. Everybody in the cast was good. I'm positive most of you liked "Tin Gods."

"VARIETY"—ah THERE was a picture!

It was produced in Germany by the Ufa company and released over here through Paramount. The star was Emil Jannings, and, of course, after that fact has been stated there really is no necessity for saying any more. You know him, Emil Jannings, if you saw him in "Quo Vadis" and "The Last Laugh." But I'm going to say some more.

In "Variety" he was immense. IS immense, for the picture's still going the rounds, and if you haven't seen it, you'd better. To quote again: "Variety" is . . . "an all around bell ringer. Marvelous acting. Brilliant direction. Gripping story. Settings to remember always. Never to be forgotten detail. Thrilling mob scenes and poignant personal 'bits' that get you where you live. And such camera work as I think you have never seen before. . . . You know what Emil Jannings can do, don't you? He does it ALL in this great, big, wonderful picture."

At the time I saw the film, a pair of reels had been scissored by the censors. I'm told they're back in again—so you won't be missing a thing when you see the picture.

"DON JUAN" is the film that's being honored by the Vitaphone presentation—or that is honoring Vitaphone presentation. Have it either way you choose, for either way is correct.

John Barrymore, as, of course, you are aware, is the picturesque hero of this piece, which is after the work by Byron. He is in exceedingly good form, a combination of perfect lover, perfect acrobat, and perfect devil.

He has a double rôle—is a woman hating father and son, and "is magnificent throughout, gorgeous in all his moods and tenses, and with a palpable tongue in cheek for obvious absurdities demanded by the script. A fascinating character, whether ardent, evil, impudent, or roiling the whites of his eyes in utter satiety."

The film was magnificently produced, had a fine supporting cast, and, with the exception of being rather too long, may be recommended as first class entertainment.

* *

"THE LAST FRONTIER" was a fine "western" of those days just after the civil war when men, women, and their children boarded covered wagons and dared the perils of the plains in the hope of recouping lost fortunes.

It was beautifully acted and had some panoramic scenes that, alone, were worth the price of admission.

* *

"BLARNEY" was . . . "What 'The Iron Horse' was to the story of early railroads and 'The Covered Wagon' to that of the westbound pioneers, 'Blarney' is to the bare knuckle days of prize fighting."

It boasted a delightful love story, some great fights, and a lot of honest to goodness suspense. Ralph Graves and Renee Adoree had the principal rôles and paid them honor.

So much for September's six best. And now just another word about that October lead—in case some of you haven't been keeping up with the column and don't know what it's all about.

I humbly request that charitably disposed persons send me leads—first paragraphs—for the review of the six best films of the month, which is printed on the first Sunday of each month. You will receive no pay save my everlasting gratitude and the possible joy of seeing your name in print.

The request is made because—I need you. O, I need you!

Also, a snappy ending for said column will be received with thanksgiving.

Today Mr. William M. Delancey, to my joy, comes forward to finish the column for me: He says: "A verse—to finish the column? Why certainly:

"However attractive the play, this is certain:
The moment must come for the last—final—curtain;
The Six Best are chosen, September's passed away—
But—they're making new movies for us every day."

See you tomorrow!

Remarks on Reds

By H. L. Mencken.

THE bawling against the bolsheviki that still goes on in certain 100 per cent American journals, and especially in certain of the journals of Wall street, is hard to understand. As a matter of fact, it must be plain to even a congressman or a cockroach that the Red peril is now as dead in this vast, sweating, and Christian republic as the peril of Swedenborgianism or phrenology. And it must be equally plain that bolshevism killed it.

There was a ticklish time, just after the war, when a certain amount of Red blather undoubtedly circulated in the United States, and was listened to gravely by the more romantic variety of half-wits. One heard, in those days, that one big union was being formed, and that presently the hewers of wood and drawers of water would leap out of the ditch and seize the government. The parlor Socialists, throwing off the uniforms that they had hastily put on in 1917, rejoiced and were exceedingly glad, and there was a buzz of anticipation among the surviving liberals. Wall street was frankly alarmed, and yelled for help to its valets and crumb gobblers in the American Federation of Labor.

But then came the famine in Russia and the collapse of bolshevism—and after that even the parlor Socialists began to cough sadly behind their hands. Did the correspondents of the capitalistic press misrepresent and defame the bolsheviki? Then not enough to conceal the bitter truth. That truth was presently brilliantly plain. Bolshevism was a colossal and ignominious failure. The poor of Russia were poorer than they ever had been before. The whole country was plunged into disorder, filth, misery, and woe. And it kept on slambanging downhill, madly and dizzily, until the boss bolsheviki themselves, convinced against their will, abandoned half of the chief tenets of bolshevism and set up what is now, to all intents and purposes, a capitalistic state—a fourth rate one, perhaps, as Nicaragua and Portugal are fourth rate ones, but still a capitalistic state. It is run today by bolsheviki playing at banking. It will be run tomorrow by bankers playing at bolshevism. And day after tomorrow it will be run by bankers in propria persona.

As I say, this lesson has not been lost upon the plain people of our incomparable federal union. They are, in the main, excessively stupid, but they are not so stupid that they cannot tell a hawk from a handsaw. If they ever had any belief in the millennium of the Reds, they have been cured of that belief. They no longer bellow for the American Legion when a stray Red arises on his soap box and begins to denounce Henry Ford; they simply laugh at him.

All the chief radical organizations are in a state of demoralization and impotency. The I. W. W., once so formidable in the far west, is now reduced to small news items on the inside pages; its old gaudy doings are so far abandoned that it can scarcely muster a quorum in any reputable jail. The Farmer-Labor party, if it survives at all, survives only on the bleak steppes along the Canadian border, where a man must be indignant or freeze to death. The committee of forty-eight, poisoned by a too gluttonous gulping of issues, is no more. The miscellaneous followers of the late Dr. La Follette become more regular every day.

Even the Socialists seem to be down and out. They are divided into half a dozen warring factions, and spend most of their time denouncing one another for treason. It is impossible to make out what they are after, or how they propose to get it. If, seeking light, one starts to read a Socialist paper, one is sure to be warned by some alarmed comrade, soon or late, that it is run by scabs and is in the pay of Judge Elbert H. Gary, the Santa Claus of old Sam Gompers. Nine-tenths of the well heeled parlor Socialists took to the sewers during the war, and have never emerged since. The movement is thus short of money, and hence running under low steam. Ten years ago it was in the drawing room, and as respectable as birth control, near east relief, or the Junior league. Now it has gone back to the rear rooms of fourth rate saloons.

What amazes me is that a folly so palpably feeble should get so much discussion and inspire so much terror. In some of the great organs of right thinking, daily and weekly, it is talked of as if it were in full blast among us and menacing every one. There is always the hint that it has unnumbered dupes under cover, and that they are preparing, with the aid of Russian gold, to rise up some night, massacre the army and navy, heave poor Cal into the Potomac, and put a bolshevik in the White House. A great fear seems to underly all this nonsense, and it is difficult to rationalize it. Does a guilty conscience inspire it? Or are its springs to be found in the natural cowardice of capitalism?

The second theory is probably better than the first. Industrial capitalism, as we now know it, is something relatively new in the world, and its power is still far from secure. The mob is restless under it, and at any moment may rise against it and do it vast damage, or even destroy it. Worse, it is menaced by other forces, dimly seen but apparently of high potency. They appear in Italy under the guise of Fascism. Fascism, at the moment, defends capitalism against the workers and especially against the intelligentsia. But what is to prevent it, on some horrible tomorrow, switching to the other side?

Whatever the cause, capitalism is skittish everywhere, and full of wild alarms whenever a noise is heard behind the door. Nowhere does it show the calm assurance that used to be so characteristic of the old aristocracy. Even when it is blatant, it is blatant in an artificial and unconvincing way. It seems to be somewhat doubtful, itself, about its place in civilization, and hence about its security. The baron, going to bed at night, snored peacefully and innocently. He simply could not imagine his own extinction; he refused to believe in it, even when it was upon him. But the traders and money lenders who now rule the world have no such confidence. They are always seeing burglars under the bed and the glint of steel, and smelling their own blood. So they do a good deal of caterwauling and viewing with alarm.

I believe that they concern themselves unduly. Capitalism is not only safe in the world today; it is probably safe in the United States for a century to come. For its deficiencies, however eloquently they are presented, are always seen, on fair inspection, to be less than its merits, and so the common sense of the American people runs in its favor. The Utopians who propose that it be abandoned for something else are all obviously balmy. The something else that even the most intelligent of them offers is ten times worse, and the something else that the rank and file dream of is plainly insane.

The more rational objections to capitalism almost always turn out, when they are examined, to be objections, not to the thing itself, but to individuals who misuse it. This or that capitalist oppresses his employés; another one throws his wealth on the side of prohibition, or fundamentalism, or service, or some other such folly; yet another, having attained to political power, employs it corruptly. But saying all that is simply saying that no conceivable scheme for running the world can ever be perfect, or secure against rogues and fools. Suppose we had socialism? Is there any assurance that all of the boss Socialists would be intelligent and honest? There is not. On the contrary, there is every assurance that a majority of them would be either idiots or scoundrels, and maybe both.

The Russian adventure has surely rammed that capital fact home. I am convinced that most of the men who set up the soviet government were wholly honest, and that many of them were of high intelligence. To dismiss Lenin as a mere maniac is nonsense; he was worth 10,000 Coolidges. But one man could not run a great state—not even a man with a touch of genius. He had to take in helpers—and when he took in helpers he took in self-seekers and exploiters. They quickly reduced Russia to chaos and the Russians to misery. They did it more rapidly and more thoroughly than any imaginable posse of capitalists could have done it. That is the point to be remembered. That is the sufficient answer to the romantics who still admire them.

FRANCES STARR IS BACK ON BROADWAY

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Having been away for three years, which is a long time as theater seasons go, Frances Starr has just returned to Broadway in a play called "The Shelf"—a title, I am bound to believe, that caused her some misgivings before she arrived. Think of what those bright Broadway punsters might do with it if they wanted to be unkind!

Not that Miss Starr has been decorating the shelf these last three years. After she left the Belasco camp she devoted herself to matrimony, to vaudeville, and to the remoter theater centers, working when the play and the mood moved her and resting between times.

FRANCES STARR
returns in a play called "The Shelf."
[Campbell Photo.]

Now she is back, as slim and chipper as an ingénue and twice as pretty as most of them. "The Shelf" gives her such a straight part as she probably wanted David to let her play all the years he was keeping her in character. Here she is a sort of "middle aged Delilah" who turns a small town on end by auctioning her kisses at a church fair, and she fairly revels in a display of charming new gowns that keep her women auditors chattering.

It is the taunt of an angry parson's wife that the reason she sold kisses is because she knows she is about ready to be put on the shelf that inspires this heroine to action. To prove them wrong and take her revenge she tricks the juvenile into an engagement, sets out to vamp a governor, and finally stirs the competitive interest of a senator, who is about to follow her to Europe as the play ends.

Not much of a comedy as I see it, though Philadelphia is reported to have been quite crazy about it. Arthur Byron is the chief strength of a cast that includes Louis Kimball, Lee Patrick, and Leah Winslow. Dorrance Davis is the author. He quit the advertising directorship of the National Suit and Cloak company to go in for drama writing.

Now They're Applauded; Now They're Not.

You cannot blame the players for being a little mystified by their Broadway receptions. They mean so little when failure follows success. Helen Mencken, for instance, had a gorgeous year of applauding audiences the season "Seventh Heaven" caught the fancy of the multitude. But two years later she came back and played the better part of a winter as the lady of "The Makropulous' Secret," and you would be amazed to know how few people knew she was in town.

Jacob Ben Ami, who came over from the Yiddish theater a few years back, was hailed as a gift straight from the theater heavens, or wherever the gods play. He was to correct this and that and furnish an example for the younger men. And a week ago I read of his return to the Yiddish theater because there was nothing for him to play on the English speaking stage.

Pauline Lord has just come back in a new play called "Sandalwood," made by Owen Davis from a novel by Fulton Oursler, and, though she has fared better than some, I very much fear she soon will be wondering whatever has become of all the people who fell a-worshiping at her feet the season she played the heroine of "They Knew What They Wanted."

"Sandalwood" Is Good Play.

"Sandalwood" is a good drama, being composed of true stuff and interesting in the telling. But it is one of those distressingly human domestic tragic comedies that the married set shuns and the younger generation laughs at or ignores. Miss Lord does what she can to lift it among the better things of the season. She has no great variety, but her feeling is unerring for the mystified, loyal, determined, primitively feminine type of woman.

In "Sandalwood" she is such a wife to Eddie Carpenter. Eddie is dying of sleeping sickness. Eddie, in fact, wants to die, having tasted of life and found it bitter. It is a piffling word and all its people are piffling, especially relatives and wives. Then Faith Waring, a gorgeous young pagan Eddie had met and spent a lot of time with before his illness, breaks into his sickroom and announces that she had come to nurse him back to health and life and happiness. Let wives and relatives rail. If they want to save Eddie's life they will have to give way, for she is the only one who can inspire him with any desire to live.

At the doctor's suggestion they do give way and Faith moves in. Mrs. Eddie, whose name is Lucy, is not beaten. She is merely obediently sacrificial. No woman can really take her Eddie away from her. She knows and they will see! As soon as he gets well he will come back to her!

Waiting Apparently Wins.

Pathetically she waits. Sometimes she is just outside the sickroom door, thanking the unrelenting Faith for the privilege of peeking in at her own husband. And when Faith tells her there is no love for her left in Eddie's heart, that when he is well they, she and Ed, are going away together in search of the real happiness that can only come with understanding, complete freedom, and higher spiritual outlook, she smiles a wry, sad little smile, dashes a tear or two away, and bids her wait and see.

In the end she wins. As Eddie gets back his physical strength his pagan courage slowly oozes out of him. Life is fearfully trite and disgusting, with a lot of carbon copy people around all the time, and his true love for Faith is mighty holding. But—still—there is Lucy, and there is a man's duty and everything.

The pagan stic Faith, wearied and disappointed in her man, walks out on Eddie as his triumphant Lucy is helping him back to bed. He might have played Pélléas to Faith's Mélisande—but he is just a common 100 per cent husband after all.

The framework is there for sympathetic drama. And there are laughs guaranteed by the somewhat extravagantly sketched-in relatives. But some way the tragic overtones are dominating.

I suspect if they were to cast the intruding Faith as a typical stage home buster the sympathy would flow to the humdrum but loyal wren of a wife. But with Faith made visually and intelligently appealing by Glida Leary, as the logic of the play demands, the wife has a hard fight of it and none too complete a victory. William Harrigan is the baffled Eddie.

Fannie Brice in Legitimate Drama.

Fannie Brice's début as a legitimate actress was none too happy. The play "Fanny" that Willard Mack and David Belasco have fixed up for her is a silly business, and there is no evidence in any phase of the comedienne's performance that she has the dramatic spark. If she has, it is still quite damp. But she catches that crowd that she has entertained so easily and so well in the revues. And she is as funny burlesquing a shrewd Jewish girl trying to outwit a gang of Arizona stage cowboys as she has been in any of her ten minute character sketches.

One scene is arranged so she can play a vamp. Sixty thousand dollars has been stolen. Fanny has reason to believe the ranch foreman has it and proceeds to scheme for its recovery. Making comic and brazen love to him, she manages to get his money belt over his head and around her own waist. And there it stays until the house is aroused and the would-be thief is arrested by one who is a detective but doesn't look it.

There is broad fun but little sense in "Fanny." The faithful Belasco has tried his best to trick the thing out with a convincing production, but not with great success. And the old timers sniffed a bit when they used the joke about Arizona's needing nothing more than good society and a little rain to make it habitable. Fannie also lifted the bookkeeper's favorite. "Deduct 10, deduct 25, deduct 40—I know where

This Thing and That Thing of the Theater

By Frederick Donaghey.

BOTH parties to the merchandising of drama, the men who bring out the plays and the men who operate the theaters, seem to be doing their possible best to get the season under way in Chicago; and their difficulties are many, and are, I fear, of small concern to others than themselves. They plan and scheme and twist and turn the available entertainments with a view of keeping open all the theaters; and they are mostly out of luck. When a season of drama in New-York is meagre in the matter of successes, the season next following finds the Chicago theaters in straits. It isn't that there are too many theaters here, but that there are too many in New-York: the effort to keep the latter open and prosperous means slapdash, hurry-up, slovenly, take-a-chance work by all concerned. Plays requiring a month of careful preparation are rushed into view after a week or ten days of alleged rehearsal. Some of the plays that fail there are commercially worth a trial here; but a New-York failure is hopeless as a venture in the intervening cities, and, when a house is not immediately available in Chicago, the owner of the doubtful play prefers a storehouse to the certainty of losing money touring until something opens up in the Loop. And so, and so, and so. . . . Mr. Erlanger's taking over what was until last night the Palace Music-Hall means another costly theater to be provided with attractions; and attractions are scarce. The Adelphi is closed this week; and the Four Cohans will be closed a fortnight between the Passing Show and "Princess Flavia." Some of the theaters open since the first of September have been conducted at a heavy loss, with the public stoically unaware, it would seem, that they contain proceedings meant for entertainment.

JOE COOK
He's on his way hither to exhibit his amiable fun in the Vanities.

The inventory of incoming shows carried in Page 2 of this section not only differs widely from that printed last Sunday but also from such revision as had been indicated from day-to-day last week in my column. . . . Thus, "My Country," which appears to me to be a bit of merchandise worth holding here at least a month on the good chance of a popular reaction to it, is to be put out of the La Salle at the end of the week, to be succeeded there by something named "Honest Liars." In like vein is the title of another new piece for next week—"Square Crooks." A play about the suit-and-cloak business, "Stylish Stouts," is called off as something with which to reopen the Adelphi, and one about those old masters of suits and cloaks, Potash and Perlmutter, is called on.

Shop-Stuff.

The organized press-agents of the theater, through their monthly organ, recently circularized the producers of plays and the drama-critics to obtain their ideas on the question whether the critics would not be likely to do better work if they deferred the review of new plays for a day or two or longer after coming from the theater, instead of rushing into print with an article dashed off in the brief period between the end of the final act and the newspaper's "deadline." The answers so far printed have been astonishingly sane. The pin-heads among the producers say the critic would do better work if he had a longer time to consider the play before writing in judgment on it. The pin-headed critics are of the same belief. One critic (whose name is not given out by the press-agents) solemnly and sobbingly avers that he thinks the answers of the managers will tend to show whether they regard the drama-critics as mere reporters or as important servants of art; and, of course, the correct comment on that twaddle is to say that a drama-critic who doesn't regard himself first of all as a reporter is a good bit more of a doodle-bug than most humans. . . .

The time to write about a play is immediately after seeing the play: the more important the play, as art, the more important it is that the reporter's impressions be put at once into print. . . . And, to me, the delightful aspect of this symposium is that the question is none of the press-agents' business.

Miscellany.

"Scotch Mist," imported stuff, is a New-York failure. . . . The red-haired daughter of Henry VIII is to be staged again in a piece, "Elizabeth Tudor," by James Reynolds, whose regular business is designing décors for plays by others.

Mr. Gest continues to assert that Balieff will return this season with the Chauve-Souris, to which Chicago was inhospitable in 1924. . . . Leslie Howard, regarded by many drama-reporters as an important actor, is with Miss Laurette Taylor in "Her Cardboard Lover."

'Tis told that a second cast of "Cradle-Snatchers" has fared badly in the smaller towns; and the management of the wild farce explains that it is too "sophisticated" for the clientèle of "Abie's Irish Rose," which continues in high favor wherever one of its queer casts is booked to perform it.

Dion Titherade, a London actor-author, is coming to perform in a play of his named "Loose-Ends"; and he will have Miss Violet Heming among his assistants.

Robert Ames, who has been making movies, and Miss Doris Rankin are to be in "Seed of the Brute," by Knowles Entikin; and the projectors of the diversion wish it to be understood that they regard the play as hotter stuff than is usually to be found in the American theater.

More Miscellany.

Miss Florence Eldridge, Miss Margaret Wycherly, and Miss Anne Morrison are to be in "A Proud Woman," by Arthur Richman. . . . And Martin Flavin, once of Chicago, is to have another chance with his piece named "Shucks," which was called no good when recently tried out.

Miss Jessie Busley, Homer B. Mason, and Miss Alma Kruger are to be in "Daisy Mayme," the new play by George Kelly, author of "Craig's Wife" and "The Show-Off." . . . I assume that Mr. Mason is he of that name who was in the Chicago run of "Seven Days," long ago, and was for a time a headliner in the two-a-day.

"Spring Magic" is the title of the song-and-dance version of Miss Rachel Crothers' "39 East," which has music by Hugo Félix. Tom Powers is to be the principal actor.

Mr. Frazee, the fortunate fellow who produced "No! No, Nanette!" is said to be eager to obtain unlimited time in a Chicago theater for his impending production of a musical farce based on "Nothing But the Truth," wherein Lynne Overman is to have the part first played in Chicago by Grant Mitchell, and afterward by Will Deming and William Collier.

John L. Shine, a veteran of the London stage, is preparing to stage in this country "Autumn Fires," by T. C. Murray, with himself and what he terms "an all-Irish cast." The play is one of a number recently staged abroad without exciting the foreign representatives of American producers. . . . Mr. Murray, the author, wrote some of the pieces in the répertoire used in this country by the Irish Players, as the company of the Abbey Theatre of Dublin was known here.

What's New in New-York Plays

These are the new things listed for the week in the New-York theaters:

"Deep River," by Laurence Stallings and W. Franke Harling, with Miss Lettice Howell, Roberto Ardelli, Julius Bledsoe, Frederick Burton, and Luis Alberni. . . . This is the operetta Mr. Harling was commissioned to compose hard upon the reported success of "A Light from St. Agnes" when that little piece was staged last season by the Chicago Opera.

"Treat 'Em Rough!": the comedy by Mr. and Mrs. Hatton taken out of the Harris last night after a wan engagement, with Miss Genevieve Tobin and Allan Dinehart as the principal performers.

"The Good Fellow," by George S. Kaufman and Herman J. Mankiewicz, with John E. Hazzard and Miss Clara Blandick. . . . This comedy has been reported a success as a result of its Jersey try-out some months ago. Mr. Kaufman and Mr. Mankiewicz are coworkers on the New-York Times. The play is the latter's first; but Mr. Kaufman is a veteran taker-in of royalties as the author, in whole or in part, of "Dulcy," "Beggar on Horseback," "The Butter-and-Egg Man," and "Merton of the Movies," among other pieces.

"Black Boy," by Jim Tully and Frank Dazey, with Robeson. . . . The play is of Negro life and character. Mr. Robeson has celebrity in New-York as an Eugene O'Neill actor, and is known in Chicago as a singer.

"The Jeweled Tree," by Garret Chatfield Pier, with actors whose names seem to mean nothing at present.

"Secret Sands," a piece about which nothing is known by THE TRIBUNE—not even the name of the author.

"The Lion-Tamer," from the French of Alfred Savoir by Miss Winifred Katzin, with Albert Carroll and Ian MacLaren in a cast assembled by the progressive amateurs who operate the Neighborhood Playhouse.

"Buy-Buy Baby!": the farce known in Chicago as "Pay to Bearer," with the cast much as in the first weeks here.

"The Humble," Laurance Irving's play, based on Dostoievsky's "Crime and Punishment," with Basil Sydney and Miss Mary Ellis. . . . The play (which was given years ago in Chicago by E. H. Sothern under the title of "The Fool Hath Said") has been announced in recent weeks as "The Unwritten Law."

"The Straw Hat": Labiche's famed farce of "The Leghorn Hat" in a new version, with music added.

ROGER WOLFE KAHN

Chicago's knowledge of this young man has, as yet, to do with the news-stories of how he went into his preferred career as a conductor of dance-orchestras without the complete approval of his father, Mr. Otto H. Kahn, and of how his success in time won the expressed admiration of that sophisticated financier and amiable backer. Young Mr. Kahn, with one of his orchestras, will be the headliner of the first bill to be given in the Palace, the Orpheum Circuit's new theater of the two-a-day.

New House for the Two-a-Day

AMONG the essential requirements of a variety-show (which is the proper name of what most persons mean when they try to pronounce "vaudeville") is a theater built for variety-shows. Just as the best of all possible circuses doesn't seem so good when it is given in a walled and roofed building instead of in a soiled and billowing tent with especial odors that belong to a circus, so a variety-show never seems to be just what it should be when it is given in a theater not designed especially for entertainments in kind. The best of all imaginable bills would not seem to be as good in the Apollo or the Four Cohans or the Illinois as in the Palace Music-Hall that today becomes the Erlanger Theater or in the Majestic or in the State-Lake. That this is so doesn't appear to be logical; but the important thing is that it is so. And it isn't, like proving the correctness of a sum in addition by doing the sum reversed in subtraction, a requirement that proves itself when worked backward: a good variety-theater converts into a satisfactory "legitimate" house without detracting in the least from the flavor or effect of the plays given after the conversion. Thus, it isn't part of Mr. Erlanger's task as the new director of the theater now bearing his name to prove that it is a good house for revue, for extravaganza, for operetta, and for song-and-dance plays of all kinds: that was proved in the Summertimes when the Messrs. Shubert put their Winter Garden shows into the handsome retreat.

Which is a sort of preface to saying that I think the new Palace, to be opened tomorrow night, is the most nearly-ideal variety-theater I've yet seen, in this country or abroad. It is, as a place wherein to look on and listen in as a miscellaneous and elastic bill is run off, a better and a lovelier theater than London's best, the spacious Coliseum, which until I saw the new Palace the other day has for years stood in my esteem as the variety-theater of the world. I haven't seen them all: new ones spoken of in ecstasy by knowing persons who have been in them tell me of beautiful and correct new theaters in Cleveland and in Brooklyn, among other cities. But, whatever their beauties and their merits, I doubt that they possess more than the showplace which the Orpheum Circuit has created in Randolph Street at La Salle.

The period-scheme is Louis XVI., freely treated with regard for the utilities and the uses of a theater made to hold more than twenty-five hundred persons. And this great "capacity," as the showmen call it, has been achieved without a sense of vastness in the auditorium: the proportions have been so gauged that the effect from the last row of the main floor is actually one of what the same showmen like to speak of as "intimacy." The foyer, the lobby, and the promenades are features the like of which is in possession of no other theater I've seen in the United States.

Incoming Shows

Tomorrow Night:

George Jessel in "The Jazz-Singer" in the Harris.—A new star in a piece that went through a long run last season in New-York. The play is by Samson Raphaelson, and is a dramatization of his story named "The Day of Atonement."

"Alias the Deacon" in the Studebaker.—A play about a likable card-sharp by John B. Hymer and Le Roy Clemens, with Berton Churchill. The piece was taken through a run of months in New-York.

Miss Fay Bainter in "First Love" in the Selwyn.—The actress so popular in "East Is West" in something new and, it is said, comical. Bruce McRae, Geoffrey Kerr, and George Marion are of the cast.

Sunday, October 10:

"Tip-Toes," with Miss Queenie Smith, in the Illinois.—A song-and-dance play with music by George Gershwin that ran five months last season in New York.

"Square Crooks" in the Playhouse.—A piece by James P. Judge about reformed thieves, with Miss Dorothy Appleby and Mrs. Annie Mack Berlein. It has had a New-York hearing.

Earl Carroll's Vanities in the Apollo.—Last Winter's issue, the fourth, of the show bearing this title. Frank Tinney and Joe Cook are to be in it.

"One Man's Woman" in the Central.—A play by Michael Kallesser about life and love in the cooch-belt of the Hawaiian Islands.

Monday, October 11:

The Marx Brothers in "The Cocoanuts" in the Erlanger (formerly the Palace Music-Hall).—The buffoons who made good in the nonsense named "I'll Say She Is!" in a merry show by George S. Kaufman, with tunes by Irving Berlin.

"Potash & Perlmutter, Detectives" in the Adelphi.—The most recent play about Montague Glass' famous cloak-and-suit merchants.

"Honest Liars" in the La Salle.—A farce by Robert Weenolsen and Sherrill Webb that has been on view in New-York since mid-July. Robert Woolsey has the principal part.

Sunday, October 17:

"Kitty's Kisses" in the Olympic.—A song-and-dance version of Philip Bartholomae's farce named "Little Miss Brown."

Sunday, October 24:

The Greenwich Village Follies in the Apollo.—Last season's New-York issue of this annual for an engagement into holiday-time, it is planned.

Tuesday, October 26:

"Princess Flavia," in the Four Cohans.—An operetta by Harry B. Smith and Sigmund Romberg, based on Edward Rose's dramatization of Anthony Hope's "The Prisoner of Zenda." F. D.

IN SOPRANO RANGE

ADELIA CARENO. MARJORIE MONTELLO.
[Hartsook Photo.]

THEY are both in the season's advance flight of singers. Mme. Careno, who is by no means to be confused with the late famous pianist of nearly the same name, is to appear at the New Palace theater during the week. Miss Montello will give a song recital at the Studebaker theater this afternoon. They are both newcomers.

In the Film World

Hollywood, Cal.

When Elsie Janis came to Hollywood recently as a feature on the Orpheum circuit she had with her as a traveling companion Mabel Ross, wife of the old time actor, Charlie Ross. Promptly on their arrival in town they called up Frankie Bailey, and "old home" week was celebrated in Hollywood with a vengeance.

Frankie Bailey is the girl with the beautiful legs of a generation ago who graced Weber and Fields' burlesque shows on Broadway for nine consecutive years, and played in them in company with Lillian Russell, Fay Templeton, Willie Collier, and the aforementioned Charlie Ross.

Elsie Janis broke into the trio this week by grace of being in the cast of "The Century Maid" in 1917, in which Frankie Bailey played and which Dillingham and Ziegfeld produced. That show also is interesting to followers of movie personalities, because Aileen Percy and Lilyan Tashman strutted their stuff in it as show girls.

Richard Barthelmess, not content with the seagoing yacht he purchased this summer, has bought himself a $100,000 home in Beverly Hills. The home is an Italian mansion, and an exact duplicate of the New Jersey home of Sinclair, the oil millionaire. During his trip to Canada and points east the home will be fitted up, the tennis courts laid, and a swimming pool put in.

The Fat Girl from Washington.

One of the amusing incidents of the week was Eddie Dowling's introduction of a fat girl as a minor principal in another of those musical comedies he writes about the country girl who invades the big city and gets all mixed up with the show business. "Honeymoon Lane" he calls this one.

The fat girl is named Kate Smith and comes from Washington, D. C. She is 19 by the Bible record and scales 200 pounds, according to the weighing machines. At the capital she has been singing in an unusually pleasant soprano voice at private parties and doing the Charleston with desperate but graceful abandon. Also she has been trying to get a chance in a regular play. Once, she says, Eddie Cantor promised to write and tell her when to come on. Again Al Jolson spoke kindly and bade her have patience and she would hear from him. She was still waiting when Dowling heard her, saw her, and later sent for her.

In Atlantic City she was the hit of his show. Again on Broadway the opening night she stopped the progress of the last act while a surprised audience insisted on many encores, showing that fat in itself is nothing in art. All the plain domestic stylish stouts sitting near me were quite thrilled by Kate Smith's hit.

Otherwise the Dowling piece is routine and pleasant, with tuneful songs and as good an assortment of jokes as any of them. Better than many assortments, because Eddie is Irish and tells a good Irish story. The governor and the mayor were both at his opening and both delighted. Florence O'Denishawn, Gordon Dooley, Pauline Mason,, and Martha Morton are in the cast.

Clark and McCullough.

The Clark and McCullough pair continue to romp upgrade. They are stars in their own right this year with a piece called "The Ramblers" and are causing such laughter at the Lyric that the speculators are reported to have contracted to sell 500 seats a night for the next several months. They may do it and they may not, but the burlesquers are certainly off to a good start.

They are an amusing team. Clark, as he grows in confidence and has the help of experienced directors, improves both the character and quality of his fun. McCullough—well, they are at least kind enough to recognize McCullough in "The Ramblers" and to let him have a laugh or two.

Undaunted.

Pat was an incorrigible drunkard, and his neighbors decided that they would frighten him into sobriety. They accordingly arranged that the next time he was drunk he should be taken to the town morgue, and put in a coffin, so that when he awoke from his stupor he might be encouraged to mend his ways.

The great night arrived and Pat was duly tucked away in his coffin, dead drunk. His neighbors hid in the morgue to watch the effect that the awakening should have on Pat.

After a time he sat up in his coffin, stretched and, rubbing his eyes, said in a husky voice: "Well, what do yez know about this? It's the resurrection and I'm the first one up." G. F.

Collecting Them.

A wholesale hardware company had sent letter after letter to a delinquent retailer trying to collect a long overdue account. At last the ultimatum came and he paid up with the following explanation: "Thanks for your wonderful system of collection letters. I'd have paid sooner, but I wanted to get the whole series." J. C.

Hollywood Gets a Coat of Red

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.] — Effete Hollywood got its largest dose of red paint this week, administered by Col. Tim McCoy and his Indians. Col. McCoy is the new western star employed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to make thrilling tales of the plains, mountains, and bad lands, and was the guest, with his Indians, at a large barbecue dinner this week. McCoy gave a vivid account, personally demonstrating the Indian sign language. He revealed the rather interesting fact that there are signs for all the modern things, including moving pictures and automobiles.

ELSIE JANIS.

The sign language, according to Col. McCoy, originated many years ago, when the nomad Indian tribes wandered all across the continent on their hunting expeditions and came in contact with tribes speaking dissimilar tongues. All signs originally were made with both hands. The line of thought behind these signs is vigorous and logical, and anything can be expressed in signs.

When McCoy went up on a reservation with his auto he astonished the Indians considerably. Not long after he found them using a sign for the word automobile, done thus: first a sign made with the thumb and forefinger on each hand, representing circles—that is, wheels—the symbol for wagon; then a sign made by straddling the forefinger of one hand with two forked fingers of another, meaning a man riding a horse; then a sign meaning "cut if off," made by slashing down with one hand; there you have it. Wagon, man on a horse, the horse cut off; automobile. This sign "cut off" is the Indian word for relations by marriage and refers also to the fact that some tribal etiquette forbids a young brave to speak to his mother-in-law. This is considered as a sign of the innate peace loving qualities of the Indian!

The Indian sign for motion pictures is as follows: the Indian pantomimes a man holding a camera against his stomach to steady it, then with the other hand makes a rotary gesture. Seeing a picture on the screen is told by the Indian spreading his palms about two feet from his eyes and crossing the hands over each other several times. This represents the flicker on the screen.

Brief but Telling.

The gestures for "press agent" are brief but to the point. The Indian holds both hands in pantomime of holding a newspaper, then gives the gesture for "bunk," or "no good," by making a gesture of throwing away with one hand.

Col. McCoy says that through the sign language many Indian thoughts and ideas can be obtained that one does not get through the spoken word. He told of getting the name the Indians used for Gen. George A. Custer in the sign language, which he never heard or read of anywhere before. Gen. Custer usually was called "Fair Hair" or "Yellow Hair" by the Indians when they spoke of him, but in the sign language he was "Son of the Morning Star." This term is supposed to refer to the "strong medicine" attendant on this planet of the dawn, for Custer was regarded as a potent character by the Indians whom he had for foes and friends.

Many of the Indians in McCoy's troupe are graduates of Haskell and Carlisle Indian schools. He brought to the film banquet with him representatives of twelve tribes. These warriors did a series of Indian dances, in one of which the squaws joined. Those of the Indians who had no squaws gathered up American partners with a speed and suavity that spoke well for their social training.

In the Wrong House.

Last summer, while visiting in a strange town, I was staying at an old friend's home. In the evening another friend, after taking me for a ride, brought me home at a late hour, stopping, as I thought, at my friend's house.

I walked in, removed my shoes, and proceeded to mount the stairs in a quiet manner. On reaching the top I heard a strange voice say, "John, how is father?"

I realized, then, I was in a strange house, and I had a difficult time explaining my presence there.

E. B. K.

Only a Customer.

I stopped at a news stand to buy a paper. There was no one there, so I went to a stand on the opposite corner. I said to the man that was standing there, "Give me a TRIBUNE."

He said, "Pick it up, yourself."

I said, "Don't get fresh or I'll buy my paper elsewhere after this."

He looked at me and said, with a smile, "I don't care where you buy it. I'm only a customer myself."

B. J. M.

The Wrong Remark.

The other night I went out riding in an expensive and good looking car with my boy friend, on whom I wanted to make a good impression. He asked me what I thought of the C—— car and [wishing to let him think I knew a lot about cars] I told him I considered it a terrible one and would never ride in one.

Slowly he said, "Well, you're riding in one now!"

'Nuff said!

M. P.

Mistaken.

We were all gathered at the home of my girl friend. As supper time drew near she invited us to join her family, to which we agreed. Everything tasted good to us. At the end of the meal the maid served jam, topped with cream cheese. After every one had their helpings, very little of the jam was left. I was the last to help myself. Thinking all the while that the cheese was whipped cream, I put a teaspoonful into my coffee. I soon realized my mistake, but I had to drink the coffee. Words cannot explain that embarrassing moment, for I noticed every one looking my way.

TOPS THE CAST

BERTON CHURCHILL

He has the principal rôle, that of a seasoned and histrionic cardsharp, in "Alias the Deacon"; and the New-York reporters have said of him that he is just the actor for the part. . . . Mr. Churchill acted in the piece there for months.

Argumentative.

Dear (if I may) Mae: On the strength of your enthusiastic review of the "Show Off" I went to see it yesterday. Ford Sterling in the matter of artistry, if artistry be true and vivid interpretation of types or things, lived up to the last part of his name. Worthy, too, of sincerest praise were the players of Mother and Father Fisher—a real ma and pa of the decent working class. No slush or goo about them.

Louise Brooks seemed out of place. She and Gregory Keely seemed to have nothing to do but stroll in and out of the picture like an attenuated Greek chorus. Louise seemed ill at ease in her part. She looked too 1927 flappery for such a sober part as she was called upon to play. Gregory looked like a melancholious young man, who expected on his next visit to the family doctor to be told he had tuberculosis or cancer, and wanted to be pathetically heroic about it.

The ending was absurd and stupid. Can you really, honestly imagine a board of directors dressed up to look like at least the controllers of 3 or 4 billions of industry listening in absorbed gravity to a cheap ballyhoo like the "Show Off?" That sap never got beyond $35 a week and never could.

Just the same, I liked the picture. The captions were perfect—no lines about heart throbs, mother love, or any of these really fine things which the movies so beautifully succeed in making emetic. No smart-aleck wit, either. What a "Babbit" Sterling would have made! That boy sure knows his babbitarian onions!

CRABBY JACK.

Editor's Note: Not crabby—just ready for an argument. Also—an interesting correspondent. You "May"—and—come again.

politan premiere of 'Deep River' was in no small degree dependent upon his direction."

Kind words are added for the singing of Lottice Howell and Roberto Ardelli; also for the two colored singers, Julius Bledsoe and Charlotte Murray. The piece now goes to try its luck in New York.

Here and There in Music.

Several recitals are announced for the week. Eugenia Van De Veer, soprano, will present a song program at Fine Arts Recital hall Thursday night. On the same evening Abraham Alt of Bolsward cathedral, Netherlands, will appear at Orchestra hall in an organ program consisting of Bach, Mendelssohn, Guilmant, Rinck, and Lange. He is rated as the representative Dutch organist, and this will be his first appearance in Chicago, having come here directly from Europe.

Stanley Martin and Frederick Sharp are bulletined for an organ recital at the Second Presbyterian church, Evanston, Tuesday evening. The motet "Omnipotence" will be sung by the Hamilton club male chorus and a soprano soloist. W. F. Barnes will speak.

The third season of noonday organ recitals by Arthur Dunham at the Chicago Temple building, First Methodist church, began last Friday. This year they will be doubled in number, being given on Tuesday and Friday noons.

The Lions clubs of Cook county send word of four concerts by the U. S. Marine band at Medinah temple Oct. 19 and 20. A uniform price scale of $1 a seat will be charged, and the profits will be used to replenish the charity funds of the various clubs.

The Sunday Evening club choir will begin its twentieth season of singing at Orchestra hall tonight. Under the direction of Edgar Nelson it will sing excerpts from "The Messiah," "Elijah," and "Creation." Mark Love, baritone, will be soloist, and there will be other music by the Imperial male quartet and Stanley Martin, organist.

London Constructs Chatty Rendezvous

BY DAVID DARRAH.

LONDON.—London is to have a theatrical "potiniere," or gossip place, in the near future, as close a replica as possible of the celebrated open air cafés at fashionable continental resorts.

This is the outcome of the scheme which Joseph Levy and Henry Millar, the theatrical managers, have been preparing in secret.

In about three weeks an entirely original form of entertainment will be presented at the Little theater. Constructed on the line of a revue, it is intended—to quote the devisers—"to reflect, to satirize, and occasionally to dramatize the gossip of the town." This "town gossip" entertainment will be kept up to date from week to week and if necessary from day to day.

In keeping with the unconventionality of the proceedings of the stage, the front part of the house will be completely transformed. The foyer and the adjoining rooms will be turned into a sort of rose bower resembling a continental "potiniere," where gossip and sociability will be encouraged. Popular French beverages will be served at small tables, and patrons will be able to gather immediately after dinner, before the entertainment begins, for coffee, liqueurs, and conversation.

The revue itself—which consists of a large number of short "impressionist" cameos—has been written by Reginald Arkell and Austin Small, better known as "Seamark," the novelist. They will from time to time add topical items of gossip to their review of the happenings about town. The music is by Norman O'Neill, while the costumes and settings have been devised by Aubrey Hammond.

Mendelssohnian.

Taking time well by the forelock, Calvin Lampert, conductor of the Chicago Mendolssohn club is fixing the date of the club's second concert, Feb. 17, 1927, as a time for a popular request program. The club, being a civic organization, Mr. Lampert wishes Chicago patrons to elect numbers suitable for a male chorus. Letters should be addressed to the business manager's office, 813 Straus building. The offer is open until Nov. 22. On the following week the decision will be announced together with the name of the soloist, who will be a Chicago artist.

STARS IN NEW PLAYS OF THE WEEK

GEORGE JESSEL MISS FAY BAINTER

MR. JESSEL'S activities in Chicago to-date have not been of a kind to stamp him on the mind of theater-goers in general, so that, when he opens tomorrow night in "The Jazz-Singer," he will be to many a new-comer. However, his way in this piece has been the subject of warm praise by the theater-reporters of New-York, where he spent most of last season.

Miss Bainter, who also opens tomorrow night, will in "First Love" again be seen in a "straight" part: she was last here, it may be remembered, as the singing soubrette of "The Dream-Girl," a piece founded on "The Road to Yesterday." She devoted last season to the New-York performances of a sad thing named "The Enemy." It is all but fifteen years since she first won some attention here in an operetta-shaped piece called "The Rose of Panama."

For Coast Symphony.

Harold Levey, the composer of "Lady Billy" and "The Clinging Vine," in which Mitzi used to appear, is on his way west to engage in sterner musical undertakings. He will conduct a series of symphony concerts that Edward D. Smith is doing at the Auditorium, Los Angeles, and the El Capitan theater, Hollywood.

Chicago Singer Wins Gotham - By Joan King

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—When Lorna Doone Jaxson, Chicago's Civic Opera singer and prima donna of light opera, sang to her first New York grand opera audience as Carmen recently, she opened a season of unprecedented success for the San Carlo Opera company here. From an opening week of three "sold out" houses, continued popularity has marked the run until, at the close of the third week, with still another to follow, the company has recorded the largest attendance in its history. And there has been a large number of debuts as well. Twelve new artists are being brought out by the San Carlo this season, eleven of whom will have appeared in the city at the close, next week.

Speaking of debuts, perhaps the most striking event of the season thus far was the premiere American appearance of the new basso, Andrea Mongelli, who sang the rôle of Mephistopheles in "Faust." Mongelli is only 22 years old, but is already considered one of the best importations ever made by Impresario Gallo. His Mephistopheles was a sparkling and vivacious characterization, received by an audience pitched to topnotch enthusiasm. After the curtain fell for the last time fellow countrymen of the new basso staged a real off-stage scene, more than fifty enthusiastic Italians awaiting Mongelli outside the stage door.

Willem Mengelberg, who opens the season of the Philharmonic, has also announced a novelty for his first program—"Pan and the Priest," by Howard Hanson. The first performance in America of a poem for violin and orchestra by Templeton Strong, with Joseph Szigeti as soloist, and a violin concerto by Mozart will be other features. The first concert is set for Thursday evening, Oct. 14.

Mischa Elman is to take his stringed quartet on tour this year for the first time, and Chicago is included on the itinerary, according to announcement. Mr. Elman and his quartet will play in Chicago's Orchestra hall the evening of Oct. 31. The only change in the personnel of the ensemble will be in the chair of Louis Bailly, who will be succeeded by William Schubert at the viola. Mr. Bailly is discontinuing his connection with the Elman quartet because of his work at the Curtis institute, which he could not arrange to leave long enough to permit touring.

This season New York will have its regular series of three recitals, the first being scheduled for Aeolian hall Oct. 12. Mr. Elman, personally, is to give no recitals in America for the next two years, although at the conclusion of his tour in chamber music he expects to go to Great Britain and thence to Vienna, where he will play for the first time since he was a child.

The Chicago and Metropolitan grand opera companies are not sufficient to give young American singers a chance in grand opera, according to Edward Ziegler, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company, who recently returned from Europe. Mr. Ziegler avers that there ought to be opera companies in other cities to develop local singers. The Metropolitan is constantly seeking American talent to launch upon operatic careers, the manager says, and insists that America has native talent comparable with the new crop of Europeans. No new operas or singers to add to the repertory of the Metropolitan this winter were discovered by Mr. Ziegler this summer.

Those who only got

Squeals and Howls

NOW GET Stations!!!

—because of a new discovery

New MO-NOD-IC Receiver

Erla Omnitonic Cone Speaker

Erla "Totale-Life" tubes, including special power tubes.

Something wonderful has happened in radio . . . a master key now unlocks the air for everyone. Because of a new discovery, those who formerly got squeals and howls get stations now.

Out of the stillness . . . in magic procession . . . they appear from everywhere . . . new, interesting places and voices.

Squeals and howls . . . vanished! Fuzzy distorted tones replaced by reception crystal-clear . . . and these results are certain for everyone.

This is the exciting new achievement that awaits you in radio. It sounds almost unbelievable . . . but we have proved it. Really you should know all about this latest radio accomplishment.

Scientists Discover New Principle

Scientists made a discovery. Erla engineers, collaborating with the distinguished staff of the Radio Frequency Laboratories, have done what they term "erasing regeneration" . . . the cause of squeals, howls and distortion.

Manufacturers have often sought to eliminate it. But never succeeded except by sacrificing distance and volume—too great a penalty. Now regeneration is banished . . . but without loss. There is an actual gain in reception.

No wonder the new Erla (RFL) is considered a year ahead. Few now will be satisfied with old-fashioned receivers—especially when the improved Erla (RFL) may be purchased so very reasonably.

Beauty Unrivaled—Value Unapproached

You'll be delighted with Erla cabinets, too. Consoles that are true "period" reproductions, in rich two-tone antique finish. The DeLuxe model is especially attractive in quartered and matched burl Walnut . . . a true art object worthy of a distinguished place in any drawing room.

And the value . . . whether of table cabinets or consoles . . . just cannot be duplicated. Manufacture under one roof accomplishes these "one-profit" benefits for you. Just for your own protection you will want to see the new Erla (RFL) first. At stores listed below or demonstrated in your own home if you desire.

Erla HUM FREE "S" Eliminator

Price range of table cabinets $89.50-$95.50. Consoles $129.50-$146.50.

A Timely Event in the Fashion World Exhibition of Binner Autumn Corsets

Third Floor—Dearborn Street

The famous Binner Corsets—Girdles, Step-ins, "Attache"—will be exhibited in our Corset Section for the next three days. We have been fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Titus, one of the designers of the famous Binner Corset, for the purpose of discussing the question of style of fitted undergarments—individually with any who seek her advice.

We hope as many as possible will avail themselves of this display as the question of proper confining garments is of the utmost importance this fall.

Every woman who is interested in being well dressed will welcome this opportunity to inspect a profusion of fascinating styles in Binner Correcting Garments.

Binner Corsets—back lace, $5 to $10

Binner Girdles—closed back, $5 to $12

Binner "Attache" $5 to 14.50

Lutherans Hold Exposition Here

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

LUTHERANS of the Missouri synod will hold a Lutheran exposition at the Sherman hotel next Saturday and Sunday. It is described as a miniature world's fair, and it is not so miniature, either, for it will require the main banqueting hall and one other large room, where 100 exhibits will be displayed. Foreign lands where the Missouri synod has missions will have booths and home missions will be equally well represented.

The entertainment features will begin at 10 a. m. with choral singing by the children and addresses to the children. At 2:30 p. m. the program will be in the special interests of women's work, and at 6:30 the young people will have a dinner and a rally.

On next Sunday there will be services at 3 and 8 p. m. The special speakers on Saturday will be the Rev. Charles Kurth, Joliet; the Rev. E. Schueler, Milwaukee; the Rev. J. M. Bailey and the Rev. G. Schuessler, Chicago; the Rev. Harry Olsen, Milwaukee; the Rev. F. Oberschulte, St. Paul. Paul T. Buszin, the Rev. Herman Meyer, and the Rev. B. H. Hemmeter will be the chairmen in turn at the three sessions.

Dr. Henry Howard, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York City, is the speaker this evening at the Sunday Evening club which begins its twentieth season in Orchestra hall, South Michigan avenue, between Jackson and Adams streets. Dr. Howard, white whiskered, and alert, is one of the noted preachers of the world today and illustrates the present day catholicity of Christianity for he is a Methodist and yet is pastor of one of America's greatest Presbyterian churches.

Bishop William O. Shepard, Portland, Ore., will address the students of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The children's receiving home of the Lutheran Woman's league of Chicago will be dedicated this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Madison avenue and 8th street, Maywood, Ill. Dr. David A. Davy, superintendent of the Inner Mission, will dedicate the building. Others who will take part will be Dr. E. F. Krauss, Mrs. Edwin G. Mosser, and Clarence Wieghart. Judge Mary Bartelme and Dr. Simon Peter Long will make the addresses. The building cost $100,000 and will increase the capacity of the home from twenty to sixty children. Mrs. Myrtle Hadley of Springfield, O., is the new superintendent.

Lake View Swedish Mission church, Osgood and School streets, will celebrate its fortieth anniversay today. Speakers for the day will be the Rev. A. E. Skogsberg, one of the founders of the Swedish Mission Covenant, and the Rev. E. G. Hjerpe, president of the covenant. The Rev. C. J. Ledin, pastor, will be in charge of the services. On Thursday evening the church choir of seventy-five voices will give a jubilee concert, and on Friday evening there will be a dinner for the members of the congregation in the church parlors.

The Chicago Theological seminary will begin its sixty-ninth year on Tuesday at 4 o'clock with ceremonies at 1164 East 58th street. President Ozora S. Davis will preside. Dr. Frank G. Ward will speak on the development of personality as a seminary task. There will be several messages of welcome.

The Rev. Alvyn Ross Hickman will begin his pastorate today of the Third Presbyterian church, Ashland boulevard and Ogden avenue. He comes to Chicago from the pastorate of Bethany church, Minneapolis.

This morning at 11 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church, Broadway at Buckingham place, the Rev. Dr. Luther E. Lovejoy will preach the sermon. Dr. Lovejoy is an author of authority in the field of stewardship; he is secretary of the stewardship division of the Methodist Episcopal church and president of the United Stewardship council.

This evening at 7:45 o'clock in the Federated church, corner Normal avenue and 77th street, Chief Morgan A. Collins, Chicago superintendent of police, will speak on "Crime in Chicago." The public is invited to hear the man with the hardest job in the world.

Ten thousand Lutherans of Chicago are planning to attend the inauguration of the Rev. W. H. T. Dau, D. D., as president of Valparaiso university today, in the auditorium of the university, which was purchased a year ago by members of the Missouri synod, Lutheran church. Dr. Dau was formerly a professor at Concordia university, St. Louis, Mo., and is well known in the Lutheran church of America as a writer and lecturer.

Christ Episcopal church, River Forest, will open today the first unit of a new building. Services have been held in the women's building. The Rev. F. J. Tromp is in charge.

SERMONS AND SERVICES IN CHICAGO CHURCHES TODAY

THE REV. RAYMOND M. HUSTON D. D.
[Lifsbey Studio Photo.]

The Rev. Raymond M. Huston, D. D., is pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Hinman avenue and Main street, Evanston, Ill., who will dedicate this morning a splendid new building costing $310,000. With the Sunday school building already erected and the ground, the total value of the church plant is estimated at more than $500,000. Dr. Huston will preach the dedicatory sermon this morning. Dr. John Timothy Stone will preach at 8 o'clock.

Tomorrow evening the $25,000 pipe organ will be dedicated with a recital by Stanley Martin of the Northwestern university school of music. Tuesday evening will be homecoming night. Wednesday evening is for young people. Thursday evening will be community night. Friday evening will be for Presbyterians, with the following speakers: Dr. J. G. K. McClure, president McCormick Theological seminary; Dr. Samuel W. Findley, moderator of the Chicago Presbytery, and Dr. Charles Gorman Richards, pastor of the Rogers Park church.

Next Sunday there will be a dedication communion, with reception of members.

A New Port

The Port of Corpus Christi is now serving

World Commerce

Opening of the far-south Port of Corpus Christi on Sept. 14, 1926, was an epochal event, for this port was built upon the solid foundation of economic necessity. The federal government joined hands with city, county and state to make its development possible—at an outlay of $5,000,000.00.

It is an international port, being next door to Mexico and closer by several days to Central and Southern American nations than are Atlantic seaboard shipping points. In addition, commerce from the great mid-continent area will flow through Corpus Christi; returning cargoes will bring savings to Texas, to the Middle West, to the Nation.

Commerce follows cheap transportation. And mounting profits trail in the wake of commerce. With the port just opened, NOW is the time for shippers, manufacturers and investors to investigate Corpus Christi. Mail the coupon today.

For specific information about the Port of Corpus Christi and its services, address Traffic Bureau, Nueces County Navigation Commission, Corpus Christi, Texas.

'AUNT SAMMY' TO BE INTRODUCED TO FANS TOMORROW

U. S. Expert Opens Radio Series for Women.

"Aunt Sammy," one of the official radio representatives of the United States department of agriculture, will be introduced to women listeners from thirty broadcasting stations tomorrow.

When Uncle Sam planned his enlarged farm radio program for the 1926-'27 season he made special provision for the five million women of the nation who have a chance to tune in on whatever they please, at least during the daytime. He employed a special representative, known as "Aunt Sammy," whose official duty it is to assemble material and write entertaining and reliable programs for the "Housekepers' Chat," a five day a week 15 minute period devoted exclusively to up to date information on subjects of interest to women.

Aunt Sammy, who has had special training in home economics and in writing, spends a great deal of time in the bureau of home economics, where she can gather the latest facts about food and nutrition, textiles and clothing, household economics, and equipment. Her subject matter is not limited to cooking, sewing, and housecleaning, however. She includes in her programs attractive color schemes for the living room, and becoming lines and colors for the stout and thin.

Three Separate Divisions.

The program for the Housekeepers' Chat has three divisions of five minutes each: "Backyard Gossip," "Questions Women Are Asking," and "What Shall We Have for Dinner?"

"Backyard Gossip" includes informal discussions of such subjects as the home, food and nutrition, health, clothing, gardening, and social diversions. All information is authentic and practical, and approved by the department of agriculture before it is broadcast.

"Questions Women Are Asking" are answered during the second five minutes of the housekeepers' program. These questions are as varied as the interests of women and range all the way from what to feed the undernourished child to how to rid the home of household pests. If the question is brief and of universal interest, the answer will be broadcast; if the question is not of general interest, a personal reply will be sent.

Vitamins and Calories.

The last five minutes of the program are concerned with the problem the average homekeeper must solve 365 times a year, "What shall we have for dinner?" Only seasonable, well balanced, easily prepared, and inexpensive menus will be broadcast. The principles of meal planning will be explained in the first programs. Members of the radio audience will be introduced to vitamins and calories and mineral constituents in such an informal manner that these dignified nutrition terms will lose their forbidding aspect.

If the baby cries while a menu is being broadcast, or the turnips boil over and the housewife misses part of a recipe, she can get a mimeographed copy of the recipes and menus from the broadcasting station. In this way recipes may be checked and radio cookbooks kept accurate.

The housekeepers' program has a dual purpose, according to Aunt Sammy. It aims to help the housewife in the intricate and vastly important task of managing a home, and to show her how, by careful planning of meals, saving of steps and labor, she may have more leisure time for what are broadly termed "cultural activities."

Indianapolis to Open 2d Annual Radio Show Oct. 25

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The second annual Indianapolis Radio exposition will be held Oct. 25 to 30. In connection with this meeting the first annual radio dealers' convention of the central states will convene at Indianapolis, Oct. 27.

FORD RUSH OF FORD AND GLENN IS OPERATED ON

The tour of Ford and Glenn, the "Lullaby Boys" of station WLS, was temporarily called off last week owing to the illness of "Big" Ford Rush. An emergency operation for appendicitis was performed on Ford at the West Suburban hospital by Dr. C. W. Trowbridge of Oak Park. He is reported to be getting along well.

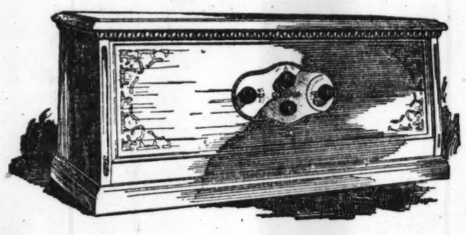
It was recently announced that in going on the road Ford and Glenn were not leaving radio, but would be back at WLS once a week, on Saturday evening, to entertain the station listeners.

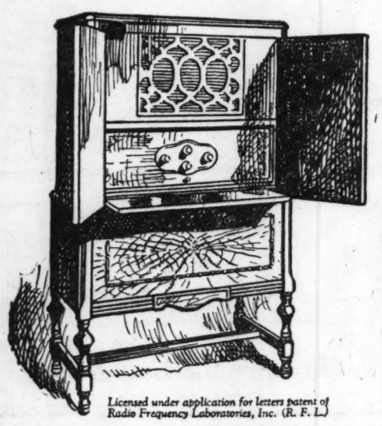
Far Far Ahead!

In Selectivity— In Reproduction

KELLOGG Flawless Reproduction Radio

KELLOGG'S 29 years of engineering experience, its unsurpassed laboratory facilities, and its willingness to utilize every latest development of the art, have produced a receiver fully a year ahead in every feature for which you are looking in a radio. Do not fail to see and hear Model 507 before you decide.





Licensed under application for letters patent of Radio Frequency Laboratories, Inc. (R. F. L.)

Inductive Tuning is a method of control, and coupling together, of three stages of radio frequency, that is exclusive with Kellogg Radio. By this method it is possible, for the first time, to obtain even sensitivity and range at all wave lengths without auxiliary adjustments. Four tuned circuits are accurately controlled by one knob.

This Kellogg 6-tube set is offered both in a table model and a beautiful console—the walnut cabinets assembled by expert furniture craftsmen and hand rubbed to a satiny piano finish.

Console model 508 includes a wonderful new Kellogg speaker that has astonished radio experts, musical critics, artists and music lovers wherever it has been demonstrated. Its 44-inch air column horn and advanced reproducer unit give to Radio a depth and realism never before attained.

you are tuning-in on a distant station and, even when the dial is at exactly the correct position, reception is thin and strained, not a note or word comes in clear and vibrant and you feel that owning a radio set is as unsatisfactory as owning an undependable motor car or inaccurate timepiece. Then just suppose you draw the old detector tube from its socket and put the new Cunningham Super-Sensitive Detector, Type CX-300A, in its place. On that instant, your radio set will be transformed from an instrument that deserves only your cool indifference into an instrument worthy of your warmest praise.

HAVE you tried to write a Screenline? This big new DAILY Tribune offer—announced for the first time last Monday—has been enthusiastically received by the public. Men, women, children everywhere are trying to write Screenlines and win one of the big Cash Prizes offered every day by The Tribune. A scene from a new motion picture appears in the Daily Tribune every day. Note: This offer appears only in the Daily Tribune—not Sunday. Five Cash Prizes—totaling $100 EVERY DAY—are offered daily for Screenlines. More fun than Limericks or Cross Word Puzzles. Easy, too. Anybody can do it. Picture No. 6 (reprinted from yesterday's Tribune) is shown above. Try to suggest a Screenline for it. Here are a few suggestions to get you started: "Tackled on the Sidelines," "Good Interference Broke Up the Play." Now YOU make a suggestion! Winners of Screenlines to Picture No. 6 will be announced in the Daily Tribune of next Saturday.

The Simple Rules

1. Each day excepting Sundays, until further notice, The Chicago Tribune will print a scene from some well-known motion picture. The public is invited to submit Screenlines—Titles—for these pictures.

   Each day The Chicago Tribune will accept and publish the 5 best Screenlines submitted. For these winning suggestions The Chicago Tribune will pay $100.00 in cash as follows: 1st Prize, $50.00; 2nd Prize, $25.00; 3rd and 4th Prizes, $10.00 Each; 5th Prize, $5.00; a total of $100.00 each day.
2. This offer is open to every man, woman, boy and girl excepting employes of The Chicago Tribune and their families. It costs nothing. It does not matter where you live.
3. You may submit as many Screenlines for each picture as you wish. You may use the form printed in The Chicago Tribune each day or a separate sheet of paper. If separate sheet of paper is used be sure to mark the number of the picture on entry.
4. It is not necessary to have seen the motion picture to write a Screenline. Clues will be published under each picture printed in The Chicago Tribune. These clues will tell you the name of the picture, the principal characters and the action. Consequently, you may write your Screenline without actually having seen the motion picture.
5. Screenlines must be 10 words or less. Try to make your suggestions clever. There are no restrictions as to kind of Screenline.

   Study carefully the picture published each day in The Chicago Tribune. Then write your Screenline along the following lines:
   1. Try to tell the meaning of the picture.
   2. Try to tell what you think the principal characters are saying.
   3. Try to think of a general descriptive Screenline such as you would like to see in the movies.
6. Screenlines must be in the Office of The Chicago Tribune within 4 days after the picture is published. For example, answers to today's Picture No. 6 published above must be in the Office of The Chicago Tribune not later than next Wednesday.
7. Suggestions should be mailed to "Screenlines," The Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. Neatness will count.
8. You need not buy The Tribune to compete. It may be examined at Public Libraries or at The Tribune Offices free of charge.
9. The winning Screenlines will be announced in The Chicago Daily Tribune exactly one week from the day the picture is published. Winning Screenlines for today's picture will be announced in next Saturday's Tribune.
10. In selecting winners The Chicago Tribune will be the sole judge and its decision will be final. In the event of ties duplicate prizes will be paid.

Cash Prizes Every Day!

Note that 5 Cash Prizes are awarded Every Day! You don't have to hold the pictures till the end of the contest and wait months to find out who won. You can start with picture No. 6 shown above. Simply suggest a Screenline in 10 words or less and send it in. That's all! The clues given beneath the picture will help you. It's easy. Anyone can do it!

Send In Your Screenlines At Once!

Don't hold your Screenlines till a later date. Remember, each day's Picture is a separate offer! Think of one right now for Picture No. 6 and send it in at once. Write as many Screenlines as you wish. Send them to "Screenlines," The Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. The Winners for today's picture will be printed in The Chicago Daily Tribune next Saturday! Remember a new picture will be published in The Tribune tomorrow—another one the day after—and so on each day. And $100.00 in Cash will be paid every day for the best Screenlines for each Picture!

RADIO AMATEURS PLAY PART IN FLORIDA STORM

Work Long Hours to Keep Up Communication.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—With the work of relief and reconstruction proceeding at a rapid rate in the hurricane stricken regions of Florida, the part played by amateur radio operators in furnishing reports of damage, forwarding requests for relief, transmitting messages of friends and relatives, both into and out of the devastated territory, and sending out thousands of words of press messages, is just becoming apparent, according to a report just issued by the headquarters office of the American Radio Relay league of this city.

No sooner had news of the terrible disaster begun to trickle through to the outside than large numbers of amateur stations all over the country began to "call" Florida in an endeavor to get in touch with the isolated cities of Miami, Moore Haven, and Pensacola. Chief among those was W. P. Moore, operating station 4IZ at Tampa, who immediately went on continuous watch with his station and operated day and night for several days handling emergency traffic.

Messages Reach Miami.

On the night following the hurricane, when no response of any kind could be secured from Miami and the vicinity, Moore sent out repeated messages stating where supplies of batteries and material could be obtained from warehouses in Miami for the purpose of erecting a portable station. Early on the morning of the second day, Moore got in communication with J. V. Heisch, operating station 4KJ at Miami, and immediately messages of all kinds were transmitted in both directions. 4KJ gave out bulletins of the extent of the damage, sent requests for supplies and first aid materials, and personal messages of assurance of safety to relatives in the rest of the country. All of these were received by 4IZ at Tampa and rushed by other amateur stations and regular wire lines to northern points.

With communication to Miami established, some sort of link was sought to the vicinity of Moore Haven, but all efforts to get any response from this area during the first day and night failed. In consequence, Mr. Moore hurriedly put together a battery operated portable short wave station at Tampa, and this was rushed to the Moore Haven district, and on the morning of Sept. 21 communication with this area was established with the base station at Tampa.

Other Hams Help Out.

During the first day and night, the Tampa amateur bore the brunt of all the Florida traffic, but by the second day many other Florida amateurs were standing watch and handling relief traffic. In Jacksonville, three amateurs were constantly on the air. 4FS and 4IK, operated by F. W. Weinbarg and G. Grange, respectively, relayed many personal assurance messages to the northern cities, while 4MH, operated by W. A. Battison, put an emergency quarter kilowatt transmitter in operation and coöperated with the naval station at Pensacola in handling traffic from that storm swept city. In St. Augustine, station 4PI worked steadily for two nights, and late in the night of the second day 4QY, operated by W. F. Grogan, came on the air at Fort Myers, with reports from that city.

Outside of Florida, hundreds of amateurs held themselves in readiness day and night to help the Florida amateurs. Chief among these was station 4RM, operated by J. G. Cobble at Atlanta, Ga., who maintained regular schedules with 4IZ at Tampa, and furnished the chief northern outlet for all messages from the Tampa station. In addition, this station acted as a concentrating point for hundreds of inquiry messages from relatives and friends in the northern and western states, which were relayed from all over the country by other member stations of the American Radio Relay league.

W-G-N PLANS TO OPEN ITS NEW STATION SOON

The new W-G-N transmitting station, from which future programs of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel will be broadcast, is on the last lap of completion. The final touches to the mechanical equipment are being added by Chief Engineer Carl Meyers and a staff of workmen. Power lines have been installed and it is expected that the station will probably come on the air some time within the next three weeks.

No definite date has been yet assigned for the opening, as some time will be required to test the new apparatus. The new station is located on Route No. 5, between Chicago and Elgin. It is about three miles east of Elgin.

RADIO PROVES BOON TO MUSIC, LEADERS STATE

Supposed Death Blow Is Really an Aid.

Radio—feared in its infancy as sounding the deathknell of creative American music—is really giving the nation its greatest crop of tune purveyors. This is the opinion of a large number of music men and musicians who have just ended their annual convention at the Conn music center at Elkhart, Ind.

"It is the death blow," many musicians said five years ago when America awakened one morning to find the lusty infant radio on its doorstep. "Our children will cease to create. They will only listen."

But from the convention delegates—and they represented every section in the United States—it was definitely learned that radio has done no such thing. The music men submitted facts in support of their new contention.

More Attend Music Schools.

Heads of music schools report an attendance 100 per cent higher than that of the preradio era. Music house owners report a sale of small instruments more than twice as large as that of five years ago.

The city of Chicago contributed more evidence. Where in 1923, only 3,000 men and women were enrolled in the Chicago Federation of Musicians; on the 1926 roster, the 6,000 mark has been passed.

"Every time a competent band or orchestra broadcasts a radio program another musician is born," said James F. Boyer, a leading figure in the band instrument industry. "The normal boy or girl has, above everything else, the creative instinct."

Boys Like Horns.

"What happens after the circus comes to town? Why, immediately thereafter there is a trapeze in every shed in the town, and a juvenile circus in progress on every vacant lot. These youngsters are never satisfied with the rôle of spectators. They must take part.

"And so it has been with music. The American boy hears an instrumental solo on the radio. Perhaps he hears that the player is paying his way through college with his instrument. One of his playmates has had a horn for a few months and he is talking of organizing a juvenile band. Right on the spot we have another embryo musician. And once music enters a neighborhood there is no stopping it.

"Your average boy fights shy of the piano and the singing lesson. He considers these the fields for girls. But just give him a horn—a saxophone, a cornet, a trumpet, a trombone or any of the other instruments of the 'brass band' and see what happens.

Original Superhet, 8 Years Old, Is Still on the Job

The fact that the original superheterodyne receiver is still in use in Washington ought to bolster up the courage of the timid prospective purchaser afraid to buy a set for fear modern improvements may render his purchase obsolete. There always seems to be a well defined feeling among the uninitiated that some sweeping radio development is about to occur and purchasing ought to be deferred, yet this old set invented and built by Maj. E. H. Armstrong back in 1918 seems to be keeping up with the best of them.

BRITISH PLAN HUGE ORCHESTRA FOR RADIO FANS

World's Greatest Organ to Be Broadcast.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The formation of a great "national orchestra" as a permanent feature of British broadcasting is the latest enterprise of the British Broadcasting company.

A series of national concerts to be broadcast form only a part of the national orchestra program, according to a B. B. C. official yesterday.

Concerts have been provisionally set for Oct. 21, Nov. 9, Nov. 25, and Dec. 16, with one in January, two in February, three in March and one in April.

Famous Conductors on Job.

"The orchestra will consist of 150 performers who will be drawn from well known symphony orchestras from all over the country," an official said. "A number of famous conductors have already promised us their services. Among them are Sir Edward Algar, Sir Hamilton Harty, Sir Landon Ronald, Albert Coates, Percy Pitt, Richard Strauss, Otto Klemperer, Hermann Scherchen, Bernadino Molinari, and Erich Kleiber."

A feature of the series will be the performance of the famous "Messe des Morts," by Berlioz, the French composer, which has not been heard in London for thirty years. For this performance the orchestra will be augmented by a special brass band and a special choir of 200 voices which will be brought to London from Manchester.

Half a Ton of Music.

A symphony, a choral work, a poem, and a song cycle from the prize winning works submitted from the recent B. B. C. competition for British composers also will be given.

The results of this competition have not yet been determined, but quite half a ton of music score was received from Savoy Hill.

The permanent home of the national orchestra has not yet been decided, although its concerts will continue to be given at the Albert Hall after the first series is concluded. In any case, this national orchestra is to be retained definitely as a permanent feature of the broadcast programs.

Huge Radio Organ.

Liverpool cathedral's organ, which has cost £35,000 ($175,000) and is the largest in the world, has now been completed and is ready for the dedication service on Oct. 18. Its inauguration will be an event of importance to radio fans, since it is to be used for broadcasting.

According to A. E. Temple, a director of the company which built the organ, work on it was started before the war, but it was held up during the conflict. The lowest note weights more than a ton and is three feet one inch in diameter. The instrument has five rows of keys, 222 draw knobs, and 168 stops. It is played by electro-pneumatic action, the mechanism being driven by motors with a total of 35 horse power. The extent of the organ is such that there are 17 telephones from the various parts of the instrument for the workmen to communicate with the assistant at the keys during the tuning.

Organists from all parts of the country and from the United States are to attend the dedication service and recitals which have been arranged. It is probable that broadcasts of the organ will be relayed by Daventry from Liverpool for the benefit of American listeners.

Combs the Country for the best in Education and Entertainment

HOMES where education and culture are dominant factors need the Synchrophase especially. Their interests are not local, but country-wide; their needs more than local programs can supply. With the Synchrophase they can comb the country for the best in education and entertainment.

Grebe Binocular Coils Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. and Low-Wave Extension Circuits

Grebe S-L-F Condenser Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Grebe Colortone Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Exclusive Grebe developments give a reception that is superior both in scope and quality: viz., Grebe Binocular Coils bring in any station desired, then keep others from interfering with the reception; Grebe S-L-F Condensers, by spacing out all stations equally around the dials, prevent that crowding which as a rule makes "microscopic" tuning necessary in order to separate low-wave stations; the Colortone gives control of the clarity and pitch of voice and music independent of the loud speaker's characteristics.

Ask any Grebe dealer to explain fully why Grebe reception is so superior; then have him demonstrate the Synchrophase in comparison with other sets.

If you've Found it Hard to make your Pick

Remember ~ Day-Fan is the Radio Set Great Broadcasting Stations* use to listen to their own Programs

*List on request

IF the man next door has a Day-Fan, you think it must be pretty good. When your best friend gets one and tells you you've never heard a radio, you begin to think there's something in this Day-Fan. But when you hear it's the radio used by the big broadcasting stations to listen to their own programs—that settles it. "If it's good enough for the people who send out the radio, it's good enough for me."

Single dial control, getting stations at their newspaper numbers on the dial, moderate price, easy to use, very selective, of marvelous tone quality—listening with a Day-Fan in your home is like opening the door of the broadcasting studio while the performance is on.

Well, go hear one and find out if it's so. Use one. See how simple it is. See if you can tell whether it's the piano itself playing, or a Day-Fan. See if you can tell when it's the radio, when the violin itself. Don't take our word for it. Any Day-Fan dealer will greet you with a smile because he knows you're probably going out with a Day-Fan.

Still more STAYING POWER!

NOW a new type of construction gives Ray-O-Vac radio batteries, already famous for their extraordinary staying power, from 10% to 15% still longer life.

In the new Ray-O-Vac batteries no hot pitch is used, so excessive heat has not devitalized the cells . . . and there are no bulging tops . . . no cracked seals or broken connections . . . no internal short circuits . . . no needless weight. At the same time the life of the battery is increased still more!

And the new Ray-O-Vacs insure better reception than is possible with other "B" power units because they have only from one-third to one-sixth as much internal resistance.

You can buy Ray-O-Vac batteries at the better radio and electrical dealers, hardware and music stores, department stores and auto supply shops everywhere.

CHICAGO RADIO SHOW OPENS IN COLISEUM OCT. 11

Expect Exposition to Outdo New York's.

BY FRANK HINMAN.

Everything is ready for the annual Chicago radio show, which will open in the Coliseum a week from tomorrow and be in session for seven days. According to officials of the show, it will exceed, both in the value of exhibits and the number of persons who attend, the recent Radio World's Fair held in Madison Square Garden, New York. Approximately 220,000 persons attended this exhibition.

The show will give the radio fans of the middle west their first real opportunity to see what the radio season of 1926-'27 has in store for them in the way of receivers and accessories. There are to be more than 300 exhibits, and when one considers that many of the exhibitors will display as many as ten sets and that these sets will range in price from $50 to $2,000, an idea of the value of the exhibits can be estimated.

Nothing Revolutionary.

The fans who attend the show looking for something revolutionary are doomed to disappointment. Visitors will find many changes in the sets, but they will be in the nature of improvements, rather than new ideas. There is a tendency in the new models toward single control, ease of operation being one of the primary factors in the success of a radio receiver.

Many of the manufacturers are exhibiting sets which operate direct from the electric light sockets, while others have dressed their receivers up in wonderful cabinets aimed to please the most fastidious woman. Fans will also discover that the cone speakers have come to the fore with a spurt.

For the technically inclined fans there are to be exhibits of short wave receiving and transmitting apparatus commonly used by amateurs, and of special interest will be the display of British amateur sets. There will also be set building contests opened to boys and girls and men and women.

Meet Your Favorite Artist.

Radio listeners will also be given an opportunity to see the artists whose voices they have become familiar with over the air. A huge glass studio has been constructed in one end of the Coliseum and the artists and staffs of the various Chicago stations will broadcast from it daily.

According to the officials of the public receptions either before or after publi creceptions eiher before or after their programs, and the fans can meet their favorite artists. Radio fans will also be given an opportunity to choose the most popular announcer in the city, with a gold cup going to the winner.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Sunday, October 3.) (Central Standard Time.)

BOTH the world series and the city series will be on the air today from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The contest beween the Cardinals and the Yankees will be reported beginning at 12 o'clock and the contest between the Cubs and the Sox will be broadcast at 2:15 o'clock. In the event that the eastern game goes into extra innings the Cubs-Sox game will not be started until the other is over. All the color and the picturesqueness of both games will come to listeners in the accounts given by the announcers. Graham McNamee will handle the world series broadcast, and Quin Ryan will be at the microphone for the local game. W-G-N is to broadcast all the other games of both the world and the city series.

Two internationally known artists, Anna Case, soprano, and Albert Spalding, violinist, will present an hour's program at 8:15 o'clock tonight on W-G-N. Miss Case will give nine solos, among them Aria from "Il re pastore," by Mozart; "Good Night," by Rubenstein; "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," "The Last Rose of Summer," "Annie Laurie," and "Panis Angelicus," by Franck. In some of the selections she will be accompanied by Mr. Spalding. The latter's solos will include: "Nobody Knows de Trouble I've Seen," by Cameron-White; and Andante from the Concerto in E Minor, by Mendelssohn.

The Lyon & Healy program to be given following the Cubs-Sox game this afternoon will be presented by Ruth Parker Lillen, violinist, and Alice Regina Johnson, pianist. This will begin at approximately 3:45 o'clock.

Compositions by Goldmark will make up tonight's program in "Our Music Room" on W-G-N. Each Sunday night a selected program with interesting data relevant to the composer is given, and both instrumental and vocal numbers are presented. Gilbert Ford, one of the tenors of the W-G-N group, will be vocalist tonight. This program will commence at 9:15 o'clock.

Uncle Walt will read the comics to the children this evening at 6:15 o'clock, and not this morning, owing to the broadcast of the world series. At 7 o'clock this evening listeners will have the opportunity to take part in "The Million Sing." The numbers to be given include "Kathleen Mavourneen," "In the Gloaming," "Sweet and Low," and "The Day Is Dying."

The Coon Sanders Blackhawk Night club will be on the ether from 10:30 to 11 o'clock tonight with dance music.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB WILL OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

KYW to Again Broadcast Services.

With tonight's service the Chicago Sunday Evening club opens its twentieth season of meetings in Orchestra hall, and its fifth year of broadcasting. The club was the first popular nonsectarian religious service established in the downtown district of Chicago, and one of the first religious organizations to send its programs over the radio. Station KYW will put the services on the air again this season.

This season, which marks a milestone in the club's career, a list of speakers has been secured which, the officers believe, is one of the best in the club's history. Beginning with Dr. Henry Howard of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York, tonight, one of the sensations of last season, and the Lord Bishop of London, who will speak on next Sunday, Oct. 10, great leaders in the outstanding denominations, and the religious and educational world, will be heard during the thirty-five Sundays which comprise the club year.

Many Musical Features.

Another interesting announcement is that, whereas the club has heretofore given programs by its own choir and quartet, it will add to this already attractive feature music novelties by guest artists. Edgar Nelson, the director, announces that he will introduce harp, cello, violin and vocal solos by celebrated artists from time to time, as well as a string quartet and other new features.

Tonight the choir, which has established a reputation as one of the great choral societies of the country, will give a special program from three of the great oratorios: Creation, Elijah, and Messiah. Mark Love will be the soloist of the evening in "Like as a Hart," by Allitsen.

Barnes to Speak.

If you listen in at 7 you will hear the Imperial Male quartet, and the informal talk by Clifford W. Barnes, president, who has just returned from Northeast Harbor, Me., where he conducts a Sunday Evening club during the summer months. At 7:40 Stanley Martin will give the organ recital, "Festival Hymn," by Bartlett. "Reverie" and "Caprice Heroique," by Bonnet, being three of the numbers on his program.

The club has received many unique letters from all over the country written by those "in front of the loud speaker" on Sunday nights. These come from invalids, shutins, and people of all classes and creeds.

NO SEASICKNESS IN WORLD TRAVEL TOUR FROM WMBB

A trip around the world without a touch of seasickness—this is the opportunity offered to radio listeners by station WBBM in its winter feature of "Around the World," which will be presented at 8:15 every Wednesday and Saturday night beginning on Oct. 6. Billy Spears, international travel authority, will conduct the trip with the aid of two traveling assistants.

Paris, London, Egypt, Singapore, Tokio—all the intriguing spots of cosmopolitan Europe and the fascinating orient—will be the destinations of the Speed Buggy in its semi-weekly journeys. Accompanying the travel description and dialogue as a musical background will be played the music of the locale being visited.

COLLEGE AND PRO GRID GAMES ON W-G-N THIS YEAR

Leading Tilts to Be Put on Air for Fans.

For the third successive year W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, is to broadcast the majority of this year's important midwest and intersectional football games in which midwest teams are involved. The full W-G-N schedule, which opens Oct. 9 when the Notre Dame-Minnesota game will be broadcast from Minneapolis, was released today.

Probably the most important contest the station is to present will be the Army-Navy game, to be played this year at Soldiers' field in Chicago instead of on some eastern gridiron as in years past. This classic contest is attracting attention the country over, as public spirited Chicagoans have gone to great expense to transport the entire student bodies of both West Point and Annapolis here for the game. It is the first time that the middle west has been given the opportunity to see either the game or the full flower of our future crop of generals and admirals.

Two Intersectional Clashes.

The Army-Navy game is the annual encounter towards which the respective teams of the nation's military and naval academies are pointed each year.

Among the big intersectional clashes which W-G-N is to offer are the pair of games in which Pennsylvania meets Chicago and Illinois. Chicago journeys to Philadelphia on Oct. 16 to meet the eastern team, while Pennsylvania comes west to the Illinois Memorial stadium on Oct. 30 in an attempt to even up the defeat suffered in last year's Illinois-Pennsylvania game, which W-G-N also broadcast, when Red Grange proved to the east that he had not been overtouted by western critics.

Ryan at Microphone.

Practically all of the games which W-G-N is to broadcast will necessitate the use of miles of leased telephone lines, as contests will be put on the air from points as far distant as Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Ann Arbor and Champaign. The complete schedule is as follows:

Oct 9—Minnesota vs. Notre Dame, from Minneapolis.
Oct. 16—Chicago vs. Pennsylvania, from Philadelphia.
Oct. 23—Illinois vs. Michigan, from Ann Arbor.
Oct. 30—Pennsylvania vs. Illinois, from Champaign.
Nov. 6—Michigan vs. Wisconsin, from Ann Arbor.
Nov. 13—Chicago vs. Northwestern, from Evanston.
Nov. 20—Ohio State vs. Illinois, from Champaign.
Nov. 27—Army vs. Navy, from Soldiers' field, Chicago.

Quin Ryan, who has announced the majority of W-G-N's football games in the past, and who is acknowledged to be one of the leading football announcers in the country, will be at the "mike" during all of these contests.

In addition to this important list of collegiate games, W-G-N plans this year to present the more important of the professional football games to be played in Chicago.

INSIDE THE LOUD SPEAKER

By Quin A. Ryan, W-G-N Announcer

THERE is one radio voice that we must hear before we tune out for good, and that is the voice of Miss Rosaline Greene, leading lady of the WGY players. A radio magazine writes of it in this manner: "Her golden tones awaken the waves of the ether as we may fancy Triton's horn awakened the waves of the sea."

THE APARTMENT dwellers who save on radio expense by using one receiving set for a whole building, with many horns wired up to the single set, have a parallel in the country. A Kansas farmer, we are told, has attached his radio set to his wire fence, so that his neighbors may tap in with their loud speakers!

MANY LISTENERS inquire why radio studios are draped with funereal hangings and billowing yards of cloth. The reason is that the microphone, being supersensitive, will catch many slight echoes and oddities of sound that are not discernible to the naked, as we unabashedly call it, ear. Echoes, overtones, and distorted sound quality would result from bare and reflecting walls. Even a small area of undraped wall will cause a rumpus in an otherwise thoroughly padded room. We have seen a glass window between a radio studio and the visitors' reception room injure the broadcasting from that studio to such an extent that the window had to be covered with plush curtains.

So it was that the original radio studios found themselves swathed in drapes and fabrics which would absorb sound waves and prevent reverberation, however slight. The floors were laid with cork or covered with thick, juicy carpets, and the ceilings were tucked away behind dainty and utilitarian canopies. Without these, the ever alert microphone might detect such harsh notes as footsteps, clock ticks, or the clearing of a throat in yonder corner of the room.

It was the appearance of the draperies, with the nature of the musical work, that prompted the term "studios" for the broadcasting rooms. The necessity for having the drapes brought on the luxurious furnishing of many of the studios.

Now in many radio stations the draperies and canopies are being replaced with specially prepared wall board and plastering material, with many and more of the virtues of the dry goods hangings.

It is this absorption of sound waves by the wall coverings that creates that abashed feeling for new radio speakers or singers. Take your case, for instance. You start to speak toward the "mike," and your voice goes right over there and sits down. It doesn't bounce back to you, to ringingly encourage you. It goes away from you, and you feel lost without it. All you know is that your lips are moving.

That's why there are so many hangings in the radio studios—and one wicked listener once said that there ought to be more!

WHAT ARE THE high spots in your memories of radio listening? Will you tell us what broadcast moments or features or events you hold most happily in memory? Ours are—just a few random rememberings:

1. The Christ Child program during the Eveready hour last Christmas.
2. The first time we heard the Coon-Sanders Nighthawks from KYW last winter.
3. The recitation of Kipling's "Boots" in the Eveready Hour.
4. Gene Tunney's little speech into the microphone while the cheers had not yet subsided after the tenth round at Philadelphia.
5. Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink's program one Sunday evening last winter.

What are yours?

OUT TOMORROW—The issue of Liberty containing our first radio article, the first of a series, this one entitled "The Idiocies of Radio," with a sketch by James Montgomery Flagg. The gist of it might have been summed up by Ko-Ko:

As some day it may happen that a victim must be found,
I've got a little list—I've got a little list
Of radio offenders who might well be underground,
And who never would be missed—who never would be missed.
There's the pestilential nuisances who read the telegrams,
Who give you all the eulogies and never read the slams,
Who dedicate a rhapsody to Mrs. Malone
And call the children "kiddies" in a warm molasses tone,
Who tell you their initials—tell 'em straight or with a twist—
They'd none of 'em be missed—they'd none of 'em be missed.

KANSAS CITY PUPILS TO GET MUSIC BY RADIO

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The microphone of WDAF, beginning Oct. 4, will serve school children of the middle west in a musical appreciation course, a new and practical adventure in the radio field. The school system of Kansas City, the Kansas City Symphony Orchestra association and the Kansas City Star have combined efforts in this radio program which each Monday afternoon, 3:30 to 4 o'clock, will enter the school room to explain and demonstrate in an entertaining manner the fundamentals of musical understanding.

ATLANTA SHOW OCT. 18.

Atlanta's 1926 exposition, twice as big as last year, will be staged at the civic auditorium during the week of October 18-23.

SHORT WAVES

A plan is under consideration whereby government radio stations throughout the country will handle thousands of the telegrams sent by senators and representatives.

Radio furnishes the only communication with an airplane.

A radio advertiser is reported to have received 500,000 letters from listeners.

A New York business man may send a radio message and receive replies from Paris, London, or Berlin within three to five minutes.

Marconi interests have been extended to Bolivia.

The transmission of pictures between the United States and Europe by radio is getting to be quite a business. Nearly a hundred fashion designs, checks, and pictures are sent daily.

Coolidge's Pastor Will Be Heard Today on KYW

When Central church goes on the air over KYW at 11:00 a. m. this morning, the radio audience will be privileged to hear the pastor of President Calvin Coolidge's church, Dr. Jason Noble Pierce of the First Congregational church of Washington, D. C. This is the first time Dr. Pierce has appeared on any radio broadcast in Chicago.

Telephone Employes' Radio Club Resumes on Oct. 13

The Radio Club of the Illinois Bell Telephone company will resume its activities with a meeting at the Bell Forum on Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 7:30 p. m. Interesting speakers and entertaining demonstrations are presented at every meeting. Membership is free to all men and women employés of the company.

PASTORS CHOSEN FOR SERVICES AT WLS THIS MONTH

Pastors of Chicago churches who will be heard broadcasting during October and the first Sunday in November from WLS have been assigned by the Chicago Church federation, under whose auspices these chapel services are conducted.

These services are heard on the air Sunday afternoons at 1:45 and continue until 2:30. Following are the pastors who have been assigned by the church federation and who have consented to serve:

Oct. 3—Rev. Robert Clements, pastor of Austin Presbyterian church.
Oct. 10—Rev. Frederick F. Shannon, pastor of the Central church, Chicago.
Oct. 17—Rev. Perry J. Rice, executive secretary, Chicago Christian Missionary society.
Oct. 24—Rev. Gilbert Wilson, pastor of Park Manor Congregational church.
Oct. 31—Rev. Walter H. North, pastor of Warren Avenue Congregational church.
Nov. 7—Rev. Herbert Whiting Virgin, pastor of North Shore Baptist church.

Everybody Wants Single Tuned Control
But it Must Tune with PRECISION
How the Pfanstiehl Does It

SINGLE tuned control is so great an advantage in radio operation that many have wondered why it has not come about earlier or more generally. The fact of the matter is that radio engineers have not known how to equalize their circuits, which is absolutely essential to any efficient single control. If these differ in the least electrically, then each one requires separate tuning.

Pfanstiehl solved this problem two years ago by designing a circuit extremely simple. There are no complications in it to distract or distort the radio stream. It flows through the various stages of amplification with perfect evenness. The circuits are electrically alike and can be ACCURATELY TUNED with a single knob.

Why Are All Sets Not Similarly Simple?

You might answer that by asking why automobiles required so many years to simplify. At first they had to be complicated. It was much easier to design them so. The same thing is true of radio. The control of the radio stream is very difficult. It wants to escape in all directions. To hold it in its channel all sorts of devices have been employed and these are only partially effective; in fact, they themselves interfere with the delicate vibrations and cause inequalities in the circuits.

It was a distinct advance in radio design to devise a simpler control of the radio stream and dispense with the complications of an elaborate circuit. That is Pfanstiehl's contribution to radio. And it is the secret of an efficient single tuned control.

The Key to Beautiful Tone

It is also the secret of supremely beautiful tone. As all musicians know, that depends upon a full rounded reproduction of the overtones which are the life and soul of music. If they are in the least distorted while being amplified tens of thousands of times, the tone quality suffers. And that distortion comes about by passing the radio stream through too many "knot holes," thus cramping and distorting the pattern of vibrations which make the overtones. Only an extremely simple circuit system can give that natural and lifelike reproduction which is the delight of all music lovers.

At this stage of radio broadcasting when so many beautiful programs of fine music are on the air, it is a great waste of enjoyment not to have a Pfanstiehl "Overtone" receiver in your home.

Frosts Put an End to Open Air Sales

By Mme. X.

THOSE two or three nights of blighting frost last week put an end to two useful and ornamental institutions along the north shore—to wit: the Saturday morning flower market and the Junior League open air book sale that went on at the same time as the flower sale in Market square, Lake Forest. Those pretty striped green and white umbrellas and that gay crimson pushcart are put away for the winter. Tons and tons of snow will fall, wide acres of frost will lie heavy on the land, and inconceivable gallons of melting moisture will soak the earth before next season's flower and book market will be under way again. Farewell, summer! Hail, winter!

I confess that the latter greeting has about as much warmth and sincerity as the welcome one would accord to a long, lean, lank prohibition agent armed with a search warrant. After what Dr. Evans has been telling us recently of the health giving properties of sunshine and of the eliminating properties of smoky city skies, it hardly seems likely that we shall live through the coming six months of sunless, gas laden atmosphere. But as countless millions of our kind have survived the even more appalling, smoke laden air of London, as well as that of Chicago and other American cities, let us take heart and hope for the best. As a matter of fact, London is reported to have a comparatively low death rate for a city of its size.

Reminiscent of England.

Before abandoning our study of the rural communities of this part of Illinois and of the people who enjoy what our out of door life has to offer, I want to call your attention to one of the most attractive regions within a short drive of Chicago, a countryside which might easily vie with any in England. In truth, it much resembles an English landscape, those such as Constable used to paint, or such as the London Christmas magazines delight to depict. This delectable district lies about the village of Barrington. Barrington, with its thick shrubbery through which sharp church spires thrust skyward, is quite as quaint as any New England village. It lies in a rolling, fertile, well wooded country, the land of which is largely held by what in England would be known as "gentleman farmers," that is, men who cultivate their broad acres for the pleasure of the task and with a less intense desire to make it pay than a real, dyed in the wool farmer has. Model dairies abound and charming country houses are set here and there, well separated, but with a sense of community interests that gives life a gay and sociable tone.

The great rendezvous is the recently opened Barrington Hills Country club, a delightful structure perched on a commanding site overlooking miles and miles of green and rolling fields and groves. H. Stillson Hart is the club's president and had much to do with its construction and furnishing. The building is colonial in design, white in color, with light green finishings. It has large club rooms, furnished with much taste and knowledge. There are spacious upper verandas which overlook wide stretches of lovely landscape. One of these verandas is a dining and dance porch, which must be delicious on a warm summer evening with its starry outlook and the breath of the wide and fragrant countryside rising to it from all sides.

Lovely Gardens Are Many.

The residents thereabouts delight in creating lovely gardens. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Reichmann have a charming house set in large grounds and with a simple but delightful garden plan. An austere little statue of St. Francis, the lover of birds and gardens, stands at one end of a green glade. A circular, fence enclosed rose garden is a feature of the place. An apple orchard, producing the reddest, most luscious fruit, is another.

Not far away is the roomy house of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, an attractive abode with a wide outlook on all sides and a terraced garden leading down to an alluring orchard. On beyond this in another direction is the fence enclosed rose garden hereabouts. The mansion, a spacious old one, has been made over most successfully, its once yellow brick painted white, and its trimmings and roof a soft green. It has charming terraces and an adorable walled in garden where white boltonia, purple wild asters, and giant pink phlox grow in such masses, tall and thick and feathery, as I have never seen in any other garden hereabouts. A pool is sunk in the center of this enclosure, but the main effect is that of tangled and delicious loveliness, a very riot of blossom. It is a place where butterflies and "darning needles" (dragon flies) must love to hover.

Cape Cod in Illinois.

One of the most attractive houses in that neighborhood is that of the Russell Pettingills, which is made of three Cape Cod houses brought from that historic region and put together out on the rolling prairies of Illinois. The delicate task of transplanting and combining has been so well done that they look as much a part of our fertile fields as they ever did on Cape Cod's sandy, weather beaten stretches. They are unmistakably Cape Cod, with that mellow quality that any old sea captain would have if he abandoned the hard, seafaring existence for the more sheltered and easy life of our prosperous west.

Another attractive looking place is that of the Edwin Seipps, which has a picturesque tower as part of the set of buildings. If report be true, there is an interesting studio in the top of this picturesque structure. The Herman Cushman place, not far away, is famous for its dahlias and has a little lake set about with cornfields. The George Van Hagens have a real farm where they raise fine white ducks. Other residents in that lovely countryside are the James MacMurrays, who bought the W. I. Martins' place; the Spencer Otises, among the oldest residents thereabouts; the R. R.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

Hammonds, pioneers in this special colony, and the Robert G. Works. Mr. Work is an architect associated with David Adler, and he has laid an attractive stamp on the architecture of that region, as distinctive in its way, as that with which Mr. Adler has marked the North Shore.

Following the example set by other fashionable countrysides hereabouts, the folk that populate the Barrington countryside are going in for horseback riding and sally forth in numerous companies twice a week. It looks like an ideal region for cross country riding, reminding the writer of parts of Duchess county, New York. There are streams, lakes, hedges, meadows, and any quantity of rustic lanes. There is, also, of course the fine eighteen hole golf course with its excellent natural and manufactured hazards, to provide wholesome recreation for the members of this extremely pleasant and friendly colony.

Chosen Because of Its Charm.

The owners of those charming country places have chosen this region because it gives them a life more truly rural and delightful than can be accomplished in any of the well known suburbs that lie nearer Chicago. There is a gracious, harmonious, even elegant, quality to the landscape that makes it uncommonly alluring, and the folk building there have shown great taste and feeling in the arrangements of their fields and gardens and houses. One final touch—the cuisine of their club, if a pleasant tea given there which the X. family attended, be any proof, is excellent. The management of the club, which was only opened a few weeks ago, seems sophisticated and up to date.

A thriving real estate business in the town run by a daughter of one of the well known land owners in the community, and an attractive tea room run by another shows that Barrington and its neighboring country gentry are quite in touch with modern customs. It is the young who enable us to keep up with the procession.

Arts Club Opens Its Doors.

The Arts club of Chicago opened its winter season with a tea last Thursday afternoon, though its restaurant does not offer service until tomorrow. Its delightful and chic quarters in the annex of the Wrigley building, are furnished up and set in apple pie order. On the eleventh of this month there will be an interesting exhibit there of the drawings and designs of the members of the summer school of architecture and landscape design which has been working the last three months in and about Lake Forest. From some specimens I saw of their work I should say it was of extraordinary merit. Many of the well known architects of this part of the country and from the east were amazed at the high class quality of these sketches and drawings. I believe that ten of the sixteen were offered and accepted positions in first class architects' offices both here and in New York, which is better proof than any word could be as to the merit of their achievements.

It is the ardent hope of those whose labors and financial contributions made possible this summer school that it has sufficiently justified itself to be made, by means of a wider support, a permanent institution. It is not an enterprise that conflicts in any way with older established schools. It is merely designed to serve a small and carefully selected number of graduates who want and merit an extended opportunity of study and practice. The esthetic future of our civilization may be said to rest to a certain degree in the hands of these highly trained architects and landscape designers. It is by what remains of their buildings, gardens, and sculpture that we know and judge many ancient and long dead civilizations.

What's in a Name.

The late Herbert Stone, one of the wittiest and most entertaining of men, once said to me that a man was made by his name, that any one who could be and was called Jack, or Bill, or Joe was bound to be a good sport, hail fellow well met with his kind, while one christened a romantic name like his own, or Arthur, or Percy had a hard time living it down and seldom succeeded.

You take, just as an example or proof of this statement, the several Arthurs who are bright and shining lights in our local gentry; Arthur Aldis, Arthur Huen, Arthur Bissell, Arthur Meeker, the two of them, first and second, and the late Arthur Eddy. They one and all have contributed in some measure to our esthetic life rather than to our outdoor sports. Arthur Aldis is well known as a patron of art, music, and drama. Arthur Heun is of an essentially esthetic influence in our local culture. Arthur Bissell is the very exponent of music. Arthur Meeker Sr. is perhaps the one example of the name who diverges farthest from what is expected of it, but then he started life with a violin, desiring nothing so much as to become a great violinist. It was only the cruel and inhuman treatment of his fellow men at Yale, who stole and sequestered his violin for two years, that deprived the world of a possible musical virtuoso. To this day Arthur Meeker loves to express his soul by means of his violin. Young Arthur, as his son and heir is usually called, is the embodiment of the esthetic, having a real love and talent for writing and music, and also a discerning sense of anything artistic.

A Valuable Investment.

Arthur Eddy, now, alas, no longer of this world, was perhaps our most enthusiastic patron of the most modern art, as well as a sapient collector of rare books and choice wines. At the outset of his career as a collector Mr. Eddy had saved up $600, to which he added another $600 that he borrowed, with which sum he bought a tall dark canvas by Manet, at that time a pioneer among the French modernists. It was a big investment for the young lawyer. Today that piece of canvas is said to be worth $50,000. Other treasures in the Eddy home on Sheridan road are a remarkable portrait of Mr. Eddy by James McNeill Whistler and a bust of Mr. Eddy by the great French sculptor, Rodin. Besides these there are fine examples of most of the celebrated modern artists whose names have fled from me at the moment, although I well remember the pictures that adorn the three stories of the house and even walk up the stairs with you as you make your way from floor to floor.

I have wandered somewhat from my original contention that baptismal names have a great influence on the formation of the character of the growing child. It holds good with girls as well as boys. You couldn't imagine an austere or ill tempered girl named or called Nancy. All Nancys are gay, friendly, well beloved creatures. The most striking proof of this relation of name to personality is Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, who signs herself Anna, but is always called Nancy. Nancy Coleman is a name ever young and gay. Another example is a former Chicagoite, who is sojourning in our midst for a few days, Mrs. Bruce Clark, whose friends know her only as Nancy Clark. She has been spending the last week with Mrs. C. Morse Ely, in Lake Forest and has been renewing her contact with her old friends, for she was here two or more decades ago. Since they left here, the Clarks have been part of a lively Long Island colony where they have many friends and are well liked.

Queen Marie Skips Chicago.

There has been much breath wasted in and around Chicago lately discussing the impending visit to this country of Roumania's vivacious and rather tremendous queen, Marie. Her sojourn in Chicago was assumed as inevitable and the question was propounded as to who of our élite and hospitable would probably entertain her. Since the gay round of festivities, official and otherwise, which attended the stay here of the crown prince and crown princess of Sweden last June, our appetite for meeting and feasting royalty has grown rather than been sated. We knew that that most hospitable pair, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, would be among the hosts of the numerous Roumanian cortége, because Mr. Morris is the Roumanian consul here, a post formerly held for many years by Walter Brewster. It was generally opined as pretty certain that Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's historic gold and silver dinner services, the most splendid in the country, would be brought out in honor of visiting Roumanian royalty, for no one entertains in a more stately, really royal manner, than the mistress of 1000 Lake Shore drive.

It also seemed not unlikely that the Walter Brewsters would be called upon to play hosts to Queen Marie and her suite, as they had visited her and her royal spouse two or three years ago in Bucharest, the capital of Roumania.

Beyond this illustrious trio of possible hosts fancy wandered far. There are so comparatively few people left in Chicago who dwell in palatial mansions, suitable as settings for fêtes for kings and queens, that one could almost number them on the fingers of the two hands. And now all this speculation is cast into the discard because, if the list of cities to visit chosen by Queen Marie of Roumania is correct as published last Wednesday in the W. G. N., she isn't coming to Chicago at all. She prefers to us New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, and lastly St. Louis. As no mention is made of us, perhaps it is because she fears that our Mrs. Grundy might look askance at a lady so beautiful and much talked of as her royal self. In any case it will be a pity if she doesn't come our way, so that we could show her that we are as artistic as we are practical; that our art galleries and museums are as superior as our packing houses and granaries are great; that our social leaders are as smart and chic as our captains of industry are powerful and renowned. In fact, little old Roumania, people by descendants of the ancient Latins, might learn a good deal from this youngest, most virile of great cities, while we might get a new slant on royal manners and customs from this handsome and lively queen.

Autumn Hegira Begins.

The autumn hegira, which automatically takes people from their summer abodes or from their wanderings abroad to their winter abodes, is beginning. That attractive young couple, the Wolcott Blairs, last Wednesday moved from the Lake Forest house they leased for the season, to their town abode in the stately new apartment building on the Lake Shore drive just south of North avenue. Already in town and busy settling down for the winter are the Augustus Peabodys, the Joseph G. Colemans, the E. W. Clemmers, the Arthur Meekers, Mrs. Medill McCormick. The last named, however, is only putting her apartment in order for other occupants, the Charles H. Pikes.

The Bertram Winstons have been in town all summer, as they prefer to make their annual outing in the winter. They have a charming house in Miami. Whether the damage done to it by the big wind will make an alteration in their customary sojourn there remains to be seen. It is not especially alluring to live in the midst of ruin and devastation, and for some time to come Miami, and the country around it, is likely to bear some formidable scars.

Further north on the east coast of Florida, the George A. McKinlock's lovely place, Casa Alejandro, in Palm Beach, is reported as quite unscathed although some of the beautiful palm

WOMEN'S CLUB PAGE

Arche Club Begins Another Busy Year

By Kate Webber.

A MUSICAL and reception to the new president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, who also is a member of the Arché club, marked the season's opening for that organization on Friday afternoon. Mrs. David McLean, president of the Second congressional district, I. F. W. C., also was a guest and received with the officers. The club's regular Friday meetings will be resumed this week, with a civics class meeting at 11 o'clock and a travel talk in the afternoon.

The close of the club year last spring was marked by unusual development in the life of this large club, representative of the south side's progressive women. The community dinners, given monthly, sponsored by the club and open to all interested persons, were the outstanding events of the year, in that the questions of community interests were brought into the light of intelligent debate.

Work of all departments has been gratifying, and they are well organized to continue their work this season. The size of the membership surpassed that of any previous year.

Groups Are Affiliated.

The art study class is a member of the American Federation of Arts. The civics, philanthropy and conservation class assists in the work of the Vocational Supervision league, the League of Women Voters, the Woman's Protective association, and the Travelers' Aid society.

The music study class is affiliated with the national and state federations of music clubs, the Civic Music association, and the conference of club presidents and program chairmen. Members of this class have been given life membership for the endowment fund of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

The literature class has affiliations with the Drama league, and the programs maintain an order of high excellence. The junior department, organized several years ago, was then called the Young Ladies' auxiliary, and its activities have grown along the conventional lines. One of the chief interests of the juniors is sewing for and otherwise aiding the crippled children of the Fallon school.

Greek Origin.

The name of the club was taken from the Greek word, meaning "beginning," and it was so called because the club was the Chicago group of women organized for the study of art. Later other interests were added to this study.

The club possesses a splendid collection of paintings and other art objects, it having been the custom for years to purchase at the annual Chicago artists' exhibition a painting for the club galleries.

The club in 1924 started the movement for the restoration of the Columbia Fine Arts building in Jackson park, which movement was adopted by the state, largely through the efforts of Mrs. Albion L. Headburg, who was elected president of the club last year. The building now is to be turned into an industrial museum, through recent gifts of Julius Rosenwald.

The Arché club has given sums of money both to the Art institute and to the Civic Music association, the former to insure a room for the especial enjoyment of children.

Policy Is Broadminded.

The policy of the club directorate is to coöperate with organizations having similar ideals and to be a force in the achievement of these ideals in the community and in Chicago.

The officers, in addition to Mrs. Headburg, who is serving her second year as president, are Mrs. William M. Kelly and Mrs. Thomas J. Scott, vice presidents; Mrs. Charles W. Laflin, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles I. Alward, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Charles A. Neal, treasurer.

MRS. NATHAN W. MAC CHESNEY. [Kochne Photo.]

MRS. J. R. WALKER. [Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

MRS. ALBION L. HEADBURG. [Matzene Photo.]

A RECEPTION to the new officers and directors of the Chicago College club will open the season on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney, vice president, Miss Grace Kelley, Mrs. E. O. Griffenhagen, Mrs. Robert S. DeGolyer, Mrs. John G. Jordan, and Mrs. F. Underwood are the new officers.

Mrs. J. R. Walker is the new president of the North Oak Park Woman's club, which is to hold its opening meeting on Wednesday at 1:30 o'clock at the Colonial club. Neighboring club members have been invited to attend the meeting.

The opening reception of the Arche club, oldest of the south side women's clubs, was held on Friday, with Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, new president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. David McLean as guests. Mrs. Albion L. Headburg is president of the club.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., will be the guest at a luncheon conference of the Illinois committee of the Woman's National committee on law enforcement on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock at the Morrison hotel. Mrs. William Harrison Cade is arranging the luncheon, which will be sponsored by all women's organizations having membership on the committee.

The Chicago Woman's club will launch the season's activities on Wednesday afternoon, when a reception will be given in the club parlors for the president, Mrs. Harold L. Ickes.

Members of the Chicago Woman's aid will meet on Tuesday at 2 o'clock for the opening meeting of the forty-fifth club season. Dr. Henry Neumann of the Brooklyn Ethical Culture society will speak. The child study group will meet in the morning. The parliamentary law class will convene on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, and on Thursday the civics and philanthropy class will have its first luncheon meeting. Felix Borowski will address the music committee on Friday morning, and a breakfast will follow.

The regular luncheon of the P. E. O. sisterhood will be held on Wednesday in the south grill at Marshall Field's. Mary Allen Stafford, one of the founders, will be the guest of honor, and Chapter B. I. of Oak Park will be hostess.

An open meeting of the Illinois Woman's Press association will be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Chicago Woman's club. Mrs. Ethel M. C. Brazelton will speak.

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans

"MY, but I had a time at our first board meeting," said the vice president to the ex-president and the ex-board member when the three met after the summer vacation. "With Mrs. Biggs and Miss Kerr resigning, we were left with seven new members and only four old ones. The new ones weren't at all satisfied with our past ways of doing things. They were out for change—radical change—all along the line."

"That's often the inclination of new officers and new chairmen," commented the ex-board member. "Instead of building on past experience they too often sweep it aside with a wave of the hand, ignoring any value it may have. Just what proposals were made for our improvement, this time?"

"For one thing, the new corresponding secretary said it was too much work, and foolish to send out postals for every meeting. We should send out the notices for the entire month on one postal."

"She evidently doesn't know that we've tried that scheme before and found it a failure," said the ex-president. "The attendance at our meetings fell down at an alarming rate. Members lost the postals and forgot the dates. They raised so much objection that we changed back."

"Oh yes," proceeded the vice-president, "the new house chairman wanted to move the stage to the end of the room—we've tried that before, too. You know the result—about half the audience couldn't hear, and the new program chairman objected to the guest fee, and the new calendar chairman insisted that she was going to a new printer, and the new treasurer—"

"The modern generation in club life," broke in the ex-president. "Not that I don't believe in change, but it should be based on a knowledge of what's gone before and a certainty that it will be welcomed by a majority of the club's members."

"That's what I told them," said the vice-president, "and I pointed out that our past year had been a very successful one—money in the treasury, increased membership, and committees and departments functioning efficiently. They all admitted it."

"I hope you impressed them with the idea that it is only fair to give the old ways a try out before discarding them," observed the ex-board member.

"I didn't have to. The new corresponding secretary, the one I thought the most radical suggested it. That was far more effective."

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

trees in their gardens were uprooted by the hurricane. But they are planning to go there as early as possible, which means long before Christmas.

Palm trees are especially designed by nature to withstand the hurricanes which blow every so often in the tropics and sub-tropics. Their lithe stems and comparatively light shrubbery make them almost lie down before the push of the wind. If the tempest be too harsh, their roots, which are near the surface of the ground, come painlessly out of the earth and leave a nice round hole for the next palm tree. Palms grow quickly to attractive maturity.

It is not so many years since Palm Beach was a barren, sandy spit of land, lying between the ocean and Lake Worth. Came a violent storm which blew a cargo of cocoanuts up onto the long, low beach, wrecking the ship and casting the nuts high up the sands for miles along the shore. It was not many years before that windswept strand was a delightful and fruitful cocoanut grove, which was discovered by the late Mr. Flagler and turned into one of the most delectable and elegant winter resorts in the world. So, out of what probably seemed to the owner of that cargo boat a great disaster, is come a triumph of money and taste, Palm Beach!

My Greatest Thrill

A Dangerous Toy.

My greatest thrill occurred one day while my mother was downtown. I had been sick for quite a while and was just recovering. I went upstairs and was looking in the dresser drawers and found a revolver belonging to my uncle. I started examining it to see if there were any bullets in it. I even looked in the barrel, with my finger on the trigger. I then held it towards the wall and pulled the trigger.

My mother doesn't know to this day how that hole got in the wall. That ended my experience with a revolver.

L. W.

Narrow Escape.

Having occasion one day to visit a factory situated in the rear end of a lot, I had to go through a narrow passageway in the yard. The building in the front part of the lot was being raised and was on wooden stilts.

I was in the factory only about five minutes when there was a crash and the building crushed to one side and fell over the gangway. I probably would have been killed, and the thrill of my escape is with me yet. C. K.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Queen of Roumania Is Expected Soon

BY DOLLY MADISON.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Despite the fact that New York society as a whole is concerning itself little about the forthcoming visit of Her Majesty the Queen of Roumania, which happy event is expected no later than the week after next, certain celebrities in particular have quite lost their characteristic calm in contemplating the near presence of Queen Marie. In fact, the metropolis is having a good laugh at the expense of the Joseph E. Wideners, who, unless human nature has changed, must feel that they have not been treated just right by her Roumanian majesty.

At several Park avenue teas last week it was more than hinted that some one had deliberately led the Wideners astray, imparting unto them misinformation of the wholest cloth. Such, indeed, that led them to believe that Queen Marie would be with us as early as the end of August, and that the Wideners and their palatial estate at Elkins park would be needed in making the queen happy.

A Wild Goose Chase.

It so happened that the Saratoga season was in full swing when merry Joe Widener was informed of the queen's imminent descent, and recollecting, I suppose, that noblesse oblige disregarded is too often lese majesty, he jettisoned all his plans and beat a forthwith retreat. The Widener presence, almost as much as that of the Widener stable, has ever been considered a part of Saratoga's month, and for Joe and Mrs. Widener to leave the Spa in the very middle of the short season and make tracks for the City of Brotherly Love occasioned a deal of comment and called for an explanation.

The explanation given readily by Mr. Widener was that he fully expected to entertain Queen Marie at Elkins park on the 28th of August and that therefore, this being the 22d, he would have to leave immediately to prepare for the royal coming. Amid much sorrow then, the Wideners departed for Philadelphia and Elkins park, and prepared to put their lares and penates in order, drill the butler and the corps of retainers in the proper etiquette regarding royal personages, and show her majesty that kind hearts and simple faith, if not more, are certainly the equal of coronets and Norman blood.

Alas for the plans of mice and men! The Wideners' abode at Elkins park was in great expectation and the humble peasantry of Pennsylvania were all prepared to cheer and sing, but no queen came, and it became known unto the Wideners that she was not coming for at least several weeks. Whereupon Joe and Mrs. Widener departed for Newport to console themselves in the filial devotion of Peter A. B. Widener and their daughter-in-law.

Just who was responsible for the information that sent the Wideners scurrying back to Philadelphia in such a hurry is not being told. Suspicion points to a certain lady active in Roumanian circles, but whoever it is, the knowing ones insist that her, or perhaps his, name has been indefinitely removed from the Wideners' list by the abrupt use of a heavy blue pencil.

Commuting to New York.

While man sojourn in society's ranks have abandoned Newport until next year, quite a lot have arrived for the fall season besides those regulars who fail to depart until winter's icy blasts are almost upon them. The Tommy Tailers depart this week for their Plaza apartment; the Stuart Duncans have closed Bonnie Crest; and Bishop and Mrs. Henry T. Darlington leave early this week for Harrisburg. However, the Oliver Gould Jennings are remaining at Newport, as it Viscomtesse D'Osmay, who is keeping Mrs. John Nicholas Brown good company, now that the young Mr. Brown, the most eligible of millionaires, has gone back to Harvard for a post-graduate course.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

A SINCERE SALESMAN.

We have no $25,000 jobs for salesmen.

No salesman can become one of our executives in a month.

We are not looking for the quick, slick salesman.

We do not sell Real Estate, Books, Insurance, etc.

We do have average salesmen earning $8,000.

We do promote salesmen with sales records to Executives.

We are looking for two men for Central West territories. Men with a Specialty selling background.

Let's get down to "brass tacks." We only want to interview salesmen who are sincere in their desire to make a permanent connection. Remember, no quick cleanup here, but an opportunity which you will immediately recognize after talking it over with us.

Telephone Superior 0855.
Ask for Mr. Rosenfeld.

A1 SALES MANAGER AND SALESMEN.

You are bound to make money with us.

WHY?

First—Because our facilities for service and co-operation are the very best.

Second—Because our merchandise is right.

We sell only close-in North Side property, 9 miles from State and Madison.

You don't have to wait for development. It is there.

We are owners, not selling agents.

WOODSON & WILSON,
Incorporated.
7 W. MADISON-ST.

A FEW MEN WANTED

by an old established organization with a reputation of 18 years' square dealing.

We are selling on 55th-st., 8 miles from the loop, and have residential property as low as $745 a lot. Improvements going in.

We will train, furnish leads, and co-operate in every way to get the right men started. $5,000 a year is the least they will average.

Come in and see me personally. If you qualify your future is assured.

KARL D. FRIEND,
Oliver Salinger & Co.

A. A. LEWIS REALTY ASSOCIATION WANTS MEN WITHOUT EXPERIENCE.

You have often been tempted to answer a real estate ad because you've heard that there is a lot of money to be made in that business. But you've hesitated because you lack experience. Now, don't let that stand in your way. A large percentage of our men came to us without experience, and they are making good—you can do as well. I do not promise that you can make a fortune at once, but I do say that if you follow my instructions you will work yourself into the best position you ever held in your life.

All I am attempting to do in this ad is to interest you sufficiently to cause you to investigate. I, personally, am going to talk to you and show you what other men like yourself, who came to us without experience, are doing.

See me personally.

CHICAGO'S FOREMOST SUBDIVIDERS.

A BIG MAN MENTALLY.

This is our first national expansion program. We have grown from 17 men to 100 during last six months. We have interviewed hundreds of men to pick the highest class selling organization we believe has ever been assembled. We are not so much interested in salesmen as we are in potential executives. Men who can sell for a short period, learn our business, and then be promoted. One of the best trained business analysts in America has recently entered the field as our competitor because he realizes the importance and the future of our business. We want only men who value their services from $8,000 per year up. Our business is allied to the poster advertising field. We serve thousands of the best-rated firms in America.

This is a real job for a real man. Call Mr. Barclay, Superior 7627, for appointment, or address E C 53, Tribune.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

AMBITIOUS MEN OF THE GO-GETTING TYPE WILL BE INTERESTED IN THIS.

We have a hard hitting organization of workers. Real earners who are going along happily and making substantial money week in and week out—working hard and enjoying the luxuries of life and still making enough money to put away—more money each week than the average man earns.

Our men are not super salesmen. Many in our organization never had any sales experience before coming with us. But we do require the ability to stand prosperity and still keep on working 8 hours per day.

Our men do not travel through the small towns spending what they make for expenses on the road. All of our work is in Chicago. It is nice to be home every night for dinner, isn't it?

In all of Chicago we do not believe there is a greater opportunity for making money or for future promotion than there is right here. We are right now one of the larrest corporations in our line of business west of New York City, and we are still growing.

We do believe that we train our men differently—that our commodity is better than that sold by others, and that we co-operate with our men to a greater extent than similar firms do. That's why our men are happier and making more money than men connected with other organizations.

At this time our organization consists of 27 active, go-getting ambitious salesmen, and below we show the actual earnings of each of these 27 people during the last eleven days:

P. Edmonds	$2,532.18
Davis	1,539.90
La Brasa	970.00
Fresek	907.90
Phelps	878.70
Rammer	666.50
Snyder	629.30
McCarthy	560.73
Davisson	558.60
A. Thompson	466.20
Sheets	455.60
Glatfelter	428.60
Miller	398.00
Besander	355.60
Hillicoss	340.00
O'Reilly	327.15
Gibbons	250.60
Zehner	249.00
Stark	224.00
C. Thompson	219.00
Sharshall	199.50
Nelson	181.75
S. Edmunds	179.00
Benke	174.50
Drabek	174.50
Simpson	139.30
Simon	122.40

If you are one of those doubters who believe that big money enough made who thinks that $50, $75, or $100 per week is enough for any man to make, or who thinks that only those with "luck" get ahead, then this is no place for you.

On the other hand, if you have ambition, if you believe you can do anything that the average man can do, if you can stand prosperity and want to associate yourself with a clean cut, hard hitting fearless organization, then we will consider you and a few others like you for immediate positions. Let you talk to the 27 people listed above, who will tell you for themselves what they are doing and how they do it.

Applicants need have no previous sales experience but should be over 25 years old and have a common school education. Call personally any time Monday. Ask for

SALES MANAGER,
Room 918,

AMBITIOUS MEN.

Salary, Comm., and Bonus.

Salary to any man who can show clean cut character and willingness to work; commission on each sale paid without delay.

Bonus for good sales production; a permanent organization, founded on nineteen years of subdivision experience; immediate promotion for men who demonstrate sales managerial ability.

Must Apply This Week.

The popular demand for our present subdivision, close in and rapid transportation to loop, at prices as low as $495 for beautifully wooded residence lots and $1,175 for full acres adjacent to stores, banks, theaters, and schools, is more than our present force can handle.

Men starting now can enter new addition to our sales organization on the ground floor.

With or Without Exper.

Experience is preferred, but not necessary; plenty of new inquiries furnished daily; new Cadillac automobiles with chauffeurs at disposal of all salesmen free; expert sales managers employed to teach you how to sell and to close your sales for you; men who came to us without past sales experience 60 days ago are earning $1,000 per month now. ADVERTISING SERVICE SALESMEN.

Due to rearrangement in territories we have room for two salesmen who are of the unusual type—men who can dominate the interview.

Our Syndicate Advertising Services are sold to newspapers and merchants in large and small towns. We have been in business for 15 years and have a national reputation.

A Salesman is assigned a definite territory of one or more states and he is given all standing business in the territory for renewals, as well as full credit on mail orders.

Men who are resourceful, who can dominate, who will work, who are sincere, will be placed in position to earn from $7,500 to $15,000 per year net.

Phone Superior 1966 for appointment. Ask for MR. GRACE, 155 E. Superior-st., Chicago.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR AMBITIOUS MEN.

One of the biggest campaigns of our history is now being launched. Inquiries are coming in daily, as the result of our 5-inch paper ads, direct by mail letters, telephone department, etc.

Experience Not Necessary.
Good Salary and Commision

If you can convince us that you are honest and loyal we will put you on our pay roll and give you an opportunity to make from $500 to $1,000 a month regularly. See Sales Director

ARE YOU THE MAN?

An Eastern Manufacturer wants to MEET and EMPLOY two hard-hitting, high-powered salesmen to travel and appoint dealers for their products in a line where there is more than the average sales resistance.

He is SEASONED in the selling game. He has sold stocks, bonds, advertising, or any hard selling specialties that have met with real sales resistance. He has successfully overcome all such resistance and he has CLOSED on the FIRST interview.

We would like to meet THAT salesman. To THAT man it will be a mutual pleasure to show him a successful selling plan and if he "measures up"—is a hard worker and does not object to traveling—we will offer him a permanent connection, a substantial drawing account—and an opportunity to earn over $15,000 yearly.

Mr. Van Duzer, 1505 Conway Bldg., would like to meet him Monday.

ARE YOU READY?

We need 2 Sales Managers. Must have at least 1 yr. exp. in subdivision work and a clean record. No others need apply. We will furnish the salesmen, pay good commission and have property you will be proud to offer your clientele.

MR. SALESMAN,
DO YOU WANT A REAL OPPORTUNITY?

This is not an Insurance, Real Estate, Electric Refrigeration, or house to house job.

It is a real he-man job—a good one.

We call on Bankers and Building and Loan companies.

Our men average $10,000 a year and upwards up.

We have some very exceptional territory available at present.

We will train you, start you in the territory with a field man, and give you real co-operation, a proven future without investment on your part except your brains and your ability to work along a certain fixed line. Age 25-45 years.

If you are looking for a quick, easy clean-up don't answer.

Briefly, a connection with this organization means the securing of a permanent position with a well and favorably known house, the largest in its field.

THE LADIES
LILA FARRELL
PICKS FOR US
MAKE MONEY.

We have a special ladies' department and all applicants are personally looked over by Lila Farrell—nationally known character analyst, so that she can determine who are best fitted for our special work.

This service is free and should mean a great deal to you. Miss Farrell is very frank in telling you all about your strong points and your weak ones as well.

Below we show the actual earnings during the past 11 days of some of the ladies Miss Farrell has selected:

Mrs. Davis	$1,539.90
Mrs. La Barge	970.35
Mrs. Phelps	878.70
Miss Glatfelter	428.60
Miss Hilligoss	340.00
Miss Zehner	249.00
Miss Sharshall	199.50
Mrs. Simpson	140.00
Miss Simon	122.40

Many ladies in the above list are married and are only part of their time to business; many never had any previous business experience; under Miss Farrell they are successful and make money.

Come in any time Monday and let Miss Farrell tell you about yourself. Meet the ladies mentioned above and convince yourself that you can do as well.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR NEAT APPEARING
WOMEN.

I will teach a few women a business that you can work at for two hours a day and make from $50 a week up and no one will know that you are working. This is an opportunity for you to get plenty of money for the holidays.

You owe it to yourself to investigate.

For full particulars address B H 131, Tribune.

All communications strictly confidential.

A REAL OPPORTUNITY.

A PROFESSIONAL WOMAN WELL KNOWN IN CHICAGO IS ORGANIZING A LARGE BUSINESS INSTITUTION.

TWO GROUPS OF WOMEN WILL BE SELECTED FOR THE PERSONNEL STAFF.

SOCIETY,
PROFESSIONAL,
BUSINESS, FACTORY

AND TWO GROUPS OF WOMEN WITH SELLING EXPERIENCE.

THE BEST OPPORTUNITY IN THE CITY. REPLIES STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. ADDRESS P E 189, TRIBUNE.

WOMEN,
SAVE YOUR SALARY

by making a regular amount of money each week in your leisure hours to cover your expenses. We have a position that will pay you a regular weekly income. All work may be done in your leisure time. You must be ready to put in a certain number of hours each week. If you wish to work 6 hours each week you must put in the chosen number of hours consistently and conscientiously. Neat appearance and ability to remember names and faces essential. We are seeking only women who can work a regular number of hours each week.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Illinois.

A RELIABLE PARTY CAN HANDLE THIS WITH $5,000 CASH

160 acre grain and stock farm. About 100 mi. downstate and within 10 mi. of a fast growing town. This farm is located in one of the richest farming districts in Ill. on a national highway, affording it unexcelled market facilities.

The excellent quality of the improved black soil, thoroughly tiled, has made this farm a profitable undertaking from the start.

The entire equipment of the farm is up to date and for the greater part practically new. Every modern improvement has been made.

Has large 6 rm. house, just built. New barn holds 12 head of horses and 30 tons of hay. Double crib with granary holds 4,000 bushels of corn and 4,000 bushels of oats. Tool shed 36x40; hogh house 20x50; chicken house 14x20; all new and tile fences.

This is advertised by the heirs of an estate for a direct sale, as a division must be made at once of this estate. The value of this offering is shown by the fact that a large loan can be made at 5½% for 10 years [no additional brokerage or commission] and terms will be arranged to suit the purchaser.

Write owners for full information of this bargain. Address C P 328, Tribune.

STUDEBAKER'S USED CAR PLEDGE

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

Every car sold is backed by Studebaker's National Used Car Pledge, which guarantees honest representation and 5 days' driving trial.

This means protection to you. It means that when a second hand automobile is offered by us there is no pretense about its qualities and performance. If it is in good shape throughout you are given this information. If it is only suitable for rough usage you are informed this also, and the price is in proportion to its condition.

That this policy has been adhered to and that it is a good policy explains why Studebaker now dominates the used car business in Chicago and why every day more people are deciding to buy from Studebaker.

WILLYS KNIGHT SEDAN. Good performance and good appearance. Handsome dash interior. New paint job, new tire, bumpers, and other equipment. Special for $585.

MAXWELL COUPE. Revised best of care, in good mechanical condition. Clean inside, attractive exterior. Spotlight, step plates, etc. Unusual price. $375.

& COMPANY

Authorized Lincoln Dealers

Offers

LINCOLN 2-pass. Judkins Coupe. Delivered just eight weeks ago and driven exactly 2,269 miles. It has hardly seen enough mileage to properly limber up the motor. It is absolutely perfect in the slightest detail and does not carry a mar, a scratch or anything to indicate that it has even been driven one mile. Finished in Lincoln blue and black with natural wood wheels. Carries the standard new Lincoln guarantee and service. Equipped with balloon tires, bumpers, etc. Cost over $5,300; price for immediate sale, $4,350.

LINCOLN Sedan. A large, roomy, luxurious 7 passenger sedan that presents the appearance of new in every detail and carries the same guarantee mechanically as a brand new car; refinished in a light shade of Brewster green; perfect coach condition; equipped with new balloon type cord tires, bumpers, snubbers and other extra equipment; price $2,850.

LINCOLN Limousine. This is the three-quarter type, a very desirable car for high grade livery service. Has special custom built Kimball body, finely upholstered, and in appearance would be difficult to distinguish from new; thoroughly reconditioned mechanically and guaranteed; equipped with practically new cord tires and all necessary accessories; Price $2,500.

LINCOLN Phaeton, 5 pass. Especially attractive in its new blue Duco finish with khaki top and trunk cover; guaranteed mechanically; 6 slightly used tires, spotlight, trunk at rear, 2 bumpers, snubbers, motometer, and other extras. Could easily pass as a brand new car; price $1,600.

LINCOLN Sport Phaeton, 5 pass. This car has been completely overhauled and a new motor block installed at a cost of over $300. Carries the standard new Lincoln guarantee. Duco finish; equipped with good cord tires, spotlight, bumpers, snubbers, etc. A safe, exceptional buy, priced unsually low at $1,350.

PACKARD SIX SEDAN, 1926, 5-pass. model. This car has been driven very little and is less than one year old; has the 1927 type motor head; original finish like new; equipment includes 5 practically new balloon tires, disc wheels, Lorraine spotlight, heater, 2 bumpers, motometer, etc. Interior perfect. See this car to appreciate its unusual value; $2,150.

CADILLAC 63 CUSTOM BUILT ROADSTER. One of the smartest, most attractive roadsters to be found in the city. Has beautiful paint, good tires and runs perfectly. Equipped with almost every conceivable accessory; price today $1,750.

PIERCE-ARROW 4-PASS. SPORT, series 33. Cost new over $5,500; entirely overhauled, inspected and will please the most critical buyer. Very completely equipped. Good top and upholstery, tires like new; $1,875.

PIERCE-ARROW, Series 80, Sedans. We have two 7-passenger models of this series that have been refinished, renickeled and not only have the appearance of new cars, but are in perfect mechanical condition. Excellent cord tires and complete equipment. Cost new, $4,300; price $2,750.

CADILLAC 63 PHAETON. Equipped for coming cold weather with a tight fitting winter inclosure, tonneau windshield, 4-wheel brakes, excellent cord tires, snubbers, etc.; refinished in polished Duco and carefully inspected mechanically in our shops; price $1,750.

MARMON SEDAN, 1923. This car has good original finish and is in exceptionally fine mechanical shape. An inside partition makes it a splendid car for livery service. Equipped with 5 wire wheels, 2 bumpers, slightly used tires, snubbers, etc. Interior has had seat cover protection and shows no wear; price $1,500.

Comparison of models, mechanical condition and prices will convince you that we are offering values absolutely without equal. The proof is here if you will take the time to look. Every car guaranteed as represented. Liberal terms extended responsible persons.

NASH ROADSTER. A smart appearing dandy outfit, in light cream, with Spanish leather upholstery, disc wheels, good tires, and all equipment. Has been rebuilt by us and guaranteed. Do not judge this snappy roadster by the low price, but come in and see it. $475.

JEWETT COACH 6-55, MODEL 1925. In such superb condition we doubt if any one could distinguish it from new. Exceedingly attractive. Perfect in every detail. Evidences finest care. Has balloon tires, 4 wheel brakes, 2-tone Duco finish, and all extras. Guaranteed mechanically. $950.

MOON ENCLOSED SPORT TOURING. Ideal for any season or weather condition and up to the minute with 4 wheel hydraulic brakes, etc. Finish and coach work way above the average used car. All tires excellent. Disc wheels, many extras. Rebuilt and guaranteed. $495.

1926 JEWETT SEDAN. Virtually new, having been driven short distance. In appearance and performance is positively the equal of new. Has 2-tone finish, high grade upholstery and fittings, balloon tires, 4 wheel hydraulic brakes, auto. w. s. cleaner, etc. Guaranteed mechanically. $875.

1923 REO 5 PASS. SEDAN. Presents the appearance of new in every particular. Disc wheels, balloon tires, bumpers, motometer, lock, snubbers, etc. Rebuilt by us and guaranteed. Try to equal this buy. $1,075.

JEWETT ROADSTER. This is a very late 6-55 car in the original 2 tone Duco finish, with rumble seat in rear decking. Like a new car every way you look at it. Has disc wheels, 4 wheel brakes, much equipment and the balloon tires show little or no wear. Guaranteed mechanically. $1,175.

Why Pay 100 Cents

On the Dollar

when you can buy at 50 or 60 cents on each dollar? That's exactly what you can save if you act quick. Our used car lot is being discontinued. In order to quickly close out every remaining car we will take an outright loss of 50% to 60%. Your dollar buys more here while these values last. If you cannot pay cash in full, we will accept on many as low as 10% down. Among the many bargains are:

Case 1925 sedan; perfect condition.
Essex, 6, 1924 coach; a dandy car.
Olds 6, 1924 sedan; A-1 shape.
Elcar, 1924 sedan; ready to go.
Peerless '24 phaeton; winter top.
Jordan Play-Boy; only one left.
Flint 1925 sedan; a beauty.
Chandler coupe; extra good.
Reo 1924 sedan; see and drive it.
Hudson, 1925 coach; very desirable
AND MANY OTHERS.
DEMONSTRATOR BARGAINS.
Peerless Six-80 sedans; 3 only.

You must act at once to avail yourself of this opportunity to get a real value at a sacrifice price.

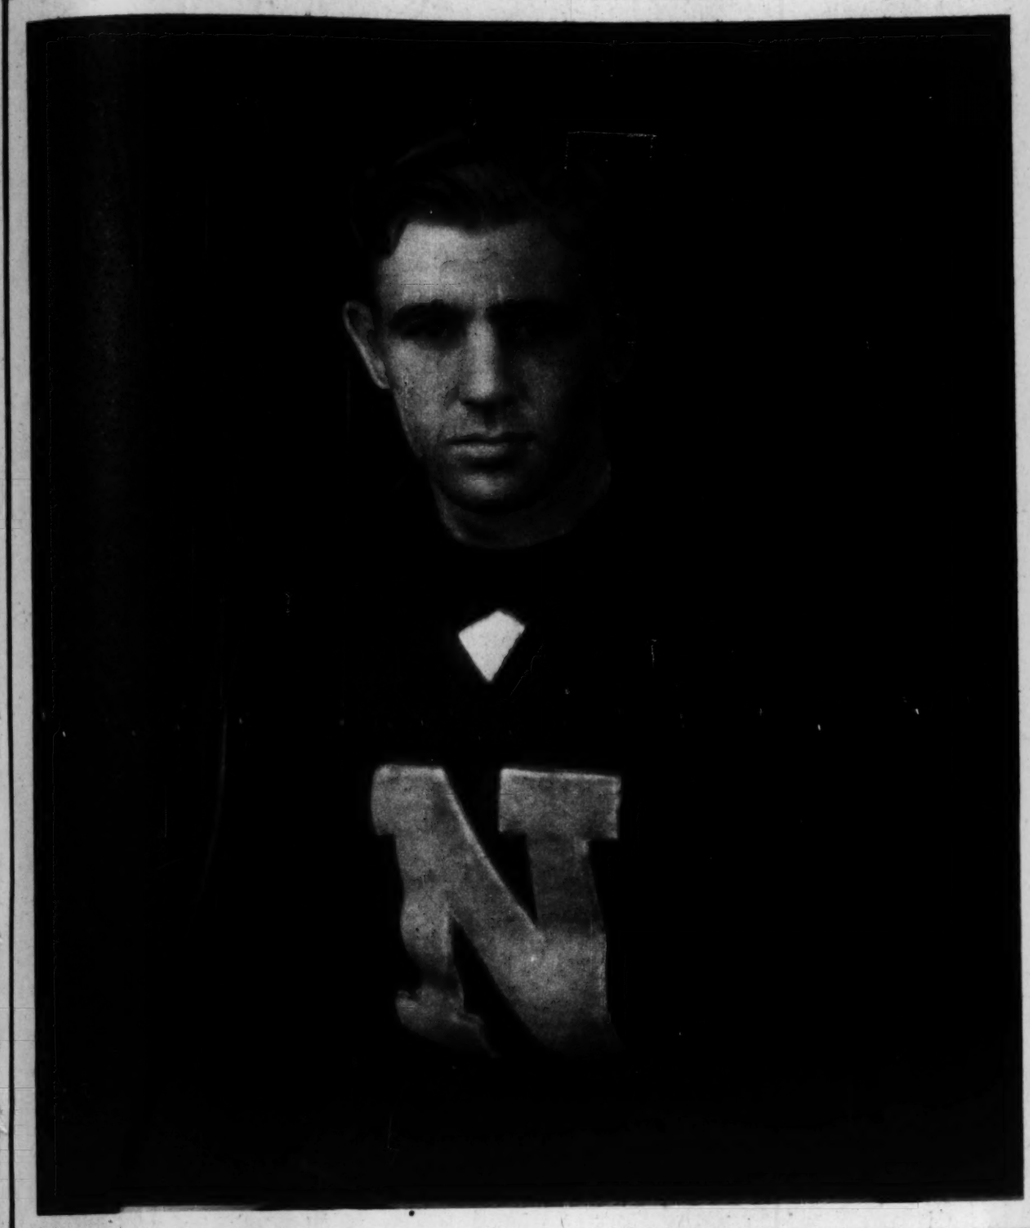
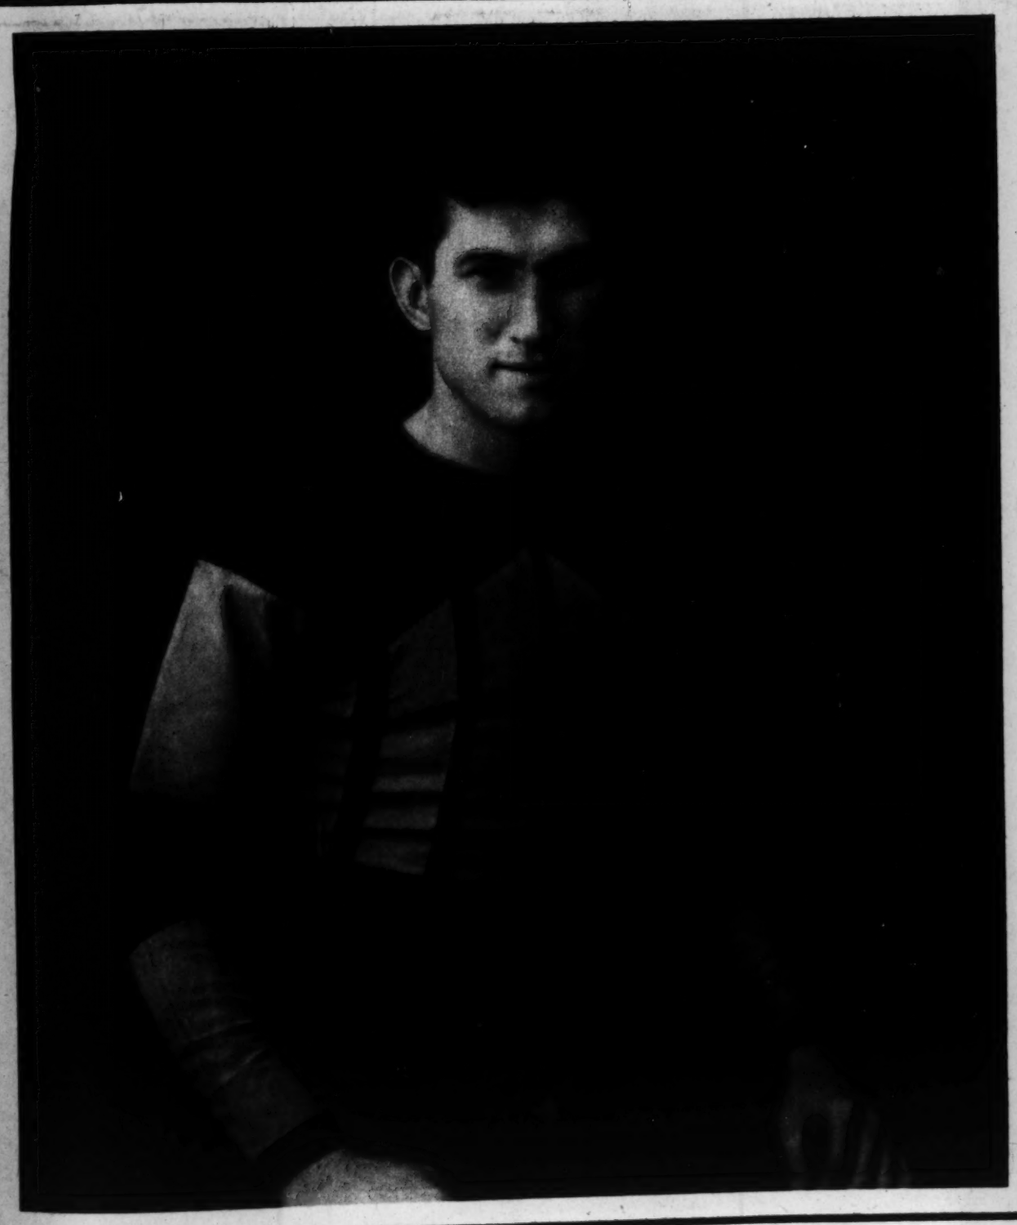
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

October 3, 1926

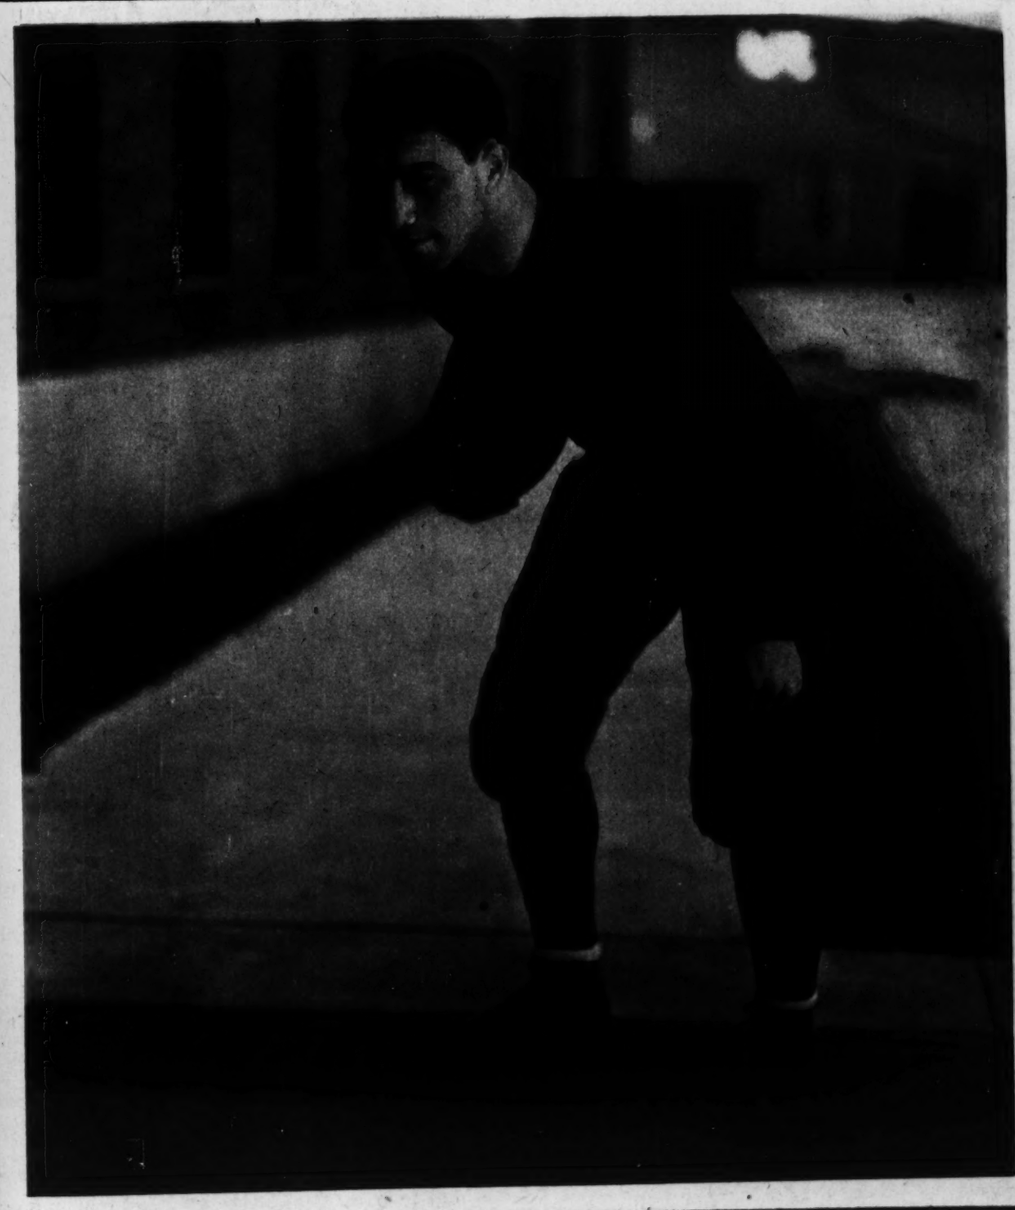


NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY will wage its 1926 football campaign under the direction of Ralph Baker, halfback. Evanston knows him more familiarly as "Moon" Baker.

WALTER MARKS, a fine fullback, will lead Coach Stagg's University of Chicago warriors in this year's gridiron struggles at the Midway and on hostile fields.



ILLINOIS has intrusted the leadership of its varsity eleven to the capable Charles E. Kassel, whom Urbana knows as "Chuck." Kassel plays end.



MICHIGAN'S GENERAL is Benny Friedman, quarter back of Coach Yost's famous machine. Last year Michigan won the Big Ten conference championship.

THE TRIBUNE PRESENTS HEREWITH the first of a series of pages of natural-color photographs of football captains. This is a feature unique in the history of this most popular of college sports. The series will include the leaders of all the major varsity teams of the country. On next Sunday's page will appear the captains at Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, and Ohio State universities.

THE WORLD'S FAVORITE SMOKE-WORDS "HAVE A CAMEL"

Did you ever notice that experienced smokers will offer or ask for a Camel—not just a cigarette? A little observation will reveal the overwhelming preference for Camels—a popularity that has never been equaled in all the history of smoking.

More smokers demand Camels, because Camel is unlike any other cigarette made.

Camel is as different as the rare quality of goodness. This difference costs millions to maintain. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown . . . the most skilful blending—that is Camels. More cannot be had at any price. When you light a Camel, you may be sure you are smoking the best.

When invited to have the world's favorite cigarette, accept with pleasure. It will be your personal introduction to the mildest, mellowest blend of choice tobaccos ever produced. Have a Camel.

"SYLVAN ARCH," they called this classic open air study at the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet school, where Chicago Civic opera premieres and students trained for the impending season. The setting is the shore at Syrenga Bluff, at South Haven, Mich., which proves to be far nearer an enchanted land of beauty than most of us would have dreamed.

A MOONLIGHT SONATA might find its inspiration in such loveliness, a group of Civic opera ballet candidates in silhouette against the silvered lake.

ANOTHER BEAUTY QUEEN, and this one English, is soon to be a treat for American eyes. She is Miss Mimi Jordan, "Miss 1924" at the Wembley exposition, and she is coming over to see us.

A FEATHERWEIGHT SAMSON is this strong man of the University of Kansas at the bottom of the pile. He is Steve Silverman, a junior, at the head of the acrobatic classes. He weighs only 125 pounds. (Photograph from International)

AN ENGLISHMAN SWIMS HIS OWN CHANNEL for a change. Leslie Norman Derham, whose trainer here was making him greasier than you would want to be, was the fifth swimmer to turn the trick in six weeks. He beat Gertrude Ederle's time, and perhaps thereby won the $5,000 offered by Lord Riddell to any Briton able to do that job. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic)

All Pullman— Extra Fare!

You feel a thrill of excitement and anticipation when you board, let us say, the 20th Century . . . one of America's finest, most luxurious trains! Of course, the cost is a little more . . . but you are happy to pay more for that distinction, that feeling of enjoying something finer than the ordinary. And so it is with Morse's candy. Take Morse's Beauty Box, for instance . . . double-dipped hand-fashioned creams, juicy strawberries and cherries in cordial, Morse's almond palmettoes, fruit nougats, filbert chains, Moreata caramels . . . Don't you feel already a thrill of excitement and anticipation? Morse's are All Pullman candies . . . and there is, naturally, a little extra fare.

MUSIC COMES HIGH, even by radio, for steel workers on the job. This gang is twenty-four stories high on the girders of Chicago's Palmer house. Jack Nelson, announcer at WJJD, is twirling the dials for the men during lunch hour. He seems able to smile about it, but he isn't lunching, and probably he doesn't want anything to eat. AN AMERICAN DUCHESS comes home for a visit. Her late husband, the Duke of Oporto, was an uncle of former King Manuel. Back in 1906 the duchess divorced her first husband, Lee Agnew of Chicago. Later she married William Hayes Chapman, and after he died she became the wife of Philip Van Valkenburg, a New York banker. Divorce ended that marital venture also. WILLIAM V. MONG plays that old sinner, Cognac Pete, in "What Price Glory." And if you know Mr. Mong you know he's pretty apt to play this tough character to the queen's taste. Mr. Mong's hobby is raising onions.

WILLIAM HAINES made a memorable success in his recent picture, "Brown of Harvard." And now we are to see him as a smart-aleck Marine recruit in a story called "Tell It to the Marines."

"I COULD HAVE CRIED
I was so ashamed of my teeth"

The letter came soon after Jimmy left. "I'm engaged." he wrote . . . "To a girl with wonderful eyes and glorious teeth!"

"Glorious teeth" . . . I could have cried. My teeth are . . . well, I am thoroughly ashamed of them. And I had liked Jimmy so.

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream will make your teeth glisten gloriously. It will whiten them and bring out all their natural beauty. But even more important . . . it will help keep your teeth and gums healthy.

Colgate's penetrates every place where it is possible for germs and food particles to collect. It loosens these impurities at once. Then it washes them away, leaving your teeth and gums absolutely clean.

Germs can't lurk in the warm, dark interior of your mouth when you use Colgate's regularly. Colgate's literally goes right into their hiding places and removes those causes of tooth decay.

Colgate's contains no grit; no harsh chemicals. It can't scratch or bleach your teeth. It polishes and whitens them naturally. That's why more people in Chicago use Colgate's than they do any other dental cream.

And you'll like the taste . . . priced right, too.

Exclusively in Gossard CHARMOSETTE

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Pat. Dec. 22, 1925.

The priceless New Fabric

With Charmosette—the perfected elastic—Gossard begins a new era in fine corsetry

Charmosette is a new, superior washable elastic fabric which has revolutionized modern corsetry. It is used exclusively in The Gossard Line of Beauty.

Charmosette wears three times as long as any other elastic fabric. Even the hardest service will not cause it to overstretch or lose its strength.

Gossards in Charmosette suffer no deterioration from perspiration acids—may be laundered daily in hot or cold water without the slightest injury to the fabric or weakening of its elasticity.

This marvelous material may be cut at any angle and altered to please. Will not run, pull, tear or break. Gossards in Charmosette are thus fitted perfectly—cannot "ride"—mould and support the figure as is impossible with ordinary elastic fabrics.

Your new Gossard in Charmosette and Royal Batiste—a new material with the beauty of satin and the durability of finest brocade—will fit, wear and look as good as new even after a year's wear and laundering.

Remember, you can obtain garments fashioned with Charmosette in all cities, but only in stores which regularly carry Gossards, and only in garments honored with the Gossard label.

Charmosette cannot be stretched out of shape. Retains its elasticity through daily washings.

This new Deep Rose shade is highly favored by the fashionably dressed women who frequent the smart French resorts. There, and in Paris itself, more Cutex Liquid Polish is sold than any other kind

A Deeper Lovelier Rose for the Nails in this new Liquid Polish!

DECIDEDLY deeper, actually a vivid rose!

Everything in the whole world of fashion has become so brilliant and scintillating that nails have taken on a deeper, richer hue.

Now, to meet this new vogue in polishes, Cutex brings out a liquid polish in a Deep Rose shade. A lovely vivid rose color that can be made still deeper by simply applying a second coat after the first has dried.

Evelyn Herbert, whose red gold hair, exquisite beauty and lyric soprano voice, made her such an appealing heroine as Princess Flavia, says: "The exotic brilliance and coloring of the new Deep Rose shade of Cutex Liquid Polish is most effective."

Cutex Liquid Polish, natural pink and the new Deep Rose is 35c at all drug and department stores. Or see the special offer.

THE PICKFORDS—MEET 'EM! They are, reading from left to right, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, Jack Pickford, Gwynne Pickford (Mary's niece), and Lottie Pickford Forrest, her sister. Don't know when before we've seen the family all together.

GILDA GRAY appears in person with a large company in a prologue to her new picture, "Aloma of the South Seas." This doesn't seem to be a bathing suit she's wearing, but if it isn't—what is it? Anyway, we know what she has on her arm. She's certainly sweet simplicity practically unadorned here, isn't she?

Home in a jiffy with a delicious drink for the party

"A WONDERFUL girl and a wonderful car" and a trip through the park on a clear, crisp day. . . . To call for some good friend. . . . To shop. . . . To lunch beside a rose-colored lamp. . . . To plan the evening's entertaining.

It's so easy now to prepare for even the most particular guest. Just speed up to some nearby shop, step out a moment, and ask the man behind the counter to tuck a Hostess Package of "Canada Dry" into the tonneau. Right there is the answer to your entertaining problem.

Those twelve bottles of "Canada Dry" will soon be hugging the ice in the refrigerator, awaiting the call to dinner—to serve when visitors call—to bring new delight when you start rummaging for that bedtime snack.

There's a thrill in the delicate, intriguing flavor of this fine old ginger ale—exhilaration in its sparkle—joyous refreshment in its bouquet.

For "Canada Dry" is a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger, and it is one ginger ale that does not contain capsicum (red pepper) in any form.

Most important of all, you know that "Canada Dry" is pure. It has been served for years in leading hospitals in Canada and in this country and is actually prescribed by physicians.

That's a real tribute to its quality and a point worth remembering when cheap ginger ales tempt you to buy just because they are cheap or because they claim to be "just as good" as "Canada Dry."

A recent portrait of Her Majesty Victoria Eugenia Queen of Spain . . .

reproduced by permission of Her Majesty to the Pond's Extract Company

THE ROYAL PALACE AT BARCELONA

A GLIMPSE OF PICTURESQUE VALENCIA

H·M·VICTORIA EUGENIA

Queen of Spain

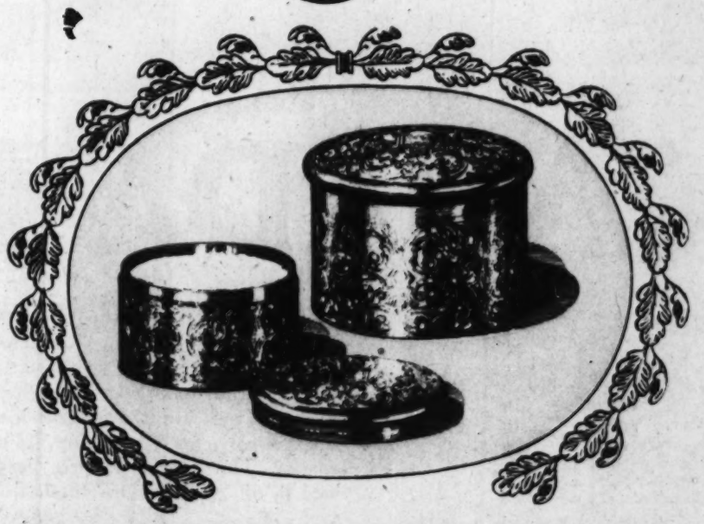
VIOLET EYES, a tall queenly presence, wavy golden hair and "that incomparable soft peach-bloom English skin."

The Queen of Spain, who was an English princess, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, is one of the most decorative queens in Europe. The King of Spain fell in love with her at sight and chose her from among many royal princesses. And fortunately, for here was a woman born to rule a people whose ruling passion is beauty.

Her Spanish subjects are proud of Her Majesty when she receives them in state, royal robes flowing from snow-white shoulders, hair an aureole of gold beneath her jeweled crown.

They love to watch her dance with easy grace...or at tennis which she plays with verve and strategy. But perhaps most of all when she rides in the public gardens of Madrid, for she sits her horse in superb form.

THE QUEEN delights in every kind of beauty, in exquisite clothes, in keeping her delicate skin and her elegant queenly person always at the very pinnacle of loveliness. So, just as she chooses her Paris hats and frocks with fastidious care, she makes her selections for her royal dressing table.



Gold-lined silver Tiffany jars engraved with the royal crest and monogram and filled with POND'S TWO CREAMS recently sent by the Pond's Extract Company for Her Majesty's use on her dressing table

Everything which contributes most perfectly to the needs of her beauty is there, prominent among them the Two delicate Creams made by Pond's. Faithfully, fragrantly, these Creams guard Her Majesty's "wild rose complexion" from all conditions which could possibly age or harm it.

Pond's Cold Cream is a delicate, cleansing cream so light that it melts on touching the skin—its pure oils sinking down into the pores to remove all dust and powder. The skin should be cleansed with it several times daily and before retiring.

Pond's Vanishing Cream protects the skin against sun and wind-burn, keeps the hands soft and white, gives a smooth finish, and serves as an excellent base for powder. It should be used after every cleansing with Pond's Cold Cream except the nightly one.

Try these Two delicate Creams of which Her Majesty has signified her appreciation.

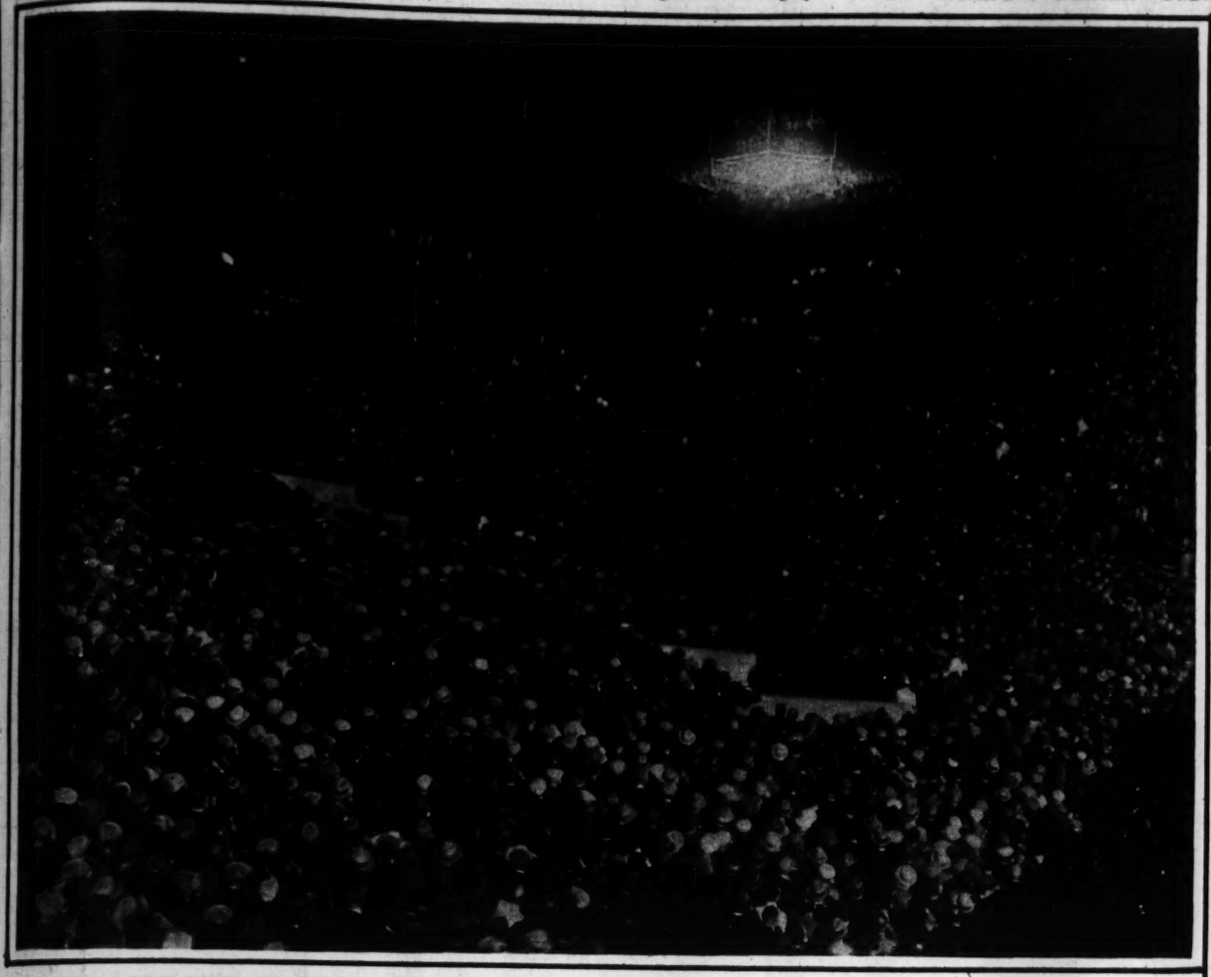
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

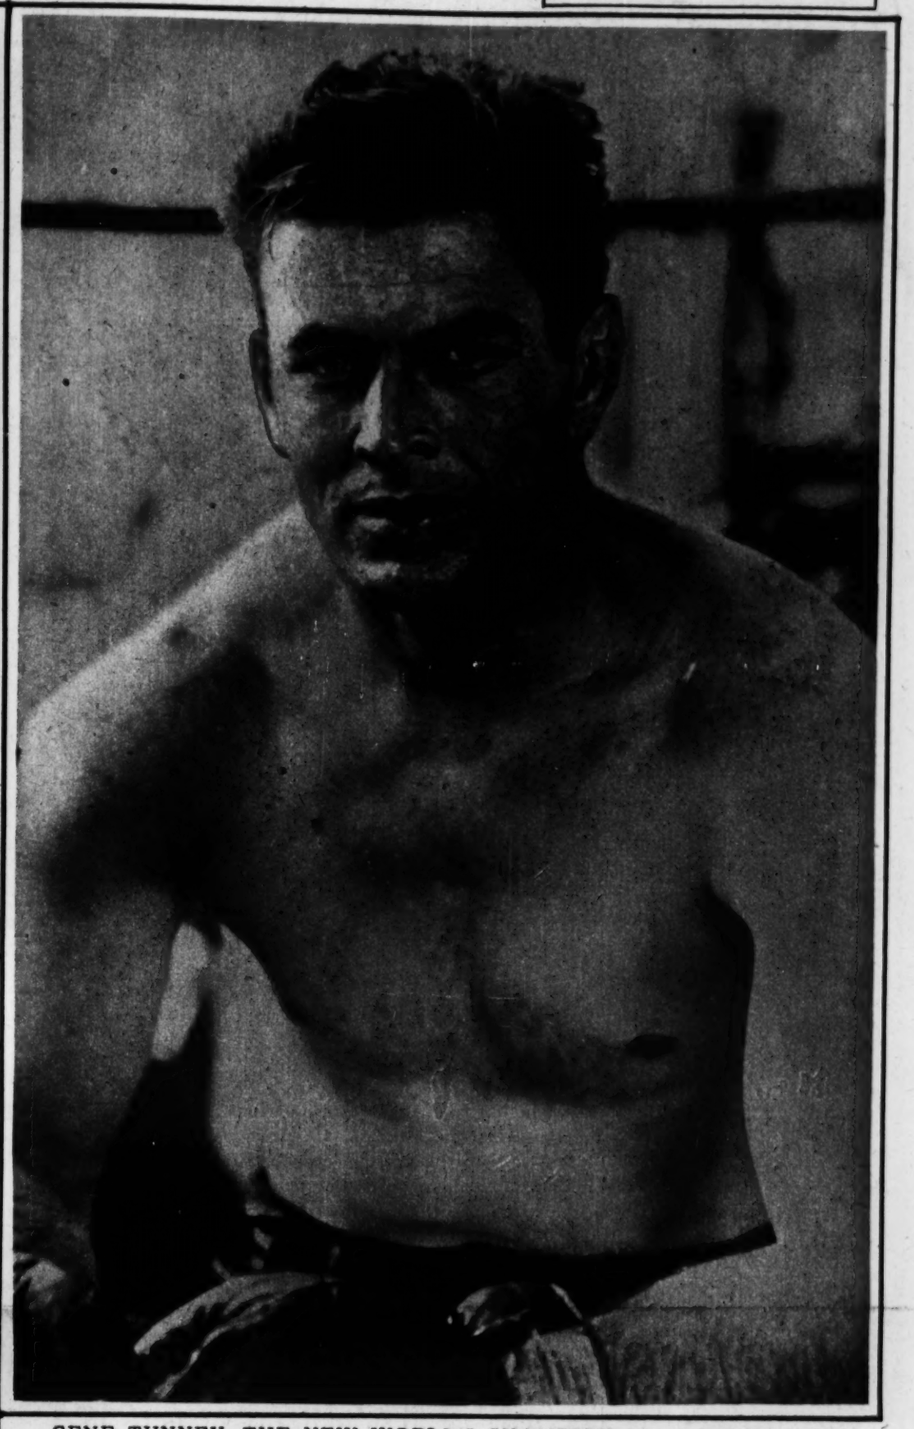
October 3, 1926



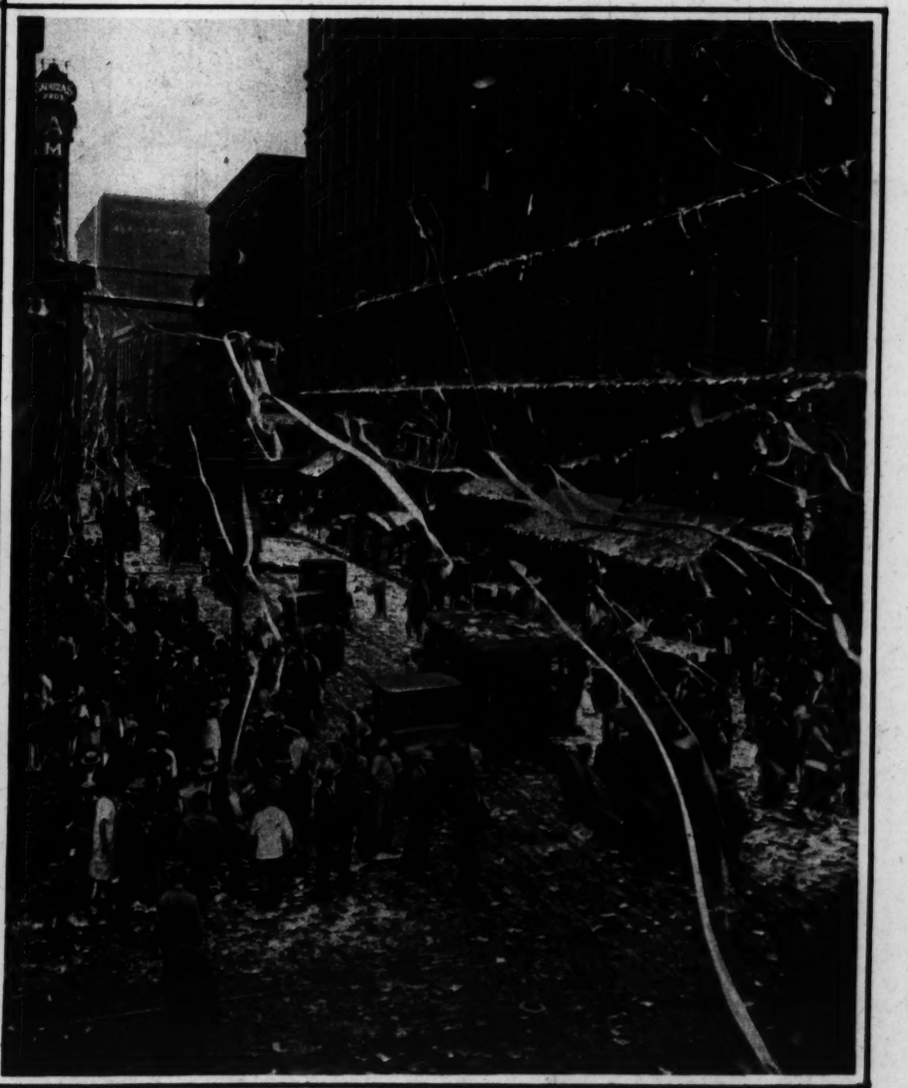
130,000 SEE TUNNEY BEAT DEMPSEY—Here's a flashlight of the multitude that packed the Philadelphia stadium while Gene battered Jack from the throne he had held for seven years and placed the heavyweight crown upon his own head. The 126,081 paying spectators contributed a purse of $1,723,394. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

TAKING DEAD FROM MINE TOMB at the Pabst workings at Ironwood, Mich., where three were instantly killed and forty-three more entombed by a cave-in. Four hundred and two feet of twisted steel and rock choked a shaft between rescuers and the men trapped on the eighth level. The three whose bodies were brought up here were crushed in the hoist. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

CHAMPIONS OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE—The Cardinals, hopes of the west, whose triumph won them the right to meet the Yankees in the world series and gave St. Louis its first pennant since 1888. Left to right, first row, seated: Southworth, Thevenow, Keen, Vick, O'Farrell, Alexander. Second row: Bottomley, Bell, Haines, Williams, Hornsby, Killifer, Blades, Sherdell, Douthit. In the last row are Sothoron, Holm, Hafey, Reinart, Warwick, Toporcer, Hallehan, Clough, Rhem, and a couple of fellows whom the camera man failed to identify. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)



GENE TUNNEY, THE NEW WORLD'S CHAMPION, pictured as he sat in his corner between rounds of the big fight. Gene's name is James Joseph Tunney. A lisping baby sister made "Gene" of "Jim," and her pet name has stuck. Tunney was born May 15, 1898, in New York City's Greenwich Village. He served in France with the Marine corps, and won the light heavyweight championship of the A. E. F. in the interallied boxing tournament at Pershing stadium. (Photograph from International.)



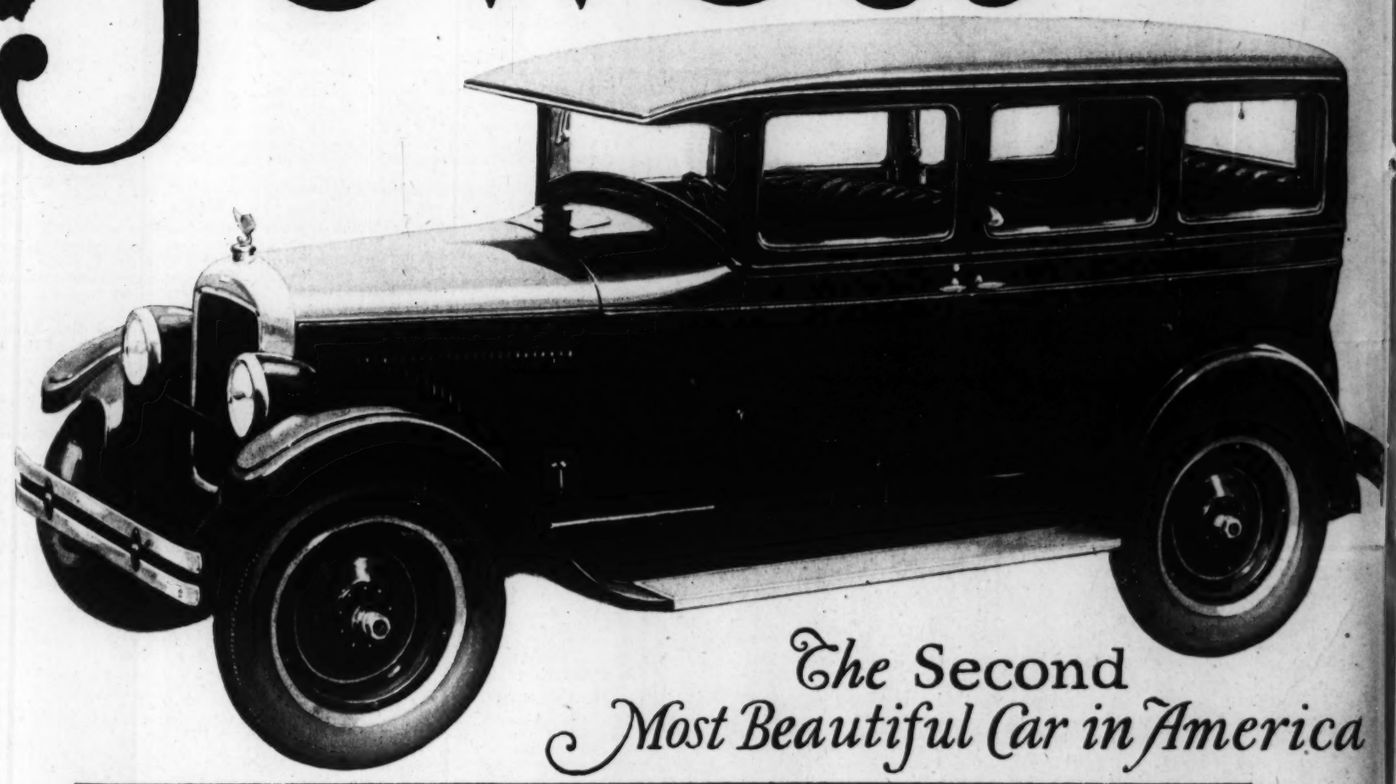
THE FIRST PENNANT IN 38 YEARS—The Cardinals had just clinched the National league championship and St. Louis hadn't had a winner since 1888, and that's why they painted the old town red. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

$10,000 FREE

FOR A NAME

that will most adequately describe the charming beauty and matchless vogue of the Beautiful New

Jewett



The Second Most Beautiful Car in America

ENTIRELY free—without any strings or reservations whatsoever—the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company will give $10,000 in cash to the person (over 14) in the United States or Canada who suggests the name or phrase that will best express the style—the charming beauty—the perfect taste—the matchless vogue—of the new JEWETT 4-door Sedan.

Nor is that all! In addition to the one major award of $10,000 in cash—this company will give two of these wonderful cars to those two people who suggest the two next most fitting names or phrases.

A New Car That Deserves a New Name!

This wonderful new Jewett is an entirely new kind of motor car. For the first time in automobile history it surrounds the ownership of a car of moderate price with the luxury and individuality of custom-built carriages.

When you see it—and sit in it—and drive it—you will appreciate that a car so superfine deserves and needs a name or designation that will set it apart and above ordinary cars. And for such a name or designation—these handsome awards will gladly be paid!

One Glimpse of This Car Will Stir Your Enthusiasm

When you first see this handsome car, you will be as enthusiastic about its charm and smartness as we are. Names should readily suggest themselves to you as you sit on its choice mohair upholstery and sink into the nested springs of its deep cushions—as you grasp its solid walnut steering wheel (instead of the customary metal-spindle wheel)—as you admire the skill that inlaid its walnut-finish panels and arranged the clever corner lights, the comfortable arm rests, the silk toggle grips and the convenient twin smoking sets—as you glance at the beautiful clustered instruments, indirectly lighted.

See and Admire Its Charm—Then Name It for Us!

After you've seen and admired the charm and beauty and smartness of this Jewett—ask any of the dealers listed below for an official ballot and write on that ballot the name or phrase (of not more than six words) that you believe most adequately identifies this car as the style carriage it is. Write on this ballot also, in not more than fifty words, your reasons for so naming the car. Then deposit your ballot in a ballot-box you will find at the showroom of any of these dealers.

There are no difficult or complicated rules about this contest. Every person who has passed his or her fourteenth birthday (except employees of Paige or its dealer organization, or members of their families) is eligible. Read the simple rules elsewhere on this page—and plan now to name this new car!

All names and phrases, together with the reasons for selecting them, will be judged by H. M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company; Charles W. Brooke, advertising expert, president of the Detroit Adcraft Club and Detroit Better Business Bureau, and Edgar A. Guest, the world-famous writer and poet.

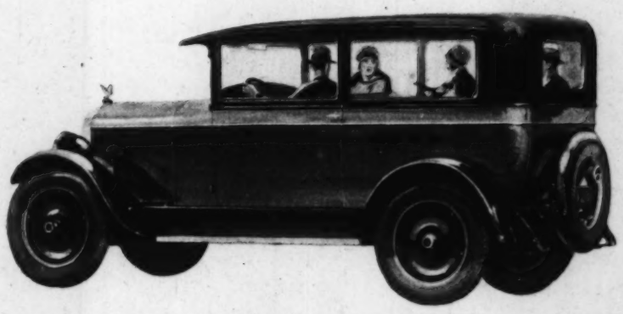
Awards made by the judges will be based first on the name or phrase submitted, and second on the reason given for choosing such name or phrase. The person awarded first prize by the judges will be awarded $10,000 in cash; the two persons awarded next two prizes by the judges will each be promptly given a beautiful new Jewett sedan delivered at their door, free!

See this beautiful new car at any of the Paige-Jewett showrooms listed below. See it today! You may win $10,000—do not delay!

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

1. Contest opens October 1, and closes at midnight on October 31, 1926. Anyone over 14 years of age may compete, except Paige-Jewett employees or members of their families.
2. The prizes to be awarded in this contest are as follows: $10,000 in cash to the person who, in the opinion of the judges, submits the most appropriate name or phrase, and gives the best reason for his or her choice; a beautiful new Jewett Sedan to each of the two persons who, in the opinion of the judges, submits the two next most appropriate names or phrases, and give the best reasons for their choices.
3. The above prizes are awarded for a name or phrase (of not more than six words) and a reason for selecting such names or phrases. The name or phrase should be such a one as will instantly create in the mind of one who hears it an impression of smartness, style, charm and vogue. In judging this contest the judges will consider first the name or phrase selected, and then the accompanying reason for selecting such name or phrase. The decision of the judges will be final and binding on all contestants.
4. All names or phrases, with reasons therefor, entered in this contest must be written on an Official Ballot. Such a ballot may be secured from any Paige-Jewett dealer, or you can get one by writing this company. Every Paige-Jewett dealer will have a ballot-box where these ballots may be deposited after you have made your choice.
5. Originality of thought, cleverness of name or phrase, soundness and brevity of reason advanced, clearness of expression and neatness will count.
6. If two or more contestants submit the same prize-winning name or phrase, and reasons for suggesting such name or phrase, and if such entries are submitted in an equally clear, concise and neat form, a duplicate award will be paid to each such tying contestant.

There's a New Jewett Brougham, Too!



For those who prefer the two-door closed car—there is also a new Jewett Brougham—bringing an even greater measure of economy to Jewett ownership. Smart, beautiful, comfortable and capable—never has a motor car so sturdily and so conscientiously built been equipped with such exquisite appointments and sold at so moderate a price.

Only a few of the many refinements found on this newest Jewett Brougham are clustered, indirectly-lighted instruments, inlaid walnut-finish panels, luxurious cushions over nested springs with comfortable arm rests, silk sun shade, beautiful and enduring upholstery.

You can adjust the front seats to suit the driver's size. The motor is larger, and equipped with the latest mechanical superiorities. The finish is a beautiful new two-tone tan, with beige trimmings. And, of course, Paige hydraulic 4-wheel brakes are standard.

Here Are the Simple Rules!

1—This offer is open to every girl—unmarried or widow—residing anywhere in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin, excepting professional beauties, such as stage girls or artists' models, and excepting employes of The Tribune and members of their families. It is free. There is no charge of any kind.

2—The Chicago Tribune will pay cash prizes ranging from $50.00 to $10,000.00 each and totaling $20,000.00 to the 56 most beautiful peaches themselves. See prize list herewith.

3—Peaches may be nominated by any relative or friend. To nominate a peach, simply send in her name and address. A Nomination Coupon will appear in The Chicago Tribune each Sunday. You may use this or write on a separate sheet of paper.

4—Send a photograph of your peach nominee if you can. Otherwise The Tribune will endeavor to obtain one by writing your nominee direct.

If you wish to enter this peach search personally, send in your photograph. Any kind of photograph will do—a small snapshot, a cabinet photo or a postcard picture. Style of photograph will not count, as standard photographs of the peaches selected by the judges will be made later at The Tribune's expense. From these standard photographs the 56 prize winners will be chosen. Therefore, do not hesitate to send in any photograph you have.

5—A Nomination Coupon should be pasted on the back of each photograph submitted, or the same information should be written on the photograph. All entries should be addressed "Peaches," The Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. The Tribune cannot be responsible for photographs, but will try to return all photographs received with sufficient postage to cover their return.

6—A new group of photographs of peaches will be published each Sunday in the Picture Section of The Chicago Sunday Tribune. Photographs of the six sectional first prize winners will be published in The Tribune's Natural Color Photography.

7—This contest is now open. Peaches should be nominated at once. No entries will be accepted after midnight, December 7th.

8—The judges will be a committee of three well known and reputable artists and writers. Their decision will be final and not open to question.

MOUTH of YOUTH

The Mouth Glands slow up for lack of exercise!
The numbers above show the important mouth glands—three on each side. Hard chewing keeps them active, but the foods we eat are too soft!

It is the important salt you taste in Pebeco which invigorates the mouth glands.

ONLY keep the six tiny mouth glands working naturally, and you will have the lovely, healthy Mouth of Youth!

From the mouth glands come the fluids which alone can really guard your teeth and gums. When they slow up, decay begins. Even in childhood, they start to work less and less actively.

And so Pebeco Tooth Paste was worked out to restore the healthy action of the mouth glands as well as to polish the teeth beautifully!

As you taste its sharp, clean, salty tang, you know your whole mouth is being invigorated. The fluids Pebeco starts flowing bathe in between the teeth and clear back to the throat.

Made by Pebeco, Inc., a division of Lehn & Fink Products Company, Sole distributors Lehn & Fink, Inc., Bloomfield, N. J. In the blue tube, at all druggists.

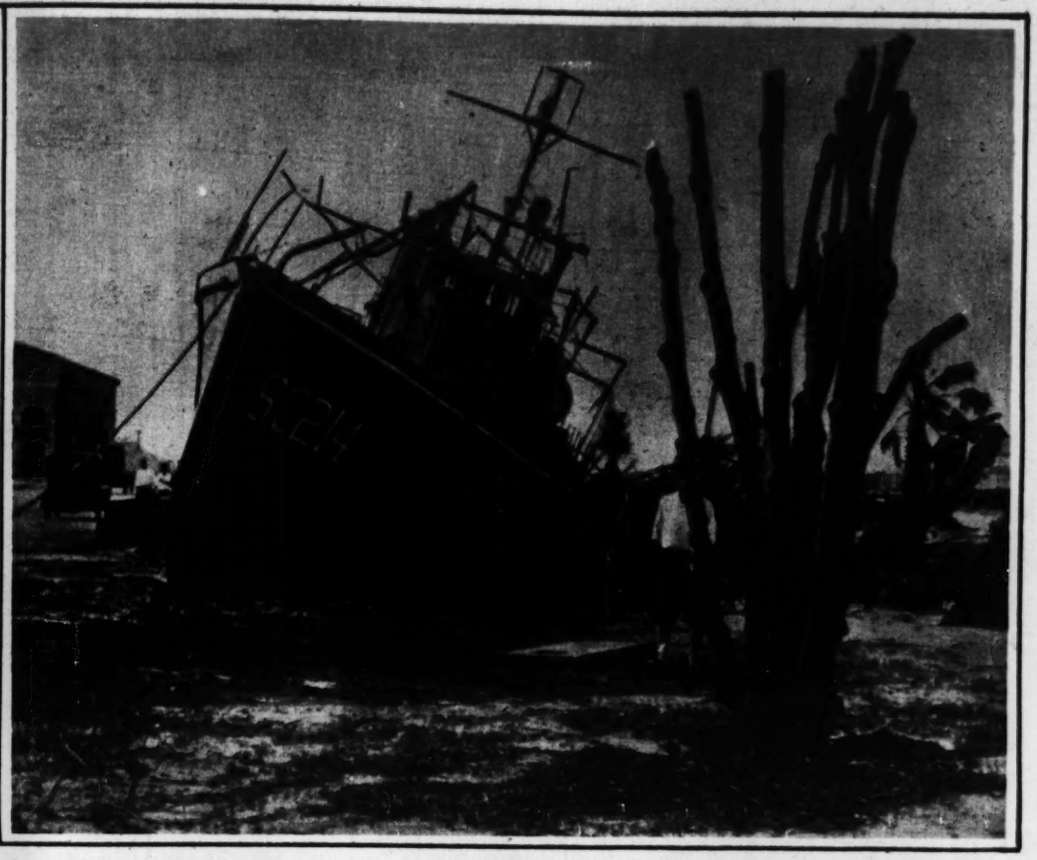
ARCHITECTS and ARCHITECTURAL DRAFTSMEN!

The Chicago Tribune Small Home Competition offers

Twenty cash prizes, totaling $7,500, for the best designs for five and six room homes combining physical comfort, economy and architectural excellence. The competition opened September 12, 1926, and will close December 1, 1926. Prize winning designs will be published in The Tribune Real Estate and Home Builders' Section every Sunday beginning January 3, 1927.

For complete information and prospectus, write immediately for a copy of the Program. Address The Chicago Tribune Small Homes Competition, Tribune Tower, Chicago.



FREAKS OF THE FLORIDA STORM—The tug at the left above lay high and dry three blocks from the bay after the tidal wave had receded at Miami. Royal Palm park was littered with stranded vessels, among them the submarine chaser SC-214 at the right, which was flung up twenty feet from the shore. (Photographs from Pacific and Atlantic)

IN THE RESIDENCE DISTRICT OF MIAMI the hurricane left such ravaged scenes as this. In homes of light construction there was heavy loss of life and property. Uprooted trees added to the jungles of desolation, destroying beauty the city cannot restore for years to come. (Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic)

THE AZORES' WORST QUAKE, in which more than a score were killed, 400 injured, and other hundreds rendered homeless, left this scene of ruin in the town of Horta. Elsewhere a tidal wave added to the toll of the temblor, driving thousands in panic to seek places of safety.

Its Fresh Fruit Fragrance tells the story of its flavor

IT'S a revelation—this delicious, refreshing flavor of fresh fruit.

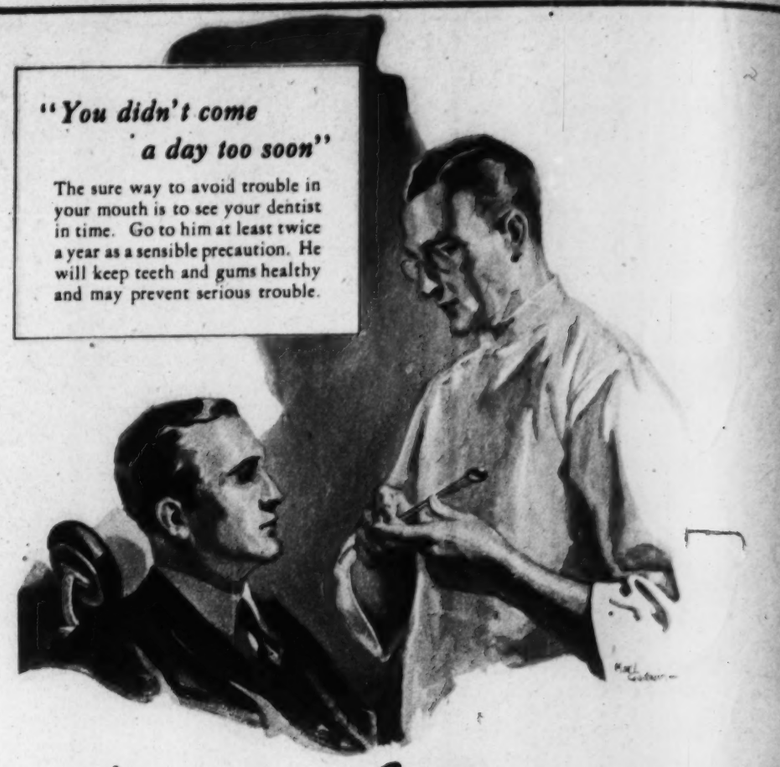
For just from the juice of the ripe fruits themselves, do Royal Raspberry, Strawberry, and Cherry derive their delicious flavor; that of Orange and Lemon comes only from the oils of real oranges and lemons.

Pour on the boiling water, and scent that delicious aroma as it rises! Sip it warm from the spoon. Instantly you know how different it is from anything else you have ever tasted.

You can trust its purity, its merit, just as you have always trusted that of Royal Baking Powder. Ask for it by name at your grocer's. Royal Fruit Flavored Gelatin. In the red package, the same color as the Royal Baking Powder can.

Royal Fruit Flavored Gelatin comes in five flavors. Strawberry, Raspberry, Cherry—from the fruit juices. Orange and Lemon—from Oil of Orange and Oil of Lemon.

RASPBERRY CONCORD PARFAIT: Dissolve 1 package Royal Raspberry Gelatin in 1 cup boiling water. Add ½ cup grape juice and ½ cup cold water. Mix well. Fill glasses ¾ full. Chill. When remainder is almost set, whip until very thick and light. Pile on plain jelly, in glasses. Chill. Serves 10.



"You didn't come a day too soon"

The sure way to avoid trouble in your mouth is to see your dentist in time. Go to him at least twice a year as a sensible precaution. He will keep teeth and gums healthy and may prevent serious trouble.

4 out of 5 see him too late

Don't let carelessness or a false feeling of security give dangerous pyorrhea a chance to fasten itself in your mouth. Four out of five have this dread infection at forty, and many younger, according to dental statistics.

A little foresight will keep you among the fortunate who escape. At least every six months let your dentist go over your mouth carefully to detect signs of gum infection and start now to brush night and morning with Forhan's for the Gums.

The entire family should brush their teeth with Forhan's. It's a pleasant tasting dentifrice that firms the gums and keeps them pink and healthy. It gives the teeth a thorough cleansing and keeps them white and clean.

You can't begin using Forhan's too soon. Delay may exact a heavy toll. It's unwise to take chances with pyorrhea. Get your tube of Forhan's today. All druggists: 35c and 60c in tubes.

THE KING IS DEAD; LONG LIVE THE KING—The battle royal of amateur golf at Short Hills, N. J., in which George von Elm of Los Angeles wrested the national championship from Bobby Jones. Defeating the young Atlantan 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final, Von Elm shattered Bobby's brightest dream, that of winning three consecutive American amateur championships and three of the four major golfing prizes of the world in a single season. (Photograph from International)

THE MAN WHO BEAT BOBBY gets congratulations from golfdom's fallen emperor. Two years ago Von Elm, at the left, got as far as the finals, and no farther, with the Georgian; and then he came to Short Hills and played down his reputation of being able to beat "any golfer but Jones." Walter Johnson, world's greatest baseball pitcher.

"The one thing a ball player must do is keep himself fit. For several years now, whenever I have felt out of condition or run down, I have used Fleischmann's Yeast. I take two to three cakes daily, spreading it on bread or crackers. I find it tones up my system and gives me 'pep.' Fleischmann's Yeast has done a great deal to help me keep in condition. My wife and four of my children also use Fleischmann's Yeast to help them keep fit."

Walter Johnson, Washington, D. C.

"TERRIBLE INDIGESTION BESIEGED ME after every meal. After trying all the home remedies, as well as many patent medicines and even starving myself, in vain, to cure my trouble, I began to eat Fleischmann's Yeast. Fifteen days afterward, I had only one very slight touch of indigestion and have not had a repetition since. That was five weeks ago. I am now a walking testimonial of what Yeast can do and did do in my particular instance."

C. H. Worts, Jr., Fort Smith, Ark.

How's Your Health?

Constipation, stomach and skin disorders can be banished—your whole life made happier—

by One Simple Food

NOT a "cure-all," not a medicine—Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food.

The millions of tiny active yeast plants in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion—clear the skin—banish the poisons of constipation. Where cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active, daily releasing new stores of energy.

Eat two or three cakes regularly every day, one before each meal: on crackers, in fruit juices, water or milk—or just plain, in small pieces. For constipation dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before meals and at bedtime. Dangerous habit-forming cathartics will gradually become unnecessary. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place for two or three days.

And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. N-769, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York.

"WHEN MY LITTLE DAUGHTER WAS RUN DOWN, Fleischmann's Yeast gave her strength and energy. Now she has perfect health, enormous vitality and her complexion is a joy to behold. She eats the Yeast as though it were chocolate. I also have obtained very satisfying results from Yeast when I was run down in health."

Mrs. C. A. Palmer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I HAVE TRIED EVERYTHING TO BANISH ACNE but the pimples always came back either in the same place, or next to it. Finally I decided I would take Fleischmann's Yeast. Now after two months' use, I've only one little 'bump' on my chin and I'm also getting rid of it with Fleischmann's Yeast. Yeast is the best and safest way to banish acne and yellow sickly-looking skin."

Anita McAleer, Denver, Colo.

THIS FAMOUS FOOD tones up the entire system—aids digestion, clears the skin, banishes constipation.

Price's Tropikid is your guarantee of true vanilla

WHEN you purchase your next bottle of vanilla, ask for Dr. Price's and make sure that the picture of Price's Tropikid is on the label. That is your guarantee that the contents are absolutely pure—real, honest-to-goodness vanilla extract, made from the true fruit of the vanilla vine. You'll pay a few cents more for a bottle of Dr. Price's, but its vastly superior flavor more than makes up for the slight difference in cost.

We will send, free of charge, an attractive recipe book, "Delicious Desserts and Candies," compiled by leading cooking experts. Address the Price Flavoring Extract Company, Dept. C, Chicago, Ill.

Dr. PRICE'S VANILLA

Whipped Cream For All Desserts

1 cup cream; 2 tablespoons powdered sugar; ½ teaspoon Dr. Price's Vanilla Extract. Put cream in the upper part of a double boiler and cracked ice in the lower part until about half-full. Sprinkle salt over ice and add a cup of water. Then place upper part in ice and allow the cream to become very cold. Whip with an egg beater until stiff enough to hold its shape. Add a few drops of Dr. Price's Vanilla Extract. Keep in a cool place until served.

DANDRUFF?

Here's good news for you—

IT'S a fact: Listerine, the safe antiseptic, and Dandruff simply do not get along together. Many were incredulous when we first announced this. But the word is fast going around from the lips of those who have found how wonderfully it works.

As you probably know, dandruff is a germ disease and that annoying white shower on dark clothes is a warning of more serious scalp trouble—falling hair, possibly baldness.

Try Listerine for, say, one week, every night and learn for yourself how remarkably it works.

The use of Listerine for dandruff is not complicated. You simply douse it on your scalp, full strength, and massage thoroughly. The effect is wonderfully refreshing. And you will be amazed to see how this treatment, followed systematically, does the trick.

Moreover, Listerine will not discolor the hair nor will it stain fabrics. And it is not greasy or smelly.

Many of the better barber shops are now prepared to give you this treatment. Try Listerine for dandruff. You'll be delighted with the results.

Health may become a shadow unless you guard The Danger Line

Carefree childhood! Will it last? Will you make it last?

ARE you willing to overlook any precaution to safeguard these active, robust little bodies?

One of the greatest sources of the troubles that come to children is the neglect of baby teeth. Too often they are deemed unimportant. This is a great mistake. For, while the baby teeth are still in place, the permanent teeth are forming in the jaws. And so, decay and premature loss of the first teeth may cause serious—often irreparable harm to the second teeth.

Thus, the regularity of the permanent teeth, the proper development of the jaw bones, and, to a large extent, the entire health of a child are often very greatly influenced by the condition of the temporary teeth.

Decay can begin almost at once after the first teeth appear. Principally it attacks the grinding surfaces. Often it occurs along the V-shaped crevices where the edge of the gums meet the teeth—The Danger Line.

Squibb's Dental Cream is safe—and effective

In the pits and crevices acids form that cause decay—and no tooth-brush can reach into all of them to brush the acids away. A dentifrice must be used which can neutralize such harmful acids and still not injure the tender surfaces of the child's mouth and gums.

Squibb's Dental Cream, made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, will accomplish this. It contains no grit, no astringents, no strong antiseptics. It is harmless even if swallowed. It is pleasantly flavored. Children like to use it.

It is particularly effective because it contains more than fifty per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. Every mother knows this safe, effective means of neutralizing mouth acidity. Every time Squibb's Dental Cream is used it neutralizes the dangerous acids which cause decay and irritate the gums. Tiny particles of the Milk of Magnesia lodge in the mouth, giving protection for a long time afterwards.

Keep your children's health out of the shadow of The Danger Line. Medical authorities agree that proper oral hygiene practiced early greatly lessens the chances of children catching the usual childhood diseases. Why, then, accept a dentifrice that may be less certain to protect? Squibb's Dental Cream is on sale at all druggists—only 40 cents for a large tube.

In almost any drug store you will find 20, 30, even 40, different kinds of dentifrices. Many people buy these dentifrices . . . changing from one to another. They seem disappointed. They brush their teeth regularly . . . yet they still have decay and gum diseases . . . WHY?

Because teeth need more than brushing. They must be protected at The Danger Line. Try this simple test—Tonight, just before going to bed, take a tablespoonful of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia in water, swallow a part of it—and use the rest to swish about the mouth and as a gargle. You will be surprised in the morning to find how clean and sweet your mouth feels. The Milk of Magnesia will not only have neutralized the acids in your mouth, but sweetened your stomach also. The same result may be obtained using Squibb's Dental Cream — it contains over 50 per cent Squibb's Milk of Magnesia.

Paris, the French Stage, Monsieur Rameau, Jack Norton, Were the Threads That Wove the Pattern in the Fabric of Young Celia Vaughan's Life

And after all, what is a lie? 'Tis but
The truth in masquerade.
—Byron: "Don Juan."

WHEN you come right down to it, it has always seemed to me that the attitude of the French stage toward a young woman who wishes to act is just as narrow minded as the attitude of some of our bucolic legislatures when they attempt to prevent a man from smoking a cigaret. Liberality is letting people alone, whereas this Gallic insistence upon gallantry—a reverse puritanism, you might call it—is simply a blue law turned topsy-turvy. All this was brought home to me a year ago when, in Paris, I happened to run across Celia Vaughan at the Hartley Johnsons'.

Hartley Johnson is an American etcher. Physically—mentally, too—he is a delightful, round, fat, florid man with a thin, delightful wife who reminds you of a piece of cloth of silver torn so as to leave soft, ragged edges. The florid husband and the thin wife live in a silver apartment . . . the walls are covered with chocolate paper . . . on one of the islands that divide the Seine, and in winter their windows look out upon a silver scene; the river hurrying past, naked chestnut trees, gray bridges, the gray towers of Notre Dame rising above gray, huddled buildings. A consummate place in which to gather on a Sunday afternoon and turn the silver into gold with lamps and drinks. And on this January afternoon the effect of gold against a silver background was heightened by a young woman who, her back to the brocade covering a piano, drank tea absent mindedly while she talked to a couple of young men.

A very gold young woman, this gold accentuated by a tight fitting black dress and a small black hat that brought into relief the whitest possible skin, a touch of color in the cheeks, and, as far as I could judge, real bronze hair. Indisputably, however, there were brown eyes and dark eyelashes. Russian, perhaps. I could not tell. There was something about her that assured me she was not French. I asked Johnson. He raised his head.

"O, that?—that's Celia Vaughan. A young American acting over here. Want to——" But I cut him short. "Yes, right away. I know all about her. I told her uncle I would look her up."

But we were stopped for a moment by Miriam Johnson where she sat on a lounge talking literature in a melancholy, caustic way with a young writer expatriated. You can see them all over Europe—these young and old American writers—and they are all ghosts nationally, although they don't know it, the young ones grayly cynical and the old ones castellated. The end of Miriam's thin nose was twitching. She is not in the least expatriated, neither by temperament nor fact, for she spends half her time in her own country.

"I don't see anything fundamentally immoral in thinking America and staying away from it," the young writer was saying with what he evidently thought was a fine bit of worldliness.

"O, no," Miriam explained gently, "there's nothing immoral about it. It's not a moral crime; it's an esthetic one. Artists have to be local . . . especially writers."

I grinned at the young writer.

"She's a nice girl—Celia," Johnson went on, "and a clever one."

We approached the piano and Celia's brown eyes widened into a smile and she put down her teacup.

"Now that's stupid of me," I thought. "Here's a beauty, and here I've been for over two months intending to call and haven't done it."

The young men, both Frenchmen, to whom Celia had been talking, having recovered from their bows, drew apart with the grave, slightly hostile, expectant politeness of the French male when interrupted with a lady.

Celia spoke in a lovely voice just a trifle blurred with accent.

"You haven't been very nice, have you? Uncle Tom wrote me you were here and would come to see me. I've been expecting you daily."

"I've been so terribly busy."

Slim eyebrows became quizzical.

"Every afternoon, too? Well, never mind. You don't look a bit like Uncle Tom, do you? Most of his friends do."

"O, I'm sorry."

"I wouldn't be."

I walked home with Celia largely because I had so maneuvered it. The history of this child seemed to me interesting. I am free to admit that it would not have seemed so interesting if Celia hadn't been so lovely, but, since she was, a delayed vicarious avuncular instinct asserted itself. I began to feel warmly responsible to her Uncle Tom, whom I detested and who had assumed no responsibility himself whatsoever. Celia appealed to me as wistful, a feeling I have to guard against, as I am reaching the age when all young women, and most older ones as well, appeal to me as wistful. They are so designed for especial purposes and their efforts to overcome this handicap are touching. But Celia seemed particularly wistful. For one thing, people you know all about but meet out of the blue always seem more alone than they really are, since it takes you some time to realize that they have their own circles of acquaintanceship. And then Celia was obviously so simple, despite her foreign training, and so gentle, and so sensitive. The elements of greatness, other qualities being added. Celia stirred your heart because this simplicity and gentleness and sensitiveness were something, so you felt, indigenous in an alien setting, an example of a secret not so many understood. No other race save Celia's, which was mine, except possibly the French, could have produced anything so fine fibered and so unself-conscious, so anxious to be mentally kind and mentally eager. You longed for some super-training that would release in so many others of your misinterpreted compatriots traits that you knew were there but which, for the most part, were so repressed and perverted.

OUR way led up past Notre Dame and then across the bridge and along the Boulevard Saint Germain and then left. A cold January moon, clear in a way seldom seen in the mist of winter Paris, walked with us. Before the cafes the little open air stoves glowed, and people drank beer and read newspapers. Presently, in a side street that twisted and turned as if deliberately avoiding crowds, we came to the old white plastered house where Celia had her apartment.

"This is not a place," she said, "where a fashionable actress would live, and I suppose if ever I become fashionable I will have to change, but I like it and it is cheap. Won't you come in?"

"O, no, thanks. I have to be getting along."

"But you will come to see me, really, won't you? I'm in almost every afternoon at five."

"Don't you ever get homesick?"

"For what?"

"For your own country."

We were standing under the light of a four-sided lamp that hung from the arch of a doorway. Celia laughed uncertainly.

"I don't know what is my own country any more. You see, I've been here so long . . . ever since I was a little girl, except for some visits. And I haven't anybody left over there now but uncles and aunts and people like that. Besides"—she hesitated and laughed again—"I'm terribly afraid of America."

"Afraid? What do you mean?"

"I've the queerest dread of it. You see, I probably like it better than most people who live there . . . that's often the way . . . it's a sort of dream to me, and I like Americans so much, especially the men . . . but New York is such a cruel, preoccupied place. Brr! It scares me. And of course I have my place here and my friends. When I come to America I want to come as a great actress with a European reputation."

"But, my dear, all great cities are cruel and preoccupied to those who don't know them. Paris is cruel and preoccupied to a stranger."

"I suppose so."

"However, you are doing very well, aren't you?"

She shrugged her shoulders.

"Fairly. I'm only twenty-four, and age and precedent have a great deal to do with the French stage." An unexpected glimmer of mischief wrinkled her eyelids. "Paris has its limitations. You'll come to see me in the play I'm in now, won't you? I've the tiniest of parts."

"I'll come tomorrow night if I can get in."

"Will you? And then will you come back for a bite and a talk? You mustn't be shocked if we are alone. I have an ancient maiden lady with me, but that's more for my American relations than my French friends. On the whole, the rigid proprieties of France don't apply to me. I'm merely a French actress."

"Franco-American," I amended.

She smiled. "Yes, Franco-American—that's right. Goodby."

"Goodby."

I kept on up the street and so by many narrow deserted ways to my hotel. My stick sounded loud as the staff of a watchman as it tapped the stones. That was a "real" girl I had just left. Courage and character and, for any one so young, not a little humor. I recalled her history. How she had refused to submit to the discipline of her tribe and its iron routine of boarding school, debutante parties, and ordinary marriage, and had insisted upon following a career. Just before I sailed I had seen her Uncle Tom in his accustomed corner of a club window, his knees drawn up and his head sunk down so that the passerby could see only spats and brilliantly blackened boots and the hint of a white waistcoated belly. Uncle Tom had spoken as follows:

"It's a damn shame, and if you get a chance, persuade her to drop it. Actress! Nonsense! There's never been an actress in the Vaughan family. It's that blamed mother of hers . . . although she's dead now. Always did spoil her. Besides, they tell me you can't remain a decent girl and stay on the French stage. Have to sort of start with the property man and work up. A real convention. Otherwise they dislike you and accuse you of all sorts of queer things." Uncle Tom had chuckled with a nasal snort as if the reflection was not without its secret pleasure and amusement. "The American stage is no great shakes, but it's not quite as rigid as that, is it? Well, you see what you can do."

But I had been completely aware from the beginning that I couldn't do anything, even if I wanted to, which I didn't. And now I felt temporarily assured there was nothing to do. The girl I had left standing under the lamp in the moonlight, the dark fur collar of her coat marking the whiteness of her skin and the bigness of her clever eyes, had given me that sense of quiet professionalism women so seldom give. Acting was no lark with her, no symptom of youthful restlessness, no temporary stop gap before marriage; it was an actual expression of her personality. And French stage or no French stage, she also gave you an impression of integrity. Whatever Celia might do if she were in love with a man, for fine women will do almost anything, what they will do or not do being usually in direct proportion to their fineness or lack of it, I doubted if she would deliberately embark upon a course of self-cheapening. A nuisance, all this sort of business, anyhow.

I ate a solitary dinner in a rage against compulsion. Since I was in France, the particular form my rage took was impatience with compulsion toward worldliness; three months before, in America, it had been impatience with compulsion toward a bloodless materialistic asceticism. Heaven would be a place where every one minded his or her own business—devils as well as angels.

THE next night I went to see Celia in the play in which she was acting—"Chez Nous," or something like that, regarded by the French as a charming little idyl. The fat middle class that made up most of the audience laughed until tears came in their eyes and then kept their tears for tenderness over the ending. A brother and a sister were in love with each other, but in the end it turned out splendidly because they discovered they weren't brother and sister after all. A parable of unconscious irony, since morality was merely a bit of luck, whereas the intent of the hero and heroine had been strictly wrong from the beginning. Celia had been right in saying that she had "a tiny part"; she played a maid and drifted on with a tray filled with tea things and drifted out, and answered a few rings of the bell, like a shaft of real sunshine got by mistake into the imitation garden beyond the windows upstage.

Afterwards I went back to look for her, and here was where Celia upset all my previous notions about her and kept on upsetting them. Dear Celia, extraordinarily disingenuous Celia. And I had thought her such a direct and simple little girl.

An ancient doorkeeper with medals of the Franco-Prussian war and the grand manner of all minor officials—poor old men in minor positions!—let me into a dark passageway that led to a dirty little waiting room. On a bench against the wall, under a yellowing photograph of a beauty of the 'nineties, sat a tall, thin youth in a dinner jacket. He was unmistakably American, the dark, languid American type that you always imagine must come from Louisiana or the Ohio river bottoms until you discover it is merely New York or Boston deadened by too much noise and a repercussion of sensation. I thought the young man was a gentleman, crossed with cabaret life, although it is hard to tell nowadays, but after one glance I lost interest. As for him, he never had shown any interest, had merely continued to lean forward, turning between his fingers his soft gray hat.

So we sat for perhaps five minutes. The dead dust of an unaired place seemed to settle on us; the yellowing photographs made a cemetery more depressing than any cemetery where winds could enter. And then footsteps echoed, and voices, and various people passed on their way to the street. The brilliance that was Celia paused in the doorway, back of her a small, fat, youngish Frenchman.

"Monsieur Rameau," said Celia to me, "one of the co-authors of the piece." She smiled at the young man who had risen languidly to his feet. "O Jack! I sent you a petit bleu saying I had an engagement tonight. Didn't you get it?"

"No."

"O, well, never mind." She turned to me again. "This is Mr. Jack Norton," she said, indicating the young man.

Monsieur Rameau had done with greeting me and thought himself unobserved. I saw him slide black eyes around to stare at Norton's half-averted face. Evidently Monsieur Rameau and Norton had met before and didn't like each other, and when a Frenchman permits himself to show open dislike he is expressing a feeling that in an Englishman would be positive hatred. Then Monsieur Rameau shrugged his shoulders, twisted his mustache, inflated his chest, breathed through his nose, and resumed his conversation with Celia and myself. If you know Frenchmen of that class at all, it required little imagination to realize what he was saying to himself; he was saying, "Do you mean to tell me that I am to consider seriously as a rival this pale creature . . . this young attenuated camel? I, who am distinguished, who am gay, who am charming—a rising playwright? Nonsense! We shall see."

At the moment, however, he had to consider some one seriously, for his suggestion that we hasten off to supper—preferably to his apartment—was met by Celia with a sudden bit of acting that left me astonished. She smiled at Monsieur Rameau as if his plan was delightful, but immediately afterward was assailed with doubts and turned to Norton, pleadingly, in the manner of a woman who can make no decisions save with a certain man's consent.

In French she said, "Do you not, my dear Jack, wish to go to Monsieur Rameau's apartment for supper? Please! We have been so dull lately, we have gone nowhere," and, Norton not responding quickly enough, she added in rapid hissing English without in the least changing her expression, "No! Certainly not! Wake up, you fool, and look angry." If eyes could tread on a person's foot, her eyes would have trod on Norton.

Norton started, looked at Rameau sullenly and then even more sullenly at Celia.

"Ah . . . the!" was his astonished exclamation, said with disgust and rage, and he swung on his heel and studied the faded photograph of the beauty of the 'nineties.

Celia laughed and raised her shoulders deprecatingly as she turned to Monsier Rameau. It was as if she was saying, "You see how jealous he is? What can I do?"

Monsieur Rameau laughed, too. "Some other time," he said, and kissed Celia's hand lingeringly. Celia smiled at him as he lifted his head, and in her eyes was the amused weariness of the woman who sighs, "Well, being a man, you know what men are. Absurd creatures!"

"Some other time," she murmured, and her softened eyes contained the further message, "but, being a man, you also know what women are."

In America such a scene would have taken on an entirely different complexion, but where we were direct deductions were difficult to escape. Besides, Celia didn't treat Norton as if she were engaged to him. . . . "O, well, these women! . . . " I was undoubtedly saying to myself just what Monsieur Rameau was saying to himself, but with a different inflection. I was also saying to myself, "Other lands, other customs, and there you are." And always aren't, otherwise there would be no wars and no street fights. Had I been younger I would have been angry. As it was, I was merely disappointed and weary. After all, it was none of my business. Any real annoyance I felt came from the fact that I had anticipated a pleasant solitary walk with Celia. Now Norton had been added to our party.

WE left Monsieur Rameau with many pledges of undying friendship and walked down the dark passageway in silence. Celia must have detected my mood, for I caught her looking at me once or twice, and as we stepped into the street and Norton went to the curb to hail a taxi she slipped her hand under my arm.

"You musn't believe all you see," she breathed. "You mustn't . . . you mustn't. I told you Paris had its limitations. I didn't mean all this meeting—I tried to prevent it."

But I wasn't impressed. By the time you have reached forty you will have learned that what Celia had just said is invariably said by the sheep and goats alike. We drove gloomily across the river in the direction of Celia's apartment. I thought Norton one of the stupidest young men I had ever met, so stupid that, even granting his present ill humor, which I supposed was due to my presence, one suspected illness and an entire crushing out of initiative. He was so stupid and Celia so silent that after a while I could stand it no longer and decided that no matter how I felt I must make a deliberate attempt to be cheerful. I succeeded so well that Celia, with her natural blitheness, eventually responded and she and I were chatting amiably by the time we reached her door. Here Norton produced another surprise, for he got out and looked at his watch and remarked gruffly, "I've only got fifteen minutes to get up to Montparnasse," and strode off with scant good-bys.

Celia rang the bell for the concierge, and a clicking latch admitted us into a dark hall at the end of which were twisting stone stairs. We ascended these and Celia inserted her latchkey in a door on the second landing and led the way into a pleasant, low ceilinged drawing room. An elderly spare lady, dressed in black, who was embroidering beside a lamp in one corner, got to her feet and smiled at us.

"Mademoiselle d'Antin, this is a great friend of my family, of my uncle's. And now you can go to bed, you poor thing. Why do you stay up?"

"I was anxious to finish my part of the altar cloth. You will find wine and sandwiches in the dining room."

Mademoiselle d'Antin bowed and smiled once more and withdrew.

In almost any other country but France Mademoiselle d'Antin, her appearance, the task at which we had found her, even the aristocratic prefix to her name would have allayed my suspicions or at least have confused them still further, but the French are rationalistic. It is quite possible for them to look like Mademoiselle d'Antin, to embroider altar cloths, and yet give way to circumstances. The attitude of a Mademoiselle d'Antin toward a young woman of fashion and a young actress would be quite different. But again, I told myself, what did it matter? I did not expect to see much of Celia—I would be in Paris only a couple of months longer—and Celia just as she was was charming and her apartment just what you would expect it to be: a lovely room of read books and aged furniture and places designed for sitting down quietly and comfortably, and beyond a dining room paneled with gray painted wood and twinkling with candles and silver.

We sat at a small polished table and drank claret and ate delicate food prepared by Mademoiselle d'Antin's slim fingers. Celia evidently felt that some explanation was necessary. "He really is a dear boy," she said, referring to Norton, "and a good friend of mine. I feel dreadfully sorry for him. He's been so ill—he was gassed in the war and it's been only recently that he's been even half a man."

"What's he do?"

Celia, with the professional's matter of factness about any sort of job, so long as it was not too dishonorable, answered, "Dancing."

"How do you mean?"

"He dances in a café at Montparnasse at night and at some thé dansant during the afternoon."

"What kind of dancing?"

"Every kind; fancy dancing at night and with flappers and old ladies and American tourists in the afternoon."

She noticed the look of dislike that crossed my face.

"O, you mustn't do that," she said tolerantly, as one would to a child. "He can't help himself. People have to live, you know. What do you expect? His family are rich and live in Cleveland. What did they ever train him to do? The war came when he was in college, and then he was hurt, and then because he was too sick to be a clerk, or an iron puddler, or whatever it was they wanted him to be, they wouldn't, after awhile, do much for him, and so he drifted back here. What do rich American families train their sons to be, anyhow—or their daughters, for that matter? If they can't be business men the only other thing they know is dancing. I'm glad I have a little income of my own."

"What's he so cross about?"

A confusion like the wake of a boat in shining water passed across Celia's eyes and she hesitated.

"He's annoyed about something," she said cryptically.

And then, as if she had given me all the explanation necessary and as if the explanation made everything all right, with the curious ostrichlike quality that distinguishes women, she apparently put the question out of her mind.

And to repeat until it becomes tiresome, Paris does change your outlook.

So long as Celia was perfectly satisfied why shouldn't I, a casual acquaintance, be satisfied, too? I was; I accepted Norton as a silent addition to perhaps half the few excursions on which Celia and I went together, and I expected to see Norton, and was seldom disappointed, upon the other occasions when I came across Celia unexpectedly. Celia dragged him about with her as an April day drags a cloud threatening rain.

BY this time I had met most of the company, dramatic and mechanical and executive, of "Chez Nous," and I was aware of the fact that the gentlemen, without exception, and whatever their present entanglements seemed to be, adored Celia and regarded Norton as some sort of indefinable nuisance.

I saw Celia perhaps twice a week—my hotel was not far from her apartment. Sometimes I dropped in for tea and sometimes I took her and Norton to supper after the theater. Monsieur Rameau did manage to give one or two parties to which I was taken, I suspect, as an additional buffer. On the second of these occasions he behaved rather badly, registering jealousy in all its phases and scowling furiously at Celia while a Monsieur Zeller played Ravel on the piano.

The end of March was approaching and soon I would be going home. Every now and then there came a day when the sky was blue above the Luxembourg gardens and there was in the air a soft smell of grass, and there was, too, in the air the gentle goodness of spring. Winter is the time when one does not care what happens. On one such day, about four in the afternoon, I strolled in the direction of Celia's apartment. I had about made up my mind to counsel Celia to marry Norton whether she loved him very deeply or not.

Sunlight lingered in the little street where Celia lived and made my meditative footsteps even slower. I inquired from the concierge if Mademoiselle Vaughan was in and was told that she was, but I knew that already, for I had telephoned. I was, therefore, unhappily astonished when, pausing before Celia's door, I heard voices—mainly one voice, loud, oratorical, continued. "Celia must be studying a part with some one," I thought, and rang the bell. The smiling maid answered, but she wasn't smiling just then; she looked disturbed and resentful. She took my hat and coat and announced me, and then ducked back into the kitchen and shut herself in. As I approached the curtains that guarded the drawing room I recognized Rameau's voice, distinct and beautiful and angrily French.

"No, I will not shut up," he was saying. "I shall have my say. I shall ask this Monsieur—this friend of yours. He is a mature man; he will understand. It is shocking; it cannot go on."

I paused, astonished. Then Rameau was on the same errand as myself. How amusing—in a grim way. And what a story to tell my American friends who imagined all Frenchmen were without scruples. Of course they had scruples. Any sort of knowledge of them told you that, although their scruples did not always coincide with yours, their code was equally severe. I had misjudged Rameau; I had mistaken indignation for jealousy, and all this talk about the French stage was probably nonsense, as most generalities of the kind were. I parted the curtains and stepped forward.

Standing before the fireplace in a pose of declamation, his round little figure beautifully buttoned into a morning coat, in the lapel of which was a gardenia, stood Monsieur Rameau. Facing him on his right hand, head lowered, fists in his trousers pockets, as if that was the only safe place for them, was Norton, while sitting on a lounge to the left behind a tea table was Celia. Celia was the only one of the three who was calm outwardly, but her heightened color and the size of her eyes showed some sort of inner excitement.

She held out her hand and drew me down on the sofa beside her. In pantomime she asked me how many lumps of sugar I took. Monsieur Rameau and Norton barely noticed my entrance.

"It is shocking," repeated Monsieur Rameau.

Celia handed me a cup of tea and permitted herself to show petulance. "If you want to talk this thing over you can come at another time," she said sharply in French. "Monsieur Liggett doesn't want to hear it."

"O, yes I do," I contradicted her. "What is it?"

"They're discussing me," sighed Celia.

NORTON suddenly took a fist out of a pocket. "I can't stand it a minute longer," he said between his teeth in English, looking at Celia and speaking with a vigor I had never seen him display before. "For God's sake let me tell this little beast the truth and kick him out of here. I've been playing this rotten game for two years now and I'm sick of it."

"If you do," said Celia, "you'll ruin me."

"What are you saying?" asked Monsieur Rameau.

"We are saying," answered Celia, "that we cannot understand your conduct and regard it as singularly ill bred."

"Ha!" snorted Monsieur Rameau. "So I am ill bred, eh? We shall see." He stepped toward the dining room and called, "Mademoiselle d'Antin."

"Monsieur?"

I am afraid Mademoiselle d'Antin had been listening.

"Would you be good enough to come here a moment, mademoiselle?"

"Certainly, monsieur."

For the first time Celia's calmness deserted her. "What are you doing?" she gasped.

"Patience," advised Monsieur Rameau malevolently.

There was a slight pause during which Monsieur Rameau glared at Celia and Norton, and Norton seemed on the point of planting his fist on the end of Monsieur Rameau's nose, then the tall thin figure of Mademoiselle d'Antin, very erect, a slight flush in the cheeks, entered. It was evident from her expression that she regarded Monsieur Rameau with patrician distaste.

"Would you have the kindness to sit down, mademoiselle?"

"Thank you, monsieur."

"And now, mademoiselle"—Monsieur Rameau raised an accusing finger and pointed it at Celia—"is this Mademoiselle Celia a good girl or not? Is what you told me the other afternoon true?"

"Monsieur!" Mademoiselle d'Antin half arose angrily from her chair.

Celia put her hand to her heart. "The other afternoon?" she moaned.

Monsieur Rameau, entirely calm, returned to his place in front of the hearth, raised a hand. "Certainly. Why not? As a person interested in and connected with your career, I have a right to call upon Mademoiselle d'Antin and talk about you, have I not?"

Celia seemed abruptly shaken to the depths of her being. She leaned forward above the tea table, her hands held out to Mademoiselle d'Antin.

"What did you tell him?" she asked with trembling lips.

Mademoiselle d'Antin forgot her indignation and behaved as a maiden lady unexpectedly cast into a group of lunatics would have behaved—she looked dignified and attempted to be reassuring.

"I do not know," she said, "what it is all about. This gentleman"—she turned to Monsieur Rameau as if she did not mean the term—"called the other day and, not finding you in, talked to me. We talked a great deal about you, about your goodness, your cleverness, your kindness. Was that wrong, my dear?"

"We also talked," interrupted Monsieur Rameau, "about"—he wheeled toward Norton—"this young snake, this lying boy, this creature of your whims who has for so long permitted himself to assume this wretched rôle, this . . . Ha! You start, do you?"

"I'm going to hit him!" said Norton, as if to himself.

"O, don't!" begged Celia.

Monsieur Rameau became even more reasonable, he turned to me.

"Monsieur," he said, "regard the situation. Consider my feelings should this get out among my confréres. Their laughter! Their scorn! I, a man of importance in the Paris of Letters. You will understand—you are a man of the world."

"If you will only explain, monsieur," I interjected. "I am a trifle perplexed, I am afraid."

"Certainly, monsieur. Listen then! For two years I, Claude Rameau, have been laying upon the altar of this young lady"—he bowed to Celia—"all my sincere devotion, my ardor and, if I may say so myself, monsieur, my not inconsiderable reputation and talents. I have aided her career, I have been to her father, mother, brother, but lover—no, monsieur. All my well meant attempts in that direction . . . and I may say that of my friends, although none were as serious as I, monsieur—have been met by the answer that there stood in the way——" he pointed a scornful finger at Norton—"this young man. This pale, weak, sullen young man, monsieur, this boy who dances for a living. This mountebank. Did mademoiselle like me? Ah yes, monsieur, she indicated as much, but could I, being a Frenchman, press my suit under such circumstances? No, monsieur, there is a fineness of feeling that transcends even love. But now, monsieur, what do I discover? That the whole thing is a tissue of lies, a falsehood from beginning to end. This young man has never been anything but a friend, a mere friend. Is it not hideous? Unbelievable?" He interrupted himself and looked at Celia brokenly.

LAUGHTER and tears contended for mastery somewhere deep down in my chest. I looked at Celia. "Is that true?"

"Yes," she breathed.

I had no time to express my relief. Two courses lay open to me. I could either arise in my native dignity and, assisted by a compatriot, urge Monsieur Rameau toward the door, thus ruining Celia's future and laying myself open to a suit for assault and battery in a French court, or else I could temporize. The latter seemed to me wiser.

"Monsieur," I said, "speaking as a man of the world, which you have so kindly called me, may I not point out to you that you are basing a serious charge upon insufficient evidence? You have added to your suspicions the unwitting testimony of this estimable lady"—I indicated Mademoiselle d'Antin—"but I ask you what, after all, does she know? Is it necessary for me to tell you, a man of your age and a Parisian, that youth is deceitful, that there are many times when Mademoiselle d'Antin is not with Mademoiselle Celia?"

"Ah!" said Monsieur Rameau, and became thoughtful.

"No, monsieur, jealousy is not a pretty thing; also it makes a man illogical. And, as you have said, monsieur, suppose this thing gets out? No, and no again. Permit me, monsieur, to suggest that you leave at once, that you go home—that you take a walk—but that you consider the situation coolly. Conduct your investigations, yes, but do not condemn too hastily this brilliant young woman at the very beginning of her career and remember that whatever the result, it must be kept a secret."

"Ah!" said Monsieur Rameau again.

For a moment he stared at the wall beyond my shoulder, then he drew himself together, shook my hand warmly, bowed to the others, and started for the hall. With his hand on the curtains he turned back and said with a gracious gesture in my direction, "It is indeed pleasant, monsieur, to discuss things with a man of intelligence."

Norton gave me no time to question either him or Celia. He waited until the outer door slammed after monsieur and then, emitting a low, strangled sort of growl, plunged in the direction his rival had just taken.

Mademoiselle d'Antin, still in the manner of one who has been thrust unexpectedly into a gathering of lunatics, arose and started for the dining room.

"You will no doubt tell me, my dear," she said to Celia, "what it is all about when we are all a little calmer. I regret that your work takes you among such creatures as Monsieur Rameau."

"O, I'm calm enough," retorted Celia desperately.

The austere shadow of Mademoiselle d'Antin vanished.

For a moment Celia and I sat in silence, side by side, on the lounge, looking straight ahead. Then I stole a glance at her. Her face was bright red and her eyelashes were blinking. She sniffed twice and, putting her head down on my shoulder, sobbed like a child. Shining Celia, to whom tears had always seemed so foreign.

"There! There!"

"I can't help it. I'm done for . . . after all these years of work."

"How in the world did Norton stand for such a thing?"

"He—he loves me. He would stand for anything."

"O, I see. But wasn't that a little selfish of you, Celia?"

Celia's bronze head shook furiously.

"I was desperate; besides, I was a good influence for him here in Paris."

"Celia, my dear," I said, "you ought really to be getting home. Despite all your years over here I'm afraid you're incurably American. You even think that no matter what a good girl does to a man it always helps him. On that belief American society has been founded."

"Isn't it true?"

"No, Celia, dear."

MOST histories have a sequel even when the end is sudden death. The next day, thinking of Celia, I ran into Robert Dawney, just over from America, wandering along the Place Vendome. Dawney is like most theatrical producers. If you force him into a corner, transfix him with burning eyes, and repeat what you have to say a sufficient number of times he will do what you tell him to, provided your language is simple . . . that is, if you call him up, or see him, or write to him at least once a day for the next two months. I told him about Celia, and he was at once interested. "I've seen her act," he said. "She's good. So she wants to come to America, eh? Well, we will see what we can do." He paused and his heavy face settled into thoughtful lines. "But, of course, you see, these girls . . . on the French stage. She hasn't had a very bad history, has she? It wouldn't matter if she were older, but she'll have to take young parts, and so, you see . . ."

I assured him that Celia's past was an open book.

"Fine!" His face lighted up as it must have lighted each time one of his four legally married and legally divorced wives had accepted him.

But temporarily all this was swept out of Celia's head and mine by tragedy. Norton disappeared. No one knew where he was. Celia might not have loved Norton, but she grew palpably wan about him. I think she couldn't sleep nights thinking of the Seine and tall, thin figures jumping off bridges. And then I discovered Norton at the American hospital out at Neuilly, where he had been for a week. He told me that he had a dreadful temper which he lost only about once every three years, but when he did the effect was curious—it ruined his digestion and he was very ill. This, added to the gas, which still bothered him a trifle, had come close to making him a really sick man. He didn't want to see Celia; he was hiding from her; but none the less I took her out to him.

Now, the American hospital at Neuilly is oddly constructed—that is, the old building soon to be deserted for a newer one. A great many of the rooms open into each other and upon a glassed-in corridor giving upon a garden. Screens are put up, but there is, despite the screens, at times a certain intimacy. I had one friend out there once, a critic, who talked so much about books to his numerous visitors that a neurasthenic lady in the next room threw at him all she could lay her hands on. This explanation is necessary to make clear how I was, spending the afternoon with Norton and leaving him to go back to Paris, I heard what Celia said. We were in the hall when she remarked absent mindedly, "O, I've forgotten something!" and went back.

Beyond the screen I heard an exclamation and then a sound as if some one were bending over a bed and some one sitting up in bed, and then Celia's voice, in a tone I had never heard her use, murmured, "O, my sweet, I really do love you! I was so worried about you and I've treated you so badly. I do love you; I do, I do."

When we were in the tram I said to Celia, "I think Norton's really a fine fellow, if you get him well and give him something to work for."

"I'm doing the best I can," she agreed; "I'm marrying him."

Just before I sailed I gave a dinner for Celia and Norton and Dawney, and Dawney, unfortunately low that he was, had already fallen in love with Celia, but I couldn't see that it would do him any as much good as it had done Monsieur Rameau or Monsieur Du Bois, or Monsieur Lamarche.

smart offspring in 1894 of proud Ohio parents . . . early signs of burly humor . . . then Exeter . . . and Yale . . . the war and sailoring . . . reading, lots of it . . . and finally writing — funny things . . . "Parody Outline of History," a screaming burlesque . . . "Perfect Behavior," hilarious guide to imperfect etiquette . . . and others too humorous to mention.

And now—Mr. Stewart is writing a series of articles entitled "The Other Day" for our readers. His strikingly comic method of having his characters express aloud the thoughts which generally wander through one's mind unuttered, and his calm and naive style, make this series just hilariously funny.

Here's His First Article!

THE other day I happened to meet Walter Thompson in Hollywood and he said to me, "Don, I hear you are going to get married."

"Yes," I replied, "didn't you get an invitation?"

"No," he answered, "did you send me one?"

"I certainly did," I said, "and I hope you are thinking of sending me quite a nice present."

"I don't see why I should send you any present," said Walter. "I don't remember that you ever sent me any present."

"Yes, I did," I replied. "I sent you that set of olive spoons."

"How much did they cost?" asked Walter.

"What's that got to do with it?" I asked.

"How am I going to tell what to pay for your present?" replied Walter.

"Forty dollars," I said.

"Like hell they did," said Walter.

"Thirty dollars," I said. "I can show you the bill."

Just then Eddie Partridge came along and joined us.

"Hello, Eddie," I said, "this is my old friend Walter Thompson."

"Not Walter Thompson from Seattle?" said Eddie.

"No," replied Walter.

"That's good," said Eddie. "Walter Thompson from Seattle owes me ten dollars."

"I would pay it," said Walter, "only I was just going to spend that amount on a wedding present."

"For whom?" I asked.

"For you," replied Walter.

"Ten dollars won't even pay for getting out those engraved invitations," I said, "let alone the overhead on the wedding itself."

"I am not going to the wedding," said Walter.

"It costs just as much," I replied, "whether you come or not."

"It doesn't cost YOU anything," said Walter.

"O, it doesn't, does it?" I said.

"No, it doesn't," replied Walter.

"Say, listen, fellows," broke in Eddie, "I don't think that is the way you ought to talk about weddings."

"That's not so," said the stranger, "there is one bicycle for every twelve people in the United States."

"Whose wedding?" asked a stranger who happened to be passing. "Is somebody getting married?"

"This gentleman here," replied Eddie, indicating me.

"Have you got all your ushers?" asked the stranger.

"Yes," I replied. "Why?"

"O, I just asked," said the stranger. "I have been an usher at several weddings and I thought you might be in need of one." At that moment a messenger boy came riding by on a bicycle and stopped. "Are you Mr. Gulick?" he asked.

"No," I replied.

He looked at the message again. "Are you Mr. Carpenter—Mr. E. B. Carpenter?"

"No," I replied again.

He squinted at the yellow envelope.

"Well," he said, "it is a name something like Gulick or Carpenter."

"Is it Stewart?" I asked.

His face lighted up. "Yes," he replied, "that's it," and he gave me the message.

"Say, I wonder if you would let me use your bicycle for a moment," said the stranger to the boy.

"What for?" asked the boy.

"That's all right what for," said the stranger. "Don't get fresh."

"Well, it is the only bicycle I have got," said the boy.

"That's not so," said the stranger, "there is one bicycle for every twelve people in the United States."

"I am a thirteenth child," said the boy.

"That's very unlucky," said the stranger, and with that he rode away.

"HEY, wait a minute," I called out to him, but it was too late.

"What's the matter?" asked Eddie.

"I have just got a telegram," I said, "and one of my ushers is not coming to the wedding."

"Wedding!" said the messenger boy. "Is there going to be a wedding?"

"Yes," I replied.

"Marriage is a very useful institution," said the messenger boy, "and should be encouraged."

"Why isn't he coming?" asked Eddie.

"His aunt died," I replied.

"Death often comes at the most unexpected moments," observed the messenger boy.

I turned to Walter. "Will you be an usher?" I asked.

"What are you giving as usher's presents?" he demanded.

"Cuff links," I replied.

"I've got cuff links," replied Walter.

"These are platinum," I said.

"I'll bet they are," he replied.

I turned to Eddie. "Will you be an usher?"

"Who are the bridesmaids?" asked Eddie.

I named them over.

"I should say not," said Eddie.

"I will give you the cuff links and a ten dollar bonus," I replied.

"With those bridesmaids?" asked Eddie.

"A fifteen dollar bonus," I said, "and time and a half for overtime."

"No," said Eddie.

"How would I do?" asked the messenger boy.

"As what?" I asked.

"As an usher," he replied.

"Have you a cutaway?" I asked.

"Certainly," he replied, with some dignity. "What do you think I am?"

"And spats?" I asked.

"The spats are usually provided by the groom," said the messenger boy.

"Have you any references?" I asked.

He took off his cap, pushed back his hair, and showed me three long scars. "I got those at different bachelor's dinners," he said. He opened his mouth. "Look," he said. I looked. "E-e-e-a-i-i-i-i-n-g," he said.

"What?" I asked.

"E-e-e-a-i-i-i-i-n-g," he replied.

"I am afraid I don't understand," I said.

He closed his mouth. "I said, see that filling," he explained.

"O," I said.

He opened his mouth again and pointed with his finger. I looked and nodded. "It's got initials on it," I remarked. "Very interesting; and date, too."

HE shook his head in the affirmative and then closed his mouth once more. "I got that," he explained, "for being an usher at a swell dentist's wedding in Toledo."

"What did the best man get?" asked Eddie. "A nice, painless extraction?"

"I can't remember," said the messenger boy. "We were pretty cock-eyed. You know how those wedding parties are."

"Well," I said, "I don't know. I certainly need one more usher pretty badly." Just then the stranger reappeared riding on the messenger boy's bicycle.

"I came back for some trouser clips," he explained.

"I haven't any trouser clips," said the messenger boy, "and you have punctured my front tire."

"I wondered why it steered so badly," said the stranger, and noticing the telegram in my hand he remarked, "No bad news, I hope."

"Yes," I replied, "one of my usher's aunts has died."

"What a pity," said the stranger, "but she is probably happier."

"She is happier than I am," I replied. "The wedding is only a week off and I don't seem to be able to get more than three ushers."

"Ah," said the stranger, with an ingratiating smile. "How fortunate I just happened to come along. When is the bachelor dinner?"

"Monday night," I replied.

"Better make it Tuesday," said the stranger. "I can't come Monday."

"Wait a moment," interposed the messenger boy. "Aren't you forgetting me?"

"Who are you?" asked the stranger.

"I am a potential usher," replied the messenger boy.

"I tell you what let's do," said Eddie; "let's have a competition."

"Where?" I asked.

"In a church," replied Eddie. "We will go to the nearest church and have a competition and then we can see who is the best usher."

"Yes," said the messenger boy.

"No," replied the stranger.

"You are afraid," said the messenger boy.

"I am not," said the stranger, "but I would like to know just what sort of a competition this is going to be."

"I will arrange that," said Eddie. "You just leave that to me."

So the stranger and the messenger boy left in the company of Eddie to find a church.

"I think I'll come to you're wedding after all," said Walter. "It looks like it's going to be interesting."

The CRATER OF CRIME A Story from Real Life

BEN BARROW sat on a bench in Battery park, staring straight at the Statue of Liberty, while he deliberately planned his first crime.

The water was alive with traffic. Chesty little tugs snorted here and there. A liner was coming with slow majesty toward the piers, a scattering flock of tugs pushing and pulling the behemoth like Lilliputians tugging at a sleeping giant. A barge was being towed toward Brooklyn past the slow moving steamer's bow. Gulls were screaming and cavorting, scrambling for some bit of refuse in the water.

But all that life failed to attract Ben Barrow's interest. He simply stared at the colossal statue, lost in the misery of his thoughts.

For he did not want to be a criminal.

He continued staring at the statue, and it seemed to him in Liberty's face a reflection of that cynicism and despair etched on his own features.

It wasn't the war that made men bad, that made criminals out of men who revolted at the very thought of crime. It was the people who had stayed out of the war.

There was some consolation in the thought. They urged men to go, promised them everything—if they returned. And then reneged. They were the quitters. They had piled up money and comforts. O, THEY had been made safe!

And some of the veterans who had got them that security were left, like himself, to sit on park benches and starve.

He wasn't a beggar. All he had ever asked for was work. Until he volunteered, he had been in line for a swivel-chair job himself.

And now——

Now he was reduced to a beggar's appearance, to the thought revolted him—a thug's outlook on life. He had been brought to a level he had always despised. He had always thought men who were broke, out of jobs, were responsible for their own misfortunes.

But his job was gone. His money was gone. His freedom——. Well, he'd at least the satisfaction of discovering their true values. Even Marguerite, who had sobbed when she kissed him good-by—even Marguerite had forgotten him. She had married some one else—did it matter whom?

Until this moment he had only two prized possessions left him—he had gone far beyond the stage where he valued that shining bit of metal that had been pinned on his breast while his regiment stood at attention. He had only a slip of paper now to show which "uncle" was keeping it for him.

But the two things he had possessed were worth all the world to him. One remained. It was the memory of Private William Warren. It was a memory bittersweet. Bill was the only person he had ever found to be true. And boisterous, roistering, old good hearted Bill, who would swipe your best uniform or stand with you back to back and fight off all comers—Bill was dead. He had died in Ben Barrow's own arms.

Ben prized the memory of him. It was the last thing of value left to him.

For the other, his self-respect was gone—or so he thought. With the first contemplation of crime it had fled.

Well, it was gone.

And now to planning this—he winced and softened the word—"job."

But if he had to do it—he had to do it. Arguing with conscience wouldn't help. Your conscience wouldn't buy the clothes you needed. Your conscience wouldn't give you the clean white sheets and the comfortable bed your body craved. Your conscience wouldn't give you a hot bath in a decent tub.

And here was the ideal crime. It would bring back all those things, give him every material comfort he wanted.

The crime where he couldn't get caught. And thereafter safety. Safety and comfort, pleasant days to dream in, or to work in. Money enough for a business somewhere a little farther west. Money enough for meals and clothes, and good, soft beds. Money enough to regain the respect of his fellow men.

And all for the reaching out and getting!

A tap on the head, and the old man would be out. A couple of short cords to bind his hands and feet. One of the old man's own office towels for a gag. And fifteen minutes later he would have $40,000!

The old man had as good as told him so. It had taken little imagination to see the possibilities. They shouted aloud at him.

He had made the discovery the previous afternoon.

It had come at the end of a long period of canvassing for a job.

He had taken to canvassing office buildings in the vain hope of stumbling on some job he fitted. It was a forlorn hope that he might, if he persisted long enough, "strike" just as some other fellow was quitting or being "fired."

And then he had stumbled on this little old man and his fortune there in plain sight.

IT had been the end of a disappointing afternoon. Melancholy had seeped into his very soul. Time after time he had been turned down. Too often he had never got further than a callous, indifferent office boy.

The old man's one room office had been the last on the floor, the last floor of his canvass of the building.

He had almost passed it by. It would be just another turndown. Another disappointment, another little heartbreak to add to the vast store he had accumulated.

The door bore a simple sign:

ELWOOD WARREN.

Nothing to indicate the nature of the occupant. Nothing to foretell what he might find beyond that ground glass portal.

Ben had hesitated. He walked a step toward the elevator; stopped and returned. Paused.

And then resolutely opened the door.

Inside there was a small old man, almost bald, sitting before an ancient, dusty desk. He was fingering a short but wide book, very thick for the number of leaves it held. Beside him were several like volumes.

He looked up as Ben Barrow entered. He was a pleasant appearing old man, genial and friendly. The slow smile on his face was one of welcome, mixed with query.

"I am looking for a job," was Ben's simple statement. He saw at once how hopeless the situation was. There was nothing in that office for him to do. But he stated his case, anyway.

"I am afraid, my son, there is nothing I can do for you. You see, I'm just a stamp collector. And there is no clerical work to do that I cannot attend myself."

"A stamp collector? I've heard of them." And since it was late in the evening and there was nothing he could do for a time, he permitted his curiosity to ask:

"I wonder if you would let me see a collection?"

"My son, that is like asking a mother to let you see her first born baby." He smiled an inviting, pleased smile.

And Ben Barrow drew up a chair and listened.

Stamps were valuable. It was not news to him, but he hadn't realized just how valuable they were.

"Now here," said the old man in the middle of his discourse, "is a collection of stamps of Lincoln's administration. I just completed it the other day. I bought this last one you see here from an old Irish woman on the east side. It was on a letter written sixty years ago to a dead uncle of hers."

He chuckled. "I beat old Judge Anderson to it by fifteen minutes. He heard of it almost as soon as I did. But I beat him to it. It cost me thirty dollars. Dirt cheap."

The victory had made him mellow.

"Old Judge Anderson would give $40,000 for this collection today. And he wouldn't care how he got his hands on it."

That had been Ben Barrow's cue.

"Old Judge Anderson would give $40,000 . . . today."

The sentence had rung in his ears for hours, long after he had left the dingy office.

Today . . . today.

That was yesterday.

Well, today, old Judge Anderson would give it.

He had gone to see the judge that morning. He had told him he knew where he could get such a collection. Ben had faced the judge calmly and told him, "A client of mine is pressed for money. I can get this collection for you. But it must be paid for in cash."

Forty thousand dollars.

Well, everything looked good. The old man didn't know him by name. And he had given Judge Anderson a fictitious name.

And now everything was ready. It was getting late in the afternoon. The judge would have the money there in bills. And old man Warren wouldn't be found until the scrubwoman cleaned up at night.

He got up from the bench, his face a study in agony and desperation. In his right hip pocket was an improvised blackjack, a short piece of pipe with thick wrappings of paper.

Ten minutes later he opened the door to Elwood Warren's office.

The old man was sitting there in the same position he had been the previous day. He was thumbing over pages of a book of stamps, comparing, noting. He looked up with a smile of greeting.

As Ben Barrow entered the room his face gave no indication of his purpose. He was the type of man who, once he has determined upon a course, goes forward with it. But there might have been noticed a strained look around his eyes. And there was very apparent a quiet, determined tenseness about him.

And then—

Staring out at him from a photograph newly placed on the desk was Bill. Bill Warren, his buddy.

"Where did you get that picture?" he demanded, with almost savagery in his voice.

His hand was on his right hip pocket. He was poised, as though to move quickly—as a man about to attack.

"Why, that is my son. He died in France." The smile was gone from the old man's face, shadowed out as a storm cloud blots out the sunshine.

"Bill!" cried Ben. "Bill your son? Was Bill your son? My God," his voice ended in a whisper.

"My God, and to think——"

He stood there, dazed.

The tenseness was gone from him now. The determination was washed out of him by those simple words of the old man.

"You knew him?" The old man asked the question with pathetic eagerness.

"He was my buddy. I am Ben Barrow."

"O, he wrote about you, he wrote about you. My son," he said, "I would be both pleased and honored if you would come with me. We will have dinner. I must talk to you about him. I must."

He left the opened stamp collection where it had fallen from his hands.

They went out the door together.

TEMPTING MENUS FOR THE WEEK

By Jane Eddington

THE DINNER CHEESE

IN THIS changing world we may not say that to end a dinner or luncheon with cheese is the most cosmopolitan possible thing to do, but there was a time when this was true. The leading condimental cheese is Italian, and various cheeses are highly useful in cookery, but the fancy cheeses of France were made especially for dinner climaxes. The great English cheeses and those from Holland (where they eat cheese for breakfast) could and would not have been made in tons to the extent they have been if they did not have as definite a place in the day's ration as oatmeal porridge has in Scotland.

A service of cheese and celery (radishes, or romaine, or other lettuce may take the place of the celery or be served with it), with or without coffee, is the Englishman's idea of the best way to end a dinner. Thackeray once said that some people might prefer a tart, but give him bread and cheese. Cheese may not be mentioned on an English dinner menu card any more than the bread, but it, and the fruit and coffee, are all included and expected under the term dessert.

A year ago one of our own men experts in what to eat had this in an article: "To end the meal there were cheeses and fruits. Brillat-Savarin said, 'A dessert without cheese is like a beauty with but one eye.' If you have dessert you must have cheese to make a passable bridge between the vegetables and salads, and the sweetstuffs and fruits. You cannot—at least if you have any respect for your stomach—put grapes on top of salad, or a custard on top of Brussels sprouts. And cheese greatly improves the taste of fruits eaten after it. To prove this you have only to eat a pear after Roquefort cheese. And one must never fail to take advantage of food contrasts and food affinities."

The French people to this day would not end a luncheon with pears without cheese. When we followed the French more than we do today in our menu making one of the supreme bits for the end of the dinner was Camembert cheese and bar-le-duc, an uncloying dinner finish. Cream cheese and a good jelly, perhaps guava, is the ending of many an intelligent eater's dinner.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?
Her lovely evening spoiled by one ugly fact. One fact—but it kept her lips glumly tight while others smiled, chattered, were happy. And they, of course, misunderstood.

Want real truth about beautiful teeth?

End staining starch; they brighten immediately. Now done in 15 seconds.
Results GUARANTEED

This is new to most people: the real story of why teeth, carefully brushed, remain dingy—and how to end this dangerous, ugly condition, with brighter teeth guaranteed

INSIDE of 12 days from now—your teeth can be brighter than they've ever been before, since childhood! Sparkling, clean—an immense addition to personal charm.

The reasons follow in few words. Two ways of testing the facts are offered. Results are guaranteed.

* * * * *

First read the startling statement of a great dental-research scientist. He tells what starch does to teeth.

That dangerous stain

The substance most dangerous to teeth is starch in foods. It directly forms the acid that attacks, eats through hardest tooth-enamel. This is why:

There is too much of it, in modern diet, for even normal, healthy saliva to change into harmless form (by digesting it).

Simply an overload of starch—so that it is only part-changed (digested).

Starch in this part-digested form is a glue and a dirty, brownish stain, combined. Chemically it is like gum arabic. Nothing can remove it from your teeth—not brushing, scrubbing, rinsing—while in this form.

STARCH DANGER TOLD

This is the finding of a dental-research scientist—one of the greatest—in his world-famed book: "The Prevention of Dental Caries and Oral Sepsis"—

"It is perfectly clear that the material having the greatest potentiality for tooth destruction is starch in a cooked and finely divided [masticated] state!"

This danger, in 15 seconds, Senreco ends!

It cements the staining matter between teeth—on teeth; fills the tiny grooves (500 to an inch!) which furrow all tooth-surfaces.

No wonder teeth, although regularly brushed, grow dingier and dingier—and decay too soon despite your care.

Today there's a way to make your teeth brighter than they've ever been since childhood. By eliminating this unpleasant, dangerous starch condition.

Quick, natural aid ends this

It's Senreco—a remarkable toothpaste. Contains natural ingredients which dissolve this gluey starch-mass in 15 seconds (by aiding saliva digest it fully).

Then brushing really brightens teeth. Because Senreco acts while your brush is still in your mouth. The stain disappears.

Teeth are safer from decay than ever before.

* * * *

Other delights, too, result. A clean, sweet, cool mouth. Gums healthily toughened, toned. (Many dentists recommend Senreco, in acute gum troubles, for this one reason!)

These results guaranteed!

Intelligence suggests a test. There are two ways in which you can test Senreco—at once:

Send coupon for free, 12-day test tube.

Or buy a large tube, 50c, from your druggist. Use it for 12 days. Then, if your teeth are not brighter, cleaner, than they've ever been before—with any toothpaste—return the tube.

Your money will be instantly, unquestioningly, given back.

* * * *

You'll agree that's fair. It's just a question whether or not you sincerely want sparkling teeth—whether or not you realize the immensely increased attractiveness they mean. Here's the way.

THE BIG PARADE OF AUTUMN FASHION GOES ON by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—As you sit among the Pomeranian class in one of the exclusive shops, with your eyes glued upon lithe and lissome mannequins, you are persuaded of one thing: No passport is required of anybody who wishes to enter the Country of Fashion. I don't refer to the fact that I got in among the Pomeranian class, but to a more figurative truth. Any type of frock or coat seems to "get by" today. And it isn't necessary to present any credentials of sleeve, skirt, or bodice.

A glance at the sketches will prove what I say. You can wear skimpy sleeves or you can wear the new wide armholed affairs of Vionnet and Martial et Armand. You can be straight line or you can be flaring, you can have a draped skirt or you can go on an orgy of tiers; you may bolero or you may bolero-no. Any course seems approved.

Yet in spite of such latitude, here is the baffling fact. No matter what the creed of the autumn model or how familiar its outlines, it seems animated by a certain spirit of novelty. There is something elusively different about these autumn clothes, something that halts you when you say, "O, why can't I just wear my last year's crêpe or kasha?" One cannot define this freshness of aspect, but one knows it is there.

If there be one linking factor in the new models it is the almost omnipresent horizontal line. Verily, have we done our sartorial exercises on the horizontal bar. Tiers, boleros, bands of trimming, rows of stitching, fringe—almost every detail contributes to this effect, especially notable in the striped jumpers, which perhaps inspired and undoubtedly sustained the style. Jumpers of this character are still going strong and are occasionally enunciated even in evening fashions.

As to the plait and the tuck, it is exactly as if these designers looked up at you with bright and shining eyes and with the words, "Just see what we have found!" Anybody would think they had come upon some radiant and unsuspected treasure instead of upon an old trick used by the ladies of Crete some 3,000 years B. C. Of course, their childlike glee is in a measure justified. For certainly they use this conventional instrument in a way of which Crete never dreamed.

We are devoting quite a little space on the page to showing you some of these novelties in plaits and tucks. As exemplifying something especially new, I point immediately to the fourth sketch from the left. You know this autumn they have done something unexpected to the jumper. They have put a bolero stick in it. Loose short jumpers of some of the latest frocks contain, in fact, much of the bolero spirit, and this model of crêpe in a mauve beige tint illustrates how charming the style may be.

Both plaits and tucks are used in this frock, and the plaits supply fresh assurance of the horizontal's vogue. For they are laid on sleeves and flounce and jumper border in the approved direction. As against this motivation, however, we perceive finest of tucks laid vertically. The frock is finished with collar and cuffs of matching crêpe in white. Also with a jabot.

The jabot in all its forms has apparently survived its popularity of last season and it is a haunting factor in the autumn fashions. Here it arouses new interest, not only from its cut but from the fact that plaits similar to those used elsewhere are arranged in diagonal order.

At the left, tucks arranged in chevron form give new interest to the familiar straight-line frock. This model is executed in tan broadcloth with a band of dark brown fur and a touch of beige chiffon.

Next, plaited flounces arranged diagonally complete the message of a Valencia blue crepe with the new wide sleeves.

In the center, a dinner gown of red crepe with matching silk fringe exploits a single white flower.

Fourth, a crepe in mauve beige launches many tucks and plaits—also, a voluminous jabot and a bolero-jumper.

Last, a Chanel red velvet with inset girdle, graceful drapery and uneven hem advocates three tiny curved tucks at the center of the corsage.

Far different is the system of plaiting accorded our second model from the left. This is of Valencia blue crêpe, with the side sleeves of the new mode. At the wrists appear tiny silver buttons, a suggestion of metal reinforced by the single silver rose on the shoulder. This skirt goes in for tiers and the tiers are of finely plaited self-material. In this case the horizontal line turns into a nor'easter. But, though here is no new slant of fashion, it produces a feeling of novelty through that amplitude of the sleeves.

It would seem that one may continue to wear the simple straight line dress—provided one atones for the banality by some up to date activity. We find such atonement at the extreme left in minute tucks that reject the horizontal temptation in favor of the chevron pattern. These chevron effects are, by the way, still awfully good and adorn, impartially, coats and frocks. Dark brown fur bands the skirt and a touch of beige chiffon is introduced at the V neck line. The completing thought is a belt of dark brown suede with a bronze buckle.

In speaking of this model one is bound to mention the vogue enjoyed by the tan and brown shades, not only in the shop windows where vogues are easy to establish, but in the more valid environs of society. The Belmont races showed a noteworthy sprinkling of coats and frocks in the tan shades, and when one lunches at any of the exclusive places one is sure to find at least several costumes in this range.

But to go back to this thing of plaits and tucks. It is really astonishing how much atmosphere you can produce by just two or three of these little things. Behold, for example, the gesturing lady at the extreme right. Look at her wearing three funny little tucks right at the center of her bodice—just exactly as the knight of old might have worn his coat of arms on the front of his jerkin. To tell the truth, indeed, those microscopic tucks do give a certain character to the frock.

This is a dinner gown of Chanel red velvet and it bears no trimming other than that which the fabric itself can supply. Like so many of the new evening gowns, it has an inset belt, but this inset belt has a few separate virtues of its own. Placed at that correct position, the top of the hips, it executes a dip in the direct front to contrast with a straight back. In both positions, however, sash ends find equal hospitality.

Although not two-piece, the model aspires to that effect through a seaming at the hip line. For the rest, the skirt is irregular in length and this effect is heightened by the presence of a long drapery from the right shoulder.

The single example on our page which escapes the thrall of the plait is the dinner frock in the center. Made of garnet red crêpe Elizabeth, it waives plaits in favor of waving fringe. Finest of matching silk fringe is the type employed, and this is hung from a yoke that gives every indication of being a bolero. The girdle, either of self-fabric or of velvet, is knotted in front, and the shoulder is set off with a mammoth matching flower.

A number of the boleros which one encounters in the new evening frocks are detachable and, instead of being executed in material identical with that of the frock, they supply an argument both in color and texture. Thus an exceedingly delightful model from a French atelier provides for wear with a rose colored georgette dance frock a delightful short little bolero, truly Spanish in its impulse, which is made of black taffeta trimmed in beads and paillettes.

Another interesting development of the evening mode is the introduction of tulle motifs and bandings on backgrounds of crêpe and chiffon. Sometimes this tulle matches and sometimes it aids in developing a delightful two tone harmony. One exquisite dance model which I saw lately preferred the latter technique. It was made of sea green chiffon with an allover pattern of gold paillettes, and the waist line was formed by diamond shaped insets of tulle finely plaited and matching the gold of the pattern.

Evening gowns provide just as fertile soil for flowers as ever before, and some of these flowers would win a prize in any horticultural show. For example, a mammoth orchid, so enveloping that it almost submerges the wearer, is found on the shoulder of one imported evening gown. On another enormous roses with trailing stems spring from the shoulder and again at the waist line.

The MAGIC MAN By Hallie Erminie Rives

HOW THE STORY BEGINS:

DR. KARL ROSELIUS, "The wizard of Melton Park," lives with his daughter, Rose, on his beautiful Long Island estate. Roselius lords it over the numerous help with the exception of Miss Thorpe, his private secretary, who has been with him twenty years. The chemist discovers Mitchell Schuyler, scion of a once wealthy and prominent family, is in love with Rose. From England, Holland, and Japan come Sir Horace Demetriardi, Jonkeer Martin Van Hogue, and Nakagawa, representatives of the pearl trade, to verify the report that Roselius has discovered a cheap process for making pearls. He shows his visitors one of his synthetic gems which Sir Howard appraises at £3,000 and which Roselius could duplicate for a few cents.

INSTALLMENT II.
The Great Conspirators.

SIR HORACE waited till his two colleagues had examined the pearl in silence. As Roselius replaced it in the metal box, Demetriardi glanced at Van Hogue.

The Dutchman caught the mute question—met it instantly.

"Let us talk business," he said; "if Mr. Roselius is agreeable, I am ready."

"And also I," agreed the Japanese. "As the English proverb say, there is no time like the now."

"Very good," said Sir Horace.

He turned to his host. "With your permission, Mr. Roselius, at the outset I want to point out the magnitude of the interests we three represent. My own company, the Ceylon Fisheries, Limited, does not confine itself to Ceylon. We operate throughout the entire Indian ocean and the Persian gulf. The Amsterdam-Singapore syndicate, Mr. Van Hogue's organization, controls the Javanese and Burmese output and through its subsidiary branches the markets of all British Malaya, with Straits Settlements thrown in. The so-called culture pearl has but a single exponent: Mr. Nakagawa's group has made the field its own—the Inland sea, Hawaii, Formosa, the Philippines. In short, our three aggregations, together, not only represent but we are, practically, the pearl production of the world."

He made a gesture that included all three.

"What we have now to propose to you, Mr. Roselius, is an arrangement by which we, in combination, would take over your formula. I am confident we can come to terms—this is not a thing to haggle over. But before we approach that, permit me to point out the advantages, as they appear to us, of such an arrangement."

He paused a moment. He was on a tilting ground now with which he was familiar, the nice adjustment of mutual interests, compromise, amalgamation. No time was to be lost. The others would follow him; he saw that in the anxious lines that had gathered in the Dutchman's forehead, the extra furrowing of Nakagawa's unwinking eyes.

"You could form your own company and manufacture. But you could not get for your synthetic product the price of the real pearl. Perfect as it may be, who will pay thousands of pounds for what has been made for next to nothing? That is not human nature. In the matter of price it will class itself with the many artificial pearls. It will, no doubt, oust all others from the field, but the market gained will be that of the artificial, not the natural, pearl. There is no vast money in that. On the other hand, such a procedure on your part would knock the real pearl business into a cocked hat. If even experts—and I think I may claim to be one myself—can't tell your pearls from our sea pearls, the result will be chaos in the trade and the true pearl will in the end have only the synthetic pearl's value. No more. The sea pearl business will be dead as a herring."

Roselius nodded.

"You have sketched the situation perfectly," he said. "Wisdom suggests the purchase of the formula with a view to its suppression in the interests of the sea pearl industry. If we were to agree along those lines, I take for granted, as between gentlemen, that for me to bind myself to destroy it would be a satisfactory alternative?"

He looked from one to the other inquiringly, and his gaze came back at length to Sir Horace.

"What I have in mind," said Demetriardi, slowly, "has a somewhat further reach than that."

He laid one heavy hand over the other, palm down, on the table. Roselius' hands were in the pockets of his heathery tweed trousers, from one of which came a faint click as of stone beads; his bushy brows were frowning in fixed attention.

"Suppose, instead of our purchase of the formula, it remains in your own hands and we four form a working partnership. We could manufacture—quietly. A single factory would be adequate. I and my colleagues have absolute control of the established machinery of distribution. What could be easier than for us gradually, very gradually, to replace the natural pearl by the synthetic? Who would be the wiser? We needn't take the public into our confidence; when we sell pearls now we don't furnish with each one a guarantee that it came out of an oyster. We can cut down our fisheries to the bone and put the overhead into our pockets."

Van Hogue rubbed his white muscular hands together between his knees. Daring? Yes, but after all, why not? Safe? Anyway, the ox was in the ditch. It was that or go to the wall. Three cents and a half apiece! And no more feeding and restocking of sick oyster beds. No more wages to south sea divers. Smaller bonuses to chiefs, less taxes to native principalities. No more supporting of whole Malay villages. Colossal! Sometime the secret would out, but meantime the gain would be many millions!

Sir Horace spoke once more—an afterthought.

"As for the ethics of the situation, as a matter of fact is there any difference between the pearl we have just seen—the synthetic product—and the oyster pearl? I say, no. The pearl I examined is a pearl. To all intents and purposes, a true pearl."

He stopped. This time he did not look at Roselius. In the heavy silence that followed Roselius got up and, throwing open a window, took a great gulp of the outer air that was perfumed with sunshine. He made a quick turn up and down the room, then faced them, legs wide apart, hands in pockets.

"Gentlemen," he said, in his big voice, "I'm afraid from a business standpoint I'm a sickening failure. Sooner than sell anybody my process I'd sell the devil my head."

His visitors were eying him with varied expressions of disappointment and chagrin.

"Let me explain," went on Roselius, "how I look at it. It was plain as a pikestaff that, as you have pointed out, Sir Horace, my synthetic pearl meant the death of the natural pearl industry. What a dangerous mixture I had compounded in that innocent looking little bead! Naturally, I thought first of the great interests—your interests, gentlemen—that would be affected. The thousands whose investments, clean, honest money, would be made worthless. And I thought next of the industry and the thousands it employs. Do you know, Sir Horace, how many divers your own company alone uses?"

Demetriardi shook his head. "I'm afraid I don't."

"Over nine thousand, men and women. Your syndicate, Mr. Van Hogue, has more. I didn't look up the culture pearl—I never thought of it. But it makes the case stronger. The number I quote takes no count of dependents. It doesn't include the dredgers, pickers, sorters, watchers—all that handle the pearl before it lies, lovely and glowing, in your steel go-down, Sir Horace, or in your stone counting house, Mr. Van Hogue, at Amsterdam.

"I've seen the pearl divers at work in the orient. I watched one once through a water glass—a mere child she seemed—fight off a man eating shark with the knife from her grass girdle. She won, but it wasn't a pretty sight. Once in awhile it's the shark that wins. In some sections there are other things to look out for, such as the giant squid in the lagoons of Borneo.

"THERE'S the pearl trader, too, though he's less numerous. I knew one in Batavia, a hard handed, soft hearted adventurer, he was—not a bit the story writer's drunken roustabout. He was saving his money to buy a chicken ranch in Nebraska."

Roselius tossed his half consumed cigar into the fireplace, reached for a fresh one, and lighted it carefully.

"Finally, gentlemen, I thought of the pearl itself, a lovely gem lying against a lovelier woman's throat. Was I to rob her of her joy in it? And for every rich man's mistress who flaunts her gorgeous necklace there are a hundred women with slenderer strings that stand for a husband's or a father's love and self-denial and honest pride. I thought, foolishly, of these things, gentlemen. And I remembered the pearl's history, reaching back beyond manmade records. Was I to stand the murderer of the noblest jewel in the crown of romance? Was I to sink to the level of a street walker's beads the emblems, through unnumbered centuries, of woman's purity and tears?"

As he paused his eyes and Demetriardi's met, and he added, quite simply, "You may set your minds at ease, gentlemen. I have melted all but a handful of the pearls I have made, and it is my intention to destroy the formula."

There was a moment's silence, then Sir Horace got up slowly, the other rising with him.

"Ah, well," said he, "perhaps yours is the happiest solution. It at least settles our own problem. And now, Mr. Roselius, it remains only for us to thank you for your courtesy and to express the pleasure we have had in this meeting."

The others made their farewells, and in five minutes more the big limousine was carrying them along the winding road toward the park gates.

Sir Horace made but one comment, and that a succinct one. "There's no fool like an old fool."

To which, as Van Hogue shrugged assent, Nakagawa's smooth voice added:

"We of my country also have a proverb: 'The blind man stole his own hen and has eaten it.'"

It was not till long afterward that Demetriardi came to wonder upon which side the application had been intended to rest.

MITCHELL—familiarly known to the smart set as "Mitch"—Schuyler had a way with him, was inordinately good looking, and besides the manners and graces of his class had about him something of distinction, the product of taste and selection carried out through successive generations.

When he saw his shimmering bubble of prosperity dissolve, with dreadful literalness, overnight into nothingness he had been twenty-five, healthy and sound as a dollar, counting himself first, last, and always a Schuyler.

He had been born with the golden spoon in his mouth. At school, at college, and at home he had had everything he wanted. Servants had popped up from somewhere like jacks in the boxes to do his every behest. It had been fun to be a good spender and he had been bred to spending, encouraged to waste—to give bachelor dinners and dances extraordinary, to buy new motor cars at transcendent prices, and in the prescribed manner to decorate and enliven the gay, insouciant life of pleasure and fashion, whose high lights were Palm Beach and polo, Long island house parties, and summer swoops to Biarritz and Deauville.

It was pleasant to find the head waiter of any one of a dozen glittering cafés almost as subservient to him as he would have been to Antonio Marino and to know that the entrance of his sable hung party at his favorite supper club created an interest second only to the stir which heightened the entrance of Maurice with his dancing partner. He had thought the coterie of good fellows that surrounded him a fair sample of worldly comradeship.

In the outcome he had had somewhat to revise his opinions. He had seen men of his set who owed him substantial sums—Harter, for instance, to whom he had loaned a thousand and who had repaid him only a half—seized with sudden preoccupation when debt was mentioned.

But he had wasted no cynicism on these experiences. He had sold his polo ponies and his motors for whatever they would bring—a pitiful sum he found it—to settle outstanding personal accounts at his tailor's and haberdasher's, had sacrificed all his clubs but the one indispensable one, and with his living expenses thus cut to the bone, had prospected (valiantly for him) for a "position." But each path he contemplated seemed the steepest.

As a matter of fact, life had been too simple and easy to him. His character had developed no cutting edges.

So he had turned from one thing to another, while, with the deadly inevitability of sand falling through an egg-glass, the slender stock of dollars he had remaining from the wreck went slipping merrily through his reluctant fingers.

When the Schuyler estate had come under the hammer, the sale of the great house on Madison avenue had hung fire, and by courtesy of the executor, who had been a lifelong family friend, Mitch still occupied a bedroom there, taking his meals at his club and "doing" for himself who in his valeted days had never touched whisk broom to a pair of trousers. The house, save for his few personal belongings, was dismantled. All the family treasures—bronzes, canvases, books, period furniture—had been sucked into the bottomless chasm of debt. All save the famed Gobelin tapestries, for which the museums were still bidding; a dozen family portraits, which still looked down from the wall of the empty ballroom, and the silver plate. This latter had been his mother's and was now his, with her jewels, left to him personally by her will. Ever since the catastrophe it had reposed in a trunk in his bedroom.

The jewels had gone first. He had had no sentiment in the matter, no feeling that should have fused the stones with human association. He was not a sentimentalist. He remembered the remark of a Russian princess, one of the great exodus from doomed Moscow who had been much dined and wined by New York's smart set. "We of the nouveau pauvre," she had said, as she drew her curtailed rope of diamonds through her taper fingers, "must eat. I never valued these so much as since I have learned how many good dinners each one will bring." He had smiled at the recollection, thinking that his case was in no way different.

THERE was always the one safe anchor out to leeward. He knew his world, knew its worship of the old, the established, its respect for lineage. His line on both sides ran back to signers of the Declaration. The rosters of the Mayflower society, the Society of Colonial Wars and the Cincinnati held his name. After all, he was a Schuyler; he couldn't lose that! And the Schuyler name, he considered, with or without money, was fair exchange. Whenever he chose he could return to the rosebud paths from which his feet had slipped, through the usual gateway of marriage.

It was not wholly a comforting reflection. The thought of marriage irked him with its suggestions of limitation, embargoes, inhibitions. Yet it had its compensations. For when he married he would marry some one with money for him to burn. It was not like him to go through the cane brake and come out with a crooked stick!

Meanwhile, before he should come full face to the blunt end of his whittled resources, he had looked the field over. Rose Roselius was a brilliant figure in his set, and he had taken pains to see increasingly much of her, had purposely cultivated acquaintance into an intimacy that might, he believed, become as much more as he chose.

One would have looked in vain for the name Roselius on the rosters he reverenced, but she belonged to his own class, if not by right of birth, by adoption. She had beauty, and charm, and money and popularity in his own set, and what more could he ask? And besides, Schuyler had reached a prospective point where it mattered less to him than it would once have mattered that she was not of blood accounted "blue." Not that she was a vulgarian. To the contrary, her father's name was one to conjure with. The daughter of such a man, an only child and her father's pride and idol, the heiress of such a fortune and estate! He might, he had reflected, go a damned sight further and fare much worse.

But there was no especial hurry for the present. He meant to take the plunge, but he was reasonably certain that he had no rival in the field, and meanwhile he could eke out the autumn on the silver in his trunk.

IT was at the tail end of a disastrous month in which his bridge luck seemed to have failed him utterly, when he owed every other man he met, and when the wretched total of his club dues mooed at him in the night, that he had opened the trunk and overhauled its contents. He unwrapped the pieces one by one till the room looked like a Georgian silversmith's—the rare old tea service, with its massive tray lead-heavy, candelabra, candlesticks, and a shining quartet of covered tureens to match; the flat silver with its prim rat-tail pattern; the silver gilt service plates, the great punch bowl that had figured in all the family anniversaries as far back as he could remember. A pity to break the set, but beggars couldn't be choosers.

It bore the family name and crest and his pride shrank from disposing of it to a responsible dealer. And, besides, after he married he meant to get it back. He would have to pawn it. But he had no wish to risk being seen by some acquaintance entering a money lender's.

Chance had solved the problem the next day when from his elevated train he glimpsed a shop with three tarnished gilded balls the size of Brobdingnagian grapefruit above its door, tucked away in a corner of a little square on the lower west side.

He got off at the next station and walked back. The square was an intersection where a narrow street slanted into a wider thoroughfare, leaving a triangular area hopelessly overawed by forbidding warehouses and hag ridden by the hideous L that straddled its shorter side. Odd, he thought, to find a pawnshop in a section that knew no hurrying crowds, no twinkling motor cars, no cane twirling, spatted Rialto promenaders. But its prosperity was loudly bespoken by the cheerful and heterogeneous mélange of its show window; Chinese boxes of carved red lacquer and lotus patterned plaques, a dozen wrist watches on a strip of black velvet, necklaces of jade and Russian enamel, cigaret cases of striped gold with raised and jeweled monograms, French ormolu clocks and crystal candelabra, gilt framed pictures, some of dubious merit and one or two too good to be passed without suspicion, teak screens and vases of cloisonné, band instruments—cornets, flutes, and clarinets—outlandish weapons and trays of miniatures, brooches, and trinkets in silver and ivory.

"Meg's Place," ran the legend over the door, and a lettered card in a corner of the window read, "Old Silver Bought and Sold."

So next morning the last of the Schuylers, spick and span and debonair, with the big punch bowl camouflaged in a Gladstone bag, had boarded the West Side L, bound for the little shop in Elverley square with the sign of the three golden spheres.

The casual loiterer might, like Schuyler, have wondered to come upon a prosperous pawnshop in a quarter bare of dwellings, that was so manifestly the bailiwick by day of the factory hand and stevedore and by night the haunt of the dingy prowler. The habitué of Meg's place, however, was no stranger to such phenomena.

He was well aware that the bulk of its business—as in many human concerns, honest and otherwise—did not appear from the show window. He was in a way a partner in that business, providing the raw material which in the skilful hands of its proprietress yielded the returns. Meg Huchard asked no questions, and one who asks no questions may go far in certain lines of activity. She had gone far in hers.

From his first glimpse of her she had intrigued Mitch. He had caught the scarcely perceptible sign which sent her white faced satellite from the room after her one swift glance of appraisal. A woman of discernment, he told himself, and clever, certainly clever.

Handsome, too, in a large and effective way. She was a type which he had never known, a full bosomed Hebe with hard eyes, as striking as the central figure in an old color print in a Thames-side "pub." She had wide, resolute eyes and full lips and carried herself freely, with a swing to her shoulders. Always carefully dressed, with a hundred jewels at hand to choose from, she wore none. No earrings nor gaudy pin—only a sober string of onyx beads of no particular value on her neck and a squarish wrist watch unset with stones of any kind. Her gown was of some neutral color which accentuated the tangerine shade of her hair, evidently (as was proclaimed by its darker hue at the roots) the product of science.

"Another bad day at the races?" she hazarded.

He shook his head. "I wish that were all! The little ball's been dropping into the black for a long time now."

She offered him a fair amount for the bowl—it did not occur to him that she had recognized his face, familiar enough to the Sunday supplementarians, and had gauged the situation with a view to further dealings—and he left with a distinct feeling that she was "a good sort."

On his next visit—for it was extraordinary, the rapidity with which money melted—he brought the tea set, the chef d'œuvre of the Schuyler plate, in a taxi.

He had found in the shop on this second occasion, besides its proprietress and the pale faced helper who vanished at his coming, an old gentleman with the ruddy cheeks of a patent-food baby, a shock of white hair, and a Roman nose. His Panama hat had a colored ribbon, and he wore a brisk jacket, half military, half ecclesiastical, with a boutonnière. He had been talking busily with Meg when Mitch entered, but broke off instantly, and with a "Bless my soul! An engagement at the cathedral—I had quite forgotten!" hastened out. He passed Mitch with a little nod and a deprecating smile, which did not conceal the fact that his eyes were set a bit too foxily close together.

"A curious type of customer for a pawnshop," Mitch had thought, a reflection that was to recur to him reinforced on a later visit, when he encountered the same bland, benevolent figure, this time also, it appeared, on the point of departure. Nor was he the only oddity Schuyler was to note among the place's patrons.

The sum he received for the tea set was a largish one, but it was good for only so much, and before long Mitch had been on his way again with the Gladstone bag.

It was a rainy fall day when he took the last piece of silver from the trunk.

He sat on the edge of his bed, holding it in his hand with a grim distaste. This was his last fling. The money it would bring would be small—it was not one of the larger pieces. "Après nous le déluge!" he muttered. His deluge was matrimony. For a long time now he had put everything possible on tick, and there was a Pike's peak of bills on the corner of the mantelpiece. But it would be easy enough to get unlimited credit when once his engagement was announced!

He rose suddenly, tossing the heavy metal on to the coverlet; and, jerking out a draw of a chiffonier, took out a tiny kodak photograph.

It was the picture of Rose Roselius in a sport suit, with a rifle in her hand. The snapshot showed a group of horsemen in the background, a section of wire fence, and, further away, the corner of a ranchhouse with a generous piazza. Her face was lifted, smiling, alive with an amazing vitality that even an indifferent lens could not hide. There was humor and fun, sweetness and seriousness, all combined.

He looked at it critically, head on one side. Rose Roselius. The very name had a sound of music, a suggestion of old world elegance, perfume, and mystery.

As Mitch sat with the snapshot in his hand his kindling thought pictured the slim, lithe, lovely body as he had once seen it in a one piece bathing suit, poised on a vibrating springboard above the Melton pool that gleamed under the summer sun like a turquoise—the magnolia whiteness of her clear skin, the bronze gold hair rising in a whirl above the straight, candid brows.

But in his heart was the urge of necessity, not the anguish of desire!

"Another bad day at the races?" she hazarded.

THE outer door of Meg's Place opened and Canuck stood in the doorway, a tall youth, unkempt and disheveled.

He wore shabby navy blue serge trousers, spotted and innocent of pressing, and no collar or coat. His face's contour was roughened for want of a shave. His build was that of a runner, but his posture was slouchy and careless and his face wore a habitual scowl.

An L train clanged and hooted by, and he turned the scowl upon it blackly, then his look roved about the dull and lack-luster square, with a futile and sullen dissatisfaction with all things, himself included—a mood that had become constant with him. Today his musings took the form of obvious comparison:

Twenty-four years old he was, and Meg's son, but what good was he? Not one of the whole crowd but despised him. Yet he had as much brains as Greek George, who was always bragging of the things he'd pulled off, porch climbing in the Bronx or the Oranges, or traveling with the street carnival he tied up with, every so often, as a blind. Or Oliver, with his boyish features, complexion like a speckless olive, and sloe-black hair slicked back like a wet seal's—a hell of a fellow with the frails!—he of the swell fitting clothes whose hunting ground was the country gymkhana and the populous garden party.

Not that he'd want to be like them. It'd be safe cracking for him, a line like Tug Holloway's. Tug was the only one of the lot he cottoned to. As good a safe man as walked—the bulls had never got him but once. If he only had Tug's nerve! For it was that that did it—nerve.

In the self-communing mood Canuck told himself the truth: he had about as much nerve as a rabbit. That was really why he spent his time lying behind the counter reading a novel he had picked up at some old book stall on Sixth avenue, or cutting the cloth on Pete's pool tables, or skylarking along Forty-second street, or using up gas in Greek George's car.

He had tried hard enough to make good. But every time fear had crumpled him. Every "job" the others had let him in on had gone wrong, till now he had failure tattooed all over him. The Troy affair had been a black frost. In the Brooklyn loft attempt rattle had made him forget his instructions. The Montreal holdup had been the worst of all—it had been he who had put the kibosh on that.

And back he had come every time to the old joint, like a rubber return ball, just a hanger-on that nobody had any use for!—except, maybe, Tug.

Of course, he mused bitterly, Meg would rather see his back than his face any time. Ever since he had been in long trousers she had been trying to get rid of him, talking Seattle or Texas. Him—out on the coast, a million miles from New York, or down in an alkali desert where there was nothing but steers and oil wells!

But what in hell did he care? Was it any of their blistered business what Meg's son did? They didn't own him! She always had money, and if she chose to stake him that was her business.

He kicked savagely at a stray cat that sidled past him on the pavement.

As Canuck stood there, black browed, Denny, Meg's helper, turned in at the shop door. With a surly grunt as response to the other's careless greeting, he vanished in the shop, where he exchanged his coat for a duck jacket and, taking a feather duster from a corner, began to dust the shelves. Presently Canuck, tossing his rebellious hair from his eyes, entered, and, seating himself on the edge of the counter, produced from a pocket the "makings," and, with a dexterous hand, rolled a cigaret.

The spurt of fire from the match seemed to catch waiting tinder in the man with the duster. He pointed with its handle to a fallen magazine on the floor. "Don't you never pick up nothin'?"

Canuck swung his legs and blew a cloud of the fragrant smoke into the stodgy air.

"You do it," he returned, indolently. "What do you get paid for?"

"I may be here to help Meg," snapped Denny, "but I don't clean up after you!"

Canuck shrugged his shoulders and flicked ash on the floor. "You keep to your own rat killing and let me alone."

"Loafer!" countered the other. "You're fit for nothin', but to lay around readin' them damn magazines. If I was your mother——"

"Well, you're not, and she's not yours, either. Just hang onto that."

Canuck looked up as a shadow blotted the light. "Hello, Tug," he said, with the warmth of liking.

Tug Holloway was thick set and bull necked.

"Glad to see you, kid," he said. "Meg all right?"

"Yes, she's upstairs. Want her?"

Tug shook his head. "I just looked in to say I was back." He twirled a chair and sat down.

"Another burglar proof?" inquired Denny.

"Yep. They're the easy ones. Gimme a good old-fashioned triple plate can, with a lock like a refrigerator, and I'm up a tree."

Canuck looked at him admiringly. "How'd you do it, Tug? Is it a secret?"

"Not on your life. I can hear the tumblers fall through the tips of my fingers. Put a mosquito in a pill box, kid, and I can feel it crawl just by touching 'em to the lid." He held out his hand. "Feel 'em."

Canuck did so. "Soft as a mare's nose!" he said. "Tug, the paper says this violinist, Kreisler, playing up at Carnegie hall, has his fingers insured. You ought to insure yours in case you hurt 'em."

Holloway laughed.

"Good for you!" he exclaimed. "That's an idea, all right." He got up bulkily. "Tell Meg I'm back," he said, and went out, swinging his stick.

As Denny shook his duster in the doorway his gaze encountered a familiar figure crossing the Square, a man carrying a Gladstone bag.

"Snap out of it!" he said to Canuck, from the corner of his mouth. "Some one comin' that Meg always sees herself."

Canuck tossed the hair from his forehead, jerked up a cap from beneath the counter, and went out through a rear door to a cluttered alley, which led to a cross street.

In the narrow passage he stiffened like a pointer on sight. Thirty feet away, over a pile of packing cases at the back of the adjoining warehouse, jutted the blue and brass lettered headpiece of a policeman. Its wearer was looking the other way.

Canuck's eyes gleamed with the quick hatred he always felt at sight of the emblems of organized authority—a hatred that antedated his earliest recollection. He stole a glance about him. The alley was empty, and a parked motor dray at its low end shut out the street.

A half brick lay at his feet. He stooped and snatched it up. The next instant it flew with a vengeful aim and Tim Hoye, patrolman, huddled down on his face without a cry, with a dent in his thick skull that was to put him on sick pay for six weeks.

Canuck dodged around the motor dray and faded into the stream of pedestrians. He was negotiating waffles and coffee at a nearby restaurant when the clanging ambulance went by the window.

"WELL," said Meg, "and that's that." Mitch smiled cheerfully. In the back of his agile brain his fancy was still flirting with the prospect he had painted as he sat with the picture of Rose Roselius in his hand, and it was hard to be melancholy even if he was flat and stony broke.

They sat today in the rear of the shop, into which she had invited him. It was a wide room, comfortable in a tawdry way, set with furniture which ranged from a battered Louis Seize writing desk to a Grand Rapids sofa, interspersed with a chair or two of real value. The walls were spotted with pictures, most of them cheap prints in gaudy frames, but one was an oil—a small Greuze whose owner had long since given up hope of its recovery. On a shelf were several silver trophy cups, engraved with the names of their whilom owners. The table was covered with a red cloth, and the light from a hanging lamp (for the chamber got no sunlight) suspended above it was reflected from the tarnished silver in crimson splashes. At one side a stairway led to the rooms above, and beneath it was a curtained door.

Meg opened the sideboard and took out a bottle of wine and glasses and set them on the table.

"You needn't be afraid," she said as she caught Schuyler's dubious glance. "No bootleg stuff for mine. This is pre-war." And it was, as his trained palate was to testify.

"You've been a good customer," she said, as the purple nectar gurgled in the glasses. "Here's luck, and may you get whatever you go after!"

He answered half absently—his eye had caught the small oil painting over the sideboard and he was gazing at it fixedly. He took a step nearer. The canvas roused some vague recollection that tantalized him.

"Good?" she asked, as he turned toward the door.

"Surprisingly so. It reminds me of something, I can't think what."

He was on the threshold when she called to him, and in her voice was such sharpness, such a depth of anger, that he turned in amazement. Her eyes were not on him, however, but on the clerk in a corner of the outer shop, and if stroke of eye could kill, it would have blasted Denny where he stood.

She made a gesture and he came slowly to Schuyler and, without lifting his eyes, held out a watch.

"It's yours," he said sullenly. "Guess the fob caught in the fringe of the table cover."

Mitch took it with a grateful word: "Thanks so much. That was mighty careless of me." But as he walked away from the door he was saying to himself, "By George! The slick little rat had picked my pocket!"

MITCH crossed the square abstractedly. The realization had been like a splash in the pool of his mind, from which a widening ripple of memories was spreading. Little impressions that had been instantly dismissed into the limbo came back, began to regroup themselves. Denny, with his shifty eyes, the patrons he had glimpsed, most of whom had passed in and out of the rear room with the assurance of established footing; something wrong about every one. Something off key, some flaw that was to personality as a cast in the eye was to the countenance.

Something up to now sensed rather than seen, a vague half formed suspicion, congealed suddenly to certainty. Meg's Place was—he groped for an elusive word—shady! That was what it was! All of its patrons were shady citizens. And Meg——?

His thought broke and he looked up at the sound of his name. He recognized the speaker, even without the shield and buttons which had made him a familiar figure to Schuyler when the Madison avenue mansion was on his nightly beat.

"Well, Tim!" he said. "Where's the brass and blue? Have you quit the force?"

"No, sir, Mr. Schuyler," was the answer. "I'm in plain clothes now. Been promoted to the detective squad. That's how I happen to see you here. I'm keepin' an eye on Meg's Place. The pawnshop down at the end. I thought I saw you coming out of it."

Mitch nodded. "There was a cigaret case in the window I rather fancied," he invented. "But it was too dear."

"Sure!" said Tim sapiently. "It would be. Meg don't want to muss up her display. She buys and sells some, of course, but mostly the shop's just for a blind."

"A blind?"

"The place is a 'fence,' sir. That's what it's bound to be. But she's a clever one, Meg is! Never been caught with the goods yet, and things goin' on all the time, right under our noses, as you might say, that'd make Inspector Byrne, my old chief, roll over in his coffin—if he had one, him bein' lost on the Lusitania."

"What sort of things, Tim?"

"Ah, that's it, sir; we don't know. If we could only get somethin' on her! But there she sits, year in and year out, with her window full of doo-dads an' her little back door on to the alley behind, and that dip spy of hers—Denny, his moniker is—as good as thumbin' his nose at us from the doorway, an' folks driftin' in an' out that are so crooked they couldn't fall down a well!" He took off his hat and rubbed his head reminiscently. "I got my done split in the alley over there last spring—like to put me away for keeps, that did! It was one of them crooks done it—wish I knew which one."

"You mean it's the headquarters of a kind of gang?"

"That's just it. O, we know 'em all, sir, from the 'Sportin' Parson,' as they call him, with his pink cheeks an' his white hair an' his posy in his buttonhole, lookin' that godly and respectable you wouldn't believe, who does the elderly benevolent and works the ocean steamers in the season, to Holloway, the safe cracker, who's done his stretch in Leavenworth. This is their shakedown, all right, an' it's Meg as does the head work for the gang. She's got all kinds on her string. But it's one thing to know an' another to prove it, an' you can't run in crooks for merely breathin'."

"No," said Mitch, "I suppose not."

He walked on. All at once he threw up his head and struck a fist into an open palm. He had suddenly remembered where he had seen the canvas that had hung over Meg's sideboard.

"It's Harter's Greuze!" he said, under his breath. "The one that was stolen out of his collection two years ago."

Not a doubt of it. He remembered now even the slight crack and the mark of repair in the corner. It would be a joke on Harter when he knew!

Mitch laughed aloud—in the face of a middle aged woman with her arms filled with bundles, who gasped and fled into a nearby drug store. This was the Harter who couldn't remember that he owed him five hundred dollars!

"Let him find it!" he said to himself.

BE alluring!

Give Yourself That Irresistible Charm Which Once Swayed Empires and Conquered Kings

Such intriguing beauty, so History tells us, came from the use of a rare, white mineral earth found only on the Island of Lemnos, off the coast of ancient Greece.

It Worked Like Magic!

Just a few applications brought such exquisite loveliness to complexions that it was pronounced sacred by the Priests of Diana, who gave it the name of Diana's Earth. Later, by Royal Decree, it was reserved exclusively for women of noble birth.

PEACH BLOOM

Since that day Diana's Earth was thought lost forever. But just recently the miraculous happened! An American Mineralogist, while surveying near Hot Springs, Ark., was astounded to find another small deposit of this precious beautifier.

Now, at last, your complexion can have that alluring charm and loveliness of early ages, for Genuine Diana's Earth, now called PEACH BLOOM, has been re-discovered.

Beauty Guaranteed!

Regardless of the present condition of your skin, PEACH BLOOM will restore quickly the beauty Nature intended you should have. And this magic improvement will be so apparent once you have used PEACH BLOOM that you will never again be without it.

The coupon below carries our Positive Beauty Guarantee, which likewise applies to your purchase of PEACH BLOOM from any Drug or Department Store, Beauty or Barber Shop in the United States.

Peach Bloom can be obtained at Walgreen's, Buck & Rayner's, The Home-Economical Drug Co., MacLean's, or from your Neighborhood Drug Store.

MAIL THIS COUPON TODAY

Peach Bloom Mineral Corp.,
208 N. Wells St., Chicago, Ill.

Please send me postpaid a 12-Treatment jar of PEACH BLOOM, for which I am enclosing $1. If after three treatments my skin fails to respond to the extent expected, I may return the unused portion and my $1 will be immediately and cheerfully refunded.

New Safe Way to End Gray Hair

A—You try it first on a single lock of your hair to see what it does. Thus have no fear of results.

B—Then simply comb this water-like liquid through your hair. Clean . . . Safe. Takes only 7 or 8 minutes.

C—Arrange hair and watch color gradually creep back. Restoration will be perfect and complete.

Now it takes only a few minutes to bring back natural shade to faded and graying hair. You watch it creep back after using this clear water-like liquid—accept amazing free test

HERE is a way that works wonders by supplying coloring elements to gray hair. What happens is that natural shade is conveyed. If your hair is naturally auburn, it will revert to auburn. If black, black it will be.

No need now for crude, messy dyes judged dangerous to hair. They are noticed by your friends.

This new scientific way defies detection. Some 10,000,000 women have used it. You take no chances.

It's safe and makes your hair live looking and lustrous. Will not wash nor rub off. And may be applied only to gray and faded parts.

We send you free a sample of Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer. You snip off a single lock of your hair and try it first on that. You see exactly what results will be. Thus take no chances. Which is the safe thing to do.

Or go to the nearest drug store today. A few cents' worth restores original color perfectly. Your money returned if not amazed and delighted.

America's Sweethearts

By W. E. Hill

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune]

Three popular ladies who grace the news sheets from time to time.

First in line is Dotsie Grab, who is suing an aged man for a million dollars or some such trite amount. You see, her millionaire friend, Mr. Eggman, had promised to adopt Dotsie till he found that Dotsie was sixteen instead of six and a half. So now Dotsie's lawyers, Messrs. Gundermintz and Grogan, are trying to prove that, Dotsie's mental status quo being only six and a half, she still is eligible. And then, if they can prove that, why Mr. Eggman will have to come across pretty handsomely. Dotsie has sold her memoirs to the Daily Pee Wee. They are running them in daily installments with advice to girls, such as: "O, girls, trust your mothers."

Next we have Mrs. Adolphus Dunkling, who had her face lifted unwisely and none too well, so it turned out. Mrs. Dunkling cannot wink her right eye and hasn't the faintest idea where her left cheek begins and ends. She is suing her surgeon, and he, the mean thing, is suing her.

And last, we have with us the popular girl who answers the Inquiring Reporter. Each day, you know, he asks five people the same question, being, as it seems, avid for knowledge. "Are women," he asks of Miss Ida Sheet Iron of Zbysco boulevard, "more roguish than men?" "Certainly not," Miss Sheet Iron, home girl, answers. "The authorities should settle such a question. At least, men are not so cute looking."

Just for today is the popularity of the lady in the fashion magazine, attired in the latest Paris hint, size misses' sixteen.

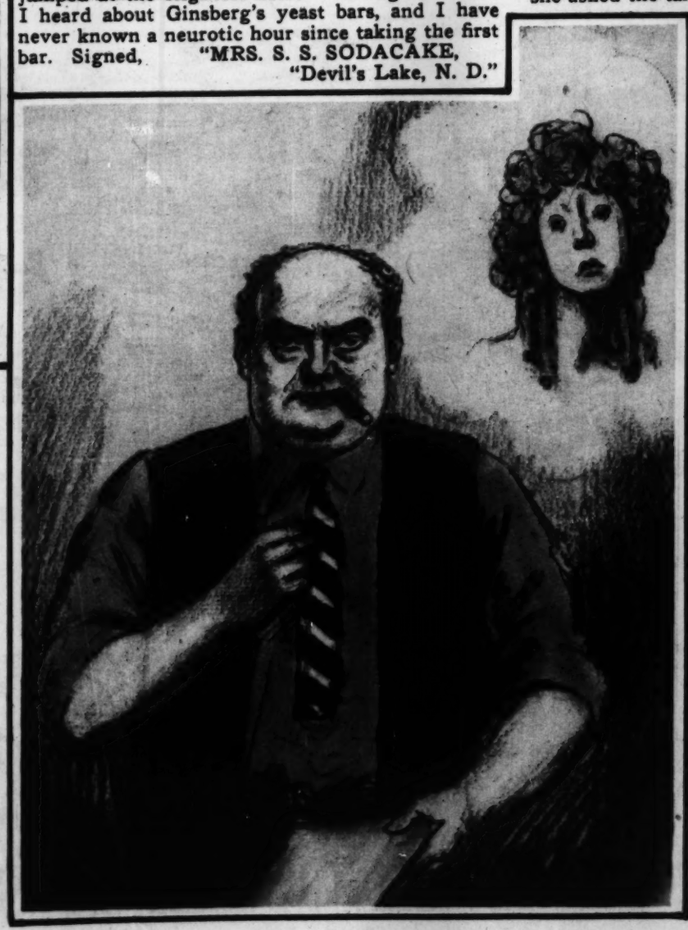
The beauty contestant, who graces the Sunday supplement, is one of the most popular of our national sweethearts. She's out for the Miss America title, and if she doesn't get it her family will tell you how, if it hadn't been for crooked politics and dirty dealing among the judges, etc., etc.

The yeast girl is almost as popular a favorite with the reading public as the dandruff girl. Readers love the descriptions of how "Last year I became run down and a mere shadow of my former self. I could not chew my food or drink a cup of water without the most morbid thoughts. My extreme irritability caused me to become odious to all my friends, and I could not remain in the same room with my husband. Great ugly blotches, Alice blue in color, came out on my hands, and I jumped at the slightest noise. Through a friend I heard about Ginsberg's yeast bars, and I have never known a neurotic hour since taking the first bar. Signed, "MRS. S. S. SODACAKE, "Devil's Lake, N. D."

One of the popular heroines in the literature of today is "The Girl Who Never Knew," from the advertising section. A great favorite with readers young and old.

"Men seemed to avoid her, though she knew in her heart she was ravishingly beautiful. Once a girl friend seemed to want to tell her something, and then turned away. She was escorted home from a dance one evening by the one man she was crazy about. She laid her gloved hand on his coat sleeve inquiringly. Suddenly, with not a word of explanation or a good night, he stepped from the taxi, not even offering to pay the fare. Broken-hearted, between her sobs, she asked the taxi driver. And, haltingly, he told her. Dandruff! Have you it, too?"

This lovely lady is the female form divine on a modern artist's canvas, and, since she is a very popular girl with a restricted public, surely she should be rated among America's sweeties.



Heroine of a hundred interviews in the movie magazines, Wilma Rissole, the screen sweetheart, is breakfasting with her latest husband, Decoursey Dash, in their darling little colonial bungalow at Beverly Hills. This is Wilma's fourth and Decoursey's third; but, as Wilma explains in her latest interview, "We were such wee kiddies that we hardly knew our own minds when we did it." Wilma's hobbies are mamma dolls and colonial antiques from the medieval period. Decoursey loves dogs and first editions.

Foremost among America's sweethearts comes the heroine of the Soul Confession magazines. By popular demand we show you the real little Edna, who is none other than Mike Delgehty, who wrote Edna's confession, telling how she just escaped worse than death when she went to accept a position as a so-called Institution for Imbeciles and Feeble-minded.

Strong

IT'S a perfect name for these splendid bed springs—the Tiger Brand. For they have a tiger-like strength—a quick surging, enduring strength—that enables your bed spring to retain its youth while it helps you every night to renew your own. The resilient coils themselves are so soft they can be compressed between the thumb and finger—yet so strong that they promise a lifetime of sleeping comfort.

Your tired muscles and nerves frayed by the strain of busy, eventful days, will be grateful for the delightful comfort of the Tiger Brand Downy Rest. Scores of softly yielding coil springs give gently and evenly beneath your weight, pressing up into the curves of your body, and giving you the luxurious relaxation that brings glowing health and renewed strength. The Downy Rest fits the mattress to the contour of your body in any sleeping position.

Of course you can sleep almost anywhere if you are tired enough. But to really rest while you sleep you need this sleeping surface to help you relax healthfully and comfortably. Then you will wake up clear-eyed, refreshed, ready to make the most of the day.

The Downy Rest is excellently made in every detail. Go to the Downy Rest dealer. Let him explain the special features of Tiger Brand construction which produce the finest bed springs in the world. He will show you sizes that fit your beds at prices as low as common sense would let you pay.

THE ROCKY ROAD TO DUBLIN WAS SMOOTH SAILING COMPARED TO TEXAS SLIM'S ROAD TO HAPPINESS

I WONDER IF THAT FELLOW WOULD OBJECT TO MAKING THAT A DOUBLE WEDDING, JESSIE.

AW SURE YOU WILL, JESSIE - YOU JUST TAKE THIS TWO DOLLAR BILL AND BUY THE LICENSE WITH IT WHILE I GO PICK UP A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE. A FELLOW TOLD ME ABOUT AND THEN HE AND I WILL MEET YOU IN FRONT OF THE COURT HOUSE AND THAT'LL BE ALL THERE IS TO IT.

TEXAS, I DON'T THINK I EVER EVER WILL GET MARRIED.

ARE YOU THE JUSTICE OF THE PEACE?

YOU SAY YOU WANT TO SEE MY NIECE?

HE SAYS HE WANTS TO BORRY SOME AXLE GREESE.

YOU SET IN THE BACK - MY GIRL'S GONNA SIT IN FRONT.

YEP - MY OLD LADY CANT HEAR HERSELF GRUNT.

I WANT YOU TO MARRY US TODAY -

NOPE - SHE CANT HEAR A WORD YOU SAY.

AFTER THE CEREMONY WERE GOING TO THE COAST.

SURE - SHE SOUNDS PHONEY — SHE'S AS DEAF AS A POST.

DANGER DRIVE SLOW HIGHWAY UNDER CONSTRUCTION

WHEN A GUY GETS MARRIED WHAT DOES HE GENERALLY PAY?

HEY!

AW - I'LL LET HIM HOLLER - HE COULDNT UNDERSTAND WHAT I SAID IF I ANSWERED HIM.

HEY!

HEY!

HOOP!

OH HEAVENS, TEXAS - I'VE SOMETHING TO TELL YOU - I LOST THE TWO DOLLARS YOU GAVE ME TO GET THE LICENSE WITH.

THAT'S NOTHIN', JESSIE - I JUST DISCOVERED THAT I LOST TH' JUSTICE OF TH' PEACE.

THAT YOUNG FELLER IS AT THE DOOR AGAIN, WILLIE - SHALL I SEND HIM IN?

NO - TELL HIM TO SET DOWN AND MAKE HISSELF COMFORTABLE, CARRIE - I'M BUSY NOW.

ALL RIGHT, CARRIE - TELL THE YOUNG MAN TO COME IN.
